A Question of Fact

Practically every new building put up in Manhattan and the Bronx and a growing number of older and one time self-supplying properties are using Edison Service

Theories questioning such supply come and go. The big fact remains that our street service appeals to building managements more and more as the logical answer to the electrical supply problem

Convincing data covering a wide range of cases are available upon consulting our engineers. Let these satisfy you of the facts in the matter

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL will hold its annual meeting at the Hotel Statler, St. Louis, Mo., October 14 to 18. Safety exhibits will as usual be a feature of this meeting.

CALENDAR

CALL OF CALENDAR.

The Clerk's Calendar will be called in Room 919, on Tuesday, at 3 o'clock sharp, and cases will then be taken from the General Calendar, and set down for hearing during the following week. Any requests for adjournment must be made when Clerk's Calendar is called.

The Clerk's Calendar consists of cases which are complete, but which have not yet been set down for hearing on a definite date. It is not to be confused with the Calendar, which consists of cases that have been definitely set for fixed days.

The listing of an appeal or petition in this Calendar is full and sufficient notice to all persons interested that such case will be heard on the date set and no adjournment will be allowed on the ground of ignorance of the date or of lack of due notice.

All hearings are held in Room 919, Municipal Building, Manhattan.

HOURS OF MEETINGS.

During July and August, in accordance with action taken by the Board of Standards and Appeals on June 6, the weekly meetings will be as follows:

Board of Standards and Appeals, Tuesdays, at 10 a. m.

Board of Appeals, Tuesdays, at 1.30 p. m.

Call of Calendar, Tuesdays, at 3 p. m.

BOARD OF STANDARDS AND APPEALS.

National Federation of Building Industries

Conference at Atlantic City of Representatives from Every State Effects Organization and Adopts Constitution

(Special to the Record and Guide.)

ATLANTIC CITY, July 16.—As the result of a two-days' conference of leaders in the building industry throughout the United States, a permanent organization known as the National Federation of Building Industries was perfected here today. It represents interests totalling $3,000,000.

The objects of the new organization are stated in the following declaration, which was adopted enthusiastically:

The National Federation of Building Industries, representing an interest, second only to agriculture, in the numbers who live by it, pledges to those in authority all aid within the power of the industry to accomplish success in the war. We are glad to assume our share of the burdens of the war and cheerfully to sustain, in common with other industries, whatever sacrifices may be essential to its successful prosecution. The Executive Board of this federation shall endeavor to devise means whereby, with the approval of the Government, the resources of the building industry may be best marshaled for direct assistance to the Government in carrying on the war and for the indirect assistance through maintenance of national prosperity and through creation of values upon which the national credit may be enlarged.

Nearly three hundred delegates, representing all of the important branches of the building industry in the nation, attended the convention, which was held at the Marlborough-Blenheim and which lasted two days. The conference was called under the auspices of the United States Chamber of Commerce, and was attended by representatives of fifty-five national associations, fifty-five regional associations covering the supply, engineering and contracting bodies from every state, and fifty-three individual manufacturing concerns.

When the conferees held their first session yesterday morning they selected Allan Walker, of New York, Eastern District Representative of the United States Chamber of Commerce, as temporary chairman; E. A. Roberts, Secretary of the Cleveland Builders' Exchange as temporary secretary, and J. Osgood Andrews, of the Plate Glass Manufacturers Association of America, temporary treasurer. Col. John R. Wiggins, of Philadelphia, was named as chairman of the Committee on Permanent Organization.

One of the first acts of the conference was the adoption amid cheers of the following message to President Wilson:

"Representatives of the various branches of the building industry, gathered from all parts of the country at the summons of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, send you fervent good wishes for the completion of the task of bestowing upon the world a permanent peace.

"We are glad to bear our share of the burden of the war for the liberty and shall carefully accept whatever sacrifices and readjustments may be essential to its vigorous prosecution.

"The Government has a perplexing problem in the endeavor to restrict construction activities where necessary, while keeping employed labor and materials not needed for war purposes.

"To solve that problem successfully in an industry of such magnitude, such ramifications and such large influence on general trade and prosperity will immeasurably strengthen the nation for the support of taxation and loans which must continue as long as the war lasts.

"We are assembled to devise an instrumentality through which the building industry may give united and effective aid in solving that problem.

"We pledge you and those officially associated with you the fullest co-operation within our power."

(Signed) E. A. Roberts, Secretary."

Harry A. Wheeler, of Chicago, President of the United States Chamber of Commerce, outlined the need for the conference, declaring that in its study of the industries of the country and their relationship to the war program the Chamber of Commerce had found no single industry of such vast scope and so much disintegrated as the building trades. Continuing, Mr. Wheeler said:

"There are splendid organizations representing the different industries in the building trades. They are working with great efficiency insofar as their respective lines are concerned, with the authorities at Washington; but it is not enough that these unit industries should be organized; for no industry making up a part of the building trades can speak for the building trades as a whole.

"There are conditions developing daily that are becoming distressing in some localities and with some industries that must be properly represented to the Government in order that justice may be done to the industries as well as co-operation of the right kind find its way to the seat of Government to help win the war.

"Your industry, because of its ramifications, presents more problems than any industry we have yet undertaken to counsel with; but problems are solvable in these times and men's minds are working seriously toward a common co-operative end. Differences of opinion and jealousy and suspicions are dropping off like a coat that is discarded and American business is standing forth as a unit as it never has done before in the history of the nation.

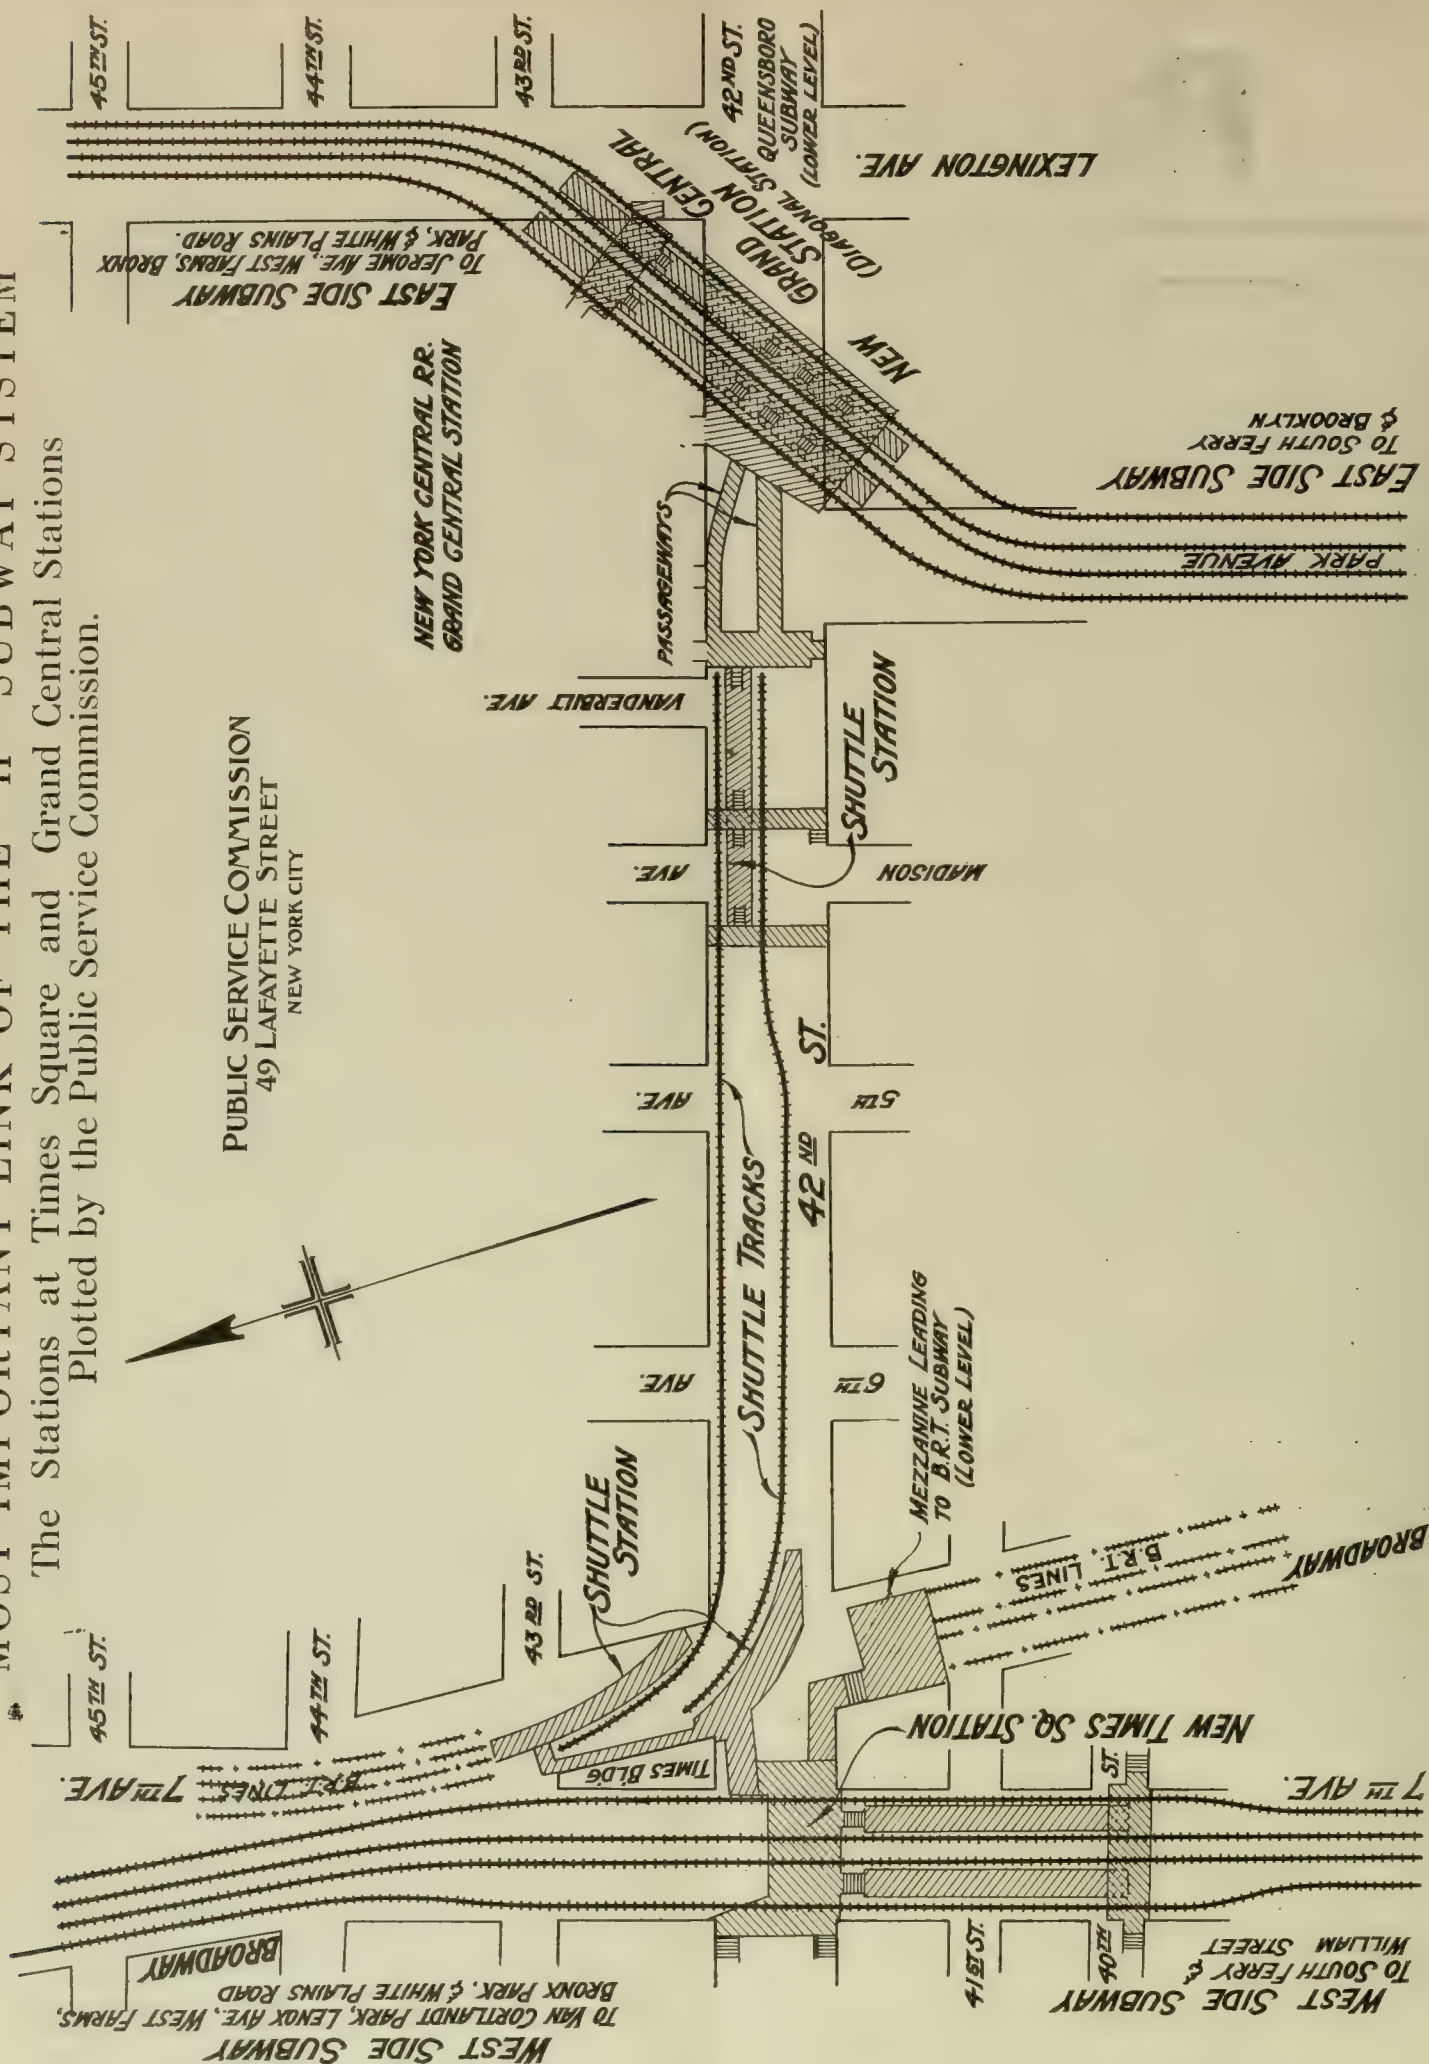

"Now, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was asked many months ago by the then Council of National Defence to organize the industries of the country, to see that the industries had acceptable and representative War Service Committees, that it might be able to deal with these committees, rather than with the units of an industry. This was when our period in the war was rather new. They foresaw the necessity of dealing with an industry, instead of with a

MOST IMPORTANT LINK OF THE "H" SUBWAY SYSTEM

The Stations at Times Square and Grand Central Stations Plotted by the Public Service Commission.

WHEN the "H" system begins operation next month with through express trains on the West and East Sides running independently, the greatest change in subway traffic will occur at the two 42d street stations at Times Square. The diagram above is self explanatory, but the reader should especially notice that the express station at Times Square will be from 42d street south to 40th street on Seventh avenue, while the old local station under Broadway will become merely the end of the shuttle service to Grand Central. Then the Grand Central express station will be under the site of the old Grand Union Hotel and the New Commodore Hotel, while the old express station will be only the shuttle station. There is a connection at Times Square with the B. R. T., Broadway subway but passengers will have to pay an extra fare, when transferring from one line to the other.

Lexington Ave. Line Open—"H" System Aug. 1

East and West Sides Will Then Have Separate Express and Local Service—Congestion Will Be Reduced

THE Public Service Commission announced at the opening of the Lexington Avenue line this week that the full "H" system will probably be put in operation August 1. This means that the connections between the old subway and the two branches of the new subway recently opened, the Seventh Avenue line running south from 42d Street, and the Lexington Avenue line running north from 42d Street, will be made and the through expresses on the west and east sides of Manhattan started.

The main feature of the "H" system is the station plan for the connections on the 42d Street, and the Record and Guide presents in this issue the first official plan of the connections between the old and new lines at Times Square and Grand Central Station. The accompanying map was made for this publication by the engineering force of the Public Service Commission.

Travis H. Whitney and Charles Bulkley Hubbell, Public Service Commissioners, have been in charge of the Seventh Avenue and Lexington Avenue line completion. Mr. Whitney made this announcement:

"The old subway will be supplemented by the shuttle service which is now in operation in Seventh Avenue and Times Square south, and by the Lexington Avenue service, which together afford considerable relief to the subway. The real relief, however, will come with the operation of the 'H.' It is the hope of Commissioner Hubbell and myself to be able to recommend to the Commission the adoption of the necessary resolutions which will make possible the operation of the 'H' on August 1. This involves the necessity on the part of the interborough to fill out its operating force, for the 'H' operation will take, approximately, one thousand employees in addition to those required for the operation of the old subway."

It was stated that connection between the new and old subway at Times Square and the Grand Central station will have to be done during the night hours when traffic is at its lowest ebb. It was first planned to have through service begin early on a Sunday morning, but the engineers have so arranged things that trains will not be held up for more than from thirty to forty-five minutes. At a designated hour, of which notice will be given, all traffic on the subway lines will stop. Then the old tracks south of Forty-second Street will be connected with the new Lexington Avenue tracks and the new tracks under Seventh Avenue will be connected at Times Square with the old tracks running north from that point. Then the present tracks through Forty-second Street will be used only for a shuttle service.

The new service through Lexington Avenue which was started this week will be only local until the through service is possible. Because of the narrowness of the avenue the tracks are double decked. Those used for local service are above the express tracks. Stations on the line are at Fifty-first, Fifty-ninth, Sixty-eighth, Seventy-seventh, Eighty-sixth, Ninety-sixth, 103d, 110th, 116th, and 125th Streets in Manhattan. The station at Mott Haven is the only new one opened in the Bronx. North of that point trains began running last year. The new line is six and a quarter miles in length and cost, including equipment, $58,800,000. Service for the public began at 2 o'clock.

Among those in the official train which opened the line were Oscar S. Straus, Chairman of the Public Service Commission; Commissioners Whitney and Hubbell, composing the commission's special committee on the "H" system; the commission's Secretaries, James Blaine Walker and Frank N. Robinson; Alfred Craven, the commission's consulting engineer; several other engineers, many of the officials of the Interborough Company, Frank Dowling, President of Board of Aldermen; George McAneny, former President of the board; Dock Commissioner Murray Hulbert, and William McCarroll, former Public Service Commissioner, and Mayor Hylan.

Block on 58th Street Open to Business Purposes

THE Board of Estimate decided this week that the zoning system should be amended so as to include as a business block the district on Fifty-eighth street between Sixth and Seventh avenues. The board held that inasmuch as the entire section except this block and the section in Fifty-eighth street between Madison and Tenth avenues is a business district, the restriction limiting business from entering the block in dispute should be lifted.

The application to change the designation was made by Mrs. Estelle P. Anderson and Mrs. Peachy J. Flagg, owners of 112 and 114 West Fifty-eighth street. The applicants sold their property for business purposes before the zoning system went into effect. The property, assessed at $71,000, was to have gone to Steinway & Sons, who had purchased property in West Fifty-seventh street in the rear. The title was to have closed in August, 1916, but Steinway & Sons refused to complete the sale because the zoning system apparently prevented them from building.

The lower courts held that the zoning system did not constitute a reason for refusing to take title. This the Appellate Division reversed and was upheld by the Court of Appeals. A new trial is pending.

In the hearing before the Board of Estimate Harold

C. McCollom, Esq., of 34 Nassau street, contended that if the application to remove the restriction was approved no restricted block in the city would be safe.

The block is composed, Mr. Collom said, almost exclusively of high class residence property. On the block are the Alwyn Court Apartments, assessed at $1,050,000; the Navarro Apartments, assessed at $750,000; the De La Salle Institute, assessed at $360,000, and other residential property, the total assessment being $6,030,000. There is no business building on the block.

George W. Morgan, Esq., No. 32 Liberty street, pointed out that an apartment house and another building in the block were contracted for and the construction begun before the Zoning Law went into effect, and that therefore by removing the restriction the property would simply be returned to the state in which it was before the Zoning Law was passed and in which it was when the building was rejected and started.

Following Mr. Morgan's statement, which was not controverted by the opponents of the relief asked for, the Board of Estimate went into executive session and unanimously decided to remove the restriction and open the block for business purposes.

Mr. McAdoo Approves Store Door Delivery Here

Plan Outlined by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Harlan to Relieve Freight Congestion Along River Front

SHIPPERS and receivers of freight, the greater part of which is handled through the piers along the river fronts were given the Government's plan for relieving the congestion of traffic by the Hon. James S. Harlan of the Inter State Commerce at a meeting of the Merchants' Association this week. Mr. Harlan outlined the general plan of operation and explained the workings of the National Railroad Administration to make it effective.

Commissioner Harlan has opened an office at No. 11 East Thirty-sixth Street and asks that all concerned in the shipment or reception of freight shall write to him making suggestions or for information.

In his talk Commissioner Harlan emphasized the necessity for the cooperation of all in getting freight from piers quickly. He described conditions obtaining last winter as extremely bad and said the Railroad Administration had made up its mind they were not to be repeated again.

One fault of the merchants, said the Commissioner, was that they often broke up shipments into less than carloads, so increasing the costs of transportation. Another fault was shipping by express instead of by freight. The amelioration of these conditions is necessary if the country is to put forth its greatest strength this winter. "This is a service by shippers, not a carriers' service, and in the main it is a war service," declared Mr. Harlan.

He described the success of store door delivery in Britain and Canada. He said the Railroad Administration expects to have the problem worked out by August 15 and arrangements made for freight deliveries that will be much speedier than those in the past and cause immeasurably less congestion.

The following recommendations, the result of the work of a committee of commissioners composed of James S. Harlan, Travis H. Whitney, New York Public Service Commissioner, and W. E. Donges, New Jersey Public Utilities Commissioner, have been approved by Director General McAdoo:

1.—Manhattan south of Fifty-ninth street shall be designated as a drayage district. Team tracks within that area shall not be regarded for the present as being in the drayage district.

2.—No notice hereafter shall be given to the consignee of the arrival of freight at a pier within the drayage district, and no free time shall be allowed. All inbound carload and less-than-carload freight on arrival shall be handled immediately to the store door of the consignee.

3.—A Drayage Director shall be appointed who shall have general supervision and control, for the consignees, of the trucking of freight from pier or freight stations after it has been placed upon the pier or station floor by the carrier.

4.—There shall be a Drayage Supervisor at each pier who, under the control of the Drayage Director, shall have general authority over the removal of inbound freight from the pier floor or platform.

5.—The salary of the Drayage Director and of the several Drayage Supervisors and other necessary assistants, together with their necessary operating expenses, shall be paid out of a fund contributed by the carriers serving the Metropolitan area on a tonnage or other satisfactory basis determined by them and the Drayage Director. The Drayage Director and Drayage Supervisors, however, shall be appointed by the Director General of Railroads, or under his authority, and shall report to and be responsible to him.

6.—The drayage district south of Fifty-ninth Street shall be divided into delivery zones having relations to their proximity to the piers and the density of their traffic.

Inbound freight, as far as possible, shall be distributed by the carriers on the pier platforms or floors by delivery zones; but when practicable shall be delivered immediately from the car to the trucks operating in the zone to which the freight is destined.

Inbound freight shall be delivered to consignees only in trucks registered with the Drayage Director, and all trucks so registered shall be under the full authority of the Drayage Director.

No trucks other than those so registered shall be allowed upon the piers for the removal of inbound traffic except under special permit issued by the Drayage Director.

For good cause shown the Drayage Director may cancel the registration of any truck, and his decision shall be final.

7.—The Drayage Director, as far as possible in the conduct of the drayage service, shall utilize the equipment of existing trucking and teaming organizations and of shippers. Special equipment shall be utilized as far as possible in the handling of the special commodities for which they are designed.

8.—The Drayage Director shall make such rules and establish such regulations as will facilitate the prompt removal of freight, making only such exceptions in the use of equipment as may be in the public interest.

The Drayage Director shall make all necessary rules and regulations for bonding the owners of trucks used in the drayage service and respecting the methods of collecting the freight and drayage charges.

The delivery of freight by the carrier to the consignee will continue to be made on the pier floor or platform and responsibility for loss or damage will remain unaffected by the consignees' drayage service. The Drayage Director will make all necessary rules and regulations defining the responsibility of truck operators for loss of or damage to freight while in their custody.

9.—Delivery of freight shall be made to the consignee at the usual place of delivery at street level, and when a consignment so tendered is refused or when the payment of the legal freight and drayage charges is refused, the freight may be stored in a public warehouse at the cost of the consignee, which cost shall be a lien upon the consignment.

The Drayage Director shall designate the warehouse to be used for this purpose.

10.—The Drayage Director shall make such rules and establish such regulations as will tend to build up the gathering of freight by the registered trucks for outbound movement.

11.—The Drayage Director shall have power to make a schedule of rates and charges for the drayage service, including charges for undue detention of a truck by a consignee at the point of delivery, and to change the same from time to time as conditions may require; he shall also have the power to fix the hours during which consignees must be prepared to receive freight.

12.—The Drayage Director shall have power to extend the drayage service to the docks of such water lines as are parts of the transportation system under the control of the Director-General of Railroads.

In his report to Director-General McAdoo accompanying the suggestions above, Commissioner Harlan says:

"Undoubtedly the ideal method for handling domestic freight on Manhattan Island would be a store-door delivery and pick-up service operated by the carriers as a carrier service under a special drayage charge fixed in their tariffs. Indeed, such a national delivery service conducted as an accessorial carrier service through the country, commencing at the store door of the consignor and ending at the store door of the consignee, with appropriate special charges for drayage, would co-ordinate the drayage with the railroad service and give us a continuous movement under one responsibility and control from the premises of the consignor at the point of origin to the place of business of the consignee at the point of destination. Besides being desirable on general grounds, such an uninterrupted service from store door to store door would eliminate many of the terminal troubles and difficulties now encountered. And ultimately the carriers as a mere matter of efficiency will doubtless wish to undertake such a service. But it would require time to perfect the plans, when in the public interest there must be no delay, at least so far as the Port of New York is concerned. It would also require the expenditure of large sums of money at a time when the investment of new capital should be restricted."

Pioneers in the Use of Reinforced Concrete

Turner Construction Company, Organized in 1902, Attained National Prominence Through Gigantic Federal Projects

"TURNER for Concrete," the business slogan adopted by the Turner Construction Company, aptly characterizes the firm which, during the past year has rapidly developed from one of the leading firms of engineering contractors in the Middle Atlantic and New England States into an economic organization of national scope and prominence. The war has been largely responsible for the leading position of the firm, but the contributing causes include a readiness on the part of the company to place all of its facilities and organization at the disposal of the Government without question, for whatever use both could be put to. At present this firm has underway many millions of dollars' worth of construction work, of which ninety-four per cent. is directly for the Government and the greater part of the balance indirectly for the Nation's welfare, as the work is for industrial structures that will contribute to winning the war.

The growth and development of this company has not been of the mushroom variety. Rather it has been the consummation of years of preparation and effort in the erection of a one-story coopeage shop to be built at West Brighton, S. I., for the J. B. King Company, manufacturers of plaster. The building was relatively a small one as compared with the gigantic concrete structures being erected today by this concern. Its ground dimensions were 180 x 60 feet and in height measured 15 feet from floor to ceiling. This project was the forerunner of the general use of reinforced concrete for industrial buildings and assisted materially in proving the success of a structural medium that is now fully vindicated.

During the first nine years of the history of this company progress was materially hindered by the doubts of prospective users of concrete as to its stability and other essential qualities. All of these objections had to be overcome by repeated arguments and facts. Each owner had to be sold individually to the reinforced idea, to the value of this type of construction, the economies possible both in initial cost and maintenance charges, and to the general adaptability of concrete structures to the economic requirements of the day. That the idea was fundamentally right and firmly founded is probably the face of disconcerting odds. The Turner Construction Company was organized at the time when reinforced concrete as a medium of construction was practically in its infancy in this country, and has grown gradually and steadily through the years, along with the development and fuller understanding of the uses of reinforced concrete, until the present, a time when practically all experimentation is past and both the method and the firm have become fully established and operating in harmony.

This firm was organized in 1902, at a period when the theory of reinforced concrete for general building purposes was but slightly understood in this country, although it had been growing in use and popularity in European cities for some years. Furthermore, the start was made despite the conservatism of American engineers, architects and owners, who hesitated about the use of a material of which they knew so little. The Building Code of New York City even prohibited the use of this medium for structural purposes and it was not until some years later that full sanction was given by the city authorities for the utilization of armored concrete for the construction of buildings.

The first contract undertaken by the Turner Construction Company was closed in 1902 and called for best evidenced by the fact that the start of some of the largest industrial units in the country, namely the Bush Terminal, the Robert Gair Co., and Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company plants, were made during this important period in the development of both the industry and the concern, and is further proved by the fact that all of these interests again used reinforced concrete in all subsequent construction necessitated by the expansion of their businesses.

Up to 1916 the growth of the Turner Construction Company had been by a steady annual advancement with each succeeding year demonstrating an enlarging field of activity for the firm and an extended scope of use for the medium in which it operated. In 1916 the firm erected a total of seventy industrial buildings involving a total cost of more than $9,000,000. The work of the year included the construction of manufacturing and warehouse facilities for sixty-seven different industrial concerns, located in various cities in the Eastern States. Among these structures were buildings designed by some of the leading architects and engineers of the country, and the fact that they specified the use of concrete demonstrated beyond doubt the certainty of its future.

unit of the industry, because of the tremendous task that would fall to the governmental authority if it had to deal separately with each unit.

"At that time there was but one program in mind, namely, production, and in order that there might be unity and co-operation in production and in its increase, and in conversion to increase it, these War Service Committees were desired, in order that there might be centers to which the government could apply for its information, and through which it could work back into the industry itself.

"Later on, with the creation of the War Industries Board, and the more radical program which the government must necessarily follow as we find our problems becoming more serious in connection with the conduct of the war, with the creation of bureaus and departments of the government that were not in existence six or eight months ago, the War Industries Board again said to the Chamber of Commerce, 'Proceed with the organization of War Service Committees in the war industries and in the non-war industries.' Why in the non-war industries? Because the problem has expanded until it is no longer a question solely of production or conversion to increase production; but it is a problem that lies at the root of American business and of the successful maintenance or the disintegration of certain lines of business that are so-called non-war.

"There are problems of conversion; there are problems of curtailment; there are problems of substitution of materials and commodities; there are problems of labor; there are problems of fuel; and all of these intricate problems that enter into the industrial life of the nation that affect the non-war industries; so-called, infinitely more than they affect the war industries. And now the vision is that the War Service Committees of the nation will, when finally organized, represent probably as many as a thousand or twelve hundred men chosen because of their intimate knowledge of the affairs of their industry, charged with representing that industry at the seat of government, able to gather statistics and facts speedily and accurately for presentation to the government; able to indicate wherein drastic programs must be modified in order that business may live; able to indicate where business may curtail itself in order that the nation may live; all of these great problems that are coming one by one more prominently into place; in order that the War Service Committees may function as a great factor in the war, and may function for the safety of American business as well as for the safety of the nation.

"There was raised by the Chief of the Building Trades Commodity Division in Washington a few days ago a question as to the necessity for any such conference as this, and the discussion went on as to whether we should abandon a meeting of this kind, inasmuch as it was claimed there were War Service Committees capable of representing the different branches of the industry, and that they in themselves would be quite sufficient for the purpose. Well, here, again, we disagreed, as business men often disagree with those in authority. There are successful War Service Committees, but the Committee of the Lumber Trades, or of the Cement Industry, or of the Steel Industry, or of the Clay Products Industry, cannot speak for the building interests as a whole. (Applause) And if the building interests are to be so far represented that, with a common voice, they can present their needs and can lay their grievances at the feet of government, then they must be represented by a federation that will be of their own choosing and their own making, and by a committee that will be of their own election, and that committee not only charged with responsibilities, but having the united co-operation of every industry in the building trades.

"No greater responsibility has ever rested upon a group of men than rests upon American business men to-day; sacrificing their skilled labor and their unskilled labor, sending into warfare men who have been trained by them and upon whom great dependence has been placed, sacrificing their industries by often being compelled to convert them into purposes for which they were not originally intended, sacrificing materials which have always run freely to them, and which now must be curbed or stopped altogether, sacrificing their profits, sacrificing their lives. So far as American business is concerned, it will count no sacrifice too great to achieve the result upon which this nation is embarked. So far as American business is concerned, there will be no demands made upon it that will not be cheerfully met wherever those demands can be shown to be necessary and reasonable for the end that is in sight. American business asks of government that it shall be counted in upon every sacrifice, but that where sacrifice is made necessary, that sacrifice reaches down to the very roots of the business life itself, that business shall be counseled with and shown the reasons for the sacrifice, in order that the contribution may be made by voluntary co-operation and not by arbitrary command."

In response to President Wheeler's address, William B. King, Esq., General Counsel of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges, said:

"This discussion of principles brings me to the practical statement of what can be done by our War Service Committee:

"1. We can render aid to the Government by centralizing our resources and consolidating our information.

"2. We can make suggestions in regard to the policy of the Government so as to limit the harm necessarily done and to leave the building industry the largest practicable scope for activity.

"3. We can aid in holding the organization of the entire industry during the war so as to resume work with the least possible delay when peace comes.

"4. We can serve as a center of education and information for all the branches of our entire industry so that all matters of importance may be disseminated throughout the entire trades.

"I shall not undertake to specify what can be done under each of these headings, but may suggest some things from actual occurrences."

The following articles of association were unanimously adopted:

The undersigned organizations, each through its duly authorized representative, hereby agree to and establish the following articles of association:

1. A voluntary association to co-operate with the United States Government in carrying on the war, to co-ordinate industrial activities and to conserve resources, shall be and now is created, to be known as the National Federation of Building Industries, referred to hereinafter as the Federation.

2. The Federation shall be managed and its policies devised and carried out by a body of delegates to be known as the Building Industries War Service Committee, referred to hereinafter as the War Service Committee.

3. Any association of building material manufacturers or dealers, or of contractors engaged in building, or of architects or engineers, or any association of other persons, firms or corporations related to building, may become a member of the Federation and be represented in the War Service Committee upon the following conditions:

(a) Members may be either national associations or regional associations.

(b) A national association is an association composed of members whose places of business are located or whose products are distributed at large over the United States.

(c) A regional association is an association composed of members whose places of business are located and whose products are distributed principally in a single city, district, locality, state or region.

(d) Each national association shall be entitled to three delegates and three votes in the War Service Committee, and each regional association one delegate and one vote in such committee. If less than three delegates are present from a national association they may cast the entire vote of such association.

(e) Each national association shall contribute $300, and each regional association $100, to the organization fund, in both cases payable ten days after notice of election and there shall be no dues prior to January 1, 1919.

(f) The admission and classification of any association shall be made by the Committee on Credentials, to be appointed from the War Service Committee by the President. The War Service Committee may review the action of this committee.

(g) At least one delegate from each member association present at any meeting of the War Service Committee shall be some other person than a paid employee of such member association.

4. Any member of a member association firm, individual or corporation engaged in any business that has no association may become a sustaining member of the Federation upon payment of $100 a year and may attend the meetings of the War Service Committee, take part in such meetings, and receive all published matter of the association, but shall have no vote as a sustaining member.

5. The War Service Committee shall elect at each annual meeting three members of the Executive Board to serve three years without salary. At the first election, nine members of the Executive Board shall be elected and the tenures so arranged by lot that the terms of three shall expire each year. The Executive Board shall carry on its business under such rules as it may adopt.

Vacancies may be filled by the Executive Board until the next regular or special meeting of the War Service Committee.

Vacancies in the Executive Board may be created by a two-thirds vote of the members of the War Service Committee present at a regular meeting and may be filled by them when created.

6. The Executive Board shall elect annually by majority vote to serve one year, a president of the War Service Committee, who shall be chairman of the Executive Board, and shall also elect a vice president and treasurer of the War Service Committee, and these officers shall serve without salary.

7. The Executive Board shall appoint, to serve during their pleasure, an assistant to the president and fix his compensation. He shall be the staff representative of the president and of the War Service Committee. Subject to the approval of the Executive Board, or of such committee as they may establish for administrative supervision, he shall provide, maintain and conduct offices, facilities and staff and shall cause the Board or its committees to be provided aid in their inquiries and negotiations and to be furnished reports upon subjects with which they are to deal, and staff service in framing and declaring policies. He shall cause members of the federated bodies to be provided with means and advice for prompt consideration of matters which they desire to have considered by the Executive Board, or for prompt action insofar as such matters involve precedents already adopted by the Board, and he shall in general be charged with the promotion of the aims of the organization and the co-ordination of its constituents for results.

8. The War Service Committee shall meet on the first Monday in November, 1918, and quarterly thereafter, and not less than ten days' notice shall be given of the place and hour of each such meeting. One of such meetings shall be designated as the annual meeting and the Executive Board may arrange for such larger attendance of representatives of the member associations as they deem fit, without however, changing the ratio of voting as hereinbefore provided. The Executive Board may call special meetings of the War Service Committee at any time or place upon not less than ten days' notice, and a special meeting of the War Service Committee shall be called on written request of twenty delegates. A quorum of the War Service Committee shall be twenty-five.

9. The Executive Board shall maintain facilities for continuous communication with the individual members of the several trades and occupations through the member associations and shall provide that the Board shall at all times know what are the practical problems and needs in the several regions, that the members of the Federation everywhere may know accurately and promptly what the War Service Committee is doing and prepared to do, and that all concerned may have convenient means of co-operation for the common end.

10. The War Service Committee may pass By-Laws necessary and proper to carry these Articles of Association into effect, including power to fix the dues.

11. These Articles of Association may be amended by the War Service Committee by a two-thirds vote of those present at a regular or special meeting, notice of proposed change being given in writing twenty days before such meeting to every member of the War Service Committee.

The following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

FIRST—That the convention shall now form a Provisional War Service Committee to serve until a permanent War Service Committee is organized in November next.

SECOND—That the provisional War Service Committee as far as applicable be governed by the Articles of Association as approved by the convention.

THIRD—That the chairman of the convention appoint a Nominating Committee of five to retire at once and report at the afternoon session candidates for a Provisional Executive Board of nine.

FOURTH—That the election of the Executive Board shall be by roll call, and that the Credentials Committee shall make up the roll in the following manner:

Three votes may be cast by each national association and one vote by each regional association which has authorized delegates to participate in forming a provisional War Service Committee.

One vote may be cast by each group who are present from an industry but not authorized as delegates by an association to participate in forming a War Service Committee, provided such group register the name of their delegate at the registration desk.

FIFTH—That associations which have not authorized delegates to the provisional War Service Committee shall be requested to name delegates to serve until the permanent organization of the Federation in November next.

SIXTH—That the Provisional Executive Board shall be requested to organize at the close of this convention and establish immediate contact with the problems with which the Federation is to deal.

William M. Calder, United States Senator from New York, who recently made an appeal on the floor of the Senate for wider latitude in general building, addressed the conference today.

"I have complained more than once," Senator Calder said, "that it was a mistake for the Treasury Department to discourage the building of houses and the financing of building operations. I have pointed out that while in 1915 the total building operations of the country attained the enormous total of $1,800,000,000, this year, outside of the Government construction, the total would be less than $300,000,000. I have indicated, too, that in many of the large cities of the country the failure to build homes for the people has brought about a condition whereby rentals have increased in some instances 50 per cent., and that next year unless relief is obtained there will be a dearth of living accommodations for the people.

"In this connection it is well to point out that Congress has already appropriated $110,000,000 for this purpose and if we are to take the opinion of men who are attached to this housebuilding bureau of the Government, $1,000,000,000 will be required in the near future. This entire scheme, in my judgment, is conducive to waste, inefficiency and extravagance. I have felt that the best results were to be obtained both for the nation and your industry by disturbing as little as possible the ordinary conduct of your trade."

Hon. Louis A. Post, Assistant Secretary of Labor, was another speaker at today's session. He declared that the soldiers of the mines, the steel mills and the shipyards, the munitions plants and the factories, working with a high sense of patriotism to win the war, are to be ranked just as highly as the soldiers who fight in the trenches abroad.

Mr. Post added that the Government was to issue badges of patriotism to all workers in war industries who labor for four consecutive months in the same position. There will be a new stripe for each additional four months.

As a result of the two-days' conference, a Provisional Executive Board of nine was elected to establish permanent headquarters in Washington. The members of this board are:

B. F. Affleck, Chicago, president Universal Portland Cement Co. and president of the Portland Cement Association.

Colonel John R. Wiggins, of Philadelphia, president of the National Association of Builders' Exchanges.

John H. Kaul, Birmingham, Ala., Southern Pine Association.

A. M. Maddock, Trenton, president Sanitary Potters' Association and member National Committee of Confederated Plumbing Manufacturers and Dealers.

Charles Gompertz, San Francisco, president of the Building Industries' Association of California.

John A. Kling, Cleveland, president Cleveland Builders' Supply Co. and ex-president of the National Builders' Supply Association.

W. L. Clause, Pittsburgh, president of the Plate Glass Association of America and one of the directors of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce.

Walter S. Dickey, Kansas City, clay products.

Rudolph P. Miller, New York, representing the Council of Civil, Electrical and Mechanical Engineers.

This board will meet at Chicago July 31, and elect from its membership the President of the Federation. The next meeting of the Federation will be held early in November.

Among those present were the following from New York City:

Sen. Ernest R. Ackerman of Lawrence Portland Cement Company, Representing Building Industries of New York.

Harry Alexander, Representing Association of Electrical Contractors and Dealers.

Smith E. Allison of Certain-teed Products Corporation.

G. Osgood Andrews, Representing Plate Glass Manufacturers of America.

Max Baumann of The George S. Holmes Company, Representing Building Trades Emp. Association.

Geo. H. Benkhart of Toch Brothers.

Edward Bose of United Cork Companies, Representing American Association of Refrigeration.

A Vital Step in the Right Direction

The conference of national leaders in the building industry, held early this week at Atlantic City, proved an unqualified success. Between 200 and 300 of the most influential leaders in the industry were present and these representative men accomplished a vital object.

The organization of the National Federation of Building Industries is a vital step in the right direction. The building interests of the United States are of paramount importance, in war times as well as in peace. The Atlantic City conference made clearer than ever the genuine patriotism of the building leaders, and their readiness to co-operate in every possible way with the government in its successful prosecution of the war.

With the war have come so many big problems that it seems difficult to arrange them in the correct order of their importance. Obviously the raising of a large army, the providing of food, clothing and shelter for these fighters, supplying them with guns and ammunition, and the devising of means to transport men, supplies and ammunition to France come first. Then there is the problem of ships and more ships, of airplanes and hydroplanes, in the government's efforts to supply which all patriotic men are keenly interested.

In addition to the task of meeting the requirements of the hour Over There, the Washington authorities are confronted with the many and varied problems to be met Over Here. It was largely for the purpose of co-operating with the government in meeting these latter problems that the building leaders of the nation have organized the National Federation of Building Industries. With the opening of permanent headquarters in Washington, the experienced and able men who have been named on the Building Industries War Service Committee of the Federation will be able to render invaluable service to the government. Representing as they do an industry of several billions of dollars, they will be in a position to aid the government immeasurably.

It is to be hoped that the new Federation will speedily obtain for the building industry greater recognition than has been accorded to it during the early stages of America's participation in the war. Through co-ordination of effort many projects which have been dormant for months now ought to go forward. The great building industry of the country should take on new life, and should begin to gather as much as possible of that momentum which will be indispensable to the future welfare of the entire nation the moment the war ends.

Now for the Experiment

As was generally expected, the Board of Aldermen has acted favorably on the request of Dr. Day, the Public Market Commissioner, that the sum of $300,000 be taken out of the city treasury for supplying ice, food and fuel to the populace under municipal auspices.

But the original scheme has been changed so as to provide that an Emergency Food and Fuel Commission shall share with Dr. Day the responsibility for the experiment. Dr. Day continues on the new commission, of course, but will have as associates the Health Commissioner, a Deputy Comptroller, the City Chamberlain and the Vice-President of the Board of Aldermen. If this commission of five members proves inadequate to carry all of the responsibility, no doubt a way can be found to put on more members later.

Dr. Day, it is announced, is arranging to market in the immediate future some 300,000 tons of coal. Fifteen hundred tons a day, it seems, is the quota of municipal coal expected to reach tidewater beginning on August 1st. This 300,000 tons of coal, many interested taxpayers doubtless will be surprised to read, will not be stored in some park, pier or other city property against the needs of a fuelless day next winter, but will be put into the cellars of consumers without unnecessary delay. What is to be done for the poor people of the city who have no cellars is not yet clear.

So, also, doubt exists as to what Dr. Day's commission will do with its eggs and potatoes and ice, etc.

All of these problems, however, will soon be cleared up, when the experiment of having the city in the food, ice and fuel business gets under way. Those citizens who reap benefit from the scheme, if any such are found later, may be expected to be happy. But, as for the taxpayers whose money is being used to try the experiment, their prospect of being happy at any stage of the proceedings is small indeed.

Sound Reasoning

In a public letter to the Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Theodore P. Shonts, President of the New York Railways Company, gives further convincing proof of the justice of that company's request for temporary relief because of conditions due to the war.

President Shonts calls the attention of the Chamber of Commerce to the petition pending before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, and reminds the Chamber that this petition is purely an emergency action and that his company is not asking the Board of Estimate to abrogate any of the city's rights or power, nor to alter, except for the temporary emergency, any franchise conditions.

Mr. Shonts brings out the fact that

The wisdom of putting the emergency problem in the hands of commissions has been thoroughly recognized. The municipal authorities of Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Schenectady, Utica, Troy, Watervliet and many smaller communities in this and other states have taken this course in meeting the emergency of the street railroads, leaving them to be handled by the state commission.

Commissions in Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Indiana, California and other states, having complete equipment and technical force to handle quickly the emergency cases, are now following this course.

The emergency confronting this company is extreme. It threatens early bankruptcy. It is a matter of the deepest concern to every civic and business body and to every business man and resident of the city of New York. We believe that when the public knows the facts, its judgments will be fair.

The interest of the public is continuous and adequate service. Such service cannot be rendered by a utility company unless its income will meet operating expenses, maintenance, depreciation and a fair return to the owners of the capital invested. Our income is meeting none of these conditions.

President Shonts also informs the Chamber of Commerce that the New York Railways Company has been able to pay no interest on its second mortgage since June 30, 1916, and that the company at the present time is not earning even the interest on its first mortgage. In fact, there was an actual deficit on January 1, 1918, of $1,144,731 on its first mortgage. By May 31 that deficit had been increased $303,632 more.

The basic principle around which the New York Public Service Law is written, as Mr. Shonts properly points out, is that a public utility is entitled to "a fair return upon the fair value of the property used in the public service." For more than fifty years the New York State law said that such a return should be not less than ten per cent., but the stockholders of this company have never had any dividends whatever.

Mr. Shonts makes a strong point in discussing the capitalization of the company. He reminds the Chamber of Commerce that the New York Railways Company arose from the ruins of the Metropolitan and the New York City Railways companies, which were in the hands of receivers. Upon this point Mr. Shonts declares:

There can be no charges made of over-capitalization. The reorganization reduced the capital $41,883,894.50 and the Public Service Commission, specifically basing its action upon a decision by the Court of Appeals, approved the capitalization as then fixed. The sum total of stock, bonds, and convertible scrip, underlying bonds or other mortgage indebtedness, is $76,044,234.97. The capitalization of the company is less than the value of its property.

Today, at actual prices, it would cost $131,000,000 to reproduce the property now used and useful in the public service. This not only excludes any value for any of the franchises (although these alone are taxed by the state on the value of $13,000,000), but it also excludes any going value.

At normal average prices the value of the company's property invested in the public service, exclusive of franchise and good-will value, is at the lowest estimate $92,000,000.

At the time of the reorganization the Public Service Commission fixed the valuation of the company's property, for the issuance of securities, at $85,801,000. This does not include franchise or going value, either of which would have brought this value up to more than $100,000,000. And more than $3,199,000 has since been expended in additions and betterments. In other words, instead of being watered, the Company is undercapitalized.

The Company has to pay the security holders of leased lines for rentals about 7.2 per cent. of the par value of $22,000,717 of such securities now outstanding. But they have no effect on the fare. They must come out of the "fair return" allowed us by the law, and which is strictly limited. If they are too high, it is our own loss.

The situation, therefore, is extremely simple. Owing to war-time increases in our expenses for labor, taxes, all sorts of materials and supplies, expenses have increased so rapidly as to more than eat up increases in receipts. We are furnishing street car rides at less than cost.

Sound business men will believe Mr. Shonts without reservation when he declares that the pending problem is not a question of dividend or money making, but purely a question of tiding over the city transportation lines in an abnormal war-time emergency. The increased expenses of operation, due to the war, could not have been avoided. Were these lines to be operated by the Federal Government, or under Municipal Ownership, or by the present owners, Mr. Shonts rightly declares these expenses will have to be met.

It is absolutely certain that nothing will meet this new situation except more income, and that means that fares will have to be increased.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Realty Situation Quiet — Local Deals Numerous but Unimportant.

REAL estate affairs have been relatively quiet during the past week and the situation has been almost entirely lacking in features of particular prominence. Sales at private treaty have been fairly numerous but almost without exception have been without especially interesting features either as to amount involved or other outstanding factors.

Among the most noteworthy of the deals involving the transfer of properties within the boundaries of Greater New York is included the sale of the recently completed block of apartments occupying the east side of Broadway between 169th and 170th streets. This was sold through Leon Altmayer to Elizabeth F. Buckley for about $500,000. Frederick Brown sold an apartment house in the Dyckman section, to an investor, and took Brooklyn property in exchange.

Sales generally were well scattered throughout the city and involved properties varying largely in character. The leasing market has been seasonably active, particularly for apartment rentals although a number of important business leases were consummated. The outstanding deal involving the lease of property was undoubtedly the deal in which the Gillette Safety Razor Co., obtained the lease on a downtown store, through Edward J. Hogan, at an aggregate rental of $125,000. This is said to be the highest rental ever obtained for a downtown store.

A number of other downtown transactions were reported and in the midtown section, leases of business properties were in fair volume. In apartment rentals brokers have been able to report quite a large percentage of renewals with a demand for accommodations in modern multi-family houses considerably in excess of the supply. The supply is limited and home seekers are renting early so as to be assured of obtaining the desired space.

Reports of out-of-town deals have been quite numerous and some private estates of unusual interest have figured in the transactions. The leasing of country and suburban residences, furnished, for the season, also was an active branch of the business although the season is well advanced.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 27 as against 19 last week and 13 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 8 as compared with 5 last week and 5 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 19 as compared with 14 last week and 8 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported as against 11 last week and 7 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 74 of this issue.

Block Front Sold for Half Million.

Leon S. Altmayer has sold to Elizabeth F. Buckley for the 169th Street Realty Company, Jacob Axelrod, president, the new building occupying the block front on the east side of Broadway, between 169th and 170th streets, improved with a modern elevator apartment house containing fifty apartments and twelve stores. The property is fully rented, and has recently been completed and shows a gross rental of more than $60,000 a year. The size of the property is 176 x 100. Among the store tenants are included the United Cigar Stores, Gristede Brothers, Buxbaum Market and others of equal responsibility. The building is built on land purchased from Alexander Walker, president of the Colonial Bank. The building is known as "Woodrow Court." All of the tenancies are rented on long graduating leases. Stoddard & Mark represented the sellers and John J. Buckley the buyer.

Investor Buys Residence Property.

A client of Pease & Elliman early in the week purchased from the Gunsirrah Corporation, represented by Clinton S. Harris, as attorney, the four-story private house at 56 West 48th street, on a lot 18.9 x 100. This property is in the block bounded by Fifth and Sixth avenues, Forty-seventh and Forty-eighth streets, formerly owned by the trustees of Columbia University and sold by them about nine years ago to the leaseholders, subject to restrictions prohibiting business use until January, 1919.

Dyckman Apartment in Exchange.

A Dyckman apartment house early this week figured in an exchange for Brooklyn flats. Frederick Brown sold to Gustav Reuss the five-story building at 29 Arden street, near the Dyckman street subway station. The structure covers a plot 27 x 100, and accommodates twenty families. In part payment the buyer gave 681 and 683 Sackman street, near Newport avenue, Brooklyn, two three-story flats, on a plot 40 x 80, free and clear. The Nehring Company negotiated the transaction.

Important Westchester Deal.

A syndicate headed by G. Maurice Heckscher and Lawrence Donahue has purchased from Walter C. Noyes and Alfred E. Marling, receivers of the American Real Estate Company, all of the south part of Park Hill, Yonkers, including the old hotel site, about 250 city lots, for about $500,000. It is understood that the syndicate will rebuild the hotel, which was destroyed by fire. The property is bounded by South Broadway and McLean and Van Cortlandt Park avenues. W. Albert Pease, Jr., was the broker.

Nassau Waterfront Property Sold.

August Janssen, operator, sold to Albert Keller, General Manager of the Ritz Carlton Hotel Company, a plot of land in Pine Island Park, Bayville, L. I., fronting 165 feet on the Sound; 484 feet on Jackson avenue, 504 feet on Quincy avenue, and 200 feet on Bayville avenue. Also, a triangular plot of land fronting eighty-five feet on Bayville avenue, 137 feet on Ludlam avenue, and 135 feet on Jackson avenue. The plot is situated at the junction of Oyster Bay Boulevard and the road to Centre Island and is considered one of the finest beach properties in that section. Mr. Keller purchased for future development.

Front Street Property Again Sold.

A client of the Charles F. Noyes Company bought from the Preferred City Real Estate Company, for cash, 65 Front street, a five-story building, occupying lot 20.7 x 87.6. The building is leased to Schweitzer, Spitzer & Co. for a long term of years. The sellers a few years ago spent $10,000 on alterations. The property, which was valued at $30,000, has been sold four times by the Noyes Company.

Heights Apartment Sold.

The Normar Real Estate Corporation, Max N. Natanson, president, sold to the Flow Realty Company, Henry L. Wolff, president, the Northdale, a six-story elevator apartment 92 x 100, located at the southeast corner of 179th street and Northern avenue. The building contains sixty apartments all rented and yields in the neighborhood of $23,000 a year. The property stands assessed for $145,000. In exchange for this apartment the Normar Realty Corporation took cash and 1883 Third avenue, northeast corner of 104th street, a five-story double flat with stores, 20x100, assessed for $33,000. The transaction aggregating in the neighborhood of $225,000, was negotiated by J. C. Hough & Co.

BLISS TALKS

IS there a telephone in your office? Of course there is—also there are baths in the apartments you control and elevators in the office buildings.

These things have become essential—but has it been brought home to you that Exterminator Service is essential also in every building where vermin can exist?

The best managed apartments in New York have Exterminator Service—BLISS Service for the most part—because the agents appreciate its power to get good tenants and hold them.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—Dr. Otto H. Albanesi sold to Ferdinand Schaub the 4-sty brick 16-fam. apartment house, on a plot 74x64, at the southwest corner of the Boulevard and Harrison av. The buyer gave in part payment two dwellings, 251 Jewett av, 25x71, and 32 Carlton av. The trade involved $75,000.

NEWARK, N. J.—Louis Schlesinger, Inc., sold for Catharine A. Hahn, executor of the estate of George S. Hahn, to Matthew J. Brady the vacant plot at 254 Clifton av, south of Bloomfield av. The purchaser will improve the plot.

RECENT LEASES.

Important Lease in John Street.

Charles F. Noyes Company leased 38 John street and 17 Platt street for James A. Glover to the New York Color & Chemical Company for a long term of years at an aggregate rental of about $50,000. This lease is another indication of the strength of property in the immediate vicinity and shows the rapid growth of firms in the color and chemical business. The New York Color & Chemical Company, a leading firm in its line, is now occupying three comparatively small floors at 212 Pearl street, and after extensive improvements have been made to their new premises will use the entire building just leased, containing about 15,000 square feet. The lease is also of interest because this and the adjoining building were originally leased to Madero Brothers, who failed a few months ago, and out of the renting season both buildings have been quickly leased to new tenants at increased rentals. 100 John street was leased by the Noyes Company to Dabol & Co.

Lease Home Club at High Rental.

Pierre & Borgo, restaurateurs and hotel men, have taken a lease on the Home Club property at 11 to 17 East 45th street for a term of twenty-one years, from August 1, 1918, at an aggregate rental of about $1,100,000. It is planned to change the first and second floors to restaurant and banquet rooms. The plans, according to James Clark Udall, architect and builder, call for an expenditure of $50,000. The upper floors will not be altered, but remain as originally planned. The Home Club Company, the landlords, were represented by Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett. Norman & Kernwood represented the tenants.

New Concern Leases Loft Building.

The Broome Street Warehouse, recently incorporated at Albany, with H. C. Mullener, M. V. Reilly and R. H. Forster as directors, has leased for a term of years the five-story loft building, on lot 25 x 100, at 456 Broome street from the Amsel Construction Company of Brooklyn, which purchased the property some time ago from Felix M. Warburg. The structure is being altered into a warehouse by the owner.

Rubber Company Leases Building.

The Ajax Rubber Company, Inc., leased for a term of years the four-story building owned by the American Society of Civil Engineers, located in the south side of West 57th street, just east of Broadway. The property has a frontage of 75 feet and a depth of 104 feet. For many years it was the home of the pioneer engineering society, which removed three years ago to the allied engineering societies' building at 29 West 39th street. For the last year the building has been occupied by the Federal Food Commission. Cross & Brown negotiated the lease.

Canadian Capitalists Lease.

The Simcoe Realty Company, a newly formed organization, representing Canadian capital, has entered the local realty field and has secured a long lease of the four-story and basement dwelling at 22 East 48th street, for which it will pay rentals aggregating about $100,000. The dwelling adjoins the southwest corner of Madison avenue, and is to be extensively altered, converting it into stores and two and three-room apartments. Harris & Vaughan, with G. M. Pearson & Co., negotiated the rental, the latter having been appointed agent by the lessees.

High Rental for Store Space.

A rental that ranks among the highest ever obtained for store space in lower Broadway is involved in a lease closed by Edward J. Hogan for the United States Railroad Administration and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, covering the store at 172 Broadway, southeast corner of Maiden Lane, now occupied as a railroad ticket office. The lease was made with the Gillette Safety Razor Company. The rent to be paid over the term is approximately $125,000, which the broker reports, is at the rate of $40 per square foot. This will be the Gillette Company's first New York store.

Pioneers in the Use of Reinforced Concrete

The work of 1916 provided for an aggregate floor area of 4,376,000 square feet, used 359,732 barrels of Portland cement and 12,503 tons of steel reinforcement. The lumber used in the construction of forms was more than 8,500,000 feet, board measure.

Prior to 1917 almost the whole of the work undertaken by the Turner Construction Company involved industrial buildings for private interests. Early last year, and even before the entrance of the United States into the world war, the Federal authorities had prepared tentative plans for increasing the facilities of the army and navy and had scheduled the required buildings and arranged for their construction. The Turner City for 1917 indicates the part this concern took in the early preparations for the war, as it shows some of the first structures authorized by the Government. During last year, in addition to the large amount of private undertakings, the Turner Construction Company contracted to erect a number of large buildings for direct Government occupancy, including the eleven-story warehouse at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, the buildings for the Bureau of Standards at Washington, D. C., and cantonments at all of the five forts in New York Harbor. All of these are shown in the accompanying illustration.

Considerable interest is attached to the construction of the naval warehouse in the Brooklyn Navy Yard. War was declared April 6, 1917, and less than one week later the United States Navy Department, recognizing the economic value of reinforced concrete and the rapidity with which buildings could be erected by the use of this medium, negotiated with the Turner company for the construction of the large warehouse required at the Brooklyn base. A contract was drawn, calling for a ten-story building with ground dimensions of 180 x 360 feet and to cost nearly $1,500,000. The contract was signed April 28, stipulating that work be completed by December 13. On May 1 work was commenced, and operations were pushed with all speed possible compatible with sound and safe construction. Meanwhile the Navy Department decided to add an extra story to the height of the building, but even with this additional 10 per cent. building operations were finished and the structure turned over ready for occupancy November 1, or six weeks before the expiration of the contract time.

During the past year Federal demands upon the organization have grown more and more exacting until at the present time 94 per cent. of the work under construction, notwithstanding the greatly enlarged organization and facilities of this company, is for Government account, with the major portion of the remaining 6 per cent. for industrial buildings being erected for firms which have important contracts to supply munitions and foodstuffs to the army and navy.

At the present time the Turner Construction Company has under construction some of the largest structural operations ever undertaken, and they are all for the use of the United States in winning the war for world democracy. At Washington, D. C., work is progressing rapidly on the office buildings for the Army and Navy Departments. These structures involve a total floor area of 1,885,000 square feet, and will require for their completion about 107,299 barrels of Portland cement, 4,500 concrete piles, 38,100 tons of sand, 81,500 tons of gravel, 4,507 tons of reinforcing steel, 3,395,000 board feet of lumber for forms and provide employment for a maximum average of 3,200 workmen.

The large Navy Supply Base that is under construction just north of the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn is another mammoth undertaking considering the speed with which the construction has been pushed and the gratifying results obtained. This operation involved the mixing and placing of 140,000 cubic yards of concrete, which requires 250,000 barrels of cement and 6,000 tons of steel reinforcement. About 7,500,000 board feet of lumber has been required in form construction and nearly ten miles of railroad track will be laid to handle the traffic that will enter and depart from these buildings after they are completed. The total floor area of all four buildings is 2,275,635 square feet, which is more than three times the amount in the new warehouse built at the Brooklyn Navy Yard in 1917. Progress on this job has been notable and now three of the big buildings are under roof and partially occupied. The work will probably be completed several weeks ahead of contract time.

Overtopping in both sizes and cost all other structures ever undertaken by the Turner Construction Company, as well as being by long odds the largest Federal project within the boundaries of the metropolitan district, is the new Army Supply Base, recently started just south of the Bush Terminal in Brooklyn. This operation will involve the expenditure of more than $40,000,000. The project includes the construction of buildings which provide for more than 4,000,000 square feet of fireproof floor space in a structure, nearly 1,000 feet square, nine stories in height.

The Turner Construction Company now employs more than 10,000 workmen on all operations and in about six weeks will have in the neighborhood of 14,000 men at work.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

LOCALLY there have been no marked developments in the building situation during the past week. A number of large and important structural projects are held in abeyance owing to the impossibility of obtaining fabricated steel for their construction, but there is an excellent volume of small operations under way and projected that are maintaining life in the building industry.

The construction of new garages has recently developed into one of the most prominent features of the building situation with Manhattan and Brooklyn both figuring largely in activity of this character. Alteration projects also are quite numerous and from the plans in preparation in the offices of the architects business of this type should continue for some time. The bulk of the alteration jobs are for the remodeling of dilapidated business properties for new occupancies and the alteration of old-fashioned dwellings into small apartments. This phase of activity has been exceptionally noticeable and will be of material assistance in housing the rapidly growing population.

During the week some Federal operations of gigantic size were announced and it is expected that the plans for these projects will be finished soon and contracts awarded. Government work naturally remains as the dominating factor in the building situation and undoubtedly will remain so as long as the war lasts. Probably the most important general contract for Government work placed this week was the one obtained by Post & McCord, 101 Park avenue, for the construction of barracks, mess halls and dispensaries, along the Shore Road from 65th street to Fort Hamilton, in Brooklyn, and which is said to involve the expenditure of more than $1,250,000.

The building material markets are not particularly active and while some branches are reporting a good demand for materials, particularly those supplying contractors for Federal work or the Government direct, others are slow due to the lack of general large construction work. Prices are well-sustained, however, and what movement is noticeable has an upward trend.

Traffic conditions have improved somewhat during the past week or so in this territory under the Federal control of the transportation facilities. The rail congestion has been relieved to a great extent and water transportation is considerably better than it has been.

Common Brick.—Actual market conditions are about the same as they have been for three or four weeks past but beneath the surface there is a feeling that increased activity will come with the early autumn. This is due no doubt to the increasing number of inquiries that have been manifest during the week. Prices for Hudson River common brick are firm at $11.50 to $12 a thousand, to dealers in cargo lots and it would not be surprising if the latter figure shortly became the ruling price on all sales. There is no great amount of brick in reserve in the wholesale market and the arrivals from up-river points are relatively light owing to the scarcity of labor needed to load brick barges. At the present time the sales are about equaling the arrivals. The situation along the river is extremely quiet. Producers who started their yards are yet operating but at a very low rate of production and from all accounts the season will close early and will end with only a small proportion of the amount of brick usually held over, under cover. Conditions in the Raritan district are practically unchanged and at this writing it is difficult to predict the future. Raritan brick are still out of the New York market and will be until both building and manufacturing conditions are radically improved.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, July 19, 1918. Condition of market: Demand fair. Prices firm. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $11.50 to $12 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 8; sales, 14. Distribution: Manhattan, 2; Brooklyn, 6; New Jersey points, 5; outside, 1.

Hollow Tile.—A committee representing the principal manufacturers of hollow tile in the United States recently appeared before the War Industries Board at Washington, for a hearing regarding securing priority orders for the shipment of their product and securing raw materials required to operate their plants. The hearing brought out that a considerable quantity of hollow tile was required in connection with Federal structural operations, that it was used by war industries and also for the construction of silos and other essential farm buildings. The conclusion was reached that the industry should be accorded preferential treatment to the extent necessary to produce the tile required by the Government and no more.

Structural Steel.—Continued Government demand for steel both for building operations and for the manufacture of munitions is the prominent feature of the present situation and according to the present outlook there will be no change for some time to come. Although fabricators are now permitted to fill a limited number of small orders without priority certificates there is but slight disposition to do so owing to the large volume of priority business on hand. There is no great amount of steel available other than that destined for Federal consumption. Business in fabricated material is almost entirely confined to direct Government projects and a number of large private operations are being held in abeyance pending a change in the situation that will permit the delivery of required steel for their construction.

Lumber.—The market for lumber continues fairly active in both wholesale and retail branches. Consumers, with the exception of building interests, are ordering heavily, and the Government requirements seem to grow steadily in volume. Prices are strong and advancing with regularity, and at the present writing there is no prediction of a recession for a long time to come. The matter of deliveries is now of paramount importance, as stocks are almost uniformly low and broken, and the price is generally predicated upon ability to deliver. The transportation situation has improved somewhat during the past few weeks, and lumber is coming into the local markets in better volume, but there still remains plenty of room for betterments in the traffic facilities, which, if they were further improved, would hearten the lumber industry as would no other single factor.

Portland Cement.—Both manufacturers and dealers are satisfied with the situation as far as this commodity is concerned. Producers are busy as possible considering the scarcity of labor to operate their plants, and the report comes from the Lehigh Valley that practically every plant in the district is now in operation, with some working both day and night shifts. This is said to be the first time in a number of years that such a high percentage of plants were working. The demand for Portland cement continues firm, and with the governmental requirements steadily growing in volume the industry will have about all the business that it can possibly handle for many months to come. Prices are firm and will undoubtedly remain at their present levels for some time.

Wire Products.—The Government recently placed an order for 51,000 tons of barb wire for shipment to France and additional quantities are likely to be ordered at almost any time. The scarcity of steel has materially reduced the output of wire products and it is said that the mills are only operating at the rate of sixty to seventy per cent of their normal capacity. Almost the total output is being diverted to direct or indirect Federal requirements. Prices are firm and unchanged at $3.50 base per keg for wire nails and $3.75 per hundred pounds for bright basic wire.

Linseed Oil.—The oil market is strong despite the decreased demand for the commodity from both building interests and manufacturing consumers and prices have sharply advanced with current quotations at $1.82 a gallon for raw city brands in lots of five barrels or more. Owing to the scarcity of flaxseed several of the largest crushers have withdrawn from the market and this factor has operated to strengthen the situation.

Cut Nails.—There is considerable scarcity of this product as Government departments have taken over large supplies of cut nails in carload lots for military construction. Jobbers' stocks are extremely low and the mills are not producing much in excess of fifty per cent of normal capacity on account of the lack of steel. Prices are firm with quotations for carload or larger lots $4 base per keg, f.o.b. Pittsburgh.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Municipal business is almost entirely out of the market, a fact that is said to be due to the inability of city governments to finance new improvements at this time. Private demands are light and manufacturers are for the most part concerned with Federal requirements. Prices are unchanged.

Rules Adopted.

The Board of Standards and Appeals this week adopted twenty of the proposed forty-three Rules for the Construction, Maintenance and Operation of Elevators and set Tuesday morning, July 30, for a public hearing and action on the remaining twenty-three rules. The method of revision adopted by the chairman, Capt. John P. Leo, apparently proved quite satisfactory to the building and elevator interests which were represented at the hearing. The revision of the rules had been prepared by a committee consisting of the building superintendents of the five boroughs, assisted by Edward F. Hammel, engineer of the board, and Patrick Foley, elevator expert of the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings. This tentative revision was published and typewritten suggestions and criticisms were invited. These were examined by the committee and the engineers prior to the public hearing and as each rule was taken up the committee recommended, where it thought it advisable, changes in accordance with suggestions received. In this way the first twenty rules were perfected with comparatively little discussion. The appended printed sheets show the first twenty rules as amended and adopted and the other twenty-three rules with amendments suggested by the public incorporated therein. The hearing on July 30 will be on Rules 21 to 43 inclusive.

PERSONAL AND TRADE NOTES.

Maximilian Zipkes, architect, announces that he has moved his office from 405 Lexington avenue to 3291 Broadway.

65,000 Lamps— 7,000 Horse-Power

The close-down of private generating plants exceeded six a month for the past six months—a striking indication of the superiority of electric service as supplied by the Central Station

These various properties, among them hotels, office buildings, factories, lofts, apartment houses, breweries, and an ice-making plant, have electrical requirements exceeding 7,000 horse-power, while 65,000 lamps are required for illumination

They bring the total close-downs for the past year to more than one hundred. It is recognized that the more efficient generating equipment of the large Central Stations requires less coal for a given output of electrical energy than the small isolated plant. Multiply the fuel saving on each kilowatt hour output of these hundred plants and the saving of coal becomes a total of tremendous quantities

If you are still struggling with private plant supply with all that it means in fuel and labor problems, and expense and worry, let our engineers analyze your electrical requirements. Perhaps we can show you how Edison Service can save money for you, too

What Will Ocean Delivery Service Mean to You?

Part New Tonnage Will Play in World's Commerce After War
Described by Head of U. S. Shipping Board

By EDWARD N. HURLEY,
Chairman United States Shipping Board.

AMERICAN business has the best delivery service in the world—for customers at home. The department store not only delivers a spool of thread to a remote suburb on schedule, but delivers it through an interlocking system of motor trucks, light vehicles, branch distributing stations and wagon routes, which speed up service and cut costs. The manufacturer and jobber reach their customers by flexible railroad service extending from the loaded freight car to the emergency express shipment to fill out missing stock numbers—and if these do not suffice they get closer to the customer with branches. This typical American delivery service has been extended to soil products, like California oranges, Colorado cantaloupes, Northwestern red apples, Florida grapefruit, Georgia peaches. By means of the refrigerator car and modern grading and packages, new trade has been built by serving new customers in new ways.

But all this delivery development is for our home trade. No country in the world hauls a ton of freight on the railroads as cheaply as we do. No country in the world has linked up such vast territory as ours on a modern delivery basis. Almost anything we raise or manufacture anywhere in the United States can be hauled profitably, quickly, right side up, in good order—at home. We are not daunted by distance, bulk, expense, or difficulties. If one delivery method won't work, we invent another.

But always for ourselves.

When we have prime American products to deliver to a foreign customer, it has been our practice thus far to call in the rusty ocean tramp steamer, turn the job over to a foreigner, and forget about it.

Imagine a great factory or department store with no delivery system for its customers. When goods are packed, the shipping clerk steps to the door, whistles for any old expressman or teamster, and hands the goods over to him. That is what we have been doing in foreign trade. The more dilapidated the expressman's rig, and the cheaper his bid on the job, the better we thought it.

Meanwhile, the Briton and the German have been reaching some of the best trade in the world by the best ocean-delivery service. We started our jobbing teamster to South America with our goods and forgot all about him. He promised to get there as soon as he could. While he was on the road, the Briton and the German sped past him with fast delivery trucks of the latest type.

But the war is going to change all this. When we get done with our job of making the world safe for democracy, we will have 25,000,000 tons of merchant ships, or the equivalent of England's mercantile marine, which is the largest. To-day, we are building ships for war. But each improvement in war shipping brings its corresponding improvement in merchant shipping. A year ago we would have been glad to get our hands on ships of any size or type, and our hopes were centered on a large fleet of wooden steamers of moderate capacity. To-day, while still keeping all our wooden shipyards busy, we have increased the size to 5,000 tons, and now know that most of this wooden tonnage will be kept in coastwise trade, releasing the steel ships for the war zone. Where we were glad to get steel ships of 5,000 to 7,000 tons a year ago, now we are building them in 8,000 and 10,000 ton types, and planning troop ships of 12,000 and 15,000 and even 20,000 tons, with speeds of 16 to 20 knots an hour.

It is none too early for the American business man to begin thinking of these ships in terms of modern delivery service to foreign customers. And not the business man alone, but the farmer, the consumer, the community—the whole American Nation. We must get ships into our thinking, and planning, and work, just as we have got railroads into the American consciousness.

When the war ends, there will be work for ships all over the world. Peace will soon make the British mercantile marine as strong as ever. The Norwegians and Japanese are building ships. The Germans will undoubtedly rebuild their mercantile marine. So it is possible to look ahead and see times coming when we must compete with these nations. And we shall never hold our own unless both our ships and our foreign trade are organized along the efficient delivery lines that facilitate business at home.

We must have ships running to all our customers in Latin America, the Pacific, and Europe on regular delivery schedules. Germany had the greatest international department-store delivery system in the world before the war. See how her merchant marine was tied up in foreign harbors. The Hamburg-American line had in 1913 a total of 192 ships, and with these ships it covered 74 regular steamship routes. The North German Lloyd had 133 ships, and its regular routes covered practically the whole world. British shipping is on the same basis of regular routes and regular deliveries. We would not undertake to give service to customers at home without our fast freight lines, express facilities, and special cars for special goods. We cannot hope to get close to foreign customers, and keep close, and give service, unless we organize our new ships to run on regular routes and embody the idea of regular service into the new foreign trade which we must build.

Regular service on regular steamship routes will be vitally necessary if we are to hold our own either in shipping or export trade.

The other day a steamship man in my office painted a somewhat gloomy picture of after-war shipping rivalry.

Would Not Pay Fire Losses Caused by Neglect

Companies Advocate Change in Policies So That Losses Could Not Be Recovered If Negligence Is Proved

By WILLIAM B. ELLISON

FIRE insurance offers about the only medium that I know of, through which a man may benefit by his own negligence, or by the negligence of his employees for whose acts he is otherwise responsible.

In every other sphere of human activity that I now can think of, a man is barred from profiting by his own want of reasonable care, and I know of no other condition under which a man is not held responsible for the negligence of his representatives.

If this anomalous situation can be remedied, I have not the least doubt that our fire losses would immediately decrease to an astounding degree.

There should be legislation under which the standard form of policy should be amended so as to bar a recovery of a loss sustained by fire, under circumstances clearly showing that the fire in question was the result of negligence on the part of the assured or his employees. Such a provision would immediately result in the exercise of greater diligence on the part of property owners, real and personal, to avoid a fire, and such diligence is nothing more than is expected of one who seeks indemnity.

In my opinion, it is not sufficient that the insured should be unable to recover a loss growing out of his own want of care or negligence on the part of his employees, but he should, in addition thereto, be held for such damages as innocent third parties may suffer from the same cause.

There is nothing unfair in holding that a property owner who neglects his duty and thereby causes damage to his neighbor, should be held liable therefor. On the contrary, in every other line of activity, such consequential damage is clearly recognized and approved.

The economy that would necessarily grow out of such a situation would warrant and permit the insurer to extend its system of inspection to such a degree that over-insurance—that greater tempter to negligence if not incendiarism—would be substantially eliminated.

Everything that tends to conserve the financial strength of the insurer, tends equally to serve the welfare of the insured; and it should be a matter of public interest that our great indemnitors against loss by fire should be protected against a compulsory distribution of their funds among unworthy loss claimants.

Under the conditions that now exist, the honest, careful and painstaking property owner is unjustly called upon to pay the loss of his less careful and less scrupulous neighbor. This offers no inducement to property owners to take any extraordinary precautions against fire, because the careful and the careless seem to be equally protected under the law.

The question is a large one and should be made the subject of more mature consideration; but the principle involved is a simple one, and that is, that no man should be permitted to recover the fruits of his own sins whether of omission or commission.

What Will Ocean Delivery Mean to You?

Our war wages and higher costs would make it impossible to compete with British, Japanese, Norwegian, and German ships, he feared.

"Suppose we run our ships on regular lines to all foreign countries where trade can be built," I suggested. "Suppose that instead of keeping the traffic on a basis of cheapness and irregular sailings, we extend our fast railroad freight service to the ocean, and afford American business men and the same facilities for reaching customers abroad. Suppose we also carry passengers on combination cargo and passenger ships, and make it easy for those customers to visit our markets, just as the southern and western merchants visit Chicago and New York. Would that overcome the disadvantages of cheap ocean competition?"

"That is our only salvation," was his reply.

It is not only our big opportunity for holding our own in shipping competition, but it is the only businesslike way to build up foreign trade. You may take past statistics of our foreign trade to different countries and see regular delivery service and export trade growing together. Because steamship service to Europe was on daily schedule we were able to deliver our goods to customers there as regularly as we sent them over the border to Canada by our railroad service. Because West Indian and Central American countries could be served by our coastwise ships on regular schedules we built lasting and growing trade with these neighboring nations. And on the same principle, because our steamship service to South America, Australia and the Orient was irregular, when it existed at all, and in the control of competitors reaching those countries by regular lines, our sales were spasmodic and unbalanced by return shipments of raw materials.

Now we are rapidly building the mechanical equipment for regular steamship lines all over the world. The fast troop ship can be converted for combined passenger and cargo service and placed on regular lines, reaching the whole of Central America, South America, the Pacific, and the British Colonies. We shall undoubtedly have our own liners to Great Britain, European, and Mediterranean ports. Our refrigerator ships, now carrying meat and dairy products to feed the allies, will carry meat, fruit, butter, eggs, and perishables to other countries. Our cargo ships can be organized on the triangular system, which has made British and German shipping profitable. That is, a British ship left Wales with a cargo of coal for South America, picked up a cargo of nitrates for the United States, and returned with a cargo of wheat to England. Thus British export and import trade were both facilitated, and on the third leg of the triangle the British ship did a delivery job for a foreign nation, thus adding to tonnage and revenue. If 25,000,000 tons of American shipping can be kept busy in our own export and import trade, then the development of this third leg in the triangle will keep 30,000,000 to 35,000,000 tons of American shipping employed. That is the tonnage which I estimate will be needed by the United States after the war.

To keep this great new merchant marine busy we must have a radical change in American business thinking. Every manufacturer and trader in the United States, every banker, farmer, miner, and consumer must begin to think now about American merchant ships as a great modern international delivery service. No longer must we be content to let our railroads stop at the ocean—they must be extended to reach clear around the globe.

Government Moves To Insure Coal Supplies

Harbor Facilities Surveyed, State Fuel Administrator Appointed and Supervision of Mines Instituted

THREE acts of the Federal Government have paved the way for the intelligent and, it is hoped, successful handling of New York's coal supply during the coming winter.

The first of these is the survey of the dock and terminal facilities of the port by the Federal Fuel Administration, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, which was made early in the week.

The second is the appointment of D. W. Cooke, Vice-President of the Erie Railroad and chairman of the Traffic Executives of the Allies, as State Fuel Administrator, to succeed A. H. Wiggin, resigned, with Charles E. Robertson and Reeves Schley, as assistants.

And the third move is the taking over of the supervision and control of labor conditions in the coal fields as a war measure by Dr. Garfield on behalf of the Federal Fuel Administration. His action followed an agreement between himself and Secretary of Labor Wilson.

The Bureau of Labor of the Fuel Administration was created by Dr. Garfield immediately after the agreement was entered into. Rembrandt Peale, a coal man of New York City, and John P. White, former president of the United Mine Workers of America, were chosen as heads of the new bureau. The purpose of the arrangement is to put an end to labor unrest and disturbance in the coal fields and increase the output of the mines to the highest possible point.

Conferences were held by Dr. Garfield with Frank J. Hayes, president, and other officials of the United Mine Workers of America before the agreement was reached and a statement of principles arranged.

The chief points in the agreement which will govern work in the mines are:

That no strike shall take place pending the settlement of any controversy until the dispute has been reviewed and decided by him and that recognition of the unions shall not be exacted during the continuance of the war except where now recognized by collective bargaining.

That where, by joint contract between employer and employed, machinery is provided for the settlement of controversies the United States Fuel Administrator shall not be required to intervene or to mediate until such means have been invoked and the remedy exhausted without reaching adjustment.

That the United States Fuel Administrator will continue to insist that any adjustment of the labor questions in the coal mining industry, whether by joint agreement between operators and mine workers or by agreements severally made with the United States Fuel Administrator, shall embody wherever applicable the principles laid down in the Maryland and Upper Potomac settlement of May 6, 1918, and recognizes the authority of the International Union of Mine Workers in the organized fields and their jurisdiction over controversies arising in said fields.

That employers will be required to relinquish the right to discharge employees because of affiliation with labor unions.

That employers will be required to recognize the right of their employees to organize by peaceful methods that do not interrupt production.

That where the union shop now exists the same shall continue and where union and non-union men work together the continuance of such conditions shall not be deemed a grievance.

The principles set forth for recognition of basic working days and the protection of union and non-union miners are the same as were announced by President Wilson in his labor proclamation of April 8 in creating the War Labor Board.

The new bureau is an initial step toward granting priority distribution of labor to coal mines under the plan which will be in operation by the War Labor Administration on August 1. Railroads, shipyards, munition plants and certain lines of agriculture are expected to share with coal mines in the allotment of the common labor supply of the country.

The new bureau will have as one of its tasks preventing the spread of the epidemic of strikes to the coal fields.

So that he might with an understanding of local conditions formulate plans for coal transportation and storage which will prevent a repetition of last winter's fuel shortage in the metropolis, Dr. Harry A. Garfield, United States Fuel Administrator, made an inspection of the harbor and its coal handling facilities.

Alfred H. Smith, Eastern Director of Railroads, took personal charge of the party, which was made up of over a score of the leading officials of both the Fuel and Railroad administrations, including C. H. Markum, Railway Director of the Allegheny region, with headquarters in Philadelphia.

The party was taken in a tug to the big coal terminal at Undercliff. Then it skirted the coal terminals along the Jersey shore as far as Bayonne. The officials were taken through the Kill von Kull and the Arthur Kills, inspecting all the points where the coal roads make deliveries at tidewater, including Elizabeth, Perth Amboy and South Amboy.

From the latter point the party passed through Raritan Bay, circling Staten Island by the Narrows to St. George, where are the Baltimore and Ohio coal terminals. The tug then went up the East River and landed its passengers.

Mr. Smith explained to Dr. Garfield the problems in the handling of coal for bunkering large numbers of ocean steamships and for supplying the needs of the metropolis. Dr. Garfield went into the matter in great detail and the discussion with the coal experts in the party was continuous and covered a wide range.

In addition to Dr. Garfield and Mr. Smith, the party included: Rembrandt Peale, bituminous adviser; F. M. Whitaker, manager of inland traffic; G. M. Snider, transportation adviser; J. D. A. Morrow, general director of distribution; S. L. Yerkes, assistant director of distribution; H. A. Cochran, manager of tidewater distribution; A. S. Learoid, director of anthracite; J. W. Searles, manager of the tidewater exchange; Andrew K. Morris, director of docks; J. E. Persons, managers of steamship fuel for New York harbor; Joseph B. Dickson, chairman of the anthracite committee of Philadelphia; J. P. Cameron, fiscal representative of Pennsylvania.

Others in the party were: C. H. Markum of Philadelphia; D. W. Cooke, vice-president, Erie Railroad; George D. Coburn, chairman freight traffic committee, North Atlantic ports; Walter B. Pollock, deputy marine

Property Owners Criticise Board of Estimate

Claim Action in Changing Block on 58th Street from Residence to Business Purposes Threatens Zoning Law

THE action of the Board of Estimate on July 12 in granting a change which placed 58th Street between Sixth and Seventh Avenues from a residence to a business district has created considerable adverse comment among real estate owners. The feeling is the more acute because of the fact that most of those at the hearing were opposed to the change and declared they saw no justification for it.

The following statement, issued by the Real Estate Board, is declared to be representative of the opinion of the majority of owners of property affected who were opposed to the change:

On July 12 the Board of Estimate and Apportionment adopted a resolution changing the block of West 58th Street between Sixth and Seventh Avenues from a residence district to a business district. This action was absolutely without justification and in defiance of the wishes of a large majority of the owners of property affected. It really constituted a direct attack upon the Zoning regulation, and should cause the gravest concern to every one interested in restricted real estate.

The block in question is improved with high-grade apartments and residences and could not possibly have a clearer residential character. On the north side are the "Navarro" Apartments, "No. 135," the "Milano" Apartments, and the "Hotel Sevilla"; on the south side are the "Alwyn Court," "No. 158," "No. 152," "No. 140"—all high-class apartment houses—assessed from $190,000 to $1,050,000. With the exception of one small brownstone house, remodeled several years ago into a store front with apartments above, there is not a single business building upon this block. When the use districts were adopted pursuant to the "Building Zone Resolution" of July 25, 1916, this block was included as a matter of course in a residence district. There could have been no other sane way to treat it.

The action of the Board in making the change was taken upon the application of the owners of Nos. 112 and 114, two brownstone private houses on the south side, near the Sixth Avenue corner. Such owners, in July, 1915, contracted to sell their properties to Steinway & Sons who at the same time contracted to purchase the property on West 57th Street, immediately in the rear. Title was to close on August 1, 1916, but Steinway & Sons refused to take title because the adoption of the Building Zone Resolution on July 25, and the inclusion of the West 58th Street properties in a residence district made it impossible to build over the entire plot their proposed piano warerooms and lofts.

The Courts upheld this refusal to take title. The present applications were then brought to do away with the residence restriction. As the situation was well described the other day by a prominent real estate expert, the applications were no more than "an attempt to clear title through the Board of Estimate."

The applicants apparently had not the temerity to ask for a change in character of the whole block; but only asked that the Zoning regulation be changed so as to include their particular properties in a business rather than a residence district. It is the general custom, however, not to make changes in an area less than a whole block, so the Board changed the whole block in order to grant the applications.

First: The attitude of the Board President at the preliminary hearing in May was such as to leave no doubt that before hearing any argument he had determined to grant the applications. Instead of requiring the applicants to show some good reason for the change, he placed the burden on those opposing the applications.

Second: The applications were made by the owners of less than two per cent. of the assessed valuation of property upon the block. They were opposed by about seventy-five per cent. of the property on the south side and about ninety-one per cent. of that on the north side—or about eighty-three per cent. of the entire block, and were favored by considerably less than ten per cent. No consideration whatever was given to the views of the owners, of $5,060,000 out of the $6,030,000 total assessed valuation, upon the block.

Third: No serious ground for the change has ever been urged. The report of the Committee on City Plans stated that no very good reason was apparent for including the block originally in a residence district. No reason could possibly be given for including a high-class residence block such as this is anything other than a residence district. The report further stated that this was the only block on Fifty-eighth Street "between Madison and Tenth Avenues" made residential, and the only residential block in this vicinity except Fifty-ninth Street between Fifth and Eighth Avenues. The fact seems to have been overlooked that Fifty-eighth Street between Madison and Park Avenues is residential; that many other more or less detached blocks all over the city were advisedly left residential, among them West 57th Street between Columbus and Amsterdam Avenues, West 56th Street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, West 30th Street between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, East 52nd Street between First and Second Avenues, and various others, including several blocks in the Washington Square section; that this very Board last year created a residence block in the heart of an unrestricted district, viz., the south side of West 16th Street and the north side of West 15th Street between Sixth and Seventh Avenues; and that the zoning plan was based upon "a frank acceptance of existing conditions."

Fourth: The effect upon property values in this block was totally disregarded. It was pointed out by speaker after speaker that high-grade apartment houses could not survive on the same street with back entrances of Fifty-seventh Street stores and it was said that the apartments, being already there, could not be moved, and that the result would be immediate and certain loss in values and a heavy resultant loss to the city in taxes. It has been estimated that the removal of this restriction will depreciate the value of such properties at least twenty per cent. Inasmuch as these arguments bore closely on the merits, they naturally received no consideration.

Fifth: No reason whatever appeared for altering the character of the use of the block at this time. Assuming that at some future time conditions might so change as to justify the admission of business to the block, this is not the case today. No different situation exists now than at the time of the original districting. It was suggested that the Steinway building, consisting, on West Fifty-eighth Street, of a back entrance for the delivery of goods, the loading of trucks, etc., might be an immediate "improvement"; but this reason for removing the restriction could not have been very potent, when the Board apparently had not the slightest assurance that the proposed building would be built. Steinway & Sons did not appear in favor of the application; and it is reported that because of the delay, they are not willing to take the title. The effect is, therefore, that the Board has thrown down the restriction, opened the block to the usual small business eyesores, lowered property values, overridden eighty-three per cent. of the property owners—all with no justification of immediate necessity or benefit and for reasons not apparent. The property owners would like to know, and hope to find out, what induced the Board to take this action.

The zoning legislation was adopted to give a stability to real estate uses and consequently values not possible under private restrictive covenants: It was the embodiment of a well-conceived and well-executed public policy. The residence districts thus created were not intended to be altered except for good cause—particularly against the objection of twenty per cent. or more of the property affected (Building Zone Resolution, Sec. 23). In the case of No. 140 West 58th Street, an apartment house assessed at $330,000, the land was acquired and the building constructed in express reliance upon the zoning restrictions, which was then being framed. The change of such a district without cause amounts to municipal bad faith.

Staten Island's Shipbuilders To Be Housed

Government to Build Homes on Land Given by the Company—
The First Appropriation of $400,000 Made

FOR the purpose of selecting sites for the location of homes for workers employed at the shipbuilding plants on Staten Island, George Van Pelt, architect, Walter Green, engineer, and William Clunt, realty expert of the United States Shipping Board's Housing Commission, inspected several sites suggested by borough officials, the Staten Island Civic League and the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company, on the north shore of Staten Island. The three Federal representatives were piloted by Borough President Calvin D. Van Name and looked over tracts in the Arlington, Bloomfield, Chelsea, Graniteville, Linoleumville and Bulls Head sections.

The commission representatives remarked favorably upon several of the sites but declined to state definitely which had been selected, but Borough President Van Name is authority for the statement that the visitors told him that houses capable of accommodating 30,000 persons, which would include the families of workmen, would be built, the construction to start at once and that many of the buildings will be ready for occupancy before late fall.

The original offer of the Federal government to furnish eighty per cent. of the money necessary to construct the houses if the people of Staten Island would furnish the remaining twenty per cent. was not met and it was believed for a time that the housing problem on Staten Island would fail of solution. But when the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company, which operates three of the largest yards, offered to donate the land upon which to build the houses the matter took on a different aspect.

When this offer was made by the shipbuilding company an appropriation of $400,000 was made to defray the cost of the preliminary work and it is understood that at least $5,000,000 will be expended on the project.

The site offered to the Government is at Mariners Harbor, and is bounded by Richmond Terrace, Holland and Western avenues and the tracks of the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway. While it is thought the shipbuilding company may be permitted to offer some suggestions it will have nothing to do with the improvement. Delano & Aldrich, architects, of 126 East Thirty-eight street, Manhattan, of which firm Mr. Carl F. Grieshaber of Staten Island is a member, will have entire charge of the actual construction and the financing. Just what character of buildings will be erected cannot be decided upon until the site and conditions on Staten Island are definitely fixed. The Staten Island Civic League has urged the erection of small houses of a permanent character.

Anning S. Prall, a member of the Board of Education of the City of New York, is chairman of the Civic League Housing Committee and made several trips to Washington accompanied by Mr. E. R. Moody, also a member of the committee, to take up the matter with the Shipping Board. Mr. Prall said yesterday: "Staten Island is in for a long era of shipbuilding and it will undoubtedly be the leading industry of the borough for many years to come. Aside from that it means the development of a great labor market for Staten Island and that in itself will insure a wonderful commercial development along the north shore of Staten Island and also along the lines of the Baltimore & Ohio R. R."

The Staten Island Shipbuilding Company employs 1,811 Staten Island men in its two plants and foundry. At the Mariners Harbor yard 1,080 are employed and at the Port Richmond yard 731. These employees reside in all parts of Staten Island, some of them coming from Tottenville, a distance of twelve miles from their work.

At the Mariners Harbor yard 352 of the force reside in Manhattan and the Bronx, and 123 reside in Brooklyn, nine residents of the latter borough are employed at the Port Richmond yard. Two residents of Port Chester are employed at the Port Richmond yard and an even dozen from Long Island outside of Brooklyn are employed in the two yards of the company, and from New Jersey 259 men journey daily to and from the two yards.

Government Moves To Insure Coal Supplies

director for railroads in New York harbor; F. E. Harri-man, coal adviser, Eastern region; E. M. Rine, general manager, Lackawanna Railroad, and F. L. Blendinger, general manager of the Lehigh Valley Railroad.

In making the announcement of the appointment of Mr. Cooke as administrator Dr. Garfield called attention to the fact that, notwithstanding the regrettable and unavoidable delay in the appointment of Mr. Wiggin's successor, the work of the Fuel Administrator in New York has been proceeding in regular course, and New York has been receiving its full allotment of coal. Under the present distribution plan each State will receive a fixed part of the available supply as determined by Washington, and New York, accordingly, is bound to receive its full part in any event, whether delivered now or later.

The decision not to divide the State into sections and to name one man who should have full authority was made by Dr. Garfield after his visit to New York when he was in conference with Mr. Cooke and went with him on the inspection tour of the harbor facilities of New York.

It is understood Mr. Cooke will resign his traffic chairmanship, but will remain a member of the organization of executives and will represent it on the exports control committee.

He said that on the inspection trip he was satisfied with the manner in which the railroads were preparing to meet the situation. They are enlarging steam heating plants for thawing out coal, he added.

Mr. Cooke admitted that he had little acquaintance with his duties as Fuel Administrator.

"I know I will have the co-operation of all the people of New York," he said. "I pledge them my best efforts in a task which, if I may be pardoned for saying it, has been 'wished' on me."

"I believe we have learned much from our experiences last year that will be of service to us to prevent a repetition of such conditions. I cannot say now whether any increased transportation facilities over the barge canal can be installed for getting the coal into the city. We must bend all our efforts in the direction of improving the service."

Mr. Cooke declined to predict another series of heatless days.

"Don't let's assume that such a necessity will arise," he said. "We all know that there must be a lot of coal bunkered here and that the task is especially of importance in view of war shipping. There is a scarcity of labor in the mines—but don't let's borrow trouble."

"Let us all pray for a mild winter and work together to prevent trouble."

In accordance with the order issued by the Fuel Administration during the succeeding weeks, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday will be lightless.

The order for four lightless nights a week applies to this State, New England, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, and the District of Columbia, other sections of the country only being compelled to go without excess illumination two nights a week.

According to statistics prepared in Washington, each lightless night saves more than 1,000 tons of coal. The Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Commerce has advised the Fuel Administration that about 500,000 tons of coal are consumed by the country in a year in advertising by electric signs.

Important State Problems.

In this issue the Record and Guide begins publication of the proposed Amendments to the State Constitution submitted to the voters this year by the Legislature.

These matters, to publish which the Record and Guide has been officially designated, are of great importance to the people of the entire state. Every voter, and particularly every voter who is a taxpayer, should study them with the utmost care.

The Record and Guide is an official publication for legal notices, and in many matters, especially those affecting the interests of taxpayers, it is recognized as a most desirable medium. This fact is shown by its designation by Secretary of State Hugo to print the Constitutional Amendments this year.

New York's Opportunity.

Edward N. Hurley, Chairman of the United States Shipping Board, opens up a fascinating prospect for the after-the-war activities of business men in the first of a series of articles which he is preparing and which the Record and Guide will publish from time to time on the future development of the commerce of this country as affected by war conditions.

Mr. Hurley is first and foremost a commercial man. He came into prominence successively as a manufacturer, then as President of the Illinois Manufacturers Association and then of the United States Chamber of Commerce. He headed a party of business men which made a personal and thorough study of South America and its trade possibilities and the banking, shipping and other necessities for carrying on of foreign business.

Mr. Hurley's belief that the United States, with its augmented commercial fleet equal to that of Great Britain, which has heretofore held a preponderance of the shipping of the world, will take a prominent place in the "store door delivery" of American goods to our neighbors in every part of the world is based not on theory but on knowledge of the actual requirements of foreign trade.

What is of prime importance to New Yorkers is that the larger part of this rich trade in our own ships will naturally centre in the chief seaport of the country. The first consideration for us to think of is that this port shall be put in prime condition to handle this immense foreign trade. This means better docking facilities, deeper channels, greater warehouses, more elaborate railway terminals, larger coal pockets and dry docks and bigger tow boats—and more of each of these facilities.

There must be more and better office and living accommodations for the vastly-increased army of foreign traders and their following. The Record and Guide recently called attention to the remarkable activity in real estate transactions in that quarter of the city for many years largely devoted to the export and import trade. There will be increased demands in other sections as soon as the headway of this movement becomes accelerated, as it surely will. The residence districts as well as the business quarters will feel the impetus of this revived business which naturally finds in the congenial atmosphere of New York its greatest fruition.

Knickerbocker days are here again. The period when the traders of the early period of New York's existence coined money by bringing shipload after shipload into port and sending cargo after cargo abroad in American bottoms will have its counterpart in the coming days of more efficient, far-reaching and richer commerce on the high seas in the ships that Mr. Hurley's board is building.

As he succinctly points out, our big opportunity has come, and it depends on our preparedness and our ability to grasp it whether or not we secure all the advantages that may be ours if we will have them.

Is Relief in Sight?

Last winter New York City had heatless and heart-breaking and unproductive Mondays; it had half-electrified streets and at night the Great White Way looked more like the dank thoroughfare to a darkened, half-deserted and badly-warmed hereafter than its accustomed aspect of the road to the abodes of frivolity and mirth; icicled offices took on the appearance of the area that Peary presumably liked and became publicity agent for but which nobody else seems to care for, and homes became so chill that they invited the use of fur garments and fleece-lined sleeping-bags. Pemmican and seals' blubber were almost at a premium.

Early in the year, after the frosts had melted away and the clocks had been set forward an hour so as to give Old Sol a greater chance to work miracles with mundane things, the people of Manhattan, who grouch not neither do they whine (provided always there's something doing), waited patiently for the coal miners and heavers and haulers and handlers generally to get together and dump enough coal into New York or its vicinity, or to make satisfactory arrangements for doing it before the iceberg period again came round, so that a recurrence of the shivering stagnation of last winter might not again take place.

Up to this week, with half the summer passed, and the dread, if steamless, days approaching at an all-too-rapid pace, nothing seemed to have been done towards solving the question of keeping the headquarters of the nation, the big tent in which the world's greatest acts are now staged, in condition for functioning with celerity and ease.

A great Union admiral, running the defenses of the lower Mississippi during the War of the Rebellion, used to feed his men heartily just before they went into battle. If he had been making war in the North he might have provided each of them with a pocket heater. Men cannot fight well nor plan and execute the great stratagems back of the firing line unless they are well fed and warm.

But now, at almost the last moment when the apparent inactivity of those to whom we looked for relief and their noxious indifference to New York's necessities can perhaps be remedied, the Federal authorities have made a survey of the port and its facilities for handling coal, have appointed a Fuel Administrator and given him assistants, and have taken over the supervision of mining with the idea of increasing production.

Perhaps New York's patience and growlless days are to be rewarded. We sincerely hope so. Mr. Cooke, the new Fuel Administrator, a man of experience and executive ability, modestly takes office and asks for public support and co-operation and lays his ear to the earth for any tips from anybody about how to do what he's got to do.

Mr. Cooke can count on the cordial support and co-operation of the Record and Guide, and of its readers we have no doubt, if he proves equal to his big job. As for the latter part of his request, we can perhaps do best by recalling that old saying that if there is anything to do the best way to get it done is to get out the old saw horse and the trusty buck saw and "saw wood!"

Readers' Comment on Current Subjects

July 25, 1918.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

The suggestion of State Tax Commissioner Merrill in a recent issue of the Record and Guide is an excellent one.

All forms of indirect taxation should be abolished.

The taking by the State of a part of inheritances, both direct and collateral, should be continued because the State was a partner with the creator of the wealth and is as a matter of fact entitled to the share it takes.

This contribution to the community should, however, be used only to reduce the principal of the State or municipal debt. The expense of all government should be met by a direct tax not exceeding five mills or one-half of one per cent. on all property, real or personal, located in the State, this tax to be collected where the property is located. For the purposes of levy and collection the State should be divided into tax districts, each county being a district, except where a city comprises an entire county or more than one county. In such a case the tax district should be the city. There should be a county or city board of tax commissioners of not more than three for each tax district appointed by the governing body of the district; by the Board of Supervisors if it be a county or by the Board of Estimate or common council if it be a city. The assessments or appraisals made by such boards to be subject to review by the State Board of Tax Commissioners and the commissioners themselves to be subject to removal by the Governor on the recommendation of the State Board of Tax Commissioners.

Each tax district to have a tax collector to be appointed by the local governing body or elected by the people as the Legislature may determine. His or her compensation, and number of subordinates and their compensation, to be determined by the local governing body.

The tax collector to be subject to removal by the Governor, after a hearing, on charges made either by the State Treasurer, the State Board of Tax Commissioners, the local governing body or any citizen having knowledge of official misconduct.

No property except national, State or municipal, rural and railway, to be exempt from taxation. Every person of legal age to make a report, in writing, verified, on or before the 30th day of July, in each year, of all property, both real and personal, owned by such person on the 1st day of July in the year in which such report is made. The report should contain the owner's estimate of the value of the property owned by him or her and such estimate should be verified. Immediately after the 31st day of July the Board of Tax Commissioners of each tax district should examine and verify by strict and thorough investigation each report filed with them and should make and determine their appraisal and assessment at the full value of the property, and have such final appraisal and assessment ready for inspection by December 1st of the same year in which the reports are filed. In each tax district the commissioners should sit to hear complaints and redress grievances from December 15th to February 1st and should have the same power to make such changes and alterations as they now possess..

On the 15th day of February in each year, the several tax district boards should certify to the State Tax Commissioner and to the local governing bodies the total assessed valuations of the real and personal property in their districts.

On or before the 1st day of March in each year the Governor of the State and the local governing bodies should certify to the State Tax Commissioners and to the local district tax commissioners the estimated amounts required for purposes of State or local government. The State Board of Tax Commissioners should then certify on or before the 15th day of March to each local tax district commission the amount necessary to be levied for the support of the State government, which should include the entire expense for educational purposes throughout the State, and that amount, with the amount necessary for local government, should be levied and assessed by the local tax district boards on or before the 1st day of April in each year. The tax list complete should be handed the collector of taxes on May 1st and should half be payable on or before June 1st and the second half should be due and payable between November 1st and December 1st. There should be discounts for payments in advance as at present.

There should be serious penalties for not filing returns and for false returns. The amounts due the State should be paid June 1st and December 1st and the amounts due the local governing bodies should be paid as soon as available.

The entire amount raised, in this State, last year for all purposes was about $400,000,000. The value of real estate, with no exemptions, would be about $15,000,000,000. The value of personal property is estimated as $100,000,000,000. A five mill or one-half of one per cent. tax on $115,000,000,000 would produce $575,000,000. If the entire personal property of any person is below $500 it should be exempted for economic reasons.

Indirect taxes are the greatest possible incentive to extravagance. In 20 years the indirect taxes collected yearly in this state have increased $50,000,000, and yet each dollar has been taken for new functions of government. With a direct tax every person would know and could require an explanation for any new function of administration. A fixed tax limit would stabilize values.

A man with $1,000 personal property would know that his yearly tax could not exceed $5, and the man owning a $1,000 home would know the same.

EDWARD P. DOYLE.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Active Market Despite Intense Heat and Usually Dull Period—Several Big Deals Consummated and Leasing is Good

THE last week of July is always productive of increased activity in realty circles for it heralds the approach of the worst month of the year, August, when brokers like others go on their vacations, and the week just ended has been a fairly active one and some very important deals consummated.

The largest and most important transaction of the week as well as of the year in the midtown loft zone section was closed on Wednesday, when the twenty-story Victoria Building on the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Twenty-seventh street, extending through to Broadway, was sold to Bing & Bing, realty operators, by the 230 Fifth Avenue Company, George F. Johnson, President.

It has been held at $4,500,000. Last year it was assessed by the city for taxation purposes at $3,150,000.

The building, which occupies the site of the old Victoria Hotel, measures 254 feet on the south side of Twenty-seventh street, 105.9 feet on Broadway, and 62.4 feet on Fifth Avenue. It is fully leased and yields an annual rental of about $400,000. Bing & Bing paid all cash above the mortgage.

Byrne & Baumann negotiated the sale. Important in the sales of the week was the purchase by J. Adolph Mollenhauer of the group of four five-story flats at the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-fifth street from the Japanese Fan Company, Carl J. Deutsch, president, by the payment of cash and the transfer of two dwellings on large plots at Bay Shore, Long Island. The cash value of the properties involved in the deal aggregates approximately $800,000.

Another transaction of interest not so much because of the amount involved but because of the long ownership of the property by one family is that of a block front in the West Bronx held by the Burton family for over fifty years. The buyer is John Massamino. Contracts for the transfer of this property have also been drawn.

The Arlington Court Apartment house, a six-story elevator structure, at 540 and 542 West 157th street east of Broadway, also figured in the sales of the week. The purchaser is the Charles Galewski Company, Inc., and the seller William N. Carpenter, of Winterhaven, Florida. The house shows an annual rent roll of over $20,000, and has been held at $150,000.

In the old "chemical" section where there has been considerable activity of late particularly in trading, David Lion and William D. Kilpatrick, operators, purchased from George H. Richardson and others the four story loft building at 107 John street, between Cliff and Pearl streets. This is the first sale of the property in fifty-three years. This property was at once resold to Sigsbee Graham, who has been very active of late in the purchase of lower east side property.

Confirming the statement made in the Record & Guide a few weeks ago by Mr. Charles F. Noyes that downtown property is providing the greatest activity in realty circles is the sale of 520 and 522 Water street, a seven-story building, to M. Berman and Brother, woolen rag dealers, the tenants who purchased from Thomas B. Hurst, from whom they also purchased two adjoining seven-story structures 61 and 63 Rutgers street, at the southeast corner of Cherry street. After the expiration of the leases of the buildings the new owners will erect a fourteen-story structure for their own business. These properties were held at $115,000.

Frederick Brown, operator, sold at a profit his contract on the nine-story apartment house at 3 East Eighty-fifth street, adjoining the northeast corner of Fifth avenue. The buyer is B. Rush Stoddard, president of the West India Steamship Company, which he plans to hold for an investment. The property is assessed by the city at $250,000.

Leasing continued good all week and one of the important leases reported was that of the southerly store at 723 Fifth avenue, northeast corner of Fifty-sixth street, the former home of William Waldorf Astor to Pickslay & Company, jewelers. The lease was made by the Plaza Leasehold Corporation, which recently took under lease the Astor property and five adjoining buildings and converting them for business purposes.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 33 as against 27 last week and 14 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 11 as compared with 8 last week and 5 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 22 as compared with 19 last week and 9 a year ago.

From the Bronx 8 sales at private contract were reported as against 14 last week and 5 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 100 of this issue.

Operators Buy Victoria Building.

The Victoria Building, a twenty-story store, loft and office structure, erected about seven years ago upon the block front on the southerly side of 27th street from Fifth avenue to Broadway, where formerly stood the historic Victoria hotel, was sold Wednesday in a cash transaction to Bing & Bing, real estate operators. They contracted to pay all cash above a substantial mortgage held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company which made the loan for the erection of the structure in 1911 shortly after the property was acquired from Mrs. Almeric S. (Lady) Paget and John S. Melchor. The improvement was made by the Johnson-Kahn Company which bought the old hotel shortly after completing the twenty-story commercial structure which occupies the 26th street block between Fifth avenue and Broadway which Delmonico's and the Café Martin made famous as a landmark. The company transferred the Victoria property in 1914 to the 230 Fifth Avenue Company which sold to Bing & Bing in a deal which Byrne & Baumann negotiated upon an asking price basis of $4,500,000. The Victoria property, one of the largest of its kind in the city's new commercial district, just south of the shopping zone, has a frontage of 254 feet on 27th street, 105.9 feet on Broadway and 62.4 feet on Fifth avenue, the building having on each floor an area of 20,000 square feet, all of which is occupied at rentals aggregating close to $400,000. The U. S. Internal Revenue and the Workmen's Compensation Commission occupy large quarters, other tenants including Strawbridge & Clothier, dry goods merchants of Philadelphia; Syndicate Trading Company, Trustees of Public Buildings; Muser Brothers, lace importers; Graupner, Lové & Lamprecht, and the Decorative Plant Company. The new property of the Bings, rated as one of the largest realty operating and construction firms in the city, holds a unique position, having permanent protection of its light and air through the zoning law, gaining additional value thereby, as structures of that height are prohibited in this section. This advantage came to the property unexpectedly to the former owners who acquired the hotel site in an exchange transaction with considerations aggregating $8,000,000 and involving the Chatsworth Apartments, which still remain in the ownership of Lady Paget.

Record Sale Downtown.

Charles F. Noyes Company arranged one of the quickest downtown resales on record, by reselling for William D. Kilpatrick and David Lyon to Sigsbee Graham, No. 107 John street, a four-story loft building covering lot about 20x66 and valued at $24,000. Mr. Kilpatrick actually closed the deal within ten minutes from the time he offered the property to the Noyes Company. Mr. Graham, the purchaser, is one of the most active of the recent buyers of property in the lower east side section, and in addition to owning real estate in other parts of the city, has many downtown properties including the new "Thurston & Braidrich Building" at 27 Cliff street; 60 Cliff street; Nos. 22 & 28 Platt street and 15 Gold street; 205 Pearl street; 207 Pearl street; 4 and 6 Gold street; 12 and 14 Cliff street, and 239 Pearl street, all of which properties he has bought through the Noyes Company. In commenting on his most recent purchase Mr. Graham stated: "I quickly bought No. 107 John street when it was offered because by acquiring this property I have secured an outlet on John street for 239 Pearl street owned by my company and thus I have increased my plottage at this point to nearly 5,000 square feet, which will be put in the market for resale." With this purchase Mr. Graham now has a plot suitable for improvement at this point with frontages of 20 feet on John street and 27 feet on Pearl street.

Acquires Valuable Broadway Corner.

In a deal involving approximately $800,000 and some twenty-three parcels of land scattered throughout Brooklyn and Long Island, J. Adolph Mollenhauer, prominent in the sugar industry in this country, acquired another Broadway corner as a permanent investment. Through Nassoit & Lanning, Mr. Mollenhauer has purchased the group of four five-story flats at the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-fifth street, facing Euclid Hall and Breton Hall, two Broadway residential landmarks. The properties are known as 2333 to 2339 Broadway and cover a plot 100x100 and were acquired from the Japanese Fan Company, Carl J. Deutsch, president, through a payment of cash and the transfer of two dwellings on large plots being part of the Mollenhauer properties at Bay Shore, Long Island. The new owner has made a deal with the Jardin Company whereby the latter will take several of the Mollenhauer properties in payment for the cost of altering the Broadway flats, which are to be converted into smaller suites, and on the Broadway frontage stores will be installed.

Louis C. Wills represented Mr. Mollenhauer as attorney in the transactions while M. & S. Meyers acted for the sellers. The Roman-Callman Company were co-brokers with Nassoit & Lanning.

Operator Takes Quick Profit.

B. Rush Stoddard, president of the West India Steamship Company to-day paid Frederick Brown a profit for his contract on the nine-story apartment house at 3 East Eighty-fifth street, adjoining the northeast corner of Fifth avenue, acquired by the seller about five weeks ago. This house was erected by S. Fullerton Weaver, now a tenant in the building, about five years ago and was sold two years later to Susanna S. Minturn, from whom Mr. Brown made his purchase. It is arranged in small apartments, accommodating nine families on a floor and occupies a plot 50x102.2. The yearly rent roll is reported at $29,000. Mr. Stoddard plans to hold the property, which the city assesses at $250,000 for investment. Simon J. Bloom negotiated the transaction, in which Charles H. Bellows represented the buyer as attorney. Last May Mr. Stoddard purchased the twelve-story San Domingo apartment house at 947 West End avenue, near 106th street, valued at $550,000.

Sale of Arlington Court.

Charles Galewski Company, Inc., has purchased from William N. Carpenter, of Winterhaven, Fla., the Arlington Court apartment house, a six-story elevator structure, at 540 and 542 West 157th street, on plot 75x100, located 200 feet east of Broadway. C. J. Elgar was the broker. The house is fully tenanted, showing an annual return of over $20,000 per annum. It has been held at $150,000. Marks & Marks, as attorneys, represented the purchaser and Melvin G. Palliser acted for the seller. Mr. Carpenter, as plaintiff, took the property over in foreclosure proceedings last January in an action against the Columbia Heights Realty Company and others. The auction price was $132,821.

Record Sale Downtown.

M. Berman & Brother, woolen rags, tenants of Nos. 520 and 522 Water street, running through to Nos. 265 and 267 Cherry street, 50x135, a seven story building, bought that property from Thomas B. Hurst, from whom they purchased also two adjoining seven-story structures, Nos. 61 and 63 Rutgers street, 50x70, at the southeast corner of Cherry street, through Samuel Wacht, Jr., attorney. After the expiration of leases of the buildings the buyers will erect on the combined sites a fourteen story structure for their business. The properties were held at $115,000.

First Sale in Fifty Years.

Operators to-day made a purchase of a long-held parcel in the old "chemical" section, where there has been considerable trading recently. From George H. Richardson and others David Lion and William D. Kilpatrick bought the four-story and loft building at 107 John street on lot 20.9x66x irregular, located between Cliff and Pearl streets. This is the first sale of the property in fifty-three years. E. A. Tredwell was the broker.

Sale of Block Front in Bronx.

Contracts have been drawn for the sale of a block front in the West Bronx which has been held by the Burton family of New York City for the past fifty years. It is understood that the buyer, John Massamino, a builder and real estate operator, will improve the site at once with a garage from plans by Starrett and Van Vleck. The transaction involves the block front on the north side of 162d street, between Grant and Sherman avenues. It has a frontage of 200 feet on the street and 115 feet on each avenue. At present it is partly occupied by frame buildings.

Successful Auction Sale.

A total of $42,000 was realized by Joseph P. Day last Saturday at the auction sale of seventy-five lots at Belle Harbor. The highest price was $2,250 for the plot 60x100, on Rehan avenue, between the Ocean and Rockaway Beach Boulevard. Five lots at the northeast corner of the boulevard and Orienta avenue sold for $675 each. On Orienta avenue between the Boulevard and Newport avenue lots brought from $400 to $525 each. The southwest corner of Newport and Orienta avenue, five lots brought $2,375, while the opposite northwest corner, of similar size, was sold for $2,625.

Buys Midtown Property.

Frederick Brown, operator, acquired a desirable midtown investment property on Thursday in a cash transaction. He bought from the Lintner Corporation, of which George A. Shearer is vice president, the twelve-story loft building at 20 to 26 West Thirty-sixth street, on a plot 65 by 100, between Fifth and Sixth avenues. The entire building is occupied by the Flint & Horner Company, furniture and sug dealers, who are holding the property on a net rental basis under a twenty-one-year lease, which has about ten more years to run. The property has been held at $650,000. William A. White & Sons were the brokers in the transaction.

C. CLAYTON BOURNE and Edward Ward McMahon were on Tuesday appointed receivers for the Mohuken Building Material Co., Meserole st and Varick av, Brooklyn, by Judge Garvin, in the United States District Court, Brooklyn. They were directed to continue the business, and filed a joint bond of $20,000. Assets of $268,543 were listed, and claims amounting to $18,420 were filed by three creditors.

FRED T. LEY & CO. acquired title to the Chatham Court apartment house at the northwest corner of Central Park West and 67th st. reported sold last month by Malcolm E. Smith and Rudolph C. Culver for Strauss Building and Realty Co. The building will be altered into small suites and operated on the co-operative plan. In the announcement of the sale Walter Russell and Penrhyn Stanlaws were mentioned as members of the new owning syndicate.

OLIVER A. ROBERTSON, who has been connected with Wm. A. White & Sons during his entire business career, has been admitted to the directorate of that company. He entered its employ in 1900 as an office boy, and after a short period became identified with its renting department. Subsequently he was placed in charge of that department and his elevation to the Board of Directors is the result of its successful management.

PERSHING SQUARE is the name suggested for the Grand Central Terminal zone in honor of Gen. John J. Pershing, commander of the American Expeditionary Forces in France by John McE. Bowman, president of the companies operating the five largest hotels in the terminal zone—Biltmore, Manhattan, Belmont, Murray Hill, and the new Commodore—in letter to Mayor Hylan, Alfred E. Smith, president of the Board of Aldermen, and Bruce M. Falconer, Alderman from the Twenty-third District, which includes the Grand Central zone.

STATE ENGINEER AND SURVEYOR of the State Canal Board has approved plans for repairing bulkhead on the East River and construction of a freight house at the Rogers Street, Long Island City, Barge Canal terminal, north of the Queensborough Bridge. It is expected that the improvement will begin at once and be completed this fall so that shippers will have available the facilities of the cheaper transportation rates on this $150,000,000 State Barge Canal. This is the first of three terminals that were acquired by the State of New York in 1915 on the waterfront of Queens through the efforts of the Queens Chamber of Commerce.

Building Throughout East Shows Upward Trend

Government Work Predominates, Large Private Estates Making the Next Best Showing—The Labor Question

THE recent tremendous expansion of direct Government construction has overwhelmed in value all other types of building. But the actual record from month to month have shown the situation and outlook in civilian departments to be far from hopeless. Moreover, if the trend is regarded from the standpoint of the long swing and is reviewed over the entire period a more accurate and at the same time, a still more encouraging verdict will be possible. In view of the volume of building comprised in the Eastern and Central Western sections the gradual upward trend of manufacturing types of building from the 1914 level follows along as the natural sequence of the war. Mammoth munition works and factories of all descriptions for supplying the increased needs of the allies were gradually built up. Later with the entrance of the United States into the conflict, an unprecedented increase is reflected in factory construction. Munitions, uniforms, equipment for war needs of every description—all factored in bringing the total value of industrial building up to a level never before reached.

In the period prior to our entrance into the war, residential building, normally of larger value than manufacturing building, shows even more marked preponderance. Generally rising prices in the building materials market together with increased labor costs, showed up in the considerably augmented value of residential building. In character this took the form of rather large and expensive estates, a tendency traceable to the marked prosperity of the period. Thus the value indicated during this period represents a comparatively small number of undertakings. The inevitable depression in residential building as a whole which followed the entrance of the United States into the war, has given place to a steep rise which lends a distinctly more favorable aspect to the general trend. The content of the increased value of this building, however, has been largely altered. With the sudden multiplication of factories, entailing the necessity of a vast number of workers in the vicinity of the plants, came the necessity for greatly expanded housing accommodations. These housing facilities have very naturally taken form in a great number of small structures suitable for workmen. Any decrease in the figures for residential construction from now on may not indicate any lessening of total activity along this line. Government action in starting building of the type necessary in these congested factory districts, will doubtless lessen the degree of similar private enterprise. Thus while housing projects will probably continue for some time at an ever increasing rate, yet they will be largely government controlled, and will be included in the figure for government work.

The condition of the nation's crops may have both a direct and an indirect effect upon business, and upon the building trade in particular. The decidedly favorable outlook for this year's crops will not fail to have a beneficial influence on the activity of the trade. Over-production, especially when considered in the light of transportation difficulties, will imply increased storage accommodations and elevators. Farmers who do not themselves realize the importance of providing adequate granary space for the crops, will be obliged to do so. In instances where delay might result from lack of funds on hand, the Food Administration will extend financial aid. It is believed that a large proportion of the crops will remain on the farms for some time before they are able to be moved, and this will entail considerable building of the storage type. In the agricultural sections the prosperity resulting from the increased value of the crops will enable improvements to be made on farm property and building associated with more efficient production. Indirectly throughout the country, many industrial plants will receive benefit through the better feeling in general business. Thus both from the quantitative standpoint and the financial point of view, the crop reports are of decided interest and may be interpreted as a distinctly favorable factor.

It is estimated that the corn crop of the present year will even exceed that of the year before, which was itself an unusually favorable year. The estimated yield for 1918 amounts to 3,160,000,000 bushels with a probable value of $4,819,000,000. Spring and winter wheat together are estimated to yield a production of 891,000,000 bushels with a total value of $1,782,000,000. This represents an improvement over 1917, where the yield amounted to 650,000,000 bushels with an actual value of $1,207,000,000.

As far as may be at present ascertained, reports would indicate that the total value of this year's corn, wheat, oats and cotton crop will have a value of approximately $9,800,000,000 as compared with $7,900,000,000 for 1917 and about $3,600,000,000 as the average for normal years before the war.

The gradual withdrawing of our national labor resources into various channels of military service together with the urgent requirements for production greater even than in normal times, is an anomaly which is becoming more and more evident as time goes on. It is true that the first few months of this movement of labor away from industry did not apparently have a widespread or extensively detrimental effect. This, however, was only because the normal unemployment figures were able to be reduced almost in direct ratio with the number of those who were leaving. For some time it has been recognized, and in many cases it has been painfully forced upon the knowledge of employers through inability to secure the amount of labor needed, that the shortage was reaching serious proportions. More and more importance therefore is being accorded steps in every direction which tend toward the conservation of labor.

Already an improvement in the situation has been effected through the pressure brought to bear by the Government toward utilizing all the country's available working strength, which was remaining idle for any reason. Men whose income was sufficient for their support without working, men who had been perhaps working spasmodically in periods just long enough to maintain the standard of living required, or those dependent on others—all these classes have been affected by the recent ruling. Less direct in operation, but of substantial results is the method used in transferring labor from non-essential industries to those concerns which may be considered as necessary to the nation's welfare. This plan, which originated in Connecticut, is first to be put into practice in the same state. A conference was recently held in Waterbury by the manufacturers to learn the Federal Service policy and also to ascertain the needs for skilled labor. It was decided that a committee composed of two "non-essential" manufacturers together with one "essential" manufacturer should be appointed to work with the Federal Service in the work of withdrawal. The conference further took measures against labor turnover by requesting each employer to turn in to the office the name and address of every employee leaving with a statement of the reasons therefor. It is said that during the short time that this plan has been in action a considerable improvement in rate of labor turnover has been recognized.

With the continually increased strain upon industry as a whole brought by the ever expanding limits of the war program there has appeared the necessity for still further provisions against a more serious labor shortage. Where this shortage is unavoidable an effort is made to reduce the difficulties resulting from enforced cutting down of labor. One such remedial measure is being employed which may counteract to a certain degree the present car shortage due to insufficient labor in the equipment industry as well as lack of necessary materials. The development which may be expected in the use of motor trucks for aid in relieving this condition is based on actual experience of satisfactory performance. Trucks with trailers of 15-ton capacity are already in constant use on a 70-mile run between two large cities in the Middle West. They have been reported as having obviated many of the difficulties heretofore encountered in transportation facilities. Arrangements are already in process of preparation for the more extensive use of these truck routes. There is little doubt but that the plan will be carried out before long on a larger scale so as to constitute a rather potent factor in the solving of this important question.

Similarly renewed attention is being given to the various labor and coal saving mechanisms and other devices already in existence, but brought into the foreground by the recent development of fuel and labor problems. Within the mill, conveyors for different materials such as cement, brick, etc., where the handling otherwise constitutes a heavy item; ef-

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

DIRECTLY in line with the centralization in organization of several of the other building material concerns have come certain developments in the brick industry. Under the auspices of the War Industries Board a plan for mobilizing the resources of the trade will be carried through. Although the details of the program are as yet not specifically known, it is suggested that they may include some system of dividing the control and responsibility. Men acting in the capacity of directors will be chosen only by reason of familiarity with the problems of the industry, and capabilities of broadminded and fair judgment both in the interests of the country and of the trade. It is expected that co-ordination with the authorities in the questions of coal, transportation and raw materials will give favorable consideration to all brick manufacturers will give assurance of their product going to supply government needs, or to moderate or essential civilian uses. Co-ordination along such lines in the brick industry is regarded favorably by other trade as well. The lumber industry has put itself on record as welcoming the new competition resulting from this new move, as "intelligent" and therefore satisfactory. Moreover, such co-operation among the different branches of the brick industry, will building the foundations of an organization that may continue and be of considerable benefit even after the war.

Better satisfaction exists in the lumber trade since it has become known that the lumber prices fixed by the Government will have application only to the shipments made during the remainder of that quarter. This ruling will have a generally beneficial effect. It will make it impossible to submerge mills with orders at the current prices that cannot be shipped until the next period. Moreover, uncertainty as to the price will tend to make customers more careful about placing orders. If it seems likely that a certain mill in question will in all probability, place their contracts where delivery at current prices will be assured. Thus an equalizing movement in allotment of orders among the mills will be initiated, which will have a distinctly favorable influence upon the industry as a whole.

SUMMARY—Transactions in the North River brick market for week ending Friday, July 26, 1918. Condition of market: Demand fair; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $12.50 to $13 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 14; sales, 14. Distribution: Manhattan, 4; Brooklyn, 6; New Jersey points, 1; outside points, 2.

Structural Steel. Production of all kinds of finished steel is reported to be practically normal, and deliveries are being made in a more satisfactory manner than has been possible for a long time. Output of shapes and plates has been particularly large during the past few months, and it is expected that some relief will be afforded ordinary consumers, since the new priority rulings will allow fairly free distribution. Important contracts recently reported outside direct government requirements include 10,000 tons for the new Chicago plant of the Baldwin Locomotive Works, 350 tons for the General Chemical Co. at Baltimore, 500 tons for the Staten Island Rapid Transit Railway. Demand continues on a large scale, and orders are being booked in advance of production. Official prices for beams and channels up to 15 inches are quoted for the third quarter at 3c. at mill, Pittsburgh.

Wire Product. Altho present output of wire products mills does not amount to more than two-thirds of normal, yet Government requirements are not absorbing the entire production. The surplus is being distributed to those customers who are provided with priority certificates. Demands continue heavy, and the main difficulty lies in procuring raw materials and in determining the apportionment of the limited supply. Prices are quoted $3.50 base per keg for wire nails; bright basic wire, $3.35 per 100 lb.

Lumber. There has been comparatively slight activity in the Southern Pine market of late, resulting in part from doubt as to the precise method of application of the maximum government prices. Although the manufacturers state that they do not object to the $28 base, yet item prices are not yet satisfactorily arranged and it is probable that a hearing will be held before long to reconsider the matter. In the interim, however, shipments are below a production which is subnormal, being slowed up by lack of necessary labor.

MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

The hardwood market on the other hand, continues active. Demands for government use remain heavy and steady, and prices are showing a somewhat upward tendency. Beyond government requirements the greatest demand comes from manufacturers of farm equipment, an industry which finds even further stimulation in the idea possibly of exportation after the war. The supply at present is large enough to meet all demands made upon it, but the expansion of the airplane program will mean an ever increasing need for these hardwood products. Shipments are being made with no great difficulty and it is expected that with the increased demand in the West where there is less congestion, that they will become even more satisfactory. Total demand for spruce continues fully equal to present output and plans to increase production to 30,000,000 ft. a month especially in the Western Region are soon to show results. For the present, prices in the market remain firm.

Linseed Oil. The recent government embargo on the importation of flaxseed has played havoc with the linseed oil market. The supply of oil now on hand is reported to be wholly insufficient to meet the demands made upon it, until the new crop comes into the market. Moreover, this year's crop estimate, while put at a figure doubling that of last year's actual yield, is slightly below the corresponding estimate, and unfavorable conditions since the report give a slightly less favorable aspect. Under prevailing conditions producers are holding back and appear unwilling to fill any except small orders. Some producers have been obliged to close down their plants. At the same time demand for consumers is limited to small supplies which they consider absolutely essential. The condition of the market is one without precedent in the trade. Prices, where they have been quoted, show a rise of 20c. in two weeks, and at the latest report were given as $1.82 to $1.83.

Portland Cement. One of the most interesting contracts which has lately been reported pertains to the reconstruction work in Halifax in which Canada, England and the United States are each to have a part. One thousand concrete houses are to be built immediately, orders having been already placed for thirty thousand barrels of cement. It is intimated that the successful carrying out of these plans may have an influence in the forming of housing projects here in the United States. Demand for Portland Cement remains heavy. At the same time production is becoming more and more limited, and the supply on hand is greatly below normal. Additionally the possibility of large government demands at any time must be considered. In some cases the mills are reported to be entirely sold up. The price for domestic cement is quoted at $2.60.

Common brick. While production of common brick is curtailed by government restriction of fuel, and in some cases plants have closed down, in some sections demand is becoming heavier. Housing requirements, school houses, additions to factories, silos and construction of manufacturing plants are all bringing increased need of brick. One of the largest deals reported is concerning the Greater New York Brick Co., New York, half of whose total product this year is contemplated for use by the government. Increased demand in some regions is leading to the use of wood, oil, gas and peat to make up in part for lack of coal, and even to the building of new brick plants in these locations. Prices for Hudson River brick are quoted at $12.50.

The Raritan situation remains unchanged and no quotations are being made at the present time.

Window Glass.—Manufacturers and jobbers both report business extremely quiet and with but a slight possibility of improvement for some months to come. The production of window glass for 1918-1919 is likely to be further restricted and with a continuation of the war might be forced to close down entirely, except at isolated plants, where the labor and transportation difficulties are not so acute. The glass industry are waiting for an announcement from the Priority Board, outlining the policy for the coming year, so that it can make its plans accordingly. There is every indication that existing high glass prices will continue owing to the scarcity of the commodity in the hands of the jobbers and the lack of reserve at the plants.

ficient mechanical methods of handling coal, both in the removal from the car, loading into the teams, and unloading; mechanical and gravity methods of stoking boilers in manufacturing plants, and facilities for elevating and removing ashes—all these labor substitutes and many others are being constantly put on a working basis. As the scarcity of labor assumes more and more difficult proportions, mechanical aids will be sought by an increasing number of manufacturers. Both the producer and the manufacturer will not fail to profit by the use of all such appliances to conserve and more easily handle coal and other essential commodities. Both should benefit in having this added resource in keeping the plants open and running to satisfactory capacity. Especially will the possibility of quick transportation and more economical use of coal be appreciated, since it is the fundamental of almost every industry.

The introduction of women into industry in different capacities has been much discussed of late and has been regarded with all possible varying degrees of satisfaction and the reverse. That in the eventual continuance of the war, women will necessarily take a more definite stand in the industrial world is indisputable. One has only to look at the part that is being taken by the women in France and England to realize their capabilities. Moreover, much as one may deplore certain aspects of the movement, yet one must at the same time recognize that it was absolutely necessary. The same degree of necessity has not been reached here as yet. But enough pressure has been exerted both through actual labor shortage already experienced, increased living costs which compel more women to work, and certain patriotic impulses, so that much of this type of labor is being employed.

Women are already working in many kinds of clerical and office work. But beyond this they are doing manual work of the most strenuous kinds. They are employed in munition factories, in lumber works as operators of machines or carriers of slabs; in steel works; in automobile factories; on street cars and as drivers of factory trucks used for the transporting of materials. Up to the present time, the employing of women has been more or less a question of private policy. Recently, however, the Government has expressed its attitude on the question. The statement of the War Labor Policies Board recognizes the necessity of the situation and limits itself chiefly to various provisions for the safety of the workers. In the same statement is suggested the possibility of utilizing men who under normal conditions would be regarded as too old to be considered. It is emphasized that their experience and skill will make up in part for their possible slowness or inefficiency on account of their age.

All such possibilities of reducing labor shortage are, of course, of a somewhat general nature. They have to do with the state of the industrial world as a whole. At the same time it is evident that anything which affects industry as a whole or in any part, has a certain effect on the building trades. Encouraging features in the control of the labor situation in general mean that particular industries may profit even if not directly affected. Not only may it have an effect in making necessary commodities available, but there will be to that extent fewer demands on the building trades for their labor, less risk of losing indispensable workers.

The other side of the question still remains. After all available labor and supplementary mechanical devices have been secured there still obtains the problem of labor turnover. The question of suitable housing is one which has been much agitated and which is now in the process of being remedied. Private concerns are carrying on plans for housing. The advance in the residential building as shown by the chart in this issue is possibly quite largely of this character. Government projects will be soon under way. But more houses, however necessary in dealing with this problem, do not tell the whole story. After the workers are housed one temptation to move is done away with. At the same time such building will not have the most steadying influence possible unless the housing scheme contains certain other important features. Large wages, schemes for bonuses, insurance provisions, all this will doubtless do much toward making the worker contented. Yet until there exists a certain socializing atmosphere of community life, there will be an element lacking. Good schools both for the children of the worker and evening classes for the elder ones as well, churches whose influence extends outside the church itself, different opportunities for simple entertainments and amusement, all help to make the worker feel that this is his home, from which he will not easily be taken away to any uncertainty.

It is encouraging to note that while the total number of strikes recorded in the past two weeks remains on a scale nearly as large as for the past few months, yet strikes in the building trade have been greatly reduced in number. While the strikes in the trade totaled 22 for June, the strikes reported for the first two weeks of July amounted to only 4. They may be enumerated as follows: Holyoke, Mass., and Salt Lake City, Utah, carpenters; Lewiston, Maine, plumbers; Montana, plumbers and electricians.

G. E. Schultz, formerly with the industrial department of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., has become manager of Russell, Holbrook & Henderson, Inc., 30 Church St., New York.

Board of Appeals to Decide.

Among the building zone applications to be considered by the Board of Appeals next Tuesday, July 30, is one from Herbert Krapp, architect, for permission to erect a theater building and stores on the block bounded by Broadway, Fort Washington avenue and 160th street, located partly in a business and partly in a residence district. This block was taken under lease recently by Edward Margolies and Max J. Kraemer, for a term of twenty-one years with renewals. Mr. Margolies in the past has represented J. J. & Lee Shubert in all of their real estate transactions, and it was reported recently that the above mentioned lease has been taken in the interest of the Shuberts, for their first Heights playhouse. According to Mr. Margolies, however, the proposed project is the personal venture of the lessees. Plans for the improvement were filed early in June, but the Building Department rejected them and now the Board of Appeals must render the final decision. If the application to build over the entire site is denied, it is planned by the lessees to erect the theater over the unrestricted portion of the plot.

GOVERNMENT WORK.

Advance information relative to operations for Federal Authorities.

Meeting the Test

Edison Service has always meant conservation. Today, more than ever before, our Waterside Stations are the one means of producing current on a conservation basis

The demand for such electric service grows daily more pressing. Fuel and labor uncertainties grow daily more serious. Only a great organization with resources such as ours can meet the test

Property managements and industries of all types are recognizing this fact in increasing numbers. Let us insure you at once in this vital matter

The Value of a Name

Every business man seeks to establish his product, his trade-mark or the quality of his services, and uses publicity to create a demand for them, recognizing the demand thus created as a valuable and very definite asset of his business.

He also understands that after this demand is created, competition obliges him to constantly defend this asset and perpetuate this demand aside from his desire to increase it.

In some lines the name or trade-mark thus established is regarded as equivalent in value to the total capital investment and good will of the business.

In these times, manufacturers are apt to overlook the necessity of constantly maintaining this value, on account of their inability to keep up normal conditions, and their failure to consider the high rate of depreciation that occurs due to the forgetfulness of the public in all matters that are not vital to their own interests.

The following emphasizes the same point in another way:

"One of the best things that has come to my attention recently was the statement that Henry Ford, a rather well-known and comfortably-fixed citizen of Detroit—now that he is embarking in the Tractor business—finds himself legally restrained from calling it the 'Ford Tractor' because a small municipal concern was smart enough to copyright that name."

The Record and Guide

NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL will hold its annual meeting at the Hotel Statler, St. Louis, Mo., October 14 to 18. Safety exhibits will as usual be a feature of this meeting.

MONDAY AND TUESDAY, Sept. 16 and 17, have been set aside as "Hardware Dealers' Days" at the National Exposition of Trucks, Tractors and Accessories, to be held at the Municipal Pier, Chicago, Sept. 14-21.

Noted Architect Dead.

Mr. Albert F. D'Oench, sixty-five years old, one of the best known architects in the country, died Saturday night at his country estate at Manhasset, L. I., after a long illness. He was as widely known socially as professionally. Mr. D'Oench married Mrs. Alice Grace Holloway, a daughter of the late Mayor William R. Grace. He designed a number of the large office buildings in Manhattan, including the old Germania Life Insurance Building. Mr. D'Oench was educated in the Polytechnic School in Brooklyn and abroad. In 1876 he began the practice of his profession in New York, which he continued without interruption until his retirement two years ago. His town residence was at 35 East 72d street. He was Building Commissioner under Mayor Grace. Besides his wife, Mr. D'Oench leaves one son, Russell Gilchrist D'Oench. Mr. William Grace Holloway, who married Miss Hilda Holmes last Thursday at the Crossroads, the residence of W. Russell Grace, is a stepson of Mr. D'Oench.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
 ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section four and section eleven of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon, at the next general election to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
 Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE CONTRACTING OF DEBTS BY THE STATE.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That sections four and eleven of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debts shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein [; and such] No such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive, nor for more than fifty years from the time of the contracting of such debt. A debt hereafter contracted by the state, pursuant to an authorization hereafter made, and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted, may, if provided by the law authorizing such debt, be paid in equal annual instalments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years, after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted. Such law shall if it authorize the contracting of a debt payable otherwise than in equal annual instalments impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No [such] law authorizing the contracting of a debt pursuant to this section shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election. On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass, and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" The legislature may at any time, after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law; but the tax, if any, imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrevocable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provision hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability. The money arising from any loan or stock creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on, within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years in lieu of bonds heretofore authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund and the legislature shall reduce the tax to an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof, which has been, or shall be created or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increase the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall, if such debt be payable otherwise than in equal annual instalments, impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually to the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest, and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable.

§ 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may, if such debt be payable otherwise than in annual instalments, set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and to no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be sufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof. The legislature shall annually as the same shall fall due provide by direct tax, appropriation or both for the payment of the interest upon and instalments of principal of all debts created on behalf of the state, payable in annual instalments, pursuant to section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof.

2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen, in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
 ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following amendment to section seven of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon, at the next general election to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
 Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE FOREST PRESERVE.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven or article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the state from constructing a state highway from Saranac Lake in Franklin county to Long Lake in Hamilton county and thence to Old Forge in Herkimer county by way of Blue Mountain lake and Raquette lake.

But the legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed in terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term. Unsanitary conditions shall not be created or continued by any such public works. A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or, with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

STATE OF NEW YORK, IN SENATE

FORM FOR SUBMISSION OF AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO.

"Shall section seven of Article seven of the Constitution relative to the Forest Preserve be amended so as to permit the construction of a State highway from Saranac Lake to Long Lake and thence to Old Forge by way of Blue Mountain Lake and Raquette Lake," be approved?

THREE

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE, ss.:

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section eight of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon, at the next general election to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,

Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION EIGHT OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO A CERTAIN PORTION OF THE ERIE CANAL.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section eight of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 8. The legislature shall not sell, lease or otherwise dispose of the Erie canal, the Oswego canal, the Champlain canal, the Cayuga and Seneca canal, or the Black River canal; but they shall remain the property of the state and under its management forever. The prohibition of lease, sale or other disposition herein contained, shall not apply to the canal known as the Main and Hamburg street canal, situated in the city of Buffalo, and which extends easterly from the westerly line of Main street to the westerly line of Hamburg street, nor to that portion of the existing Erie canal in the city of Utica between the westerly line of Schuyler street and the easterly line of Third street, provided that a flow of sufficient water from Schuyler street to Third street to feed that portion of the canal east of Third street be maintained. All funds that may be derived from any lease, sale or other disposition of any canal shall be applied to the improvement, superintendence or repair of the remaining portion of the canals.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen, in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,

Secretary of State.

FORM FOR SUBMISSION OF AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE

"Shall section eight of Article seven of the Constitution prohibiting the sale and leasing or the canals be amended so as to authorize the sale or lease of that portion of the Erie Canal in the city of Utica between Schuyler and Third streets reserving sufficient water flow for the canal east of Third street," be approved?

FOUR

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section seven of article one of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,

Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, GENERALLY.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Compensation for taking private property; private roads; drainage of agricultural lands.

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, or by a referee, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof, shall be determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. General laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions and with just compensation, but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

The legislature may also authorize cities, for the establishment of a uniform system of streets, to take real property within an abandoned street or highway and to sell and lease it.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

IN ASSEMBLY

April 2, 1917

This resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the members elected to the Assembly voting in favor thereof, three-fifths being present.

By order of the Assembly,

THADDEUS C. SWEET,

Speaker.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

IN SENATE

May 3, 1917

This resolution was duly passed, a majority of all the Senators elected voting in favor thereof, three-fifths being present.

By order of the Senate,

EDWARD SCHOENECK,

President.

FIVE

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section seven of article one of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,

Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIVE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE DRAINAGE OF SWAMP OR AGRICULTURAL LANDS AND THE TAKING OF PROPERTY THEREFOR.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. [General] The use of property for the drainage of swamp or agricultural lands is declared to be a public use, and general laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of swamp or agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions on making [and with] just compensation, and such compensation together with the cost of such drainage may be assessed, wholly or partly, against any property benefited thereby; but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

THIRTEEN

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section one of article twelve and sections twenty-six and twenty-seven of article three of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,

Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THIRTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE TWELVE AND SECTIONS TWENTY-SIX AND TWENTY-SEVEN OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION TO

ENABLE THE LEGISLATURE TO GIVE GREATER

CONTROL OVER LOCAL AFFAIRS TO CITIES AND COUNTIES.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section one of article twelve of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages and to restrict their power of taxation, assessments, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and in contracting debt by such municipal corporations. [; and] The legislature may by general laws confer upon cities such powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may from time to time deem expedient. [the] The legislature may regulate and fix the wages or salaries, the hours of work or labor, and make provision for the protection, welfare and safety of persons employed by the state or by any county, city, town, village or other civil division of the state, or by any contractor or subcontractor performing work, labor or services for the state, or for any county, city, town, village or other civil division thereof. City bills shall apply equally to all the cities of a class as defined in section two of article twelve and no special city bill affecting less than all the cities of a class shall be passed except to secure the public safety or in a case where it affects territory without the corporate limits of the city.

§ 26. There shall be in each county, except in a county wholly included in a city, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such manner and for such period as is or may be provided by law. But the legislature may provide by law for another form of government for any county subject to the approval of the electors of such county at a general election in an odd-numbered year. Such law may also provide for the transfer to the county of functions now exercised by towns. In a city which includes an entire county, or two or more entire counties, the powers and duties of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the municipal assembly, common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of the city.

§ 27. The legislature shall, by general laws, confer upon the boards of supervisors, or other governing elective bodies, of the several counties of the state such further powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient, [; and] in counties which now have, or may hereafter have, county auditors or other fiscal officers, authorized to audit bills, accounts, charges, claims or demands against the county, the legislature may confer such powers upon [said] such auditors, or fiscal officers, as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendments be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section nine of article five of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 9. Appointments and promotions in the civil service of the state, and of all the civil divisions thereof, including cities and villages, shall be made according to merit and fitness to be ascertained, so far as practicable, by examinations, which, so far as practicable, shall be competitive; provided, however, that honorably discharged soldiers, [and] sailors [from] and marines who have served as such in the army, [and] navy or marine corps of the United States in the [late civil] time of war, and who are citizens and residents of this state, shall be entitled to preference in appointment and promotion over all others, without regard to their standing on any list from which such appointment or promotion may be made, in the following order:

1. All honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines who served as such in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States during the civil war.

2. All honorably discharged soldiers, sailors or marines who served as such in the army, navy or marine corps of the United States during the war with Spain or the insurrection in the Philippine islands prior to July fourth, nineteen hundred and two, who were residents of this state at the time of enlistment.

Laws shall be made to provide for the enforcement of this section.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIFTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO COMPENSATION OF JUDGES OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven of article six of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The court of appeals is continued. It shall consist of the chief judge and associate judges now in office, who shall hold their offices until the expiration of their respective terms, and their successors, who shall be chosen by the electors of the state. The official terms of the chief judge and associate judges shall be fourteen years from and including the first day of January next after their election. Five members of the court shall form a quorum, and the concurrence of four shall be necessary to a decision. The court shall have power to appoint and to remove its reporter, clerk and attendants. Whenever and as often as a majority of the judges of the court of appeals shall certify to the governor that said court is unable, by reason of the accumulation of causes pending therein, to hear and dispose of the same with reasonable speed, the governor shall designate not more than four justices of the supreme court to serve as associate judges of the court of appeals. The justices so designated shall be relieved from their duties as justices of the supreme court and shall serve as associate judges of the court of appeals until the causes undisposed of in said court are reduced to two hundred, when they shall return to the supreme court. The governor may designate justices of the supreme court to fill vacancies. No justice shall serve as associate judge of the court of appeals except while holding the office of justice of the supreme court, and no more than seven judges shall sit in any case. The judges of the court of appeals, including those now in office, shall receive for their services a compensation established by law which shall not be diminished during their official terms and shall not be less than the highest compensation allowed by law to any other judicial officer in the state. A justice of the supreme court while serving as associate judge of the court of appeals shall receive the same compensation as judges of the court of appeals.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur),

AMENDMENT NUMBER SEVENTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE USE OF LANDS AND TIMBER IN THE FOREST PRESERVE FOR FUEL FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES AND FOR ROADS AND TRAILS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Forest preserve. § 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. But the legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed for terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term. Unsanitary conditions shall not be created or continued by any such public works. The foregoing provisions of this section shall not prevent the legislature from authorizing the cutting and removal of dead and fallen timber on lands in the forest preserve for fuel or other domestic purposes; or authorizing the cutting and use by the state of timber on such lands for the construction of roads and trails necessary for protection against fire, and for ingress and egress. A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or, with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

STATE OF NEW YORK, OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to sections two, four, five, eleven and twelve of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER EIGHTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING TO AMEND SECTIONS TWO, FOUR, FIVE, ELEVEN AND TWELVE OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO DEBTS CONTRACTED BY THE STATE.

§ 2. The state may, to meet casual deficits or failures in revenues, or for expenses not provided for, contract debts; but such debts, direct or contingent, singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed one million of dollars; and the moneys arising from the loans creating such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which they were obtained, or to repay the debt so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever. Contract debts in anticipation of the receipt of taxes and revenues, direct or indirect, for the purposes and within the amounts of appropriations theretofore made; bonds or other obligations for the moneys so borrowed shall be issued as may be provided by law, and shall with the interest thereon be paid from such taxes and revenues within one year from the date of issue.

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debt[s] shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein, [; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election.] On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" No such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election nor shall it be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage nor at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may, at any time after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law. [but the tax imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrepealable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provision hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability.]

Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, all debts contracted by the state after January first, nineteen hundred and twenty, pursuant to an authorization theretofore heretofore or hereafter made and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted irrespective of the terms of such authorization, shall be paid in equal annual installments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years, after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted. No such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted, to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive.

The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof which has been or shall be created or issued before such alteration.

The money arising from any loan [or stock] creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years in lieu of bonds heretofore authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund, and the legislature shall reduce the tax to an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof, which has been, or shall be created or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increase the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable.]

§ 5. The sinking funds provided for the payment of interest and the extinguishment of the principal of the debts of the state heretofore contracted shall be continued; they shall be separately kept and safely invested and neither of them shall be appropriated or used in any manner other than for [the specific purpose for which it shall have been provided] such payment and extinguishment as herein-after provided. The comptroller shall each year appraise the securities held for investment in each of such funds at their fair market value not exceeding par. He shall then determine and certify to the legislature the amount of each of such funds and the amounts which, if there-after annually contributed to each such fund, would, with the fund and with the accumulations thereon and upon the contributions thereto, computed at the rate of three per centum per annum, produce at the date of maturity the amount of the debt to retire which such fund was created, and the legislature shall thereupon appropriate as the contribution to each such fund for such year at least the amount thus certified.

If the income of any such fund in any year is more than a sum which, if annually added to such fund would, with the fund and its accumulations as aforesaid, retire the debt at maturity, the excess income may be applied to the interest on the debt for which the fund was created.

After any sinking fund shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created no further contribution shall be made thereto except to make good any losses ascertained at the annual appraisals above mentioned, and the income thereof shall be applied to the payment of the interest on such debt. Any excess in such income not required for the payment of interest may be applied to the general fund of the state.

The legislature may also by general laws provide means and authority whereby outstanding bonds of the state, for which sinking funds are provided, may be exchanged at par for cancellation, for serial bonds of the form authorized under section four of this article, upon such terms and conditions as to interest and otherwise as it may in its discretion authorize or determine, except that the debt as thus refunded shall finally mature no later and at no greater comparative cost to the state than the original debt; the determination of the legislature as to such comparative cost shall be conclusive. No further contributions to the respective sinking funds shall be made on account of bonds so exchanged and the proportion of any such sinking fund which the amount of the bonds so exchanged shall bear to the amount of bonds outstanding of the same issue may be appropriated, as required, for the payment of the substituted serial bonds.

§ 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and to no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be sufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof.] The legislature shall annually provide by appropriation for the payment of the interest upon and installments of principal of all debts created on behalf of the state except those contracted under section two of this article, as the same shall fall due, and for the contribution to all of the sinking funds heretofore created by law, of the amounts annually to be contributed under the provisions of section five of this article. If at any time the legislature shall fail to make any such appropriation, the comptroller shall set apart from the first revenues thereafter received, applicable to the general fund of the state, a sum sufficient to pay such interest, installments of principal, or contributions to such sinking fund, as the case may be, and shall so apply the moneys thus set apart. The comptroller may be required to set aside and apply such revenues as aforesaid, at the suit of any holder of such bonds.

§ 12. Debts hereafter authorized for the improvement of highways shall be created only in the manner provided in section four of this article. No provision of this article shall be deemed to impair or affect the validity of any debt of the state heretofore contracted or any right or obligation heretofore created between the state and any of its civil divisions.

[A debt or debts of the state may be authorized by law for the improvement of highways. Such highways shall be determined under general laws, which shall also provide for the equitable apportionment thereof among the counties. The aggregate of the debts authorized by this section shall not at any one time exceed the sum of fifty millions of dollars. The payment of the annual interest on such debt and the creation of a sinking fund of at least two per centum per annum to discharge the principal at maturity shall be provided by general laws whose force and effect shall not be diminished during the existence of any debt created thereunder. The legislature may by general laws require the county or town or both to pay to the sinking fund the proportionate part of the cost of any such highway within the boundaries of such county or town and the proportionate part of the interest thereon, but no county shall at any time for any highway be required to pay more than thirty-five hundredths of the cost of such highway, and no town more than fifteen hundredths. None of the provisions of the fourth section of this article shall apply to debts for the improvement of highways hereby authorized.]

New Subway Lines Will Make New York Greater

Opening of the Dual System Marked by Predictions of Increased Development of the City

WITH the opening of express service on the east and west lines of the "H" subway the Dual Rapid Transit System may be said to be practically completed, although some of the outlying sections are not quite ready for operation and the tunnels under the East River are not finished. But whatever is left to be accomplished will be ready and added to the main system before the end of the year, and there will not be any further ceremony when these units in the general scheme of rapid transit for the whole city are ready.

The lines of the system now completely operated by the beginning of express service this week are:

The new Seventh avenue subway, comprising the section of the original subway north of Times Square and the new extension to the south, forming one side of a huge "H" to which may be likened the Interborough's part of the new dual system now in operation. The old express and local tracks of the old subway between the Grand Central Station and Times Square form the crossbar of the "H" and the new Lexington avenue tube comprises the opposite side of the letter.

The Lexington avenue line is a composite of that part of the original subway south of Forty-second street and a new tube which follows Lexington avenue to and under the Harlem River, on the Bronx side of which it branches into two three-track lines, one running eastward under Southern Boulevard and emerging as an elevated road at Whitlock avenue, where it crosses the Bronx River on a bridge and continues over Westchester avenue to Pelham Bay Park. The second fork runs under Mott and River avenues to 157th street, where it comes out of the ground, and, as an elevated road, continues up Jerome avenue to Woodlawn. From this branch a connection is made at 148th street with the old subway, so that some of the West Farms trains may be diverted from the old route across Harlem to Ninety-sixth street and Broadway, and be sent more directly to the lower east side of Manhattan by the new Lexington avenue line.

The Jerome avenue branch of the new line is already connected with the Ninth Avenue elevated line and a connection is under construction between the Third avenue elevated line and the White Plains Road extension of the old subway, now one of the northern ends of the Seventh avenue subway. The Jerome avenue line is in operation to its end and the White Plains Road extension to within one station of its terminus, but the eastern end of the Pelham Bay Park line has been held back by lack of structural steel and cannot be opened for perhaps a year or more.

New York has now the most extensive and most elaborately equipped subway in the world and one which has the greatest capacity. There are actually about 150 miles of roadway in the whole system, with something like 620 miles of trackage. The cost of the entire system, including the old subway and elevated lines is approximately $600,000,00 of which about $160,000,000 remains to be expended.

As the backbone of the system are the two 4-track lines on the east and west sides of Manhattan, formed partly by the old subway and partly by the new lines. Then there is the new 4-track Broadway line to 57th street, which forms the loop of the lines running into Brooklyn. These three 4-track roads, with the McAdoo and Queensboro tubes, come closest together at 42nd street, at Broadway and Lexington avenues. The 4-track roads branch off in almost every direction so that any part of the city can easily be reached. There is only one fare of five cents with transfers at every point, except that the Broadway line does not transfer to the east and west side lines.

Many points which will become important places of transfer have not been designated, nor can they be until operation of the new system discloses the need for them.

Existing transfer points are maintained as they have been operated, this, of course, including the Brooklyn as well as the Manhattan stations of the old lines and the new transfer stations of the B. R. T. Broadway line at Fourteenth street and Canal street.

In addition to Times Square and the old junctions of the original subway, the chief transfer station on the Seventh avenue is at Park Place, where trains will branch off for Brooklyn. There is a connection at the Pennsylvania Station, by a passageway running under the avenue, with the new Pennsylvania Hotel, and there already is another at Cortlandt street with the Hudson Terminal Building, so that it is possible to change from the subway to the McAdoo tubes without mounting to the street.

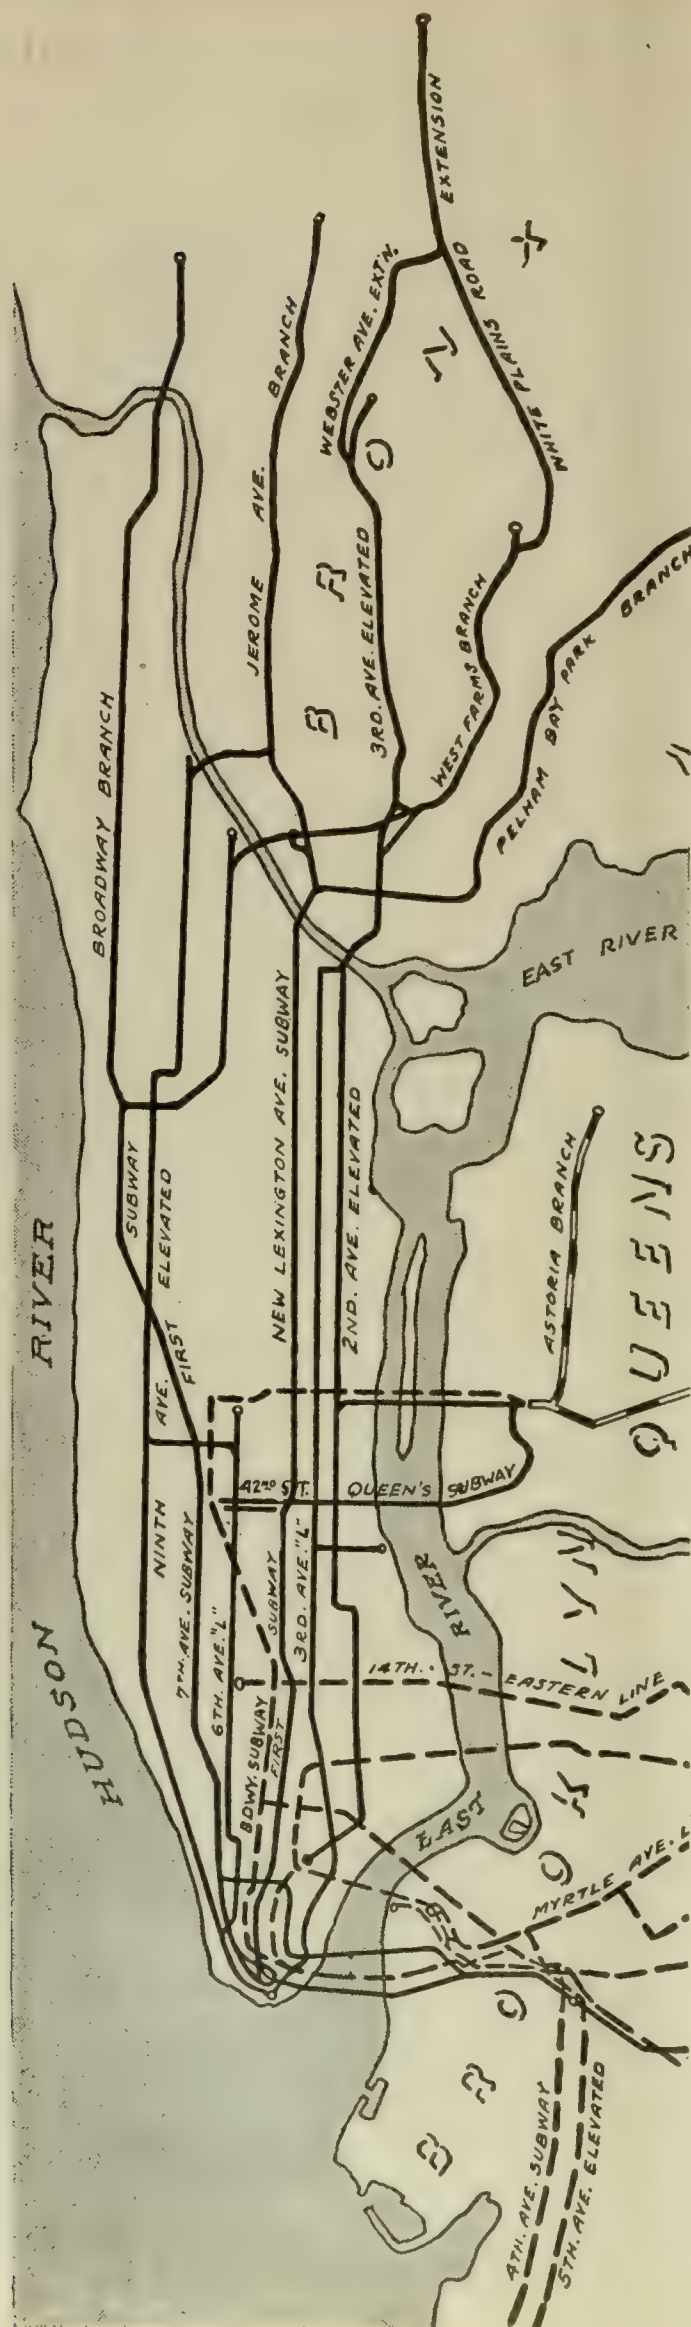

The most important transfer point on the new part of the Lexington avenue subway is at 125th street, which might be called the "Ninety-sixth street of the East Side Line." There change may be made from or to Jerome avenue, White Plains Road, or Pelham Bay Park trains. The actual division of the tracks occurs on the north side of the Harlem River at about 138th street, but the 125th street Station has been so designed that the trains will be sorted there and passengers transferred from one to the other.

Ground was broken for the old subway at City Hall on March 24, 1900, by Mayor Robert A. Van Wyck. Previous to this the voters of the city, at a general election on Nov. 6, 1894, had declared for municipal construction by a vote of 132,647 to 42,916. Bids were prepared by the new Rapid Transit Commission, which had been created by the Legislature in 1894 to take the place of the former board, and which was headed by Alexander E. Orr, President of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

Selection of a route was begun at once, but, after much litigation over the rights of property owners, the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court refused to sanction the route, and it was not until 1897 that the route, as later followed, met the approval of the court.

Many legal and financial difficulties were encountered, but bids were advertised for, opened on Jan. 15, 1900, and the contract awarded to John B. McDonald, whose bid of $35,000,000 was $4,300,000 below that of Andrew Onderdonk, their bids being the only two received in the form prescribed by the board.

August Belmont became the financial backer of McDonald, and organized the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, which, under McDonald's direction, completed the original interborough subway on Oct. 27, 1904. Meantime Mr. Belmont and his associates had organized the Interborough Rapid Transit Company in 1902 to operate the line, and on Jan. 1, 1903, the new corporation had leased for 999 years the Manhattan Elevated Railway, giving it control of practically all the rapid transit lines in Manhattan and the Bronx. The combination was regarded with apprehension by the Metropolitan Street Railway system, which embraced practically all the surface lines in Manhattan and the Bronx, and by proposing to build a rival subway Thomas F. Ryan, then in control of the Metropolitan Company, compelled the Interborough to merge interests with him, under the title of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company.

The Rapid Transit Commission was succeeded in 1907 by the Public Service Commission, under which the dual system, now put in operation, was planned, and after a long period of discussion and negotiation the Commission came to terms with the Interborough and the B. R. T. Contracts for the construction, equipment and operation of the Dual System were signed March 20, 1913.

Of the total estimated expenditure of $366,000,000 the City of New York was to supply $200,000,000, for construction purposes only, the Interborough $58,000,000 and the N. Y. Municipal Railways Company $14,000,000. It was estimated that the Interborough would expend $25,000,000 in equipment of privately owned "L" lines and $22,000,000 for city owned lines, and that the Brooklyn company would expend $21,000,000 for "L" construction and $26,000,000 for equipment.

The actual cost of the dual system to date is shown in the following table:

How New Subway Lines Will Affect Real Estate

Bronx and Queens Will Probably Be First to Benefit, Manhattan and Brooklyn Later

BY LAURENCE McGUIRE,
President Real Estate Board of New York.

THURSDAY last occurred an event which will in future be recognized as important in the history of the City of New York. The Public Service Commission, the City authorities and all who have taken an important part in creating and developing the dual subway system are to be congratulated upon its successful completion.

It is difficult at this time to estimate the benefits which will in time accrue to real estate in the City of New York through the building and operation of the dual system.

The growth of a city necessarily depends largely upon its transportation facilities. As these develop and expand outlying sections are brought in more immediate contact with the business sections and more densely populated sections to the advantage of both.

There must come a readjustment of real estate values, and in this readjustment some sections will be effected favorably while others may be effected adversely. It would seem that certain sections in Manhattan and Brooklyn will temporarily suffer. The cheaper residential neighborhoods in the two boroughs will be brought into competition with low price land in both the Bronx and Queens and also in the outlying portions of Brooklyn. Many two and three-family houses will be built in the outlying sections of Brooklyn, Queens and Bronx and tenants of moderate means will take advantage of better living space than can be secured in either Manhattan or the thickly populated sections of Brooklyn at possibly lower rentals.

It is, however, unlikely that there will be any active building for sometime because of the difficulty in obtaining material and the practically prohibitive cost of both material and labor. The vacant land which under normal conditions would be rapidly improved, will unfortunately have to remain unimproved until conditions in the material and labor market return to normal. Where use cannot be made of land there can be no increase in value and consequently the City will be unable to realize additional revenue from land taxes through increased assessment values. Values, however, which have been temporarily lowered in certain sections, will in good time be restored and the City will enjoy increased revenue by way of land taxes which will be mainly due to the betterment of transportation facilities.

An agreement as to the pooling system between the City and the operating company has been entered into and will become effective January first next, and at that time the City will be a full partner with the operating company.

The estimated cost of the completed subway system and the extension of the elevated lines is $600,000,000. Up to January 1, 1918, the City's commitments were $250,000,000.

Naturally the Borough of Manhattan is called upon to pay a far greater proportion of the cost than the other boroughs. Whether or not Manhattan will benefit in proportion to the amount it is called upon to pay is a question which only time can answer.

With the completion of the dual system the City is brought into a form of municipal operation of transit facilities. In the sharing agreement the City will be greatly interested in the earnings of the new system, which we are unfortunately advised will show a deficit for at least the first two years of operation. This is a phase of the question which must of necessity be reckoned with. In view of the great increase in the cost of operating and because of the fact that under the dual contract the operating companies secure a preferential on the earnings, it would seem timely to evolve some method to make the operation and maintenance of the dual system self-supporting, that is so far as the tax and rent payer is concerned.

The advantages which will come to all users of the improved facilities should be paid for by all of the people who enjoy these advantages. It will be fairer to compel the users of the road who really derive the greater personal benefit to pay a just and fair proportion of the deficit by an increased fare than it would be to charge the deficit in the tax levy and be paid wholly by real estate owners and rent payers. Thousands of daily users of the new lines will be non-residents and there will be millions of transit users. With an increase fare both these classes will be reached. Without it, any deficit which will come through the City being in partnership with the operating company will have to go into the tax levy.

There has been and I take it there will be opposition to an increased fare, but the fact remains that the cost of operating has increased to such a point that it becomes necessary to get a higher price for service and this I take it should apply to transit lines as well as all others. The Government operating railroads throughout the country has increased passenger fare approximately thirty-three and one-third (33 1-3%) per cent. This was necessary because of the increase cost of operating. Proportionately the increase in the cost of operating municipal transit lines has advanced as much as the cost of operating steam and electric railroads under Governmental supervision.

Where Great Development May Be Expected

BY TRAVIS H. WHITNEY
Public Service Commissioner

THE operation of the Seventh avenue line as a part of the "H" will produce tremendous improvements in that part of Manhattan south of Forty-second street and west of Broadway, for it traverses a section which has long been at a standstill from the point of view of real estate development. The construction of the Seventh avenue subway was preceded by the cutting of Seventh avenue through and the widening of Varick street, thus affording a new north and south avenue on the west side of the city of immense value in trucking as soon as the new part of Seventh avenue is properly paved, for which contracts have already been let.

Tremendous development should be expected in the Twenty-third street and Fourteenth street districts and in the territory north of Canal street, where Trinity has great holdings. Nor must we forget Greenwich Village, which must lose its picturesqueness as it gains materially.

The value of the Lexington avenue subway has already been in large part anticipated by the construction points. The war has made demands upon labor and material which were reflected in the lessened supply available for subway work. Much of the work, too, had to be performed under conditions far from ideal.

The ceremonies marking the opening of the new lines began at 8.43 o'clock Thursday night, when George H. Pegraw, Chief Engineer of the Interborough, and Daniel L. Turner, Chief Engineer of the Public Service Commission, drove two silver spikes through the rails of the southbound express track at the diagonal station at Forty-second street and Park avenue, marking the completion of an engineering feat compared by some of those with long memories to the task accomplished when the steam railroads of the country changed to the present standard gauge in a single day.

Following the completion of the south-bound track, a ten-car special train crowded to the doors with guests, left the diagonal station for a trip over the lines.

After the special train had completed its run, the guests left it at Times Square, and headed by the Subway Band marched to the Hotel Astor, where speakers praised the accomplishment of the mighty task to which New York had so long looked forward.

The speakers at the meeting, which was under the auspices of the Public Service Commission, were Mr. Hubbell, ex-Chairmen Oscar S. Straus and William R. Willcox, Mayor John F. Hylan, Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company; George McAneny, former President of the Board of Aldermen, and Alfred E. Marling, of the New York Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Shonts said:

"In ten years there is every reason to believe the city will have increased to a point which will make the traffic congestion of 1928 greater than that of 1918. History will repeat itself. Following every increase of transit facilities in New York have come added population and greater congestion. Improved facilities are one of the causes of the city's added growth. If population stood still we could catch up to its demands. But it does not stand still.

"The dual system will have cost more than the Panama Canal, and it is estimated that when complete it will be able to carry in a year 3,000,000,000 passengers, or about three times as many as were carried in the year ended June 30, 1916, by all the steam railroads in the United States.

"During the life of the existing subway 3,882,500,000 passengers have been carried, with only two killed in train accidents, which is in the proportion of 1 to 1,941,250,000. No other transportation system in the world has ever approached these figures. In the future, as in the past, the Interborough will spare neither time, energy, nor money in its endeavor to continue the operation of the enlarged system on the basis of this record.

"In addition to giving the safest service, New York City will give the largest service in point of miles traveled and separated points reached that is given anywhere in the world for a single fare."

In regard to the financial agreements with the city, Mr. Shonts said:

"After the idea of a dual system had been determined upon, the policy of the Interborough was to merge its existing lines with such portions of the enlarged system as the city officials decided to give it for equipment and operation, and so soon as a contract which would enable it to raise money was entered into it furnished approximately half the construction cost as well.

"The Interborough at that time had two leases with the city, expiring at different times and providing different methods of renewal. It at once agreed to make the termination of these two leases agree with the date for the expiration of the third lease, so that all of the properties would come to the city at the same time.

"The Interborough also agreed to pool the receipts of the original subway with those of the new lines as soon as the system was completed. It has now gone even beyond that and has agreed to pool the receipts of the lines completed on the Manhattan side of the river ahead of the completion of the whole system, which the war has delayed—so that the policy today is the same as during the years of negotiation—namely, that of co-operation.

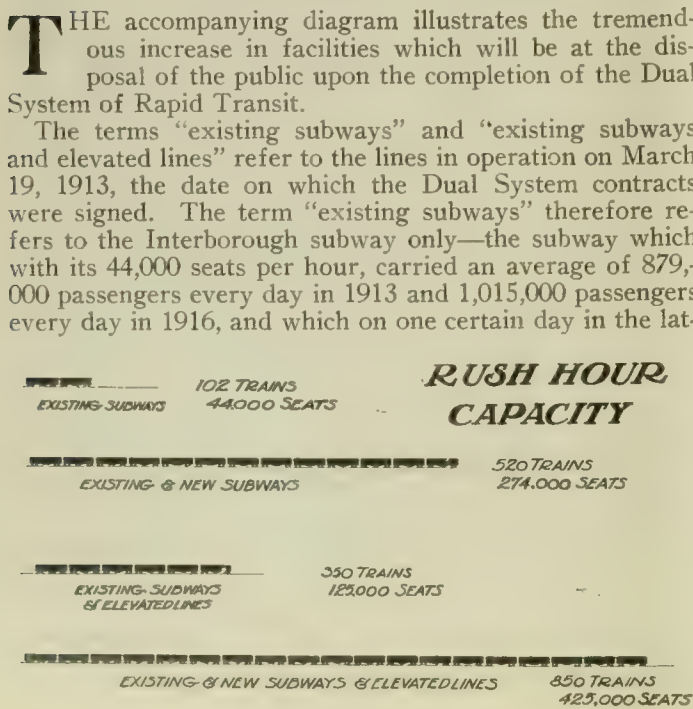

"At the time the Interborough became a partner with the city under what is now known as 'Contract No. 3,' it had an immensely profitable business, which it fully realized would continue to increase for many years to come. However, following its policy of co-operation with the city, it waived these unusual profits and accepted the so-called 'Preferential' plan.

"This plan provides that when the enlarged system is in full operation the first preferred payment which shall be made to the company from operating income shall be equal only to the average actual profit earned in the two years preceding June 30, 1911, plus the interest on the new money invested. From this preferential the company pays interest and sinking fund on its investment in the old lines and interest on the cost of the new lines. Then the city gets 8.76 per cent. on its investment, and after that the city and the company share in the profits equally.

"At the time these contracts were made no one thought of a world war. The most careful calculations then made by the representatives of the city, the Rapid Transit Commissioners, and the company, based on a five-cent fare and pre-war conditions, indicated that under normal circumstances the preferential and the interest on the company's investment would have been quickly met, and also a return

ter year carried over 1,541,000 passengers.

As will at once be noted, the diagram illustrates the proportion between seats rather than between trains, since increase in seating capacity rather than in number of trains measures the actual increase in facilities. Trains are made up of varying numbers of cars and different cars have different capacities. For example, the ordinary elevated and Interborough subway cars seat 50 passengers each while the open cars operated for the past few seasons on the Third Avenue line and the new subway cars operated by the New York Consolidated Railroad Company of Brooklyn seat 80.

The precise distribution of existing and future subway and elevated trains and seats follows:

Existing subways.....	102 trains	44,000 seats
Existing elevated lines.....	248 trains	81,000 seats
New subways.....	418 trains	230,000 seats
New elevated lines.....	82 trains	70,000 seats
Total.....	850 trains	425,000 seats

A study of these figures shows that during maximum operation on the completed systems there will be six times the present number of subway seats and three and one-half times the present combined total of subway and elevated seats in every 60-minute period.

Battery Park Taken For Army Office Building

Concrete Structure with a Million Square Feet of Floor Space to Be Built There

THE War Emergency Board of the Board of Estimate has agreed to permit the United States Government to erect for the period of the war concrete buildings at Battery Park which will house all of the administrative offices of the army.

Under the present arrangement the Government has its army work so scattered that twenty-two buildings in various parts of the city are being used.

"The Emergency Board consists of the Mayor, President Smith of the Board of Aldermen, President Dowling of the Borough of Manhattan and Comptroller Craig. The board acted directly upon a communication from Benedict Crowell, Assistant Secretary of War, who urged the park site as the most available one for public purposes.

It is planned to provide 350,000 square feet of floor space and to make the construction so that it can be increased to 1,000,000 square feet later.

Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board, was an active factor in making the selection. He said yesterday:

"I have made a careful study of the requirements of the Government and did not recommend Battery Park until every other available site was considered. The gathering of the offices of the Government into a central location is all important to the proper conduct of the official business.

"Objections occurred to me, but these were overcome as soon as the promise was given by the Government to restore the part to the taxpayers in the same condition as given. The trees will have to be removed, but these will be replaced. When everything is said and done, patriotism is first and last, and every one here in New York city is proud to be able to do everything in his power to make the task of the Government easier.

"Once the work of construction is commenced the buildings will be ready for occupancy in about four months."

It is understood that the cost of construction of reinforced concrete buildings will run from $3.00 to $3.50 per square foot. If frame construction should be employed, which is unlikely, the cost would be about $2.50 per square foot.

The Government is paying from $1.85 to $2.50 per square foot annual rental for space in down town buildings now occupied as Federal offices, the average being about $2.10 per square foot. On the basis of five years' occupancy of the Battery Park buildings the Government will save a considerable amount of money, besides releasing for general business purposes a large amount of space in permanent office buildings now under requisition by the Federal authorities. The cost of operation will be very low, lighting, heating and cleaning being the principal items, and it is estimated that this will be covered at a cost of 20 cents per square foot annually, or one dollar for the five-year term.

If this amount is added to the cost of construction it will be seen that the Government will pay out $4.50 per square foot for the term of five years' occupancy of concrete buildings instead of $10.50, the average rentals for the same amount of space for a like period in office buildings. On 1,000,000 square feet of space the saving to the Government will therefore be $6,000,000.

It is understood that the buildings will be used as offices for the Army Department only.

Increased Assessed Valuations

OWNERS of real estate will be greatly interested in a certiorari case recently decided against the Board of Taxes and Assessments on an assessment laid by the board under the last administration of that department.

The property at 135 Broadway, owned by the New York Title and Insurance Company, was assessed for the purpose of taxation for the year 1917 at $1,550,000. The owners, the New York Title and Mortgage Company, brought a certiorari in the Supreme Court to have this assessment reduced. The case was fought with considerable vigor on both sides. The witnesses for the plaintiff, the title company, were Robert E. Dowling, president of the City Investing Company; Robert W. Rainey and Herman de Selding.

The court considered excessive the $1,550,000 assessment laid by the tax department and reduced this to $1,350,000. The rents and income of the premises were proven, and it was shown what the operating expenses were. Samuel P. Goldman, counsel for the owners, contended that in spite of increasing rents costs of operation had increased so largely as to reduce the margin of profit in office buildings almost to the vanishing point. It was argued that unless assessments upon such buildings were materially reduced these buildings could not be owned or run profitably. The court found for the title company and reduced the assessment $200,000.

A prominent real estate man said:

"This should tend to serve notice on the Department of Taxes and its deputy tax commissioners that increased assessed valuations, particularly in the lower part of Manhattan, will not be tolerated by the courts at this time.

"It is well understood that operating and overhead expenses have so largely increased during the past two years that advanced rentals, which the owners have as a matter of self-preservation imposed upon the tenants, are in no part enjoyed by the landlord. As a matter of fact the advanced rentals have not met the fixed overhead charges and cost of operating. In many instances the owners or landlords are enjoying less net return on their investment than they enjoyed in 1914 and 1915, when tenants were paying from 10 to 25 per cent. less.

"It is idle to assume that the Department of Taxes will secure additional revenue for the city by way of increasing assessed valuations. It may be that if the department is arbitrary and compels owners to have their assessments reviewed in court owners will not pay their taxes until such time as the courts pass upon their case, and if many were to do this it might obligate the city to borrow against uncollected taxes, a situation which would be most unfortunate.

Ernest T. Trigg Elected President

THE organization meeting of the executive board of the National Federation of Building Industries was held July 31 at the Engineers' Club, New York City. There was a full attendance of representatives from the Pacific Coast, Louisiana, Missouri, Illinois, Ohio and the eastern states. Mr. B. F. Affleck of Chicago, president of the Universal Portland Cement Company, presided over the meeting.

The present situation in the building industry was thoroughly canvassed throughout an all-day session, and definite measures were taken to bring about more active co-operation for war needs and for preservation of this great national facility, which has been producing between two and three thousand millions annually of permanent wealth for the nation and in which there is now probably invested $2,000,000,000.

Mr. Ernest T. Trigg, president of John Lucas & Company, Philadelphia, president of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce, director in the United States Chamber of Commerce and regional director in the resources and conversion section of the War Industries Board, was elected president; Mr. Walter S. Dickey of Kansas City, a large manufacturer of clay products and member of the Inland Waterways Commission, was elected vice-president, and A. M. Maddock, president of Thomas Maddock's Sons Company, Trenton, N. J., and member of the National Committee of Confederate Plumbing Manufacturers and Dealers, was elected treasurer.

Opening of the "H" System.

With the inauguration of express service on the "H" subway routes, New York City has taken another gigantic stride towards a future so big with possibilities that the imagination is strained to compass it.

Although the Dual System which was to form the interlocking device between the hitherto only partially-welded boroughs was devised and contracted for before the war was even thought of, it has been brought to its present stage of completion during a period of unprecedented strain upon the finances and man power of the community.

Many projects of importance necessarily have been put aside to await a less-disturbed time and a more favorable opportunity for their fabrication—but the city officials and the Public Service Commission and the railway companies themselves have pushed to completion the stupendous task of subway construction, overcoming all obstacles—and they were many—that worked for delay.

The Dual System will contribute more than any other municipal undertaking to the expansion and rounding out of the city. For the longitudinal growth along the attenuated Broadway will be substituted a balanced and orderly development in all directions from the common centre, the heart of Manhattan.

Leading real estate men are of the opinion that the immediate benefits of the immensely-extended transportation facilities will be felt in the outlying sections of the city long before Manhattan will receive any return for its huge expenditures in the building of the subways. Naturally the property that can be most easily and at least cost transformed into habitable quarters will first be built up for the use of the largely-increased population of the city. There has been comparatively little building in the last two or three years and it will be necessary to build, when it is again possible to build, where the greatest number of people can be most quickly housed in a satisfactory manner at the smallest outlay. This can undoubtedly be done in the newer sections of the city now for the first time opened up by rapid and low-priced transportation.

But it must not be forgotten that the building up of the thinly-populated sections of the Bronx, Queens and Brooklyn will surely react on Manhattan property in many ways. The old New York will always hold its own as the heart of the Greater City, where all within the more extended limits must find occupation, supplies, amusements and the thousand other things that are necessary to the life of a great city. Manhattan will always be the biggest bit of the biggest town in the biggest country in the world, so why worry about its future?

That the growth of the city in the near future will be phenomenal is practically assured. It only needs the letting up of the war pressure for the expansion of the business activities in a thousand ways, all of which will contribute to the population and wealth of the city.

Another year may bring the end of the war, and when that time comes building, which has been proscribed by war conditions, will be resumed on a large scale. Real estate will be in enormous demand and the most accessible property will have the greatest attraction for purchasers.

The opening of the H system has made wide stretches of property available within the five-cent zone. Instead of having only a northward growth the city will develop normally in many directions.

The outlook is promising—preparedness is the keynote to success.

Utilizing Battery Park.

Battery Park is to become to New Yorkers an object lesson of the fact that we are at war. It is hard for some to realize, except for the unusual number of soldiers and sailors in uniform on the streets, that the country is engaged in a desperate struggle with a powerful, resourceful and unscrupulous foe.

But the Government is going to place in one of the city's most prominent parks the headquarters of its army activities in this section—in one building with a million square feet of space it will give daily exhibition of the multiplicity of acts which are necessary for the carrying on of war.

The centralization of government activities at the Battery is likely to be both an inspiration and helpful in many other ways. Our parks are sacred places and necessary for the preservation of the health and happiness of the people of the city, especially of the children. Battery Park is the well-loved and greatly-used spot where the dwellers in the lower part of the city find much needed recreation and only the stress of war would justify its use for any other than park purposes. But that it has been thought necessary to take it over for governmental uses during the war will accentuate in the best spirit of wise propaganda the fact that every one must do his utmost and give his utmost to bring the war to a successful conclusion.

There is another feature of this proposal to place the government's chief offices in the Battery Park buildings. Under the existing conditions when the government has commandeered space in office buildings this has worked to the great disadvantage of owners of buildings. Leases are generally made for a term of five years. But when the Government steps in tenants are forced to vacate. The government takes over the space for a yearly term, and when the office is vacated by the Federal authorities, the owner, having lost his regular tenant is forced to find another—which puts him to extra expense and trouble.

The proposition to house the Government offices in a special building thus becomes of interest to every real estate man. To business men generally, who have occasion for transactions with the Government, the convenience of having all the offices located in one place is of course of great advantage.

of immense apartment houses along Park avenue and adjacent avenues. In the last four years, a conservative estimate will indicate, many millions of dollars have been spent in such development, of which the owners and tenants have been impatiently awaiting operation on Lexington avenue. Through operation of the easterly half of the "H" is likely to cause a tremendous movement of population to the territory along the two sides of Lexington avenue, for the distance from any given cross street is about a mile nearer downtown Manhattan than the corresponding street along Broadway.

The four-track Seventh avenue line branches at Park Place, with two tracks going to the Battery and two tracks turning east to Park Place, to the Post Office, Beekman street, and down William street. This is now in operation as far as the Wall street station. The William street branch, however, will not be utilized adequately until it is extended across to Brooklyn through the Old Slip-Clark street tunnel. This will not be ready for operation before the early Spring. Therefore, very little business will develop on the William street line, except in the rush hours.

The Clark street tunnel will afford a very important connection for the Interborough system. The old subway to Atlantic avenue has four tracks from Borough Hall to Atlantic avenue, two of which are not used. The Clark street tunnel line will connect at Borough Hall with the two unused tracks, so that when this line is in operation service from Brooklyn can practically be doubled.

Any such outline as this for the increase of rapid transit facilities, to be considered with the possibility of tremendous real estate development, is depressed by the existence of war conditions which inhibit extensive building operations, although the matter of housing for workers in essential industries in and around New York City may be so intensive as to require a return to building operations along rapid transit lines which can afford transportation to points of industry, for it is well recognized that adequate housing for workmen can be afforded either within walking distance of an industry or within walking distance of transportation facilities which reach the industries.

Will Improve Many Sections in Bronx

By CHARLES E. REID,
Secretary Bronx Board of Trade

THE benefits which the Bronx will derive from the opening of the new subway are:

It is the first direct route to the Bronx.

When the eastern branch is opened up to Hunt's Point, via 138th street and Southern Boulevard, there will be afforded a time-saving transit artery direct to and from the heart of the lower city for the use of the thousands working or living in the Port Morris industrial zone and the Central-East Bronx.

It affords, via the western branch to the great residential areas in the West Bronx, direct and rapid access to the lower city, and in turn should cause another building, population and business boom.

It will bring new industries, new businesses, new residents and new workers to sections of the Bronx that have for years suffered a backwardness because of inferior transit facilities, including the West Bronx, Port Morris and Hunt's Point.

It will bring back into its own as a business and industrial center the Mott Haven section of the Bronx.

It will cut down the abnormally congested traffic on the Third and Second Avenue "L" systems, and by a redistribution of the traveling public make for a betterment of the intolerable conditions that have existed for the past few years.

In short, it will afford access to new areas in the lower city for Bronx people, and will open up to those from downtown new areas in the Bronx.

on the city's investment would have been realized.

"But the war has changed all these calculations. In place of earning the returns indicated large deficits have arisen and larger ones are in sight.

"These deficits can be met in only one of two ways—either by a higher fare, throwing the burden upon the people who actually get the benefit of the increased service or by taxation, which will fall upon the already overburdened real estate owners, which will result in increased rents, increased grocer's bills, and increased cost of living generally to all the people who work and spend their incomes in New York. Whereas, if it is met by higher fares, not only would it fall upon only those citizens of New York who receive the benefit of the service, but also upon the 300,000 daily visitors to the city who use 500,000 fares a day and who do not live in New York and who do not help pay her taxes.

"If this is done the increased revenue would enable the companies to earn their preferentials and interest charges currently, thus avoiding the compound interest charge, which, under the contract between the Interborough and the city, will otherwise accrue on any amount of the Interborough's preferential not earned and paid out of current earnings.

"It will also enable the city to receive from current earnings a return on its own $100,000,000 investment, and thus put it in much better shape to finance many of the undertakings of which it stands in such imperative need.

"It is now estimated that, owing to this wartime increase in cost, unless the 5 cent fare is increased, the city will face on its dual subway investment an annual deficit, varying, according to the exigencies of the war, of from $12,000,000 to $20,000,000. When it is remembered that every $10,000,000 increase in the tax budget means a five-point increase in the tax rate, the seriousness of the situation from the taxpayers' point of view cannot be ignored."

Business Properties Paramount in Week's Sales—Apartments Second and Dwellings Third—Leasing Is Good With Heavy Demand

BUSINESS properties figured largely in the more important sales of the week, with apartment houses second and dwellings third. The week was particularly active in realty circles despite the fact that it is the dull season and when little activity is as a rule manifested either by brokers, buyers or owners.

In conversation with one of the leading real estate operators of New York on Wednesday a Record & Guide representative was told that from an operator's point of view New York City really never offered such attractive features. "Real estate," said the operator, "is better today from the operator's standpoint than it was before the war and I predict that the shrewd buyer who took advantage of bargains when they were offered will reap a substantial harvest after the war when business again becomes normal and the demand is again active."

Continuing their activity in the sale of downtown properties Charles F. Noyes & Co. put through another big deal this week when they sold the five-story individual office building at 17 South William street running through and including 53 Stone street. This property is considered one of the finest in the Marine Insurance district and was valued at $100,000 and was sold for all cash.

The property at the Northwest corner of Broadway and Sixty-seventh street in the busy Lincoln Square section known as 1981 and 1987 Broadway and 123 and 127 West Sixty-seventh street also figured in the business property transactions of the week. The seller was the Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street Corporation, but the identity of the buyer has not yet been revealed.

Frederick Brown, operator, purchased the twelve-story loft building at 20 and 26 West 36th street, from the Lintner Corporation. The property was valued at $650,000 and is entirely occupied under a twenty-one year lease by Flint & Horner, furniture dealers.

A sale involving Bronx vacant land and a valuable business building at the northwest corner of Seventh avenue and Fifty-second street was also consummated this week. The lots given in exchange are in the Grand Boulevard and Concourse section of the Bronx and valued at $200,000. The Manhattan property was valued at $400,000. The Manhattan site will, it is understood, be improved with a business structure for the occupancy of the automobile and kindred industries, a well established business in this section.

A plot on West Forty-ninth street between Tenth and Eleventh avenues upon which will be erected a large public garage also figured in the sales of the week. A syndicate purchased the property which measures 86x100.5.

The former residence of Henry P. Davison at 12 West Fifty-first street passed into new ownership this week. The house, an attractive American basement structure, was turned over by Mr. Davison with most of its original furnishings to the Y. W. C. A. last February and used as a headquarters for the relatives of men in the service who come to New York from out of town to visit their relatives. These will not be disturbed, it is understood by the new owners. The property has a total valuation of $112,000, the house alone being valued at $56,000. The buyer is Isador Book, who in this purchase makes his debut as an operator in the midtown section.

Leasing continued good all week with apartments in greatest demand although numerous rentals of offices and business space were reported by the various brokers.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 28 as against 33 last week and 20 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 12 as compared with 11 last week and 10 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 16 as compared with 22 last week and 10 a year ago.

From the Bronx 16 sales at private contract were reported as against 8 last week and 7 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 132 of this issue.

Important Broadway Corner Sold.

A valuable Broadway corner in the busy Lincoln square section has just been reported sold by the Broadway and Sixty-seventh Street Corporation, Jacob Hirsh, president.

The property is located at the northwest corner of Broadway and Sixty-seventh street and is known as 1981-1987 Broadway and 123 and 127 West 67th street, and has a Broadway frontage of 84 feet 9 inches and a frontage of 131 feet 8½ inches on 67th street, and is directly north of the Hotel Marie Antoinette, covering the entire Broadway block from 66th to 67th streets. The Broadway frontage is at present covered with four antiquated four-story business buildings and the 67th street frontage with three four-story and basement brownstone dwellings. The sellers, who were represented in the transaction by Messrs. Elkus, Vogel, Gleason & Proskauer, as attorneys, held this property at $350,000. Maurice Wertheim, the broker who negotiated the sale, states that it was an all cash transaction, but was unwilling to divulge the name of the purchaser or whether an improvement of the property is contemplated. There has been considerable activity recently on Broadway. The plot 28 feet north of the above corner, size 28 feet by 130 feet, known as 1991 Broadway, was sold some days ago by the same corporation to the 1991 Broadway Corporation, recently incorporated to take title to this parcel, which is now being improved with a new business structure. Also 2333 to 2339 Broadway, southwest corner of 85th street, a plot 100 feet by 100 feet, was purchased by J. Adolph Mollenhauer, a few days ago.

Syndicate Buys Plot.

Purchase of the plot at 534 to 540 West Forty-ninth street, between Tenth and Eleventh avenues has just been completed by a syndicate which plans the erection of a large public garage, it was learned today. The property at 536 to 540 was cleared about two years ago preparatory to improvement. Edward Howe and others, trustees, hold title. No. 534 consists of a gore lot fronting only six feet, but widening to 36.7 feet at the rear, improved with five-story building. It is held in the name of Jane Gleason. The combined parcels measure 86x100.5 feet. Roosevelt & Kobbe, attorneys, represented the sellers.

Sale of Davison House.

Henry P. Davison's former residence, at 12 West Fifty-first street, an attractive American basement structure which Mrs. Davison turned over with most of its original furnishings to the Y. W. C. A. last February, for use as a hostess house, passed to the hands of a new owner on Monday. The Y. W. C. A., which has established in the building comfortable quarters for the wives, mothers, and sweethearts of soldiers who come to New York to see the men stationed at nearby camps, will not be disturbed by the new owner. Mr.

Davison occupied the house up to the time he completed his more pretentious home at Park avenue and Sixty-ninth street. Isidore Book, an operator making his initial purchase in the midtown district, is the buyer. The house is five and one-half stories, on a lot 22x100, with a rear extension that goes to the full depth of the property. It is attractively arranged, with large living rooms, library, conservatory, and a large number of bedrooms. W. W. and T. M. Hall erected this building about ten years ago on land leased from the trustees of Columbia College, and in 1909 sold the building to Mrs. Davison, who subsequently made elaborate changes. Land and building have a total valuation of $112,000, according to the city's assessors. The value of the house alone is placed at $56,000. Mr. Book is offering the property for resale.

New Keith Theatre for Bronx.

B. F. Keith's New York Theatre Company will have within a year a large theatre, costing with the land about $750,000, in the Third avenue and 149th street section, commonly called the Herald square of the Bronx, was learned last week. From Lachman & Goldsmith the company bought the Royal theatre at the northwest corner of Westchester and Bergen avenues, of which it is the lessee, and an adjoining Bergen avenue plot from Harold M. Silverman. The theatre will be extended to cover both parcels. The front of the building will be five and six stories high and contain stores, offices and lofts. The enlarged theatre will be a one balcony house and seat 3,000 persons. No architect has been selected. The site of the projected structure, which is a triangle in shape, measures 120 feet in Westchester avenue, 182 feet in Bergen avenue and has a rear line of 250 feet. The Royal theatre, which occupies a plot of 120x200x100x132 feet, seats about 2,300 persons and cost approximately $650,000. The property bought from Mr. Silverman is 50x100, and was held at $50,000. Mr. Silverman purchased it last Friday. Charles S. Kohler and Sydney S. Cohen were the brokers. The Keith interests are erecting a theatre at Fordham road and Valentine avenue, near the Concourse.

Bronx Lots in Exchange.

A valuable corner just north of Times Square figured in the deal for the forty-six lots in the Grand Boulevard and Concourse section of the Bronx, which was reported sold on Monday. Mrs. Emma G. Badgeley sold to the Hasco Building Company, Lorne A. Scott, president, the two-story business building known as the Arbour Casino, at the northwest corner of Seventh avenue and Fifty-second street, on a plot 74.4 by 75.5. Mr. Scott's company gave in exchange the forty-six lots comprising the greater portion of the blocks bounded by the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, Valentine avenue, 196th and 197th streets. The property begins at 196th street, where the frontage is 250 feet, extending along Valentine avenue 375 feet, the northerly line measuring 307.6 feet. The tract has been held at $200,000. As soon as building conditions warrant the Seventh avenue corner, which has been held at $400,000, will be improved with a business structure for the occupancy of the automobile and kindred industries, which have long since established a trade center in that neighborhood. The site adjoins the Adelphi apartment house and the large plot owned by the Amos F. Eno estate, running through the block from Broadway to Seventh avenue.

Operator Buys in Midtown.

Frederick Brown, operator, purchased the twelve-story loft building, 65x100, at 20-26 West 36th street, through William A. White & Son, from the Lintner Corporation, George A. Shearer, president, which valued it at $650,000. The property is entirely occupied by Flint & Horner Company, furniture dealers, under a twenty-one-year lease on a net rental basis and having ten years to #### Dwelling for Apartments.

Vywest Building Corporation, William Smith, President, sold to the Galathea Realty Company, of which J. Frederick Wenke is President, the two five-story apartment houses at 68 and 70 West Eighty-eighth Street, on a plot 40 by 100, adjoining the corner of Columbus Avenue. In part payment the purchaser gave the three-story dwelling at 50 Hamilton Terrace, on a lot 17 by 100. Byrne & Baumann were the brokers. The Eighty-eighth Street property was acquired by the Vywest Building Corporation last March from the West Side Savings Bank.

Buys Park Av. House.

Rufus L. Patterson, Vice-President of the American Tobacco Company, bought on Thursday from the Olds Holding Corporation, Frederick Brown, President, the four-story residence at 101 East Sixty-fourth Street, at the northeast corner of Park Avenue and covering a lot with a frontage on the street of 20.10 feet and a frontage on the avenue of 100 feet. Pease & Elliman were the brokers in the transaction. The property, which is assessed by the city at $84,000, is directly opposite the plotage recently bought by John D. Rockefeller, which it is understood will eventually be improved with a church.

Interesting Sale in Westchester.

Fish & Marvin have recently closed a transaction involving over three hundred acres of land and requiring nearly two years of litigation. One of the properties involved was owned by Nathan Straus, Jr., and H. Grant Straus and comprised 142.5 acres at the corner of Lincoln avenue and King street, one of the best residential sections of Westchester county, and opposite the 200-acre estate recently sold by the same firm for Mr. Henry Steers to Mr. Alfred Jaretski of the firm of Sullivan & Cromwell. The other property was owned by Mr. George Clarke and is at the corner of Union avenue and West street, north of the Mamaroneck and Harrison stations. It comprises approximately the same amount of land. Mr. Clarke is part owner of Clarke City and is connected with the Gulf Pulp and Paper Company of this city. The transaction was particularly interesting, owing to the fact that although the negotiations which were started nearly two years ago were soon completed as regards the purchase price of the various lands it developed that a small plot of half an acre in the Clarke property had been used as a burial place by the family of Caleb Purdy. Purdy was a farmer whose will was filed in 1794 and it appeared that certain reservations were made in this will which involved a question as to the removal of the remains of some hundred descendants of the said Purdy. Mr. Clarke is said to have expended many thousands of dollars in removing the bodies and brought a petition suit to get a clear title to the land. This suit was decided against Mr. Clarke, who appealed to the Appellate Division where the case was decided in his favor. The land involved was valued at approximately $300,000.

Buys at Oyster Bay.

F. D. M. Strachan, a Georgia lumber dealer, has purchased from J. Stuart Blackton, for occupancy, his beautiful country estate at Oyster Bay, L. I. The property contains about sixty acres of developed land, a residence, casino, and boathouse with a long dock extending out into Cold Spring Harbor. Mr. Strachan has taken possession of the property. L'Ecluse, Washburn & Co. were the brokers in the sale. The estate, with the improvements which have been made since it was originally acquired by Mr. Blackton, represents an investment of close to $500,000. It adjoins the large estates of W. Emlen Roosevelt and Louis C. Tiffany.

Sell Wadsworth Arms.

Negotiations which have been pending for the past ten days for the sale of Wadsworth Arms, a seven-story elevator apartment, at the southwest corner of 180th street and Wadsworth avenue, were closed on Wednesday. The structure, which occupies a plot 75 by 100, was sold by the Bristol Realty Company, E. Morris Butler, President, to the Charles Galewski Company, Inc., for investment. Harry Levy negotiated the deal, the property being held at $175,000.

Another Sale by Noyes.

Charles F. Noyes Company sold for Henry Schaefer to Importers and Exporters Insurance Company of New York, the property at 17 South William street extending through and including 53 Stone street, a five-story individual office building. The property has a frontage of eighteen feet in South William street and twenty-five feet in Stone street. It was valued at $100,000 and the transaction was for all cash. The building is considered one of the finest in the marine insurance center and was erected by Mr. Schaefer in 1906. Littlebrook & Borland represented Mr. Schaefer as attorneys.

Jamaica Bay Development.

At the luncheon of the Flatbush Chamber of Commerce, in Brooklyn, on Thursday at Oetjens, Flatbush and Church Avenues, Brooklyn, Murray Hulbert, Dock Commissioner, told of a scheme for the development of Jamaica Bay as a centre for commerce. He said Henry A. Meyer, Deputy Dock Commissioner, was working out the details. The scheme is to ship all of the ashes from the Bronx, Manhattan and Richmond, now taken to sea in scows, to Jamaica Bay, and to bring those from Brooklyn by trolley. These would build bulkheads and fill in the marshes. Such disposition of the ashes would be cheaper than the present method. It is estimated that the city would obtain about 2,300 acres, which could be disposed of at from $5,000 to $10,000 an acre. This would provide money for the construction of piers. Another opportunity for Jamaica Bay, Mr. Hulbert said, is in the construction by the government of a $40,000,000 army base in Bay Ridge. At the close of the war, he said, this would make available an industrial centre which will require the construction of a tunnel to Greenville, N. J., and Jamaica Bay will then have a direct rail connection with the whole United States through the Jersey terminals. Commissioner Hulbert also discussed the advisability of transferring Sound steamships from their piers in the Hudson River to piers in the East River. The luncheon was held at Oetjen's, Flatbush and Church Avenues.

Housing Plans Must Include Community Idea

Churches, Schools, Libraries and Social Centres and Amusement Places Necessary as Dwellings

COINCIDENT with expansions in Government construction, particularly the practical working out of the housing program, there are certain supplementary features which are attaining to a considerable degree of importance. Unprepared at first for the sudden influx of munition or other war workers, industrial centers are gradually having their housing problems answered by the establishment of Government groups of residential building. In such localities there will be an additional need automatically stimulated. The call is not for cottages alone, but for communities.

Of course, opportunity for the worker to live within a reasonable radius of his place of work is an acknowledged and urgent requirement which must be met. The worker who must necessarily spend one or two hours each day in traveling back and forth from his place of residence to his work, is losing efficiency thereby, and as a natural consequence is unable to keep his production up to the point where it would normally rest. Not only this but he will not remain in that situation if he can get work elsewhere which will be preferable in that respect. The various programs, both governmental and private, which have recognized these facts and applied them practically will undeniably be the means of reaping greatly augmented benefit in the reduction of labor turnover, and in the bringing of production up to the maximum level.

But further than this, certain additional steps must be taken, else the original plan will lose much of its effectiveness. If normal community activities are not recognized and provided for it is a question how much of the loss of productive capacity, or indeed of that destructive restlessness among the working force will be remedied. The field for building of churches, schools, libraries, community centers and social meeting places is one of ever growing importance. It must ultimately command most careful consideration in relation to these new groups of houses which will soon be springing up in ever increasing numbers. If the workers must go to a considerable distance in the evening for the relaxation of the "movies"; if there are no public branch libraries, or evening schools where a family so inclined may profitably spend an evening, is it likely that they will feel as if the providing of mere houses had given them a real home?

Moreover, one can hardly overestimate the importance of the socializing influences mentioned above and such organizations as the Y. M. C. A., which sometimes reaches people untouched by other means, all these factors are of especial importance in newly organized communities. In the older towns these community activities are usually already established to a certain extent and furthermore, from the very nature of the case they are less necessary as a vital social force than in the new towns. Groups of friends and acquaintances with their long established customs and traditions leave comparatively little room for dangerous idleness or unrest. In the new community where the inhabitants have been uprooted from various places and thrown together, with their work the only interest in common, nothing will be more essential than adequate provisions for social intercourse and for fitting the community to perform its necessary functions for the citizen. Already the Government has recognized the necessary character of the housing plans themselves and is willing to provide the needed facilities for going ahead and bringing the work to a prompt completion.

The comparatively adequate labor supply for the building trades is a favorable factor which will tend to diminish as time goes on. The cost of building materials is on a consistently increasing scale. Building materials have advanced proportionately less.

Materials used in building have undergone a 61 per cent. advance since the first quarter of 1914, while commodities generally considered, have increased 114 per cent. in price. It is true that those projects started earlier in the year at the time when this difference in comparative prices was first pointed out, have experienced marked benefits. At the same time these percentages worked out, show building at the present time to be still an excellent investment. Moreover, still further delays in starting construction which is imperative will result without doubt in still more greatly increased expense.

These two factors, then, seem at present to be dominant in the situation and outlook. First, the need of handling the housing program from a community standpoint instead of with the shortsighted idea of providing mere shelter. Second, the need of undertaking such projects at once while labor is still in supply and other costs have not advanced to still higher levels.

That the existent labor conditions in the building industry are less difficult than in the majority of other trades is a fact that still remains true according to latest reports. Official statements are given out to the effect that generally speaking the supply of building labor is quite adequate to the demands that are being made upon it. It is true that various departments of the trade have doubtless felt the pressure of the general labor shortage and no one is entitled to say that this will not probably continue to be the case. At the same time the actual facts of the present situation are that in New England the supply is equal to the demand; on the Pacific coast there is a surplus of workers, while in the West there is a considerably over supply. Only at certain congested points on the Atlantic Coast, and in Washington state is there to be found a real shortage. From the inland West this condition is being favorably influenced by the natural readjustment through influx of idle workers. Such an equalizing movement will continue to work toward minimizing the difficulties experienced in special sections. At the same time it will tend to neutralize considerably any scarcity arising from the general withdrawal of labor to war activities.

The operation of the National Labor Recruiting Program which began August 1 will have an ever-developing effectiveness in solving the insistent problems of the labor supply. The plan originates, of course, in the necessity for providing workers for essential war work. The meaning of this phrase "war work" has undoubtedly been variously interpreted in rather widely different ways. At the present, however, it has been officially translated to include the "erection of structures directly or indirectly supplied to some department of the Government for use in connection with the war." Furthermore, the materials used in such construction will be correspondingly supplied with the necessary workers in so far as is possible. Not only will the direct contractors on Government work receive such beneficial attention, but wherever subcontracts are given out, such firms will receive proportionate consideration. Wherever employers are carrying on work of the nature of private enterprise together with their direct war work, two divisions of the concern will be made as indicated for the purposes of working out the program. The two divisions will be treated as absolutely separate units. Any employers who may have hoped for preferences in their entire business on account of having a portion of Government work allotted to them will be obliged to give other this idea. That division of their plant which is working on absolutely non-war projects will be subject to the same rulings which may control all plants of this type. At the same time, the Employment Service will not disturb these non-war plants to any greater extent than is felt to be absolutely imperative in the interests of fulfilling direct war needs. Moreover, all assistance compatible with these aims will be given to such plants even to the extent of helping to obtain workers for them and wherever possible replacing workers taken through priorities.

The careful readjustment of labor already in the market will afford considerable relief at present. With this end in view, the Service will endeavor to act as an exchange between labor and the positions for which labor is wanted. It will not give service similar to previous Federal Employment offices, which acted chiefly in correlation with the Immigration Service. Rather it aims to bring together in an impartial way the workers and employers so as to be mutually beneficial to each, as well as to the nation. It will act as a clearing house to eliminate waste, and carry on necessary operations in the most efficient way.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

ADDITIONAL activity in building circles has been quite evident during the past week and the period has brought forth a substantial number of fairly representative structural operations. The week has been most prolific in important contracts awarded, and from the group of projects at present out for estimates an additional batch of awards are anticipated.

Probably no better indication of the renewed strength of the building situation is possible at this time than the revival of speculative and investment interest. Practically all boroughs of the city have experienced the effect of this phase of activity and from nearby suburban towns there also come gratifying reports of numerous projects of this character. In Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn quite a few apartment house projects have been planned for an early start, with plans for others in course of preparation in the offices of architects which undoubtedly will be commenced in the near future. The construction of small dwellings has been another feature of the speculative building situation that is shaping up, in a satisfactory manner. In the out-lying boroughs of Greater New York and also in many of the towns within commuting radius of the city the erection of moderate priced dwellings has been the most active feature of the building situation and the builders are of the opinion that this type of activity will continue for some time. There has been an excellent market for small houses owing to the scarcity of rental space in urban apartments and also in small dwellings, and as a general thing newly built houses are disposed of before they are completed.

Although it was thought some time ago that the Government building program was almost entirely under contract and construction well under way, the war requirements are constantly growing and making additions to the list of structures needed for Federal use daily more essential. At the present time plans are being prepared for a large amount of additional storage space for various military departments and also for hospital facilities for the army and navy.

Common Brick.—The market for Hudson River common brick has firmed up considerably during the past week and prices have advanced. Current quotations are now $13.50 to $14 a thousand, wholesale, to dealers in cargo lots and there are predictions that even these prices are likely to be increased. The advance has been largely due to an increase in the demand coupled with the fact that but relatively small quantities of brick have arrived from up-river points. The unsold reserve in the wholesale market is at present low and owing to the difficulties producers are experiencing in obtaining labor to load barges, is not likely to be increased in the near future. Conditions at manufacturing points are quiet, yards that have been active during the season are operating at about the same ratio of production that has maintained for the past three months but which is far below the normal rate. Both manufacturers and dealers are looking forward to a fairly busy autumn building season which should have a tendency to maintain common brick prices.

SUMMARY—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, August 2, 1918. Condition of market: Demand strengthening. Prices higher. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $13.50 to $14 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 13; sales, 10. Distribution: Manhattan, 1; Brooklyn, 1; Bronx, 1; New Jersey points, 6; Flushing, 1.

Crushed Limestone.—The market for crushed limestone is firm notwithstanding the fact that private construction is limited. The Government demands have been heavy and producers have only a small amount available. Prices are strong at their existing levels and there is no doubt but that an increase in the amount of available material would increase the demand and have a tendency to somewhat increase the wholesale prices.

Portland Cement.—Manufacturers of Portland cement report the situation as being favorable in all respects except labor which is scarce and difficult to hold. Demands are heavy both from jobbers and Federal sources and the latter requirements are steadily gaining in volume. Practically all of the cement manufacturing plants are maintaining a high rate of production and there are quite a number that are working three shifts throughout the twenty-four hours of the day. Prices are firm at the levels that have maintained for some time.

Structural Steel.—Federal requirements of fabricated steel completely outweigh all other phases of business and large tonnages are now on schedule for the erection of additional structures needed by the Government. The construction of storage facilities at army posts, cantonments and navy yards involves the use of a large amount of fabricated material and this has to be supplied before any steel for private building construction is released. There is no question but that a number of large and important private operations would be started immediately if it were possible to obtain the essential building steel, but as priorities are demanded for all deliveries it is feared that these projects will have to be held in abeyance until the supply of material is adequate to all needs. At this writing there is no great hope of material relief for a long time as the demands for steel in all forms and for all uses in connection with the war grows steadily and will likely continue its force for the balance of this year.

Wire Products.—There is some indecision among the manufacturers of wire and wire products as to the manner in which wire and nails may be distributed to the retailers. The demand from all sources is exceptionally heavy and pending more explicit directions from the War Industries Board manufacturers are pursuing various courses in the matter of releasing their products to jobbers. Government orders continue to dominate the situation and are absorbing the greater part of the available supply. Stocks in the hands of jobbers are at an extremely low ebb. Prices are unchanged with quotations at $3.50 base per keg, for wire nails and bright basic wire at $3.35 a hundred pounds, Pittsburgh.

Linseed Oil.—The demand for linseed oil continues exceptionally heavy but offerings are few owing to the existing scarcity in this commodity and the fact that no relief is in sight for some time to come. There cannot be any great quantity of oil available until the domestic seed crop is harvested next autumn. Seed from Argentine is scarce owing to the lack of transportation facilities which are being devoted to the shipment of more essential commodities needed in the prosecution of the war. Linseed oil prices are very firm and from all accounts will remain at their present high levels for the balance of the year.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Federal housing projects are at present factors of prime importance to the manufacturers of cast iron pipe as these operations will require pipe in immense quantities. For some of these new settlements for workers in war industries contracts for the supply of cast iron pipe have already been placed and others are pending which will undoubtedly be let in the near future. Municipal buying is light and additional business from this source is not anticipated in any great volume. Federal control prices, including the new freight rates are as follows: $61.75, New York, for 6 in., 8 in., and heavier; $64.75 for 4 in.; and $71.75 for 3 in.

Lumber.—There has been no material change to the lumber situation during the past week. Stock movements have been somewhat more satisfactory than in the past but there yet remains considerable ground for improvement in the transportation conditions both by rail and water and the lumber market will not be able to adjust itself until the traffic facilities are again normal. The hardwood market continues firm and a substantial volume of business is being transacted according to recent reports. The demands for Eastern spruce continue to exceed the available supply due for the greater part to the heavy demands from the Government for lumber of this kind. The production of airplane spruce has been materially speeded up in the West with the result that there is considerably more side lumber produced than the mills are able to dispose of with facility. Therefore a large proportion of this will of necessity have to be sold in the East and with the improved waterways, local dealers will obtain a distinct advantage. With 360,000,000 feet of airplane spruce as the yearly minimum, approximately 1,500,000,000 feet of side cut will be produced which will amount to more than the entire spruce cut of 1917. Both wholesale and retail prices remain firm for all kinds and grades and the tendency toward advances is pronounced.

Rivets.—The output is limited owing to the shortage of steel and although the demand is firm it is mostly for ship rivets. Makers of these are sold up for months in advance. Cone-head structural rivets are being quoted at $4.40 and cone-head boiler rivets at $4.50 a hundred pounds.

Board Adopts New Elevator Rules

Original Rules Somewhat Modified at Suggestion of Building and Other Interests.

AT the meeting of the Board of Standards and Appeals Tuesday Rules 21 to 43, affecting the construction, maintenance and operation of elevators, were passed.

Rule 21. Slack Rope Device. In future installations all power-driven elevators, including power-driven sidewalk elevators, operated by drum hoisting machines shall have approved automatic slack rope devices that will stop the machine if, from any cause, the hoisting ropes or chains become slack.

Rule 22. Landing Lock Device. No elevator shall be used for the carrying of safes or other material of a greater weight than the normal lifting power of such elevator unless the machine is provided with special equipment and the car is equipped with an approved locking device which will hold it at any landing independent of the hoisting ropes while such safe or other material is being loaded or unloaded.

Rule 23. Speed Retarders. In future installations every hand power elevator (except sidewalk type elevators) with a rise of more than fifteen feet shall be equipped with an approved safety device that will immediately stop and hold the car with a full load if the rope breaks and with an approved automatic speed retarder and a hand-operated brake operating in both directions.

Rule 24. Escalators. In future every escalator installed shall be equipped with an approved safety device to prevent any accidental downward reversal and with an approved stopping device.

Rule 25. Car Construction. In future installations the car, car frame and enclosure of every power-driven elevator and of every hand-power elevator with a rise of more than thirty-five feet shall be of incombustible materials. Interior trim and flooring may be of hard wood. The car and car frame of every hand-power elevator with a rise of thirty-five feet or less may be constructed of wood.

Rule 26. Passenger Car Enclosure. In existing and future installations every passenger elevator car shall be fully enclosed on all sides not used for loading or unloading and on the top with substantial construction.

In future installations where grille work is used for the car enclosure, including the top, it shall be constructed with not more than one and one-half inch space between any two members; except that where straight bars not filled in with scroll work are used there shall be not more than one inch space between members.

In existing installations in factory buildings only where the spaces exceed passenger elevator car shall have a trap door in the top of such a size as to afford easy egress for passengers, but not less than eighteen inches in least dimension nor less than four hundred square inches in area.

In existing installations not already provided with an emergency exit a trap door, as specified for future installations, shall be provided; except that when the cross head or car top construction renders it impracticable to provide such trap door this requirement may be waived by the superintendent of buildings if egress, in case of emergency, is possible through shaft openings or to an adjacent car.

Rule 29. Freight Elevator Cover. In existing and future installations in factory buildings only every freight elevator car shall be provided with a substantial cover or grating constructed of not less than No. 8 U. S. gauge wire or its equivalent in strength, and of a mesh that will reject a one and one-half (1½) inch diameter ball. Sections of the cover or grating may be arranged to swing upward for handling long material, but such cover or grating shall be closed at all other times. That part of the cover facing the entrances to the hoistway, extending the full width of the car, shall be hinged on a line not less than eight (8) inches nor more than twelve (12) inches back from the edge of the landing, and the hinged section shall be self-closing.

Rule 30. Space Between Saddles and Car. In future installations there shall be not more than one and one-quarter inch, nor less than three-quarters of an inch space between the floor of the car and the floor saddles, and where the saddles project into the shaft the same shall be properly bevelled on the underside at an angle of not less than sixty degrees to the horizontal.

Rule 31. Lights. In existing and future installations the cars of all elevators shall be properly lighted at all times when in service.

Rule 32. Guide Rails. In future installations guide rails for both car and counterweights of all elevators (except dumbwaiters and hand-power elevators with a rise of thirty-five feet or less) shall be of iron or steel. They shall be fastened to the sides of the shaft with wrought or cast iron brackets, so spaced that the guide rails and their fastenings shall be rigid. For elevators requiring safeties the guiding surfaces of the car guides shall be finished smooth and joints shall be tongued and grooved or dowelled.

The weights of steel or iron guide rails shall be not less than given in the following table:

Weight of Guide Rails Per Lineal Foot.

Total Weight of car and live load.	Weight of Car Guide Rails		Weight of Counterweight Guide Rails
	With Guide Rail Safeties.	Without Guide Rail Safeties.	With Guide Rail Safeties.	Without Guide Rail Safeties.
0- 3000 lbs	7½	7½	7½	6½
3001-15000 "	14	14	14	7½

those specified for future installations it shall be deemed satisfactory if the grille work is made safe by suitable screen or wire mesh fastened to the car enclosure.

Rule 27. Freight Car Enclosure. In existing and future installations in factory buildings only every freight elevator car shall be enclosed on all sides not used for loading or unloading with substantial construction to a height of five (5) feet, six (6) inches, or to the cross head, where this is less than five (5) feet, six (6) inches above the car platform.

In future installations where open construction is used the space between any two parallel members shall not exceed one inch.

Rule 28. Emergency Exit. In future installations every power-driven pas-

Rule 33. Ropes. In future installations all elevators (except dumbwaiters) shall have not less than two ropes independently connected to the car and to each set of counterweights. In drum type machines the lifting and counterweight ropes shall have at least one full turn of the rope on the drum when they have reached the limit of travel. Every rope hereafter used shall have a factor of safety of not less than six for freight elevators and not less than eight for passenger elevators. The diameter of any hoist or counterweight rope hereafter installed (except for hand-power elevators and sidewalk type elevators located outside the building line) shall be not more than one-fortieth (1/40) of the diameter of any sheave or drum over which it passes. All ropes used in the operation of elevators shall be of steel, iron or "marlin" covered. Where overhead machines are used equalizer arms will be permitted on the car and counterweights. Nothing in this rule shall prohibit the use of chains on sidewalk elevators instead of ropes.

Rule 34. Auxiliary Freight Compartments. In future installations no elevator shall be permitted to have attached above, below or on the side of the car a freight compartment or similar device.

In existing installations entrances to freight compartments shall be protected by folding gates, as required for passenger elevators, and so arranged that the elevator cannot be operated until the gate is closed.

Rule 35. Overhead Gratings. In every elevator shaft (except existing elevator shafts, dumbwaiter shafts or the shafts of sidewalk elevators outside the building line), immediately under the sheaves at the top of the shaft, or when the machine is located at the top of the shaft, at the level of the top of the machine beams, there shall be provided and placed a substantial grating of iron or steel capable of sustaining not less than seventy-five pounds per square foot. No two members of such grating shall be spaced more than one and one-half inches apart. When such grating does not extend over the entire area of the shaft the open edges shall be protected by substantial screened railings not less than three feet high. Every such grating shall extend at least two and one-half feet beyond the general contour of the sheaves or machinery. Deflecting sheaves extending below the machine level shall be protected by gratings or cradles of a construction similar to that required for the gratings. When a fireproof floor construction is permissible it shall be accepted as the equivalent of the grating.

Nothing in this rule shall prevent the placing of a trap door in such a grating where other suitable access cannot be had.

Any grating hereafter placed in an existing elevator shaft shall conform to the requirements of this rule.

Rule 36. Elevator Pit. In every elevator shaft hereafter constructed (except shafts for dumbwaiters, for sidewalk elevators and for hand-power elevators with a rise of less than thirty-five feet) the distance from the floor saddle of the lowest landing to the bottom of the pit shall not be less than four feet when the speed does not exceed two hundred and fifty feet per minute, not less than five feet when the speed exceeds two hundred and fifty, but does not exceed four hundred feet per minute, and not less than six feet when the speed exceeds four hundred feet per minute, and in no case shall there be less than two feet in the clear between the bottom of the pit and the lowest point of the underside of the car floor when the car is at the lowest possible position. In the case of power-driven sidewalk type elevators the clear space between the bottom of the shaft and underside of the car floor shall be not less than six inches. The pits herein required at the bottom of elevator shafts shall not be used for piping, machinery or for any purpose not required for the elevator equipment, but this shall not prevent the encroachment upon such pits, in the case of new elevators installed in existing buildings, of the foundations of bearing walls and columns to an extent not exceeding 25 per cent. of the area of the pit.

Rule 37. Overhead Clearance for Cars. For all elevator shafts hereafter installed (except shafts for sidewalk type elevators) there shall be provided a sufficient clear space, when the car is at the top landing, to allow a run-by of not less than two feet for elevators having a speed not exceeding one hundred feet per minute, not less than three feet for elevators having a speed exceeding one hundred feet per minute and not exceeding three hundred and fifty feet per minute, and not less than five feet for elevators having a speed exceeding three hundred and fifty feet per minute.

Rule 38. Overhead Clearance for

Counterweights. For every counterweight hereafter installed for power-driven elevators there shall be not less than three feet clearance between the top of the counterweight and the underside of the overhead beams when the car is resting on the bumpers, and when oil buffers are used for the cars the clearance shall still be not less than six inches when the oil buffers are fully compressed.

Rule 39. Machinery Room. All parts of the elevator machinery for power-driven elevators shall be properly enclosed, and such enclosure must be lighted. In future free and safe access must be provided to all parts of elevator machinery and in new installations not less than twelve inches clearance shall be provided at limit stop devices on machine and outboard bearings of motor. When the machine is located at the bottom of the shaft it shall be protected with a substantial pit pan.

Rule 40. Speed. The speed of all power-driven elevators shall not exceed seven hundred feet per minute.

Rule 41. Buffers. In future installations at the bottom of all elevator shafts of power-driven elevators (except sidewalk type elevators) there shall be placed substantial spring buffers, pneumatic buffers, or oil buffers for the car and counterweights, provided that for the cars and counterweights of all elevators having speeds of more than three hundred and fifty feet per minute substantial oil buffers shall be installed.

Rule 42. Supporting Beams. Supporting beams hereafter installed for elevator sheaves or machinery (except in dumbwaiter shafts) shall be of iron or steel.

Rule 43. Determination of Questions. When any existing installation for either passenger or freight service is deemed by the Superintendent of Buildings to be in an unsafe or dangerous condition it shall be made safe in such manner as he shall prescribe, and all

Conservation That Counts

There are small ways and there are big ways of helping to save. One big way open to the owner of every property is the use of Edison Service

This is because

The Waterside Stations get four times as much out of a ton of coal as a small generating plant

Edison supply releases a vast amount of trucking and transport facilities for essential industry

Here is conservation of far reaching consequences—conservation that counts. Are you of the growing number to act accordingly?

defective parts necessary of replacement shall conform, in so far as possible, with the rules governing future installations.

Where there are practical difficulties in the way of carrying out the strict letter of the foregoing rules the Superintendent of Buildings shall have power to vary their provisions so that the spirit of the law shall be observed and public safety secured and substantial justice done, provided that whenever such variations are granted by a superintendent of buildings it shall be indorsed in writing upon the permit over the signature of such superintendent.

The board has taken the position that certain discretion must be given officials in interpreting some of the laws governing the offices so that undue hardship will not fall upon property owners.

"In the matter of elevators," said Captain John P. Leo, chairman of the board, after the meeting, "there are a large number of things to be considered, and there cannot be formulated any fast and set rules which will apply in all cases without undue hardship; therefore the board has given discretionary powers to the heads of some departments. As an example I will quote rule No. 43, which was adopted at today's meeting:

"When any existing installation for either passenger or freight service is deemed by the Superintendent of Buildings to be in an unsafe or dangerous condition it shall be made safe in such manner as he shall prescribe, and all defective parts necessary of replacement shall conform, in so far as possible, with the rules governing future installations.

"Where there are practical difficulties in the way of carrying out the strict letter of the foregoing rules the Superintendent of Buildings shall have power to vary their provisions so that the spirit of the law shall be observed and public safety secured and substantial justice done, provided that whenever such variations are granted by a superintendent of buildings it shall be indorsed in writing upon the permit over the signature of such superintendent."

"The Superintendent of Buildings will be able to help many property owners out of difficulties by using good judgment without endangering life or limb. This is the principle which the board is trying to follow out in all its rulings."

Important Housing Contract Placed.

The Emergency Housing Committee has awarded a general contract to the Cauldwell-Wingate Company, 381 Fourth Avenue, Manhattan, for the construction of large groups of apartments and dwellings at Bridgeport, Conn., to accommodate the workers in the munition plants of that city. The work will come under the jurisdiction of Otto M. Eidlitz, director of housing and from plans prepared by R. C. Sturgis, architect, of Boston, Mass., and A. A. Shurtleff, town planner. Structural plans have been completed but at the present time it has not been determined exactly what number of buildings will be erected. The operation will consist of four distinct groups of residential structures, located in various sections of Bridgeport and each group will include one and two-family dwellings and apartment houses each providing accommodations for twelve families. The contract time allowed for the completion of these buildings is seven months and about $3,000,000 will be expended. The Cauldwell-Wingate Company recently completed the Reconstruction Hospital at Colonia, N. J., for the United States Government, at a cost of about $2,500,000. This project is the only one of its type in this country and was completed two weeks earlier than the contract time of five months.

Remodeling Downtown Offices.

More than $100,000 will be expended for the purpose of reconstructing and modernizing the old Electrical Exchange building at 132 to 138 Liberty Street through to 141 Cedar Street, that some time ago was partially destroyed by fire. The building has been taken over by the Marden-Orth & Hastings Company, 61 Broadway and the alterations and repairs will be made from plans and specifications prepared by John J. Pettit, architect, 101 Park Avenue. The structure is eight stories in height, with ground dimensions of 113 x 59 x 71 feet and the entire building will be transformed into a modern office building in which the most up-to-date equipment will be installed. The contract for this work has been obtained by Tucker & Lewis, general contractors, 101 Park Avenue.

CALL OF CALENDAR.

The Clerk's Calendar will be called in Room 919, on Tuesday, at 3 o'clock sharp, and cases will then be taken from the General Calendar, and set down for hearing during the following week. Any requests for adjournment must be made when Clerk's Calendar is called.

The Clerk's Calendar consists of cases which are complete, but which have not yet been set down for hearing on a definite date. It is not to be confused with the Calendar, which consists of cases that have been definitely set for fixed days.

The listing of an appeal or petition in this Calendar is full and sufficient notice to all persons interested that such case will be heard on the date set and no adjournment will be allowed on the ground of ignorance of the date or of lack of due notice.

All hearings are held in Room 919, Municipal Building, Manhattan.

HOURS OF MEETING.

During July and August, in accordance with action taken by the Board of Standards and Appeals on June 6, the weekly meetings will be as follows:

Board of Standards and Appeals, Tuesdays, at 10 A. M.
Board of Appeals, Tuesdays, at 1.30 P. M.
Call of Calendar, Tuesdays, at 3 P. M.

BOARD OF STANDARDS AND APPEALS.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section four and section eleven of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon, at the next general election to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE CONTRACTING OF DEBTS BY THE STATE.

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debts shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein [; and such]. No such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive, nor for more than fifty years from the time of the contracting of such debt. A debt hereafter contracted by the state, pursuant to an authorization hereafter made, and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted, may, if provided by the law authorizing such debt, be paid in equal annual instalments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years, after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted. Such law shall if it authorize the contracting of a debt payable otherwise than in equal annual instalments impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No [such] law authorizing the contracting of a debt pursuant to this section shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election. On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass, and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" The legislature may at any time, after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law; but the tax, if any, imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrevocable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provision hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability. The money arising from any loan or stock creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on, within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years in lieu of bonds heretofore authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund and the legislature shall reduce the tax to an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof, which has been, or shall be created or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increase the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall, if such debt be payable otherwise than in equal annual instalments, impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually to the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest, and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable. § 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may, if such debt be payable otherwise than in annual instalments, set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and to no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be sufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof. The legislature shall annually as the same shall fall due provide by direct tax, appropriation or both for the payment of the interest upon and instalments of principal of all debts created on behalf of the state, payable in annual instalments, pursuant to section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof.

2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen, in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE FOREST PRESERVE.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven or article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the state from constructing a state highway from Saranac Lake in Franklin county to Long Lake in Hamilton county and thence to Old Forge in Herkimer county by way of Blue Mountain lake and Raquette lake.

[But the] The legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed for terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term. Unsanitary conditions shall not be created or continued by any such public works. A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, GENERALLY.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Compensation for taking private property; private roads; drainage of agricultural lands.

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof, shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. General laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions and with just compensation, but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may also authorize cities, for the establishment of a uniform system of streets, to take real property within an abandoned street or highway and to sell and lease it. § 2. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIVE

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE DRAINAGE OF SWAMP OR AGRICULTURAL LANDS AND THE TAKING OF PROPERTY THEREFOR.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. [General] The use of property for the drainage of swamp or agricultural lands is declared to be a public use, and general laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of swamp or agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions on making [and with] just compensation, and such compensation together with the cost of such drainage may be assessed, wholly or partly, against any property benefited thereby; but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ELEVEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION EIGHTEEN OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO PRIVATE AND LOCAL BILLS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section eighteen of article three of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 18. The legislature shall not pass a private or local bill in any of the following cases:
Changing the names of persons.
Laying out, opening, altering, working or discontinuing roads, highways, or alleys or for draining swamps or other low lands.
Locating or changing county seats.
Providing for changes of venue in civil or criminal cases.

Incorporating villages.
Providing for election of members of boards of supervisors.

Selecting, drawing, summoning or empanelling grand or petit jurors.

Regulating the rate of interest on money.
The opening and conducting of elections or designating places of voting.

Creating, increasing or decreasing fees, percentage, or allowances of public officers, during the term for which said officers are elected or appointed.

Granting to any corporation, association, or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks.

Granting to any private corporation, association or individual any exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever.

Granting to any person, association, firm or corporation an exemption from taxation on real or personal property.

Providing for building bridges, and chartering companies for such purposes, except on the Hudson river below Waterford, and on the East river, or over the waters forming a part of the boundaries of the state.

Legalizing, ratifying or confirming the proceedings of a municipal corporation or political subdivision of the state, or the officers or authorities thereof, in providing for the issuance and sale of the bonds or other evidences of indebtedness of such municipal corporation or political subdivision of the state, or validating such bonds or other evidences of indebtedness after their issuance and sale.

The legislature shall pass general laws providing for the cases enumerated in this section, and for all other cases which in its judgment may be provided for by general laws. But no law shall authorize the construction or operation of a street railroad except upon the condition that the consent of the owners of one-half in value of the property bounded on, and the consent also of the local authorities having the control of, that portion of a street or highway upon which it is proposed to construct or operate such railroad be first obtained, or in case the consent of such property owners cannot be obtained, the appellate division of the supreme court, in the department in which it is proposed to be constructed, may, upon application, appoint three commissioners who shall determine, after a hearing of all parties interested, whether such railroad ought to be constructed or operated, and their determination, confirmed by the court, may be taken in lieu of the consent of the property owners.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section one of article twelve and sections twenty-six and twenty-seven of article three of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred and eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THIRTEEN

CONTROL OVER LOCAL AFFAIRS TO CITIES AND COUNTIES.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section one of article twelve of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages and to restrict their power of taxation, assessments, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and in contracting debt by such municipal corporations. [; and] The legislature may by general laws confer upon cities such powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may from time to time deem expedient. [the] The legislature may regulate and fix the wages or salaries, the hours of work or labor, and make provision for the protection, welfare and safety of persons employed by the state or by any county, city, town, village or other civil division of the state, or by any contractor or subcontractor performing work, labor or services for the state, or for any county, city, town, village or other civil division thereof. City bills shall apply equally to all the cities of a class as defined in section two of article twelve and no special city bill affecting less than all the cities of a class shall be passed except to secure the public safety or in a case where it affects territory without the corporate limits of the city.

§ 26. There shall be in each county, except in a county wholly included in a city, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such manner and for such period as is or may be provided by law. But the legislature may provide by law for another form of government for any county subject to the approval of the electors of such county at a general election in an odd-numbered year. Such law may also provide for the transfer to the county of functions now exercised by towns. In a city which includes an entire county, or two or more entire counties, the powers and duties of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the municipal assembly, common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of the city.

§ 27. The legislature shall, by general laws, confer upon the boards of supervisors, or other governing elective bodies, of the several counties of the state such further powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient, [; and] in counties which now have, or may hereafter have, county auditors or other fiscal officers, authorized to audit bills, accounts, charges, claims or demands against the county, the legislature may confer such powers upon [said] such auditors, or fiscal officers, as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendments be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIFTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO COMPENSATION OF JUDGES OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven of article six of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The court of appeals is continued. It shall consist of the chief judge and associate judges now in office, who shall hold their offices until the expiration of their respective terms, and their successors, who shall be chosen by the electors of the state. The official terms of the chief judge and associate judges shall be fourteen years from and including the first day of January next after their election. Five members of the court shall form a quorum, and the concurrence of four shall be necessary to a decision. The court shall have power to appoint and to remove its reporter, clerk and attendants. Whenever and as often as a majority of the judges of the court of appeals shall certify to the governor that said court is unable, by reason of the accumulation of causes pending therein, to hear and dispose of the same with reasonable speed, the governor shall designate not more than four justices of the supreme court to serve as associate judges of the court of appeals. The justices so designated shall be relieved from their duties as justices of the supreme court and shall serve as associate judges of the court of appeals until the causes undispensed of in said court are reduced to two hundred, when they shall return to the supreme court. The governor may designate justices of the supreme court to fill vacancies. No justice shall serve as associate judge of the court of appeals except while holding the office of justice of the supreme court, and no more than seven judges shall sit in any case. The judges of the court of appeals, including those now in office, shall receive for their services a compensation established by law which shall not be diminished during their official terms and shall not be less than the highest compensation allowed by law to any other judicial officer in the state. A justice of the supreme court while serving as associate judge of the court of appeals shall receive the same compensation as judges of the court of appeals.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section seven of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

AMENDMENT NUMBER SEVENTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE USE OF LANDS AND TIMBER IN THE FOREST PRESERVE FOR FUEL FOR DOMESTIC PURPOSES AND FOR ROADS AND TRAILS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Forest preserve. § 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. But the legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed for terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term. Unsanitary conditions shall not be created or continued by any such public works. The foregoing provisions of this section shall not prevent the legislature from authorizing the cutting and removal of dead and fallen timber on lands in the forest preserve for fuel or other domestic purposes; or authorizing the cutting and use by the state of timber on such lands for the construction of roads and trails necessary for protection against fire, and for ingress and egress. A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or, with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and in conformity with section one, article fourteen of the constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to sections two, four, five, eleven and twelve of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER EIGHTEEN

§ 2. The state may, to meet casual deficits or failures in revenues, or for expenses not provided for, contract debts; but such debts, direct or contingent, singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed one million of dollars; and the moneys arising from the loans creating such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which they were obtained, or to repay the debt so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever. contract debts in anticipation of the receipt of taxes and revenues, direct or indirect, for the purposes and within the amounts of appropriations theretofore made; bonds or other obligations for the moneys so borrowed shall be issued as may be provided by law, and shall with the interest thereon be paid from such taxes and revenues within one year from the date of issue.

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debt[s] shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein, [; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No such law shall take effect until, shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election.] On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" No such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election nor shall it be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage nor at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may, at any time after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law. [but the tax imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrevocable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provision hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability.]

Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, all debts contracted by the state after January first, nineteen hundred and twenty, pursuant to an authorization theretofore, heretofore or hereafter made and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted irrespective of the terms of such authorization, shall be paid in equal annual installments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years, after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted. No such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted, to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive.

The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof which has been or shall be created or issued before such alteration.

The money arising from any loan [or stock] creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years in lieu of bonds heretofore authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund, and the legislature shall reduce the tax to an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof, which has been, or shall be created or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increase the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable.]

§ 5. The sinking funds provided for the payment of interest and the extinguishment of the principal of the debts of the state heretofore contracted shall be continued; they shall be separately kept and safely invested and neither of them shall be appropriated or used in any manner other than for [the specific purpose for which it shall have been provided] such payment and extinguishment as herein-after provided. The comptroller shall each year appraise the securities held for investment in each of such funds at their fair market value not exceeding par. He shall then determine and certify to the legislature the amount of each of such funds and the amounts which, if there-after annually contributed to each such fund, would, with the fund and with the accumulations thereon and upon the contributions thereto, computed at the rate of three per centum per annum, produce at the date of maturity the amount of the debt to retire which such fund was created, and the legislature shall thereupon appropriate as the contribution to each such fund for such year at least the amount thus certified.

If the income of any such fund in any year is more than a sum which, if annually added to such fund would, with the fund and its accumulations as aforesaid, retire the debt at maturity, the excess income may be applied to the interest on the debt for which the fund was created.

After any sinking fund shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created no further contribution shall be made thereto except to make good any losses ascertained at the annual appraisals above mentioned, and the income thereof shall be applied to the payment of the interest on such debt. Any excess in such income not required for the payment of interest may be applied to the general fund of the state.

The legislature may also by general laws provide means and authority whereby outstanding bonds of the state, for which sinking funds are provided, may be exchanged at par for cancellation, for serial bonds of the form authorized under section four of this article, upon such terms and conditions as to interest and otherwise as it may in its discretion authorize or determine, except that the debt as thus refunded shall finally mature no later and at no greater comparative cost to the state than the original debt; the determination of the legislature as to such comparative cost shall be conclusive. No further contributions to the respective sinking funds shall be made on account of bonds so exchanged and the proportion of any such sinking fund which the amount of the bonds so exchanged shall bear to the amount of bonds outstanding of the same issue may be appropriated, as required, for the payment of the substituted serial bonds.

§ 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and to no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be sufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof.] The legislature shall annually provide by appropriation for the payment of the interest upon and instalments of principal of all debts created on behalf of the state except those contracted under section two of this article, as the same shall fall due, and for the contribution to all of the sinking funds heretofore created by law, of the amounts annually to be contributed under the provisions of section five of this article. If at any time the legislature shall fail to make any such appropriation, the comptroller shall set apart from the first revenues thereafter received, applicable to the general fund of the state, a sum sufficient to pay such interest, instalments of principal, or contributions to such sinking fund, as the case may be, and shall so apply the moneys thus set apart. The comptroller may be required to set aside and apply such revenues as aforesaid, at the suit of any holder of such bonds.

§ 12. Debts hereafter authorized for the improvement of highways shall be created only in the manner provided in section four of this article. No provision of this article shall be deemed to impair or affect the validity of any debt of the state heretofore contracted or any right or obligation heretofore created between the state and any of its civil divisions.

eral election of senators, and that in conformity to section one, article fourteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AMENDMENT NUMBER NINETEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION BY INSERTING THEREIN A NEW ARTICLE, IN RELATION TO TAXATION.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the constitution be amended by inserting therein a new article, to be article seven-a, to read as follows:

ARTICLE VII-A.

§ 1. For the assessment of real property, heretofore locally assessed, the legislature may establish tax districts, none of which, unless it be a city, shall embrace more than one town. The assessors therein shall be elected by the electors of such districts. The legislature may provide that the assessment-roll of a town shall serve for all the civil divisions or parts thereof within its boundaries. No such tax district embracing a town shall be established until a proposition providing therefor shall have been adopted by a vote of a majority of the electors voting thereon in such proposed district at an election for which provision shall be made by law.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

Mobilizing Man Power to Load Merchant Ships

Business Changes Necessary to Make New Commerce Carriers
Most Useful to This and Other Nations

By EDWARD N. HURLEY,
Chairman United States Shipping Board.

WITH something like 25,000,000 tons of merchant shipping to be employed inside of two years, the United States Shipping Board feels that it is none too early to look around for cargoes, both in this country and abroad. With the task of building the ships in charge of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, under the leadership of Charles M. Schwab, this function of the United States Shipping Board begins to attain prominence—and that is what the shipping board was originally created for by Congress.

Twenty-five million tons is a lot of shipping. In one voyage these ships would carry all the live stock, dressed meats, packing-house products, poultry, game, fish, wool, hides, and leather carried on our railroads in one year. In less than five trips they would carry our whole yearly railroad haul of grain, flour, cotton, hay, fruit, vegetables, and other farm products; in three and one-half trips all our lumber; in seven trips all our manufactured goods; in sixteen trips all our coal and cake. The total tonnage hauled on our railroads is about 1,200,000,000 tons.

So, amid all his splendid effort in producing equipment to win the war, the American manufacturer must be asked to take thought for to-morrow and think in terms of shipping and foreign trade. This might appear like a distraction now—something which will take the attention from the supreme duty of winning the war. But far from being a distraction, it fits in with war production and war psychology. While our factories and factory employees are building war material to-day, they are also building foreign trade, if we can only see things whole and make one factor work with another.

When the business man turns his attention to export trade he looks abroad and thinks of foreign customers. But foreign trade actually begins in his own factory. He looks abroad and studies such factors as ocean freight, foreign exchange, export packing, and international salesmanship. If he would look into his own factory first, and study factors close at hand, such as labor turnover, wages, manufacturing costs and efficiency, he would be laying solid foundations for export trade.

In a recent study of factors that make successful, lasting foreign trade, Prof. Taussig places first of all the element of manufacturing "effectiveness," as he calls it, which he defines as a combination of capital, labor, invention, salesmanship, and transportation, all working together under first-rate business leadership, to make goods capable of holding markets in competition with the products of other nations. These elements of effectiveness are largely right at hand in our factories—it is not necessary to send anybody abroad to find them. And as an illustration of how nations make mistakes in trying to build foreign trade at the other end, Prof. Taussig shows that real effectiveness in manufacturing almost invariably holds its own against artificial devices for building foreign trade, such as export bounties, special railroad rates on export shipments, cut prices, discriminatory tariffs, etc.

With the bugaboo of cheap foreign labor haunting us in former years, we got into the way of thinking that export trade necessitated some lowering of wages and American living standards. Probably that was crooked thinking before that export trade necessitated some lowering of wages and American living standards. Probably that was crooked thinking before the war. Certainly it is crooked thinking now, for the war is bringing other nations closer to our American standards of wages and living.

True development of foreign trade in our factories means better and better American standards.

In most of the countries of the world there will be a decided shortage of labor after the war. That country will best succeed which protects its workmen by improving their living conditions, guaranteeing a fair return for labor, protecting workmen and their families against accidents and idleness, and making workers better citizens. The country taking those measures will be the country that develops and makes products most economically, and will perform a world service by making goods at the prices fair to other nations.

Nobody has yet suggested sending cheap American soldiers over to France to win the war. Our men at arms are the pick of the country, physically and mentally. We take plenty of time to train them, make them specialists in every branch of fighting. We study them individually to find which are best suited for flying, or signalling, or bombing, or bayonet fighting. We recognize that modern war is a swift game, constantly changing, and that our soldiers must be prepared to learn new trades and new tricks from month to month, and we get ready to teach them these new trades, and also put them in a receptive attitude toward improvements in the fighting game. We feed them like fighting cocks, and spare no expense in clothing them or providing the latest fighting tools.

In the Army and the Navy we have a visible mobilization of man power for results in a foreign country. If we could have the same visible mobilization of man power in our factories for foreign trade it would be a splendid object lesson for those who manage the factories and make the export goods.

To think of cheapness in connection with foreign trade is just as wrong as trying to pin bargain tags on soldiers. Foreign markets are not going to be won or held by cheapened American workers, or bargain methods in American life. As manufacturers, we have got to lay the foundations for foreign trade by going out into our factories and studying labor and costs together. We can sell our export products at reasonable prices by increasing wages along

Heat and Hot Water Question in Court Again

Court of Appeals May Have to Decide Cold Weather Problem as Between Landlord and Tenant

LANDLORDS and tenants alike will be interested in an opinion just handed down by the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court, First Department, in a case growing out of the failure last winter of landlords to supply heat and hot water to their tenants.

The case was that of Morris Jashnoff, Isaac Workin, and Tobias Lopan, Landlord-Appellant, against Austin J. Wall, Tenant-Respondent, and the opinion was on the appeal of the plaintiff from a final order in summary proceedings in the Municipal Court allowing defendant-tenant's counter-claim. Diamond & Abraham, by Milton Diamond, appeared as counsel for the Landlord-Appellants, and David J. Rosen as attorney for Tenant-Respondent. The opinion written by Justice Finch is as follows:

"The landlord instituted summary proceedings because of the non-payment of rent for the month of January, 1918. The answer consisted of a separate defence and counter-claim urging an agreement on the part of the landlord to keep the demised premises supplied with heat and hot water and alleged a breach of this covenant in that the premises were not supplied with heat and the consequent damage incurred in the purchase of a heater, and also in the use of gas. It appeared that there was a written lease containing an express covenant to supply heat, and that the premises were an apartment to be used for living purposes. There was an issue as to whether the covenant to furnish heat had been broken and the court below resolved the issue in favor of the tenant, and there was evidence to sustain the finding. The court allowed the expense incurred in the purchase of a gas stove and tube, and these articles were tendered the landlord in open court. The tender of these articles was not essential to defendant's cause of action under his counter-claim. Defendant's recovery must be limited to the active loss incurred by him because of plaintiff's breach of contract. In the case at bar this would be the difference between the price necessarily paid by the defendant for the gas stove and tube less their present value, properly shown." [Jacob Neu Realty Co., O. Noxall Shirt Co., Appellate Term. Decision filed June 28, 1918. Since no allowance was made by the court below for the present value of these articles owned by the tenant, it follows that the judgment must be reversed and a new trial ordered, without costs to either party upon this appeal.

F. K. Pendelton, Charles Guy, Justices, Concur.

Counsellor David J. Rosen said:

"The decision of the Appellate Term in the Wall case ought not to be accepted by the tenants of the City of New York as the final expression of the law as to the rights of tenants upon the landlord's failure to supply hot water and steam heat.

"This decision is only a partial victory for the tenants. The right to deduct for the use of gas may be regarded as a victory. The limitation that the Appellate Term places upon the recovery for the cost of a heater may be regarded as a victory for the landlords. The average tenant could not comply with the rule, as expressed in this decision. In order to be entitled to anything for the cost of the heater a tenant would have to produce expert testimony to show the difference between the cost of the heater and the value of the heater at the time the deduction is made. It simply means that if in the middle of the month a tenant had spent $10.00 and wanted to make a deduction thereof on the 1st of January he could only recover the deterioration in the value of the heater between the middle of December and the 1st of January.

"If the tenant should have any need for the heater during the months of January, February, and March, and use the same, no subsequent recovery could be had, because there was once a recovery. If it were to be held that a recovery could be had the tenant would have to go through with the same difficulties in so far as proof of the deterioration is concerned.

"My client, Mr. Wall, has gone to the expense of litigating this matter in the Municipal Court and also before the Appellate Term. He removed from the premises, and I believe is no longer interested to incur further expense in order to take this case to the Appellate Division, and, if necessary, to the Court of Appeals.

"I think the decision in the Bliss case is unsound. I understand the court held in that case that in the absence of an expressed covenant to furnish steam heat and hot water the tenant's measure of damages would be simply an action for breach of covenant. In other words, the courts recognize that there is an implied covenant to furnish steam heat, nevertheless they refuse to follow the measure of damages recognized by the courts in the case of an expressed covenant where they permitted a reduction for the use of gas.

"As I understand the law, there is no difference between an expressed covenant and an implied covenant. For that reason there ought not to be any difference in the remedy afforded for breach of covenant to furnish heat. Were the case to be taken to the Appellate Division and, if necessary, to the Court of Appeals, I am reasonably certain that these courts would so hold."

Qualifies as Realty Expert

AUTHENTICITY of the information given in the Record and Guide each week has again been recognized by the Supreme Court, and Miss Helen Leube of 3011 Westchester avenue, Bronx, called as an expert by Hirlleman & Vaughan, attorneys for property owners claiming damages because of the closing of the Old Clason Point Road, was permitted to qualify as an expert on her statement that she has a complete file of the Record and Guide since 1873, and has carefully studied the information contained therein.

A commission appointed by the Supreme Court to fix damages to property abutting on the Old Clason Point Road and composed of John F. Coffin, Edward Godfrey and Arthur Brisbach took testimony in the matter and when Miss Leube was called to testify to the value of the land before the closing of the road and its present value, Assistant Corporation Counsel James Regan Fitzgerald, in charge of the Bureau of Street Openings, objected to her testimony unless she first qualified as an expert.

Questioned by the commissioners, Miss Leube stated that her knowledge of realty values in that section was gained by her study of real estate data published in the Record and Guide each week, whereupon Mr. Fitzgerald withdrew his objection and she was permitted to qualify and testify.

Miss Leube is engaged in the real estate business at the above address and before engaging in business for herself was associated with William A. Cokely, now real estate appraiser in charge of the Real Estate Bureau of the Comptroller's office.

Does "H" Subway Mean Big Shift of Population?

Building Boom Certain When Conditions Permit in New Territory Opened Up—Effect on Rentals

THE effect on realty in all parts of the city of the opening of the "H" system of subway operation is a question that is exciting the interest of realty men and tenants. The demoralization of the system on the day following its initial operation necessitating the abandonment temporarily, at least, of the shuttle service between Times Square and Grand Central Station led to various suggestions as to the possible shifting of the population from one part of the city to another and what might happen to values and to rentals.

With a view to ascertaining just how tenants feel about the new order of transportation a Record & Guide representative interviewed several prominent real estate brokers. Mr. Mark Rafalsky, of the firm of Mark Rafalsky & Co., said: "Some of our tenants did speak to us about the new order of things before the 'H' system was opened, but they were assured that the problem would be worked out in a satisfactory manner just as soon as observations could be made and remedies applied to existing defects and that there would be little difficulty experienced and they would become accustomed to the new order of things just as they were to the old. We manage many high class properties on the west side and have as tenants people who are in business on the east side.

"There has not been any intimation from our tenants that they are dissatisfied with the existing order of transit facilities and we have renewed all our leases and at a substantial increase in every instance. I look for a decided boom in building operations on the east side as soon as conditions warrant a resumption of building activities and many old buildings will give way to modern structures now in great demand because of the tapping of that very important part of the city.

"Values are bound to increase because of the opening of the subway system, but I do not expect any movement on the part of tenants to locate their places of business on the same side of the city as their homes."

At the office of F. R. Wood-W. H. Dolson Company, Mr. Eugene S. Van Riper manager said:

"We have renewed almost every lease with tenants in properties managed by us and in very instance at an increase over the present rental, but we have yet to hear a single complaint from a tenant about the increase or any intimation that because of subway conditions they contemplate seeking quarters along transportation lines that will carry them direct to their places of business. We have no vacant apartments on our books and we have a large waiting list, so that tenants now in our properties are content to leave well enough alone and not even suggest moving lest we take them at their word and lease their apartments to other people. What effect the new subway system will have on realty values is in the future and cannot be determined at this time, but experience has shown us, as it has others, that wherever a public improvement such as the opening of a new system of transportation taps a section previously without adequate means of transportation realty values increase and building activity becomes a feature."

At the office of DuBois & Taylor, who manage a large number of high class apartments, a representative of the firm said: "We do not look for any vacancies in our properties because of the inconvenience of travel brought about by the "H" system of subway operation, for our tenants know as well as we do that there is a scarcity of desirable apartments in all parts of the city, east side as well as west side, and they realize that they would find it very hard to lease apartments, and are content to remain where they are. That there will be an increase in realty values in all parts of the city because of the new subway system is certain just as soon as the system is working properly and people find just how it works, and this will be particularly noticeable in those sections of the city now having subway facilities for the first time."

Honor Banner Presented to Alfred E. Marling

MEMBERS of the Real Estate Committee of the Real Estate Board for the Third Liberty Loan assembled on Thursday afternoon at the rooms of the board, 217 Broadway, to manifest in a material way their respect and admiration for the work of the chairman of that committee, Alfred E. Marling. Every member of the committee was present when Mr. Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board, called the assembly to order. Mr. McGuire said:

"We are gathered here today to show our appreciation of and to honor the work of the working chairman of the last Liberty Loan drive. There was some delay in getting the honor banner which we are to present to Mr. Marling, and that is the reason for not holding this meeting before now. I know of no one more entitled to possess this merited decoration. I take great pleasure in introducing Mr. William H. Wheelock, who will make the presentation in behalf of the committee."

Mr. Wheelock said:

"Mr. Marling is a leader in the real estate business, and we are glad that the Chamber of Commerce has recognized his ability and made him its president. But in spite of all the honors that have come to him he is still to us Al. Marling. Flags mean more to us than they did, and so we decided on this occasion to present a flag rather than a silver tea-set, or some other piece of silver which would find repose for many years in some safe-deposit vault and perhaps later on be melted down by some descendent who thought more of the cash than the honor."

Mr. Wheelock then presented the banner, which is of satin. In the staff is a small brass plate which bears the inscription, "Presented to Alfred E. Marling by his co-workers of the Real Estate Committee, Third Liberty Loan, 1918." In accepting the flag Mr. Marling said:

"I am touched by this evidence of your approval of what was done last spring. I must confess I am a little embarrassed. I was mysteriously invited to come here at one o'clock today. I got a slight indication last night of what was in the wind, so I am not fully surprised. Nevertheless and nonetheless, it is deeply appreciated by me. The success last spring was not due to the chairman, but was due to the work of all hands who overcame the inherent difficulties we had to meet."

A motion was made and unanimously carried that the Real Estate Board pledge itself to support Mr. Marling and to start at once to prepare for the next Liberty Loan campaign.

A buffet luncheon was served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Appellate Division Adopts Torrens Law Rules

Fixes Practice in Supreme Court for Registration of Titles and the Qualifications of Official Examiners

RULES for the registration of titles under the Torrens Law and the calendar practice of the Special and Trial Terms of the Supreme Court in the First Judicial District, Bronx County, have been amended by the Justices of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, First Department, by adding the following:

RULE X.—REGISTRATION OF LAND TITLE.

A. An official examiner of title, before he is licensed and admitted to practice as such, must file the bond required by Rule 3 of the rules of the Court of Appeals relating to applications to practice as official examiners of title approved by the presiding justice of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court in this department. All bonds executed by individual sureties must have annexed thereto an affidavit of each surety stating his age and residence, with the street and number, and specifically stating the property owned by the surety, with a brief description thereof and its value and the liens or incumbrances and the business, if any, of the surety, and stating the amount of his indebtedness, whether there are any existing judgments against him, and the amount of his property over and above such indebtedness. In case of the death of a surety the official examiner of title must, within thirty days thereafter, file a new bond, with new sureties, fully complying with this rule. Each applicant for a license as an official examiner of title must also produce a certificate of the committee on character and fitness certifying that he is of good moral character and as to his standing in regard to financial transactions.

B. A petition for registration of title to real property, made under the Real Property Law (chap. 52 of the Laws of 1909) as amended, must be made at the Special Term of the Supreme Court, in Bronx County, which is hereby designated for this purpose the "Title Part" of the said court, under section 371 of the said act, and the justice of the Supreme Court from time to time assigned to the Special Term is hereby designated as the justice to have general supervision and control of the business coming under the act in the County of Bronx, and all petitions to register title to real property under the act must be returnable at the said "Title Part" of the Special Term.

C. The survey, map or plan to be filed by the petitioner, subject to the approval of the court, if not filed with the petition, shall be filed with the examiner of title at least fourteen days before the return day designated in the notice of hearing.

D. After the time provided in the notice of hearing shall have expired, or within such further time as may have been allowed by the court, if there has been no appearance of answer, the petitioner may apply to the "Title Part" of the Special Term for a final order or judgment, as provided for in the act. In all applications for final order or judgment the applicant must present to the court proof by affidavit that all the provisions of the act entitling the applicant to such final order or judgment have been complied with.

E. Where an answer is interposed which raises an issue of fact which in an action relating to the title to real property would be triable by a jury, either party to the proceeding who is entitled to have such issue determined may apply to the "Title Part" of the Special Term, within twenty days after the issue has been joined to have the issues framed to be tried by a jury, as provided by section 970 of the Code of Civil Procedure. The trial of such issues shall be had and the subsequent proceeding in relation thereto shall be such as is prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure. After such issues are disposed of, either party to the proceeding may apply to the "Title Part" of the Special Term, upon eight days' notice to all who have appeared in the proceeding, for final order or judgment, and on such application the court shall try all other issues in the proceeding not disposed of by the jury, or may refer any such issues undisposed of to be tried by a referee. Where all issues have been disposed of, either may then, upon notice of eight days to all who have appeared in the proceeding, apply for final order or judgment at the "Title Part" of the Special Term.

F. All applications to the court after a certificate of registration has been issued under the provisions of the act must be given at the "Title Part" of the Special Term hereinbefore designated, upon notice of eight days to all persons interested in the application. All applications to the court under section 422 of the act shall be made at the "Title Part" of the Special Term, upon eight days' notice to all persons in interest, as provided in that section. All applications made under section 428 of the act shall also be made at the "Title Part" of the Special Term upon eight days' notice to the city chamberlain and all other parties who have appeared in the proceedings to recover for loss or damage or deprivation of real property out of the assurance fund provided for by the act.

Dated New York, June 20, 1918.

JOHN PROCTOR CLARKE.
FRANK C. LAUGHLIN.
WALTER LLOYD SMITH.
ALFRED R. PAGE.
EDGAR S. K. MERRELL.

Hon. John J. Hopper, ex-register of New York County and treasurer of the Torrens Title League, has compiled the following, showing the first registration under the amended Torrens law:

The new law has hardly had time to show its paces as yet but we can truthfully say that it does not come under the list of those laws characterized by Judge Davis of the Massachusetts Land Court as "An Act that will neither work in practice, nor even begin." We at least have begun.

As soon as our Torrens amendments were signed by the Governor, I decided to show my good faith in our law by being the first to register a title under it. Mr. Walter Fairchild prepared the necessary forms and on May 23, 1918, I filed the petition to register my two lots.

The following were the necessary disbursements for official fees—property assessed at six thousand dollars: To the County Clerk:

Filing petition .....	$0.50
Filing and recording notice.....	1.15
Filing order of reference.....	0.40
Docketing final judgment.....	1.00
Certifying copy of judgment.....	1.00
	<hr/> $4.05

To the Registrar:

Filing notice .....	$1.00
Official examiner—(one-tenth of one per cent. of assessed value plus $10)	16.00
Publishing, mailing and posting notice	14.19
Assurance premium—(one-tenth of one per cent. of assessed value).....	6.00
Certificate of title and owner's duplicate .....	5.00
	<hr/> $42.19
Survey .....	15.00

The petition was filed on May 23, 1918; return day set for June 21, 1918; judgment entered June 28, 1918; judgment filed with the registrar June 29, 1918; certificate received July 12, 1918.

The judge held the papers for one week. This enabled careful examination to be given. In many of the registrations under the old law the mistaken idea was encouraged that the main purpose of a Torrens law was to make bad titles good. This is not so. The main purpose of a real Torrens law is to register good titles and only incidentally clear up any technical cloud on the title and thus make it marketable. Also registration of titles makes dealing in real estate safe, quick and cheap. A real Torrens law is a business man's law. Real estate is made a quick asset.

The delay of two weeks in the registrar's office in my case was caused by the lack of a registrar's seal. This is now remedied and in the second title registered here

Investigation of Conditions on Surface Lines

Public Service Commission Proposes Committee of One from Each Company to Study Finances and Traffic

THE Public Service Commission has started an inquiry into the conditions of finance and traffic on the surface roads to determine what action is necessary to relieve the stress under which the roads are operating.

The application of the surface lines for increased fares which is now before the Board of Estimate was not discussed at the hearing. The investigation into the general conditions of the railways was undertaken at the suggestion of Commissioner Charles S. Hervey, who recommended the appointment of a Conference Committee on Service, consisting of one member each from the New York Railways Company, the Third Avenue Railway system, the Brooklyn Rapid Transit surface lines, the Queens Borough surface lines, and the Richmond Borough surface lines, together with a representative each from the Transit Bureau, the Bureau of Electrical Equipment, the Bureau of Statistics and Accounts, and the Law Department of the commission.

At the next hearing on Wednesday, Aug. 14, this committee will be expected to make a complete or at least a partial report on the following items:

1. What lines largely used by the public are now supplying inadequate service, and what additional service thereon is necessary to meet the public need?

2. What, if any, surface lines in the city can be discontinued during the period of the war without serious inconvenience to the public?

3. Where service cannot be discontinued what reduction in nonrush-hour service can be made?

4. If any discontinuance of service or reduction in service is recommended, what will be the annual or monthly saving thereby expressed in quantity of material or labor and in money?

Commissioner Hervey declared that as the basis for any discontinuance or reduction in service weight should be given to the following conditions:

"1. Where lines either of the same system or of competing systems parallel other lines a short distance away, or where one line can be used reasonably to meet the service now performed by two or more.

"2. Where surface lines run parallel or near-by streets, or are located under or over an existing rapid transit line.

"3. Where lines now accommodate a comparatively small percentage of the public, and where this service, transferred to congested lines, would give relief and service to a large number of patrons, except that where, in suburban localities, the discontinuance of a line would deprive the locality of its only service, such a line should not be discontinued."

The hearing, presided over by Chairman Charles B. Hubbell, was attended by representatives of the street surface railroad companies, among them being James L. Quackenbush, Frank Hedley, and Henry J. Smith for the New York Railways Company; C. E. Peterson for the Second Avenue Railway Company, F. H. Innes for the Richmond Light and Railroad Company and Staten Island Midland Railway Company, E. A. Maher and Alfred P. Davison for the Third Avenue Railway Company, George D. Yeomans, Colonel Timothy S. Williams, J. J. Dempsey for the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Companies; W. O. Wood and A. G. Peacock for the New York and Queens County Railway Company, the Long Island Electric Railroad Company and the New York and Long Island Traction Company, and C. L. Addison for the Ocean Electric Railway Company.

Joseph M. Price, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the City Club, has written Mayor Hylan advocating the modification of the franchises of the surface railway companies of the city so as to permit them to increase fares to seven cents. Mr. Price suggests that the city might take advantage of the situation by requiring the companies to make concessions in return, perhaps in the surrender of their perpetual franchises.

Mr. Price stated that the rapid transit lines, subway and elevated, would also have to be granted permission to increase fares, as otherwise the surface lines could not exist in competition with lines charging a lower rate.

"Neither popular prejudice nor a natural unwillingness to permit an increase in cost which affects practically the entire community," he said, "should be allowed to stand in the way of a square facing of the situation and the working out of a just solution."

A special committee of the New York Board of Trade and Transportation sent a letter to the Franchise Committee of the Board of Estimate, urging the latter to waive, on behalf of the city, the five-cent provision of the existing franchise to the street railroad companies so that the Public Service Commission may fix "a just rate of fare upon its merits, after investigation."

Mayor Hylan wrote to Charles Bulkley Hubbell, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, Thursday last, protesting against any action by the commission at this time looking to the relief of the street railways financially or to suspending any lines of traffic which compete with subways and elevated lines.

"I wish to emphatically protest that at this time your commission take no action in this matter which would interfere in any way or lessen the service, in some instances inadequate, rendered to the public by the street railways, or interfere with or reduce the service now rendered under franchises granted by this city to the various traction companies. I feel that any action taken by your commission in connection with this subject would materially interfere with the investigation and study which the Franchise Commission of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment is making at this time.

"The Franchise Committee of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, in its consideration of the applications of the various railroad companies for an increased fare, and its efforts to render justice to the corporation and at the same time conserve the rights of the public, will give most serious consideration to all the facts submitted by the petitioners."

the certificate was issued the day after the final judgment was obtained.

The second title registered was that of Mr. Charles C. Burlingham. Property assessed at twenty-seven thousand dollars.

Fees:

Registrar .....	83.69
Survey .....	15.00

$101.74

On Staten Island, Mr. James E. Caffrey, the Shoeman, of Stapleton, has the distinction of being first to file a registration petition in Richmond County.

Mr. Caffrey is registering title to two properties, one at 32 Lyman Avenue, Rosebank, S. I., the assessed value of which is three thousand dollars.

The other property is 46 Harrison Street, Stapleton, the assessed value of which is thirty-five hundred dollars. The official fees for registration are estimated at thirty-seven dollars for the Lyman Avenue and thirty-eight dollars for the Harrison Street property.

The petition for the first title to be registered in Brooklyn under the new Torrens law was filed in the County Clerk's office on July 22, 1918. The property is on Fort Hamilton Parkway.

The papers were submitted to Judge Fawcett and the formal order was entered on the same day referring the matter to Mr. Walter L. Durack, 215 Montague Street, Brooklyn, as official examiner of titles.

Mr. Durack was appointed to act as official examiner for Kings County by Registrar Richard P. Webster.

The assessed value of the Fort Hamilton parcel is twelve hundred and fifty dollars and the fees of the Registrar for examining the title, publishing, mailing and posting notice and for the assurance premium and certificate of title amounts to thirty-three dollars and fifty cents ($33.50).

"H" Difficulties Only Temporary

The usual proportion of New Yorkers who see only the dark side of any situation have made themselves heard in connection with the formal opening of the new "H" subway system. If one were to judge from the complaints of this class of our citizens, it might promptly be assumed that the new "H" system is a failure and that it ought to be relegated at once to the junk heap.

It is not open to doubt that a great many passengers, using the new system for the first time last week, encountered much inconvenience. It became evident on the first day that the traveling public had not informed themselves as to the easiest and quickest way to utilize their new subway facilities. The efforts of east side people to get across to the west side of town at Forty-second Street, in conjunction with the efforts of west side people to get across to the east side at the same point, was bound to lead to great confusion. The shuttle trains in Forty-second Street very properly were discontinued until the traveling public can become better informed as to the best way to use the new system. On the opening day thousands of passengers transferred at Forty-second Street when they could have avoided inconvenience and saved time by using a through train on either the east or the west side.

The difficulties which passengers encountered on the opening day were inevitable and some of them might have been avoidable with better management at Forty-second Street, but, after all, the inconvenience which passengers experienced was a trivial matter in comparison to the great benefits which are certain to result from the establishment of the new "H" system. Within a short time all New Yorkers will learn how to use the new system to its full advantage, and that the "H" system is replete with advantages for the traveling public there can be no doubt.

The new system is a great enterprise and it will be operated conveniently and successfully within a short time. Well-balanced people will not form a permanent prejudice against the new system merely because of the inconvenience which was experienced when it was first put into operation.

New York's Great Opportunity

Edward N. Hurley has set himself the task of awakening the American business man to the great opportunity that lies within his grasp in the possibilities of the rapidly expanding foreign commerce of the country. No man is better fitted for this self-imposed labor of love than the Chairman of the United States Shipping Board.

It takes broad vision and imagination combined with knowledge of conditions and business acumen to accurately gauge the part that this country may play in the world's commercial activities after the war. All of these Mr. Hurley possesses in large degree. He has faith to believe that the shipping business, in which Americans once played the leading part, is again a field in which we shall be prominent, if not predominant. He claims, and offers arguments that are plausible, that it has not been lack of subsidies nor low wages to seamen, by means of which England and other foreign powers built up an immense foreign trade, that have kept the Stars and Stripes off the high seas at the taff-rail of cargo boats. But he says that the insignificant part which we have taken in this very lucrative business has been occasioned by the fact that American business men have not heretofore applied to the building of ships and the management of the shipping business the same principles that have given them a world's lead in the manufacture and sale of automobiles, farm machinery, sewing machines, typewriters and a score of other articles manufactured on the interchangeable-part system. It has been the application of the template pattern used heretofore by American bridge builders in turning out "ready-to-use" bridges in quantities that lately has enabled the United States to accomplish wonders in the building of standardized ships.

Mr. Hurley expects that the enormous advantage which the United States has achieved in one year over other maritime nations by the fabrication of a prodigious number of these standardized ships will be maintained after the war. To carry on this method of manufacture of ships successfully, the country must maintain a large force of workmen engaged in similar industries. It happens that in this respect the United States is more fortunate than any other country because it is the only one in which the template system of bridge manufacture is in operation. This is a country where bridges are more numerous than in any other, consequently there is the need of standardized bridges, and so the maintenance of a large force of bridge builders—and these men can build standardized ships at cut rates, because they are made on the "ready-to-use" plan.

The wage question, Mr. Hurley says, does not enter into the question of the success of American shipping. It is rather a question of limiting the unproductive time spent by cargo carriers in harbors while being loaded and unloaded, and the American system of handling cargo in bulk, used in the coal and ore trade, applied to foreign shipments, will effect the same lowering of cost that it has in domestic trade. This has been proved in the handling of ore cargos on the Great Lakes and by the railroads in the transshipment of grain.

American workmen, too, contribute their share to the result, and labor-saving machinery operated by them is another contributing factor. The average production of iron ore per employe of the United States Steel Corporation is about 2,200 tons per year. The so-called efficient German workman handles only 400 tons per year. The American workman with his high wages and labor-saving machinery does four or five times the amount of work that his low-waged European competitor does, which eliminates the wage question when the American manufacturer is figuring on foreign contracts.

These are some of the reasons given by Mr. Hurley for believing that the United States will be a great factor in the world commerce after the war. If New York is to continue to maintain its position as the leading port of the country it must fit out its docks and wharves with the terminal facilities to handle cargoes in bulk, so that the cost of doing business can be kept lower than it is in foreign ports.

This harbor is the one most easily adapted to the business which Mr. Hurley expects the country to do and it will be the fault of the city alone if advantage is not taken of the opportunity thus presented.

Hold Your Liberty Bonds.

Some good advice to purchasers of Liberty Bonds is given in the warning which the Chamber of Commerce of the United States has just issued.

It is a fact that some purchasers of these government war securities are selling them in the open market. This is a tendency which must be checked if the best interest of the nation are to be subserved. Secretary McAdoo and other Administration officials have made this clear.

Despite the official statements, however, a considerable quantity of Liberty Bonds are being sold. To make its protest effective, the United States Chamber of Commerce is sending out large numbers of posters giving this warning:

"Don't be swindled out of your Liberty Bond.

"If tempted to consider a trade take the trader to the nearest bank and ask the banker to check the value of the thing offered.

"If you must absolutely have the money, your bond can always be sold for cash in the open market and the daily papers will tell you what it is worth.

"Keep your bond until the end of the war. Go without something you need rather than sell it. Your bond is your substitute on the fighting front. To part with it takes you out of the fight.

"Instead of selling the bond you own, buy another one to keep the first one company.

"Liberty Bonds are the best security on earth today.

"They are the promise of the United States Government to pay you interest twice a year and to pay the face value of the bonds when due. Their safety is the reason they carry a low rate of interest. Detach each coupon on the date it bears, take it to a bank and deposit it to your account, or draw the cash value.

"Register your bonds, and keep them where they cannot be lost, stolen or destroyed. Go to a bank for information—many banks offer facilities for safe-keeping of bonds. To lose an unregistered bond is the same as to lose that amount of money."

Officials of the National Chamber of Commerce have received reports that purchasers of Liberty Bonds in various parts of the country have been approached by persons offering to trade stocks of doubtful value for their Liberty Bonds. In many instances, it appears, the holders of Liberty Bonds have been told that the other securities offered to them will pay greater returns.

The warning issued by the Chamber of Commerce is timely. Liberty Bond holders have the safest investment in their bonds and should keep them. Besides, it is your patriotic duty to do so.

with output, and decreasing the losses caused by labor turnover, untrained workers, spoiled materials and other inefficiency.

Our experience along these lines in the Emergency Fleet Corporation has been most encouraging. With the task of creating new shipyards in a few months, and manning them with several hundred thousand workmen, most of whom came from other trades, we ran into about every difficulty, and problem, and tangle, that could conceivably arise in management. On a large scale we effected an adjustment of man power such as is called for now in preparing the average American factory for the export trade which we will need to keep our ships employed.

To get production at unheard of speed and in record-breaking quantity, we did something simple and fundamental—and thoroughly human. This was nothing more nor less than arranging wages so that, while our workers produced more for us, they were also able to produce more for themselves. We established the rule that a piecework wage rate set by any shipbuilder must stay in force during the period of the war. Any manufacturer who sets a piece-work rate, and then reduces that rate if he finds that he has made a mistake against himself, is doing a great injustice to his employees. Profiting by our experience in the shipyards, I should like to see Congress pass a Federal law making it compulsory to keep every piece rate in effect one year. That would protect workers and furnish a real basis for increased production.

We found ourselves confronted with enormous losses and dangerous delays through lack of skill in special trades needed by workers in the shipyards, and also through the cost of labor turnover. To find 100 capable shipbuilders who would stick on the job it was necessary to hire and try, discharge or lose 1,000. Every manufacturer will recognize in these difficulties exactly the difficulties that he himself faces from day to day, and which put excessive burdens of cost upon his products. In the shipyards we got around those difficulties by establishing training centers for the various trades we needed, and also by appealing to the splendid spirit which lies in the average worker. We had to train everybody, from the boy who heats rivets right up—foremen and superintendents, and even executives. Starting with a little nucleus of skilled riveters, caulkers, reamers, carpenters and so forth, we took them out of the shipyard for a time and taught them how to teach their trades to others. Then they went back into the yards to teach green recruits, not in any school or class, but on actual ships, while doing the regular day's work. Under this system it was possible to quickly bring green gangs up to about 80 per cent of the efficiency of skilled workmen. As fast as these men learned their trades, and acquired high earning power under our protected piece rates, they became steady enough, and the costly item of labor turnover began to drop. After that, nothing more was needed but the appeal for patriotic service. We found that the shipworkers would not only stick on the job like soldiers, but that in their inherent spirit as fighters and loyal Americans there was an enormous reserve of man power to draw upon—a reserve capable of meeting every demand and every emergency, with power to spare.

That reserve of spirit exists in every American industry. War has brought it to light where executives can see it and to develop this great reserve for foreign trade is distinctly the executive's job.

To fill our merchant ships with goods after the war and hold our own in foreign markets, we must begin now to mobilize and train our man power in manufacturing along the same broad lines followed in training for military purposes. Wake up, American business men! Begin to study the man power in your own organizations. Not with the Prussian viewpoint, which counts human life its cheapest raw material in both the factory and the fighting line, but with the American viewpoint of decent living, opportunity, humanity, service.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Unusual Activity in Spite of Excessive Heat—Several Large Deals Reported—Apartments Figure in Majority of Sales

IN spite of the fact that the week just ending broke all existing records for heat, an unusual activity in real estate circles was manifested and a large number of important transactions were consummated.

A lease of particular importance negotiated by the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company was that of the residence of Mrs. Herman Oelrichs on Fifth avenue at Fifty-seventh street to the New York Trust Company for an uptown office. This lease takes out of the market the last residential building in the section and means the complete transformation of the neighborhood from a residential to a business zone.

Apartment houses figured largely in the sales of the week and several very important deals involving substantial amounts and exchanges as well were put through. The ten story fireproof apartment house at the northwest corner of Cathedral Parkway and Amsterdam avenue was purchased by the Winter Realities Corporation from the One Hundred and Sixty Broadway Corporation. Operators realizing the many attractive bargains now to be had have been active of late and this week made several good sales and purchases. Frederick Brown who has been particularly active of late continued his buying campaign by purchasing two five-story buildings in 191st street. Typifying the prevailing investment interest in apartment properties was the purchase by Max Lowenthal and R. A. Low from Alfred E. Marling and Walter C. Noyes as receivers of the American Real Estate Company of a nine-story income producing apartment house in Sixty-second street adjoining the Colony and Link's clubs.

In the downtown business section several good deals were put through. William D. Kilpatrick, operator, resold 89 Water street, a five-story building, to William J. Farrell. Mr. Kilpatrick has been active in downtown properties of late. Another deal involving downtown property was consummated by Charles F. Noyes Company who also put through the sale for Mr. Kilpatrick, in the resale of 66 Front street a five-story loft building.

Bing & Bing effected the sale of the seven-story apartment house known as the Metropolitan at the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-eighth street to John J. Dillon. This property was recently sold by the Oceanic Investing Company to Black, Starr and Frost in an exchange transaction. This property was held at $450,000.

Frederick Brown sold to the Edinburgh Realty Company the Lorington apartments at 2226 Loring Place a five-story non-elevator structure held at $150,000. In part payment the buying company gave the four story and basement dwelling at the northeast corner of Park avenue and Sixty-fourth street and property in Herkimer street, Brooklyn.

Leasing continued good this week and several important leases were reported in all parts of the city. Brokers have been active interviewing tenants in properties managed by them about renewals of leases expiring in September. Increased rentals have not deterred tenants from renewing their leases the brokers report, due to the scarcity of suitable apartments and the uncertainty of a resumption of building operations because of war conditions.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 18 as against 28 last week and 16 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 6 as compared with 12 last week and 8 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 12 as compared with 16 last week and 8 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported as against 16 last week and 2 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 164 of this issue.

Louis Sherry Increases Holdings.

Fifth avenue contributed an important transaction to the real estate market last week when Louis Sherry concluded negotiations which increase his holdings at southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street. The New York Academy of Medicine, of which Dr. Walter B. James is President, leased, through Pease & Elliman, to Mr. Sherry with the option of purchase the three-story building, which has been used by the academy as a library, at 10 West Forty-fourth street, adjoining Sherry's.

Pease & Elliman recently leased to Mr. Sherry for the Mortimer L. Brooks estate, for a period of forty-two years, the five-story building at 522 Fifth avenue, which he has used for his confectionery business. The same tenant has also renewed for a term of forty-two years the lease from the Isaac L. Brokaw estate the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fourth street, paying a rental which is an increase over the terms of the old lease made twenty-one years ago with Mr. Brokaw, who built the original Sherry building. These three combined leaseholds give Mr. Sherry a valuable holding of 29,470 square feet on a prominent Fifth avenue corner, fronting 115.10 feet on the avenue and extending west 250 feet on Forty-fourth street. Extensive alterations will be made from plans by McKim, Mead & White, architects, calling for additional ballrooms and an enlargement of the men's restaurant.

Apartments Figure in Trade.

A feature of this week's realty market which showed a slight upward trend from an investment standpoint was an $820,000 trade involving a twelve-story midtown loft and an upper Broadway apartment house. Another deal affecting a midtown loft zone property, held at close to $500,000 was reported pending and no details were obtained. The principal property concerned in the $820,000 transaction was the twelve-story building at 20 to 26 West Thirty-sixth street, which was sold by Frederick Brown, operator, to Conrad Hubert, vice-president of the Union Carbide Corporation. The structure occupies a plot 65 by 100 feet and is occupied entirely by the Flint & Horner Company, which holds a ten-year lease. It was held at $650,000. In addition to a substantial cash payment, Mr. Hubert gave the six-story elevator apartment house, occupying a plot 75 by 100 at 537 and 539 West 151st street, renting for $16,649 and valued at $135,000; also three two-family houses with stores at 501 to 515 Rogers avenue, Brooklyn. The latter property was valued in the trade at $35,000. Mr. Brown acquired the Thirty-sixth street loft about two weeks ago from the Lintner corporation.

Sale in Partition.

A lis pendens was filed Monday in the County Clerk's office against property on the west side of Central Park West, 50.11 feet south of Ninety-eighth street, 50 by 100; Ninety-second street, south side, 125 feet west of Central Park West 45 by 100.8; Ninety-second street, south side, 170 feet west of Central Park West, 45 by 100.8; Ninety-second street, south side, 215 feet west of Central Park West, 48 by 100.8; Fourth avenue, southwest corner of Astor Place, 114 by irregular, and property in Bronx Manor, at Bronxville station, Westchester County, N. Y., in proceedings brought by Howard Crosby Brokaw against the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, as trustee under the will of Isaac V. Brokaw, B. McNair, Elvira Irving Brokaw, Elvira Gould Brokaw, Irving Brokaw, Edna Loew Brokaw, and others, executors and executrix, &c., for a petition and division of the property. Anderson & Anderson are the attorneys for the plaintiff.

Operator Sells Lorington.

Frederick Brown sold to the Edinburgh Realty Company, controlled by Dr. James Bishop, the Lorington apartment house at 2226 Loring Place, a five-story non-elevator structure, on a plot 79 by 127 by irregular, overlooking the Hall of Fame of New York University, in the University Heights section of the Bronx. The house is considered one of the finest in the West Bronx and has been held at $150,000. It shows an annual return of about $18,000. In part payment, Dr. Bishop gave the four-story and basement dwelling at the northeast corner of Park avenue and Sixty-fourth street, and 43 Herkimer Place, Brooklyn, a four-story flat. The transaction involved about $300,000 and was negotiated by Electus T. Backus. The Park avenue house was resold by Mr. Brown to Rufus L. Paterson, vice-president of the American Tobacco Company.

Sale on Cathedral Parkway.

Winter Realties, Benjamin Winter, president, and Samuel Wilkes, treasurer, added to its Manhattan holdings through the purchase of the ten story fireproof apartment house at the northwest corner of Cathedral Parkway and Amsterdam avenue from the No. 160 Broadway Corporation, Max N. Natanson, president. Samuel Ginsberg was the broker. The property faces 125 feet in the parkway and 100 feet on the avenue. It is fully tenanted at a reported annual rent roll aggregating about $76,000, and was held at $550,000. Morris E. Gossett represented the buyer as attorney and Alexander S. Natanson the seller.

Sell Broadway Apartment.

The resale of the seven-story apartment house known as the Metropolitan, at the southwest corner of Broadway and Eighty-eighth street, has been effected by Bing & Bing to John J. Dillon. The property, which covers a plot 100 by 100, has been held at $450,000. It was recently sold by the Oceanic Investing Company to Black, Starr & Frost in an exchange transaction which also involved the jewelry firm's property at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-eighth street. Several days later the Broadway corner was resold to the Orinoco Realty Corporation, acting for Bing & Bing.

Sale in 62d Street.

Another desirable income-producing apartment house passed into new ownership, typifying the still-prevailing investment interest in this class of holding. Max Loewenthal and R. A. Low purchased from Alfred E. Marling and Walter C. Noyes, as receivers of the American Real Estate Company, the nine-story structure at 40 to 46 East Sixty-second street, on a plot 66 by 100. The property, which shows an annual rent return of about $45,000, is opposite the Colony Club and adjoins the Link's Club. N. A. Berwin negotiated the transaction.

Resale in Front Street.

Charles F. Noyes Company resold for Fred Ingraham to a client of Stoddard & Mark, for about $32,500, 66 Front street, a loft building covering lot 20x85 and leased for a long term to Dumarest Brothers. The building is attractively equipped for offices and salesroom. This is the third sale of the same property made by Noyes Co. The brokers state that the property has been purchased by an investor, the present mortgages retired when due and the property held for investment. The Charles F. Noyes Company were also the brokers in the recent sale of 65 Front street opposite and other very recent sales in the same block include 62-64 Front street adjoining, purchased by the Williams Company at a reported price of $75,000; the purchase of 71-73 Front street by Clarence W. Eckhardt of the Markham Realty Corporation, and the recent purchase by Samuel Brody of 55 Water street, corner of Cuylers Alley. This neighborhood is one of the most active downtown.

Quick Resale.

Charles F. Noyes Company has made another quick resale in the Hanover Square section. For William D. Kilpatrick the Noyes Company has resold No. 89 Water street, a five-story building covering lot 23.9x85, to William J. Farrell, importers and exporters of corks. Mr. Farrell's business has been established for many years at 115-117 Maiden Lane. He pays all cash for the property and will occupy the building when the present leases expire November 1st next. This is the third operation in this immediate neighborhood that William D. Kilpatrick has handled through the Noyes Company, the other two being the sales and resales of 120-122 Pearl extending through to 86-88 Water street, and the office building 85-87 Front street. The Charles F. Noyes Company recently sold and resold 85 Water street in the same block for the account of Young and Griffin Coffee Company.

Brown Buys on Heights.

Continuing his steady buying campaign, involving Washington Heights apartment houses, Frederick Brown bought from H. Feldman, in a cash transaction, the two five-story buildings at 604 and 606 West 191st street, covering a plot 100 by 100. The structures house forty families who pay an annual rental aggregating about $18,000. The holding price for the properties has been $140,000. Nehring Brothers negotiated the deal.

Manhattan.

RECENT LEASES.

Trust Company Leases on Fifth avenue.

New York Trust Company, it is reported, has made an agreement to take possession of the residence of Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, the last vestige of the former residential character of the block between 57th and 58th streets facing the mansion of Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt.

Contingent upon the above contract William Henry Barnum and his partner, William Everdell, jr., who have given the city a number of notable commercial structures, have made another agreement with the executors of the Mason-Jones estate to take over the Oelrichs house and the adjoining seven-story apartment property and erect on the combined sites a monumental structure in keeping with the corner itself, and the high grade business developments this section has received with the ascendancy of 57th street as one of the most important of the city's cross-town streets.

The proposed building will be erected by Messrs. Barnum and Everdell, under a long-term lease just as soon after the expiration of the existing lease on the corner residence as war conditions will permit. Under the agreement they have made to provide a home for the bank, they are not obliged to build for several years, unless peace should come, but, in any event, are not obliged to build for at least two years.

The building Barnum and Everdell have in mind is a nine-story structure with a facade all in limestone and designed upon monumental lines, dominated by the banking feature. Preliminary sketches are being made by Cross & Cross. The trust company, according to present plans, will lease for its use the entire basement and practically all of the grade floor for its uptown branch. The lease with the estate and the sub-lease between Barnum and Everdell and the trust company were negotiated by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

The site of the operation has a frontage of 62.3 feet on Fifth avenue and 100 feet on 57th street, abutting the residence of Augustus Van Horne Stuyvesant. The Oelrichs house, an antique but commodious dwelling, covers the major part of the land, the northerly 19 feet of which are occupied by a seven-story apartment house, which Mrs. Lewis Cruger Hasell, one of the heirs of the Mason-Jones estate, caused to be erected three years ago at a cost of $80,000.

Another Important Lease.

Charles F. Noyes Company has leased for the Denison Realty Corporation to Frederick Stearns & Co. for twenty years at an aggregate rental of about $200,000, Nos. 129-131 Maiden Lane extending through to 13 Fletcher street, with frontages of 40 feet on the Land and 20 feet on Fletcher street. The lease is the most important of many recently announced in the same general neighborhood. Extensive improvements will be made from plans of John H. Knubel. Stoddard & Mark were the attorneys for the owner and Siebert, Paddock & Cochran represented the tenant. The buildings are going to be entirely reconstructed, the two buildings will be made into one structure, an additional story added, elevators installed, and the two lower floors equipped for office purposes, exclusively. Frederick Stearns & Co. is one of the biggest pharmaceutical houses in the world. Maiden Lane has been the center of many notable improvements recently, the most important one being the erection of an office building for the New Jersey Zinc Co. covering the entire block bounded by Maiden Lane, Front, Fletcher and Water streets. Among the prominent drug and chemical houses that are located near by, are Power-Weightman-Rosengarten & Co. and John Carle & Son. Dodwell & Co., importers and exporters, have recently purchased an office building at Water and Fletcher streets near by, and there has been a big tendency of firms to secure, either on 21 year leasehold conditions or by purchase, individual office buildings in this neighborhood for their own use. For such purposes, and after alterations are made, property is renting for much higher prices than originally prevailed, and the lease at 129-131 Maiden Lane shows a healthy increase over previous rentals.

Nitrate Co. Leases New Offices.

Cross & Brown Co. have leased for the F. W. Woolworth Co. 5½ floors, comprising about 55,000 square feet in the Winfield Building, at the northeast corner of Fifth avenue and 40th street. The tenant is the Air Nitrates Corporation and the space will be used for executive offices. The lease covers the entire 4th floor, part of the 6th floor, and the 7th, 8th, 9th and 10th floors. This completes the renting of the building, with the exception of the 2d floor. This space was held at $110,000 per annum and the lease runs for a term of years. The Winfield Building, which is 10 stories on plot 92.7x122.6, was completed in June of this year. The entire ground floor and basement are occupied by the F. W. Woolworth Company.

Building Activity Maintains Recent Average

Statistics of Contracts Let for Seven Months Compared with Past Nine Years

BUILDING projects throughout the United States are holding to the average of past months in a most satisfactory manner and although Government work forms an important part of the total the general situation may be considered as fair when all of the numerous deterrents to prosperous building times are taken into consideration.

According to the tables of comparative statistics compiled by the F. W. Dodge Company which show the totals of contracts awarded from January 1 to August 1, for the past nine years, the total for 1918 indicates a considerable increase over any previous similar period. The figures are for building and engineering projects in the territory including the States north of the Ohio River and East of the Missouri River, including New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Virginia, Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, North and South Dakota, and portions of Missouri and Eastern Kansas.

In this territory during the first seven months of 1918 the total of contracts awarded amounted to $1,064,688,000 as against $990,602,000 for 1917 and $711,005,264 for 1916. Of the total for the current year 32 2/5 per cent. was for structural operations which were a part of the Federal program of military operation and preparedness.

The total of contracts awarded in this territory for the month of July amounted to $152,974,000 which was slightly better than the average for the first six months of this year which was $151,952,333.

The table showing the total commitment for building operations in this territory from January 1 to August 1 for the past nine years follows:

Contracts awarded January 1 to August 1, 1918.....	$1,064,688,000
" " " " " " 1917.....	990,602,000
" " " " " " 1916.....	711,005,246
" " " " " " 1915.....	508,233,600
" " " " " " 1914.....	454,579,300
" " " " " " 1913.....	545,067,500
" " " " " " 1912.....	482,577,500
" " " " " " 1911.....	477,227,313
" " " " " " 1910.....	526,425,460

Figures for the territory contiguous to New York including New York State and New Jersey indicate that during the months from January 1 to August 1, 1918, a total of $156,588,000 worth of building and engineering construction was contracted for. Although this amount is less than that for the same period in 1917 it is the second highest total since 1913 when the contracts placed reached $181,254,500. Of the total for the first seven months of this year about thirty per cent. was for Government work.

During the month of July, 1918, the total of contracts awarded amounted to $21,378,000. This figure is slightly below the average of $22,500,166 for the six preceding months, but is due no doubt largely to the reduction of large Federal operations in this territory. Although Government building continues to be a most important part of the entire group of structural operations it is but natural that there should be a slight reduction as the early part of the current year witnessed a greater percentage of military and naval construction work in this territory than in any other section of the country.

Totals for the first seven months of the past nine years in the territory including New York State and Northern New Jersey follow:

Contracts awarded January 1 to August 1, 1918—30%.....	$156,588,000
" " " " " " 1917.....	186,830,000
" " " " " " 1916.....	104,137,500
" " " " " " 1915.....	87,661,000
" " " " " " 1914.....	76,413,500
" " " " " " 1913.....	181,254,500
" " " " " " 1912.....	146,625,500
" " " " " " 1911.....	143,380,500
" " " " " " 1910.....	165,524,500

Considerable interest is attached to a study of the figures for July for the local territory. In greater New York, during this period new construction for which plans were started amounted to $9,630,000, of which $1,583,000 was for residential work, $1,526,000 for manufacturing construction and $6,521,000 for miscellaneous. During the same month contracts were awarded in greater New York for 193 dwellings costing approximately $1,423,000, 18 manufacturing structures involving a total of $362,000 and 133 miscellaneous operations to cost in the neighborhood of $5,321,000.

In Northern New Jersey the projected dwelling construction amounted to $1,591,000, with manufacturing $600,000 and miscellaneous $1,444,000. The structures actually contracted for included 72 residences to cost $528,000, 13 manufacturing buildings valued at $1,394,000 and 94 miscellaneous operations at an approximate cost of $1,457,000.

The total for New York State for the month of July amounted to $4,439,000 in contemplated building work and $4,079,000 in buildings actually contracted for, divided as follows: 156 new dwellings at a cost of $810,000, 33 factories and manufacturing projects to cost $1,534,000 and 88 miscellaneous operations involving a total expenditure of $1,735,000.

There is every reason at the present moment to anticipate considerably increased figures during August, September and October and the additional construction represented by the totals for these months will be for the greater part Government operations or buildings required indirectly as a result of military activities. The program of building construction destined to provide sufficient living accommodations for the employes in the shipyards and munition plants of the country is now well advanced. In specific instances contracts for the buildings have been awarded and work has already started, but there remains a large number of these operations, representing many millions of Federal expenditure, that are yet to be placed under contract.

From this time forth Federal activity will unquestionably dominate the building situation. While the war lasts the demand will continue and as long as there is a demand, the fulfillment of the Nation's requirements must take precedence over all other form of activity.

Federal Survey of Building in Nation for 1917

BUILDING operations in the larger cities of the country were much less in 1917 than in 1916, according to the report published by the United States Geological Survey, Department of the Interior. In 60 selected cities 199,738 permits were issued or buildings erected in 1917, a decrease of 70,044. The cost of these operations was $584,193,378 in 1917, as against $899,684,512 in 1916, a decrease of $315,491,134 or 35 per cent. The building operations in Greater New York cost $90,221,357, in Chicago $49,167,990, in Detroit $39,666,800, in Philadelphia $33,050,220, and in Cleveland $30,483,750.

Of the 60 cities selected 48 showed decrease and 12 showed increase. The decrease in Greater New York was $109,010,819, or 55 per cent; in Chicago, $63,667,160, or 56 per cent; in Detroit, $11,401,510, or 22 per cent; and in Philadelphia, $16,269,005, or 33 per cent. Waterbury, Conn., where the building operations cost $6,562,930, showed the largest increase—$2,292,930, or 54 per cent. The other cities that showed increase were Akron, Atlanta, Chester, Denver, El Paso, Hartford, Los Angeles, New Haven, Omaha, Sioux City, and Youngstown. Various reasons are given for these changes. The principal causes of decrease were the scarcity and high cost of material and labor. In some cities the cause of decrease was financial stringency. The causes for increase were local. In New Haven, for example, a great increase was caused by the erection of a large building for Yale University.

For 1917 a total of 145 cities reported operations costing $687,415,605. For 1916 practically the same cities reported operations costing $1,024,211,675. Of the 145 cities reporting for 1917, 129 stated operations by classes of structures. The total cost of the buildings erected in them was $632,694,952. The part of this amount expended on wooden buildings was $168,290,958, or 27 per cent; on brick or hollow-tile buildings $322,147,677, or 51 per cent; on stone buildings, $4,589,168, or less than 1 per cent; on concrete buildings, $66,511,300, or 11 per cent; and on steel buildings, $58,440,361, or 9 per cent.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

THE development and expansion of the Federal program of construction activity is unquestionably the keynote of the existing building situation. The condition is not local but effects almost every part of the country, but as the New York district is among the foremost of the military areas and the most important point of embarkation for the overseas service, the situation is more pronounced here than at any other point in the United States. Under the circumstances there is no great probability of a material change for a while and a prolongation of the war will unquestionably increase military building operations to a marked extent. Everyone who is familiar with construction work must realize that the demands of the nation must obtain preferential treatment in the present emergency and although this does not mean that the individual is to lose his freedom of action, except in instances where building commodities are not available by reason of their consumption elsewhere, it does mean that all purely private construction must be relegated to a position subordinate to the Federal requirements and demands.

Building operations in Manhattan are for the greater part confined to alteration of old buildings, remodeling them for new occupancies and constructing additions where additional space is required for manufacturing and warehousing, with a sprinkling of speculative work. In Brooklyn and Queens there has been a fair amount of speculative activity in both apartment and small house building and also in the erection of garages both for private and commercial occupancy.

Suburban building has taken the form of moderate priced dwelling construction and the need for structures of this type continues as the demand for accommodations is infinitely greater than the supply. The program of Federal housing seems now to be well under way and before long active building operations will be started at a number of the industrial housing projects that are scheduled for erection within the local territory. Staten Island, Bridgeport, Conn., Port Jefferson, L. I., all come under this group and the plans for the buildings to be constructed are now being prepared by the architects.

Although the markets for building materials and supplies are not experiencing undue activity and the demand for materials for other than Government use is not heavy, prices are firm and indicating a strong tendency toward still further advances. This applies to all commodities that up to the present time have remained unaffected by Federal rulings controlling the price. From all accounts the end of the advance is not in sight and no one is willing to hazard even a guess as to what high levels some uncontrolled materials will climb. The limit of advance depends entirely upon the supply and demand and with increased activity in construction work and no relief from the labor difficulties and raw material shortages, the commodities that are unrestricted as to price are likely to jump to record high levels where they will remain for a long period.

Common Brick.—The wholesale price of Hudson River common brick sustained another sharp advance during the past week and ruling quotations are now $15 a thousand to dealers, in cargo lots, alongside dock, with inferior grades and off loads bringing a slightly lower figure.

Even at this extremely high level there is no stability to the price situation and there is every probability of further increases in the near future. The present range of common brick prices are the highest known with one exception when directly after the Civil War, Hudson River brick sold at wholesale for $20 a thousand. In 1880 common brick sold for as high as $12 and that figure was thought exorbitant. At the present time the demand is fairly active and early in the week it seemed as though the market was picking up materially, but the excessively hot weather of the mid-week slowed down activity, as it was almost impossible for bricklayers to work upon walls, and the riding of brick from dock to yards or jobs was considerably reduced. Brick is now coming down river in better volume than it has for some time past and there is sufficient under cover in the yards or unsold in the wholesale market for all current demands and for almost any reasonable requirement. There are strong rumors of large Government demands, but as yet these have failed to materialize, although some time ago

DISTRIBUTION REPUTATION

MATERIALS AND SUPPLIES

Federal agents, in conference with common brick producers, formulated plans for obtaining a large number of brick for use in the various housing projects in this vicinity and other essential building operations. Conditions in the Raritan district are extremely quiet and no important change is anticipated at this time.

SUMMARY—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, August 9, 1918. Condition of market: Demand steady. Prices advanced. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $15.00 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 13; sales, 12. Distribution: Manhattan, 4; Brooklyn, 6; New Jersey points, 1; outside, 1.

Lumber.—The demand for lumber in the Metropolitan district continues fairly active in all consuming branches with Federal requirements in the lead at both wholesale and retail. Prices for lumber are not only holding firm, but are steadily climbing to new heights and from all accounts the top notch of the price situation has not yet been reached by any means. This applies to all kinds and grades except those for which the Government has established a fixed price. Although building activities have not been exceptionally heavy during the past month or so, particularly as effecting the lumber market, there are strong indications of additional activity from these sources. The outlook is favorable for a greater use of lumber in building operations, more particularly in suburban sections where there is a strong demand for moderate priced modern dwellings either for sale or to rent and from all accounts there will be a considerable increase in this type of construction. Transportation affairs are in better shape today than they have been for some time past and much hope is held for continued improvement along this line.

Structural Steel.—Practically no business of a private character is being transacted, as the demand for steel for war purposes and for uses directly the result of war requirements are taking the entire output of the steel producers. In the fabricated field almost the entire output is going into Government building operations, the construction of ships and manufacturing and storage buildings for concerns having important Federal contracts for munitions and supplies. Private building operations, requiring fabricated material in any great volume are being held in abeyance until steel is available for work of this nature and from the present outlook these operations will not be started for a long time.

Wire Products.—The producers of wire and wire nails report that the mills are operating at only about sixty per cent. of capacity owing to the continued shortage in the supply of steel. The demands from the Government and other sources directly traceable to war activities remain the most important factor in the present situation and the supplies of wire and wire nails available for general distribution are far below normal. Control prices, effective until September 30, are as follows: Wire nails, $3.50 base per keg, and bright basic wire, $3.35 a hundred pounds, Pittsburgh.

Sand and Gravel.—The market situation is quiet and according to reports from producers no material increase in activity is expected for some time. Owing to the decreased demand for sand and gravel, both from private consumers and Government sources coupled with the scarcity of labor, producers are only turning out about sixty per cent. of their normal capacity eighty per cent. of which is being diverted to Federal uses and the balance going into private construction. Prices are firm and unchanged at $1.25 a cubic yard for sand and $2.00 a cubic yard for gravel.

Cast Iron Pipe.—The prime difficulty of the manufacturers of cast iron pipe is in obtaining sufficient pig iron to keep their plants in operation. A large percentage of the total pipe produced is being diverted to Government use at cantonments, hospitals and also for use in the large housing projects that are being started in various parts of the country. Government control prices, including new freight rates are as follows: 6-inch, 8-inch, and heavier, $61.75, New York; 4-inch, $64.75; and 3-inch, $71.75.

Plaster Blocks.—The market is quiet with demand dull owing to the existing lack of construction work in any great volume. Prices are firm and current quotations for plaster blocks are as follows: 2 in. solid and 3 in. hollow, in lots of 4,000 square feet or less, $0.11 per square foot, delivered in Greater New York; for lots larger than 4,000 square feet, $0.10½ per square foot.

A MANUFACTURER told us recently that he was sorry his present buildings were not built of concrete construction. He needed additional floor space, and realized that the most economical form of construction in these times was concrete—yet he hated to erect a structure that would not look the same as his present buildings. He was surprised and relieved when we told him that it was an easy matter for us to erect a concrete structure, and still carry out the elevations in detail of his other buildings. He—"Let WHITE Build It of CONCRETE."

Addition to Automobile Plant.

The White Fireproof Construction Co., 286 Fifth avenue, Manhattan, has obtained a general contract for the erection of a three-story and basement building, 80x140 feet, at the Kingsland plant of the Chevrolet Motor Company of New York, Inc., and which this firm will utilize for the manufacture of kitchen trailers for the United States Government. The contract for this building calls for its completion in sixty working days. The structure will be of reinforced concrete, fireproof throughout and erected from plans prepared by the engineers of the White Fireproof Construction Co. The cost is placed at approximately $175,000.

Relative Hardness of Woods.

Saving 5200 Tons of Coal a Year

One of the big Broadway department stores making its own current puts its coal consumption at 13,000 tons a year

A neighboring store of the same size and using Edison Service burns 4500 tons yearly for heat. To provide light and power to this building our Waterside Stations burn 3300 tons annually

The difference between the two stores in coal consumption for light, heat and power is accordingly 5200 tons a year. Here is waste in one case and important conservation in the other. Which is the case with you?

JUSTICE DONNELLY of the Supreme Court has granted permission to the Congregation Agudath Achim of Harlem to sell a plot on the north side of 140th st, 612.6 ft. west of Lenox av, 37.6x99.11, to William A. Campbell for $21,000.

APOLLO HALL, 126 Clinton st, an historic landmark of the lower East Side, the scene of many political meetings of the older days as well as recent campaigns, and other festivities, has been requisitioned by the Government for use of the Department of Labor, as assembling quarters for industrial war workers. The hall was built in 1828. It was known first as Clinton Gardens, but in the late seventies it was changed to Apollo Hall.

LEGAL NOTES.

Damages to Property.

IN an action for damages alleged to have been caused to the plaintiff's property by the operation of an adjacent manufacturing plant, the Maryland Court of Appeals, Jackson v. Shawmigan Electric Products Co., 103 Atl. 453, make the following rulings: Though building lots are unimproved, damages thereto by gases, smoke, and dust of an adjacent manufactory may be recovered, especially where the injury may be permanent. Evidence of the effects produced on property in the immediate vicinity of that of the plaintiff is admissible in such an action. The fact that there are other factories near does not prevent recovery. A person who has been for years in the real estate business selling property in the vicinity of that of the plaintiff, visiting it a number of times to observe the effect thereon of the operation of a nearby manufacturing plant is qualified to testify if was injured thereby. Testimony of a chemist is competent to show that dust on the plaintiff's property is of the same kind as that coming from the smoke-stack of the defendant's manufactory. Evidence of the effect of the smoke and gas coming from the defendant's manufactory, as deleterious to health, or producing such conditions as would likely influence people not to purchase the plaintiff's lots, is pertinent and material. The defendant may show that other causes than its plant contributed to the depreciation in value of the plaintiff's property, being liable only for such part of the depreciation as it caused. years, down to the time of trial, familiar with properties in the vicinity, though living elsewhere, is qualified to testify as expert as to the value of property there. For what purpose the property is adapted is a material inquiry in such an action.

Broker's Commission.

A contract allowed a broker commissions regardless of who sold the property. The New Jersey Supreme Court holds, Kruse v. Ferber, 103 Atl. 409, that he could recover if he was instrumental in any way in endeavoring to effectuate the sale by a bona fide effort to convey information of the fact covered by the contract by exhibiting signs, posting notices, circulars, or bulletin, whether or not he in fact, as a result of his efforts, personally sold the property.

Damages for Breach of Contract.

In an action for damages for breach of contract for the exchange of real estate, the Utah Supreme Court holds, Rampton v. Cole, 172 Pac. 477, that an instruction to the jury that "if you find the issues in favor of the plaintiff, then you are to assess his damages in such amount as will fully compensate for any losses sustained by reason of the failure of the defendant to perform the terms of said contract," correctly stated the law and was not subject to the objection that it did not leave it to the jury to determine whether the plaintiff had sustained damages. But an instruction which in effect told the jury that, in estimating the damages they might consider value "between" the dates of execution and the performance of the contract, was faulty for failure to confine the question of damages to values at these dates. Although there was a sharp conflict in the testimony as to value of the property, it was held wholly within the province of the jury to determine the ultimate fact so long as their verdict found support in the testimony.

Limitation of Actions.

A. and B. entered into an agreement for the exchange of real estate, and in furtherance thereof B. executed to A. a deed, dated November 11, 1912, containing a general warranty, except: "As to a $2,000 mortgage due January 1st, 1915, which said second party (A.) agreed to assume and pay at 7 per cent." On January 11, 1915, A. instituted suit against B. to cancel and set aside the note and mortgage which A. had assumed on the ground of fraud. The Oklahoma Supreme Court holds, Ostran v. Bond, 172 Pac. 447, that, there being no allegation in the petition of A.'s illiteracy, he must be held to have had notice of the alleged fraud at the time he accepted the deed, and more than two years having elapsed from the time of acceptance to the bringing of the action the action was barred by the statute of limitations of two years, and the trial court did not err in sustaining a demurrer to the petition.

Proof of Sale Contract by Letters.

In an action for specific performance of a contract for the conveyance of land based upon letters which were attached as exhibits to the petition, the Oklahoma Supreme Court holds, Bowkes v. Linton, 172 Pac. 442, that such letters must control in determining the contract, and must show an enforceable contract, be certain in their terms, both as to description of land and estate to be conveyed.

Commissions for Securing Loans.

The Washington Supreme Court holds, Calvin Philips & Co. v. Newoc Co., 172 Pac. 355, that where defendant applied to plaintiff broker for a loan "to or through" such broker, to be made within a reasonable time, but both parties contemplated securing the loan from an insurance company, and the plaintiff never attempted to make the loan itself, the defendant could repudiate the application if not accepted by the insurance company within a reasonable time. The insurance company's acceptance "subject to inspection," and requiring additional sureties, was not a binding acceptance.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTIONS.

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.
STATE OF NEW YORK,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,
ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section four and section eleven of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York will be submitted to the people for the purpose of voting thereon, at the next general election to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ONE *

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE CONTRACTING OF DEBTS BY THE STATE.

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debts shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein [; and such]. No such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive, nor for more than fifty years from the time of the contracting of such debt. A debt hereafter contracted by the state, pursuant to an authorization hereafter made, and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted, may, if provided by the law authorizing such debt, be paid in equal annual instalments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years, after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted. Such law shall if it authorize the contracting of a debt payable otherwise than in equal annual instalments impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No [such] law authorizing the contracting of a debt pursuant to this section shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election. On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass, and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" The legislature may at any time, after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law; but the tax, if any, imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrevocable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provision hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability. The money arising from any loan or stock creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, or for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on, within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years in lieu of bonds heretofore authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund and the legislature shall reduce the tax to an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof, which has been, or shall be created or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increase the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall, if such debt be payable otherwise than in equal annual instalments, impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually to the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest, and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable. § 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may, if such debt be payable otherwise than in annual instalments, set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and to no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be sufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof. The legislature shall annually as the same shall fall due provide by direct tax, appropriation or both for the payment of the interest upon and instalments of principal of all debts created on behalf of the state, payable in annual instalments, pursuant to section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen, in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

* AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE SEVEN OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE FOREST PRESERVE.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section seven of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. Nothing contained in this section shall prevent the state from constructing a state highway from Saranac Lake in Franklin county to Long Lake in Hamilton county and thence to Old Forge in Herkimer county by way of Blue Mountain lake and Raquette lake.

But the legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed for terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term. Unsanitary conditions shall not be created or continued by any such public works. A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or, with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be submitted to the people for approval at the general election to be held in the year nineteen hundred and eighteen in accordance with the provisions of the election law.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION SEVEN OF ARTICLE ONE OF THE CONSTITUTION, GENERALLY.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur), That section seven of article one of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Compensation for taking private property; private roads; drainage of agricultural lands.

§ 7. When private property shall be taken for any public use, the compensation to be made therefor, when such compensation is not made by the state, shall be ascertained by a jury, or by the supreme court with or without a jury, but not with a referee, or by not less than three commissioners appointed by a court of record, as shall be prescribed by law. Private roads may be opened in the manner to be prescribed by law; but in every case the necessity of the road and the amount of all damage to be sustained by the opening thereof, shall be first determined by a jury of freeholders, and such amount, together with the expenses of the proceeding, shall be paid by the person to be benefited. General laws may be passed permitting the owners or occupants of agricultural lands to construct and maintain for the drainage thereof, necessary drains, ditches and dykes upon the lands of others, under proper restrictions and with just compensation, but no special laws shall be enacted for such purposes.

The legislature may authorize cities to take more land and property than is needed for actual construction in the laying out, widening, extending or relocating parks, public places, highways or streets; provided, however, that the additional land and property so authorized to be taken shall be no more than sufficient to form suitable building sites abutting on such park, public place, highway or street. After so much of the land and property has been appropriated for such park, public place, highway or street as is needed therefor, the remainder may be sold or leased.

The legislature may also authorize cities, for the establishment of a uniform system of streets, to take real property within an abandoned street or highway and to sell and lease it.

AMENDMENT NUMBER SEVEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE TWO OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE QUALIFICATION OF VOTERS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section one of article two of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. Every [male] citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for ninety days, and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, and for the last four months a resident of the county and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident, and not elsewhere, for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elective by the people, and upon all questions which may be submitted to the vote of the people, provided that in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the state, or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district; and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes [in the election districts in which they respectively reside].

Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, after January first, one thousand nine hundred and twenty, no person shall become entitled to vote by attaining majority, by naturalization or otherwise, unless such person is also able, except for physical disability, to read and write English; and suitable laws shall be passed by the legislature to enforce this provision.

AMENDMENT NUMBER ELEVEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION EIGHTEEN OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO PRIVATE AND LOCAL BILLS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur); That section eighteen of article three of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 18. The legislature shall not pass a private or local bill in any of the following cases:

Changing the names of persons.
Laying out, opening, altering, working or discontinuing roads, highways, or alleys or for draining swamps or other low lands.
Locating or changing county seats.
Providing for changes of venue in civil or criminal cases.

Incorporating villages.
Providing for election of members of boards of supervisors.

Selecting, drawing, summoning or empanelling grand or petit jurors.

Regulating the rate of interest on money.
The opening and conducting of elections or designating places of voting.

Creating, increasing or decreasing fees, percentage, or allowances of public officers, during the term for which said officers are elected or appointed.

Granting to any corporation, association, or individual the right to lay down railroad tracks.

Granting to any private corporation, association or individual any exclusive privilege, immunity or franchise whatever.

Granting to any person, association, firm or corporation an exemption from taxation on real or personal property.

Providing for building bridges, and chartering companies for such purposes, except on the Hudson river below Waterford, and on the East river, or over the waters forming a part of the boundaries of the state.

Legalizing, ratifying or confirming the proceedings of a municipal corporation or political subdivision of the state, or the officers or authorities thereof, in providing for the issuance and sale of the bonds or other evidence of indebtedness of such municipal corporation or political subdivision of the state, or validating such bonds or other evidences of indebtedness after their issuance and sale.

The legislature shall pass general laws providing for the cases enumerated in this section, and for all other cases which in its judgment may be provided for by general laws. But no law shall authorize the construction or operation of a street railroad except upon the condition that the consent of the owners of one-half in value of the property bounded on, and the consent also of the local authorities having the control of, that portion of a street or highway upon which it is proposed to construct or operate such railroad be first obtained, or in case the consent of such property owners cannot be obtained, the appellate division of the supreme court, in the department in which it is proposed to be constructed, may, upon application, appoint three commissioners who shall determine, after a hearing of all parties interested, whether such railroad ought to be constructed or operated, and their determination, confirmed by the court, may be taken in lieu of the consent of the property owners.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

STATE OF NEW YORK,

OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE,

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred and ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section one of article twelve and sections twenty-six and twenty-seven of article three of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred and eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,

Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THIRTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION ONE OF ARTICLE TWELVE AND SECTIONS TWENTY-SIX AND TWENTY-SEVEN OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION TO

ENABLE THE LEGISLATURE TO GIVE GREATER

CONTROL OVER LOCAL AFFAIRS TO CITIES AND COUNTIES.

Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That section one of article twelve of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Section 1. It shall be the duty of the legislature to provide for the organization of cities and incorporated villages and to restrict their power of taxation; assessments, borrowing money, contracting debts, and loaning their credit, so as to prevent abuses in assessments and in contracting debt by such municipal corporations. [; and] The legislature may by general laws confer upon cities such powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may from time to time deem expedient. [the] The legislature may regulate and fix the wages or salaries, the hours of work or labor, and make provision for the protection, welfare and safety of persons employed by the state or by any county, city, town, village or other civil division of the state, or by any contractor or subcontractor performing work, labor or services for the state, or for any county, city, town, village or other civil division thereof. City bills shall apply equally to all the cities of a class as defined in section two of article twelve and no special city bill affecting less than all the cities of a class shall be passed except to secure the public safety or in a case where it affects territory without the corporate limits of the city.

§ 26. There shall be in each county, except in a county wholly included in a city, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such manner and for such period as is or may be provided by law. But the legislature may provide by law for another form of government for any county subject to the approval of the electors of such county at a general election in an odd-numbered year. Such law may also provide for the transfer to the county of functions now exercised by towns. In a city which includes an entire county, or two or more entire counties, the powers and duties of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the municipal assembly, common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of the city.

§ 27. The legislature shall, by general laws, confer upon the boards of supervisors, or other governing elective bodies, of the several counties of the state such further powers of local legislation and administration as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient, [; and] in counties which now have, or may hereafter have, county auditors or other fiscal officers, authorized to audit bills, accounts, charges, claims or demands against the county, the legislature may confer such powers upon [said] such auditors, or fiscal officers, as the legislature may, from time to time, deem expedient.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendments be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
ALBANY, July 1, 1918.
Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to section seven of article six of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

FRANCIS M. HUGO,
Secretary of State.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIFTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO COMPENSATION OF JUDGES OF THE COURT OF APPEALS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur). That section seven of article six of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 7. The court of appeals is continued. It shall consist of the chief judge and associate judges now in office, who shall hold their offices until the expiration of their respective terms, and their successors, who shall be chosen by the electors of the state. The official terms of the chief judge and associate judges shall be fourteen years from and including the first day of January next after their election. Five members of the court shall form a quorum, and the concurrence of four shall be necessary to a decision. The court shall have power to appoint and to remove its reporter, clerk and attendants. Whenever and as often as a majority of the judges of the court of appeals shall certify to the governor that said court is unable, by reason of the accumulation of causes pending therein, to hear and dispose of the same with reasonable speed, the governor shall designate not more than four justices of the supreme court to serve as associate judges of the court of appeals. The justices so designated shall be relieved from their duties as justices of the supreme court and shall serve as associate judges of the court of appeals until the causes undisposed of in said court are reduced to two hundred, when they shall return to the supreme court. The governor may designate justices of the supreme court to fill vacancies. No justice shall serve as associate judge of the court of appeals except while holding the office of justice of the supreme court, and no more than seven judges shall sit in any case. The judges of the court of appeals, including those now in office, shall receive for their services a compensation established by law which shall not be diminished during their official terms and shall not be less than the highest compensation allowed by law to any other judicial officer in the state. A justice of the supreme court while serving as associate judge of the court of appeals shall receive the same compensation as judges of the court of appeals.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur),

That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

AMENDMENT NUMBER SIXTEEN

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION EIGHTEEN OF ARTICLE SIX OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO CHILDREN'S COURTS AND COURTS OF DOMESTIC RELATIONS.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur). That section eighteen of article six of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 18. Inferior local courts of civil and criminal jurisdiction may be established by the legislature, but no inferior local court hereafter created shall be a court of record. [The] Except as herein provided the legislature shall not hereafter confer upon any inferior or local court of its creation, any equity jurisdiction or any greater jurisdiction in other respects than is conferred upon county courts by or under this article. The legislature may establish children's courts, and courts of domestic relations, as separate courts, or as parts of existing courts or courts hereafter to be created, and may confer upon them such equity and other jurisdiction as may be necessary for the correction, protection, guardianship and disposition of delinquent, neglected or dependent minors, and for the punishment and correction of adults responsible for or contributing to such delinquency, neglect or dependency, and to compel the support of a wife, child or poor relative by persons legally chargeable therewith who abandon or neglect to support any of them. In the exercise of such jurisdiction such courts may hear and determine such cases with or without a jury, except those involving a felony. Except as herein otherwise provided, all judicial officers shall be elected or appointed at such times and in such manner as the legislature may direct.

AMENDMENT NUMBER SEVENTEEN

Section 1. Resolved (if the Senate concur). That section seven of article seven of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

Forest preserve. § 7. The lands of the state, now owned or hereafter acquired, constituting the forest preserve as now fixed by law, shall be forever kept as wild forest lands. They shall not be leased, sold or exchanged, or be taken by any corporation, public or private, nor shall the timber thereon be sold, removed or destroyed. But the legislature may by general laws provide for the use of not exceeding three per centum of such lands for the construction and maintenance of reservoirs for municipal water supply, for the canals of the state and to regulate the flow of streams. Such reservoirs shall be constructed, owned and controlled by the state, but such work shall not be undertaken until after the boundaries and high flow lines thereof shall have been accurately surveyed and fixed, and after public notice, hearing and determination that such lands are required for such public use. The expense of any such improvements shall be apportioned on the public and private property and municipalities benefited to the extent of the benefits received. Any such reservoir shall always be operated by the state and the legislature shall provide for a charge upon the property and municipalities benefited for a reasonable return to the state upon the value of the rights and property of the state used and the services of the state rendered, which shall be fixed for terms of not exceeding ten years and be readjustable at the end of any term. Unsanitary conditions shall not be created or continued by any such public works. The foregoing provisions of this section shall not prevent the legislature from authorizing the cutting and removal of dead and fallen timber on lands in the forest preserve for fuel or other domestic purposes; or authorizing the cutting and use by the state of timber on such lands for the construction of roads and trails necessary for protection against fire, and for ingress and egress. A violation of any of the provisions of this section may be restrained at the suit of the people or, with the consent of the supreme court in appellate division, on notice to the attorney-general at the suit of any citizen.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Senate concur). That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and, in conformity with section one, article fourteen of the constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

EXPLANATION—Matter in italics is new; matter in brackets [ ] is old matter to be omitted.

STATE OF NEW YORK,
OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY OF STATE

ALBANY, July 1, 1918.

Pursuant to the provisions of section one of article fourteen of the Constitution of the State of New York, and section two hundred ninety-five of the Election Law, notice is hereby given that the following proposed amendment to sections two, four, five, eleven and twelve of article seven of the Constitution of the State of New York is referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators in this State to be held on the fifth day of November, nineteen hundred eighteen.

AMENDMENT NUMBER EIGHTEEN

§ 2. The state may, to meet casual deficits or failures in revenues, or for expenses not provided for, contract debts; but such debts, direct or contingent, singly or in the aggregate, shall not at any time exceed one million of dollars; and the moneys arising from the loans creating such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which they were obtained, or to repay the debt so contracted, and to no other purpose whatever.) contract debts in anticipation of the receipt of taxes and revenues, direct or indirect, for the purposes and within the amounts of appropriations theretofore made; bonds or other obligations for the moneys so borrowed shall be issued as may be provided by law, and shall with the interest thereon be paid from such taxes and revenues within one year from the date of issue.

§ 4. Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, no debt[s] shall be hereafter contracted by or in behalf of this state, unless such debt shall be authorized by law, for some single work or object, to be distinctly specified therein, [; and such law shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay, and sufficient to pay, the interest on such debt as it falls due, and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof. No such law shall take effect u. shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election.] On the final passage of such bill in either house of the legislature, the question shall be taken by ayes and noes, to be duly entered on the journals thereof, and shall be: "Shall this bill pass and ought the same to receive the sanction of the people?" No such law shall take effect until it shall, at a general election, have been submitted to the people, and have received a majority of all the votes cast for and against it at such election nor shall it be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage nor at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may, at any time after the approval of such law by the people, if no debt shall have been contracted in pursuance thereof, repeal the same; and may at any time, by law, forbid the contracting of any further debt or liability under such law. [but the tax imposed by such act, in proportion to the debt and liability which may have been contracted in pursuance of such law, shall remain in force and be irrepealable, and be annually collected, until the proceeds thereof shall have made the provision hereinbefore specified to pay and discharge the interest and principal of such debt and liability.]

Except the debts specified in sections two and three of this article, all debts contracted by the state after January first, nineteen hundred and twenty, pursuant to an authorization thereto, heretofore or hereafter made and each portion of any such debt from time to time so contracted irrespective of the terms of such authorization, shall be paid in equal annual instalments, the first of which shall be payable not more than one year, and the last of which shall be payable not more than fifty years, after such debt or portion thereof shall have been contracted. No such debt hereafter authorized shall be contracted for a period longer than that of the probable life of the work or object for which the debt is to be contracted, to be determined by general laws, which determination shall be conclusive.

The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof which has been or shall be created or issued before such alteration.

The money arising from any loan [or stock] creating such debt or liability shall be applied to the work or object specified in the act authorizing such debt or liability, or for the payment of such debt or liability, and for no other purpose whatever. No such law shall be submitted to be voted on within three months after its passage or at any general election when any other law, or any bill shall be submitted to be voted for or against. The legislature may provide for the issue of bonds of the state to run for a period not exceeding fifty years in lieu of bonds heretofore authorized but not issued and shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax for the payment of the same as hereinbefore required. When any sinking fund created under this section shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created, no further direct tax shall be levied on account of said sinking fund, and the legislature shall reduce the tax to an amount equal to the accruing interest on such debt. The legislature may from time to time alter the rate of interest to be paid upon any state debt, which has been or may be authorized pursuant to the provisions of this section, or upon any part of such debt, provided, however, that the rate of interest shall not be altered upon any part of such debt or upon any bond or other evidence thereof, which has been, or shall be created or issued before such alteration. In case the legislature increase the rate of interest upon any such debt, or part thereof, it shall impose and provide for the collection of a direct annual tax to pay and sufficient to pay the increased or altered interest on such debt as it falls due and also to pay and discharge the principal of such debt within fifty years from the time of the contracting thereof, and shall appropriate annually the sinking fund moneys in amount sufficient to pay such interest and pay and discharge the principal of such debt when it shall become due and payable.)

§ 5. The sinking funds provided for the payment of interest and the extinguishment of the principal of the debts of the state heretofore contracted shall be continued; they shall be separately kept and safely invested, and neither of them shall be appropriated or used in any manner other than for [the specific purpose for which it shall have been provided] such payment and extinguishment as herein-after provided. The comptroller shall each year appraise the securities held for investment in each of such funds at their fair market value not exceeding par. He shall then determine and certify to the legislature the amount of each of such funds and the amounts which, if thereafter annually contributed to each such fund, would, with the fund and with the accumulations thereon and upon the contributions thereto, computed at the rate of three per centum per annum, produce at the date of maturity the amount of the debt to retire which such fund was created, and the legislature shall thereupon appropriate as the contribution to each such fund for such year at least the amount thus certified.

If the income of any such fund in any year is more than a sum which, if annually added to such fund would, with the fund and its accumulations as aforesaid, retire the debt at maturity, the excess income may be applied to the interest on the debt for which the fund was created.

After any sinking fund shall equal in amount the debt for which it was created no further contribution shall be made thereto except to make good any losses ascertained at the annual appraisals above mentioned, and the income thereof shall be applied to the payment of the interest on such debt. Any excess in such income not required for the payment of interest may be applied to the general fund of the state.

The legislature may also by general laws provide means and authority whereby outstanding bonds of the state, for which sinking funds are provided, may be exchanged at par for cancellation, for serial bonds of the form authorized under section four of this article, upon such terms and conditions as to interest and otherwise as it may in its discretion authorize or determine, except that the debt as thus refunded shall finally mature no later and at no greater comparative cost to the state than the original debt; the determination of the legislature as to such comparative cost shall be conclusive. No further contributions to the respective sinking funds shall be made on account of bonds so exchanged and the proportion of any such sinking fund which the amount of the bonds so exchanged shall bear to the amount of bonds outstanding of the same issue may be appropriated, as required, for the payment of the substituted serial bonds.

§ 11. The legislature may appropriate out of any funds in the treasury, moneys to pay the accruing interest and principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created, or any part thereof and may set apart in each fiscal year, moneys in the state treasury as a sinking fund to pay the interest as it falls due and to pay and discharge the principal of any debt heretofore or hereafter created under section four of article seven of the constitution until the same shall be wholly paid, and the principal and income of such sinking fund shall be applied to the purpose for which said sinking fund is created and to no other purpose whatever; and, in the event such moneys so set apart in any fiscal year be sufficient to provide such sinking fund, a direct annual tax for such year need not be imposed and collected, as required by the provisions of said section four of article seven, or of any law enacted in pursuance thereof.) The legislature shall annually provide by appropriation for the payment of the interest upon and instalments of principal of all debts created on behalf of the state except those contracted under section two of this article, as the same shall fall due, and for the contribution to all of the sinking funds heretofore created by law, of the amounts annually to be contributed under the provisions of section five of this article. If at any time the legislature shall fail to make any such appropriation, the comptroller shall set apart from the first revenues thereafter received, applicable to the general fund of the state, a sum sufficient to pay such interest, instalments of principal, or contributions to such sinking fund, as the case may be, and shall so apply the moneys thus set apart. The comptroller may be required to set aside and apply such revenues as aforesaid, at the suit of any holder of such bonds.

§ 12. Debts hereafter authorized for the improvement of highways shall be created only in the manner provided in section four of this article. No provision of this article shall be deemed to impair or affect the validity of any debt of the state heretofore contracted or any right or obligation heretofore created between the state and any of its civil divisions.

eral election of senators, and that in conformity to section one, article fourteen of the constitution, it be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION BY INSERTING THEREIN A NEW ARTICLE, IN RELATION TO TAXATION.

Section 1. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the constitution be amended by inserting therein a new article, to be article seven-a, to read as follows:

ARTICLE VII-A.

§ 1. For the assessment of real property, heretofore locally assessed, the legislature may establish tax districts, none of which, unless it be a city, shall embrace more than one town. The assessors therein shall be elected by the electors of such districts. The legislature may provide that the assessment-roll of a town shall serve for all the civil divisions or parts thereof within its boundaries. No such tax district embracing a town shall be established until a proposition providing therefor shall have been adopted by a vote of a majority of the electors voting thereon in such proposed district at an election for which provision shall be made by law.

§ 2. Resolved (if the Assembly concur), That the foregoing amendment be referred to the legislature to be chosen at the next general election of senators, and in conformity with section one of article fourteen of the constitution, be published for three months previous to the time of such election.

Does New York Want Temporary Factories?

Lawson Purdy Combats Idea That the Establishment of Heavy Manufactories Is Beneficial

BY LAWSON PURDY

Former President Department of Taxes and Assessments

WE have all read a great deal about the alleged desirability of having war work done in the City of New York; and, I think, some of the Brooklyn newspapers have said something about the desirability of having it done in the Borough of Brooklyn. No community in the United States should be backward in welcoming any war industry when it is to the advantage of the United States Government.

But it is by no means desirable for a large community to have added to it suddenly a large number of workers, in an industry which must be temporary. I can see no gain to the Borough of Brooklyn by having established here a temporary industry that would bring a large number of workers here for the time being. Brooklyn has not the future of a heavy manufacturing community. The opportunities here are far too valuable for more intensive use of the facilities that Brooklyn affords to make it worth while to retain here any industry that requires a great deal of land as do all heavy manufacturing industries. I feel very confident that the future of Brooklyn is not in the direction of heavy manufacturing industries. They involve the bringing to the place of great quantities of raw material. On Long Island we do not produce any mineral ores. There is no particular reason that one can see for transporting iron and coal to Brooklyn, and such industries require a great deal of land which is of such value for other purposes that it should not be devoted to that sort of use.

You have made a tremendous beginning here in light manufacturing. You are providing facilities such as have heretofore been unknown, in the great Bush Terminal. There will be a further development in the waterfront from the Brooklyn Bridge to the Atlantic Basin. The New York Dock Company is already developing along those lines. You will in time have direct railroad transportation under the Bay, with the connecting railroad into New England. And you will have other facilities for bringing shipping here and taking finished articles away.

Brooklyn is a very great shipping port. We have the immense number of miles of waterfront at Jamaica Bay that are merely waiting for development, and the shore from Red Hook to Owl's Head is getting pretty well developed now. Across the Bay we have the great shipping point of Staten Island. The future of Brooklyn is a great manufacturing centre for light manufacturing, and a very great port for the entrance and shipment of goods with direct entrance to New England.

You don't want these temporary industries established here. If they are established here with reasonable access of Manhattan and the Bronx, housing facilities are probably sufficient for the time being for the workers that are likely to come. When you add 10,000 people to Brooklyn, Manhattan and the Bronx, it is not noticed. But it is when you bring 10,000 people to a Hog Island shipyard that housing facilities must be provided. If a shipping plant is established on the north shore of Staten Island, it will be necessary to provide adequate housing facilities on Staten Island. They are talking and even arranging for the transportation of workers from the Newark shipyards to Manhattan and Brooklyn and Queens, by an intensive use of the Hudson Tubes and the Pennsylvania Railroad. That will obviate the necessity of building houses for workers in the neighborhood of the Newark yards.

Before the war, as you very well know, there was a stoppage of building throughout the United States because of the rapidly increasing cost of building material and the increasing wage cost, and we were short of housing facilities in a great many places. With the establishment of great plants for war industries it became necessary to house the workers. Before the war there was another condition that had been in existence for a good many years, to which hardly sufficient attention had been paid, that of the very rapid labor turnover in great industries. In some of them it was so high that to maintain 1,000 men it was necessary to employ 4,000 during the year. Various estimates have been made as to the loss caused by the labor turnover, and all agree that the loss is very heavy. In one industry in which I am somewhat familiar an estimate was made as to the loss caused by the labor turnover. In this industry goods were manufactured which were easily damaged and spoiled. It was found that the spoilage of goods through carelessness and inexperience of the workers amounted in one year to a sum that would have built houses for a very large percentage of the force. Some of the great manufacturing industries of the country have in many ways tried to check the labor turnover, or to stabilize labor.

There was one experiment which has exerted an evil influence against what I think is a right line. All of you remember the Pullman strikes of 1894. Those strikes were in part attributed to the Pullman Company in establishing the town of Pullman, and the paternal attitude of the company toward its employees. Many thought that the employees were ungrateful. They were not contented. And manufacturing companies have been timid about providing homes for their workers along the same lines adopted by the Pullman Company. Some of them have refrained entirely from building houses for their workers. Under such conditions the effort to maintain a stable and contented labor force has been fruitless as long as the living conditions are so bad as they are.

During the last few years it has been common for great industries to establish new factories in virgin fields, and overnight a great town is built up of nothing. That was done in Gary, Ind., by the U. S. Steel Corporation. This is a very good illustration of how the thing ought not to be done. And yet it was planned by very able men, influenced, I believe, by the failure of the Pullman experiment.

Gary is a sandy prairie; level land running back from the lake for several miles; the railroad running about three-quarters of a mile from the lake, and a straggling town with great plants between the railroad and the lake. The U. S. Steel Corporation bought nearly all the land between the railroad and the lake. My impression is that they bought between one and two thousand acres. The land was almost worthless; it was utterly barren. It was a long distance from any city, and its value was predicated on the hope that someone would want it for some such purpose. The steel company went after the land as quietly as possible, and finally acquired the land at an average of a few hundred dollars an acre. They only bought land enough for the establishment of their plants and the plants of some subsidiary companies which they expected to establish at Gary, and a little more land which they kept intending to build for their workers there.

The population poured in on account of the demand for labor for the plants. The land lying back of the lake was developed. About a year ago a study was made of the situation, and this was found to be the fact. After deducting the cost of the land bought by the company, the value of the land now included in the town of Gary as it was at the time Gary was established; deducting all that has been spent for streets, sidewalks, sewers, laying in of water, and such improvements, the present value of the land of Gary exceeds the original cost of that expenditure by about $22,000,000. That $22,000,000 is scattered around among a very large number of holders. The policy of the steel company itself in developing the small amount of land it held for buildings for its workers, has been to sell it at cost, plus a small rate of interest. There has been an enormous waste there. If the steel company had bought all the land and kept it, it could have had that $22,000,000 and more because the town has straggled just as nearly every town straggles, just as Brooklyn straggles.

You go down from here to Coney Island, and you will see a little development here, and then some alleged streets; then another development and some more vacant lots. Here is admirable farming land, spoiled by having streets put through it many years before it can be used at all. Assessments are placed upon it for the building of sewers, streets, pavements, sidewalks, etc., which are not necessary at all.

I well remember one case that came up when I was with the Tax Commission. Some friends of mine owned some 1,100 lots. We tried to assess this land fairly. It was a beautiful piece of land; as land it could not be beaten. But the trouble was that it was way down there where there are no houses for ever so far, and then there are a few houses, and then some more vacant lots. We assessed the land for about $600,000. The owners did not approve of that assessment. They told me privately that they could sell it for $350,000. They went to court and our assessment was reduced about $19,000. And the court pronounced an opinion as to the beauty of the land, quoting the opinions of the experts who had testified on behalf of the city as to the great value of this property. And my enterprising friends put up a beautiful sign, quoting the opinion of the court and some of the testimony of the experts of the city as to the value of the land, and then said they would sell it for 20 per cent. less. Then the judge came near committing them for contempt of court.

What I am trying to get at is this. When you straggle all over the place in the development of a city there is a lot of waste motion. That land down in the Coney Island section is not needed for buildings yet. It is not worth the price that they were willing to sell it for. It is good for farms. It is worth what a man would pay for it who wished to start a truck garden down there. We have spent ever so much money in this city on sewers and streets, etc., that were not needed. That is not a criticism of the city administration. When people who own the land come before the local improvement board and demand a sewer and say they will pay for it, it is pretty nearly incumbent upon public officials to give them a sewer. And the same is true about the grading and paving of streets and sidewalks. Then there is the additional expense of keeping them in order after they have been made.

That is what happened to Gary. In spite of all that, there was this $22,000,000 that the steel company let go away from them. The steel company had to hire several times a year as many men as it had at one time. There were all the evils in the community, attendant upon having a lot of men flowing in and out with no interest in the community, and not really citizens of the town. They came and stayed a while and then drifted on somewhere else.

Go and look at the City of Lackawanna near Buffalo, N. Y. It is a great deal worse than Gary. The best paid workers live in Buffalo. The bulk of the workmen who live in Lackawanna live in horrible conditions. There are a great many boarding houses with rooms in and around a saloon. You cannot have satisfied, useful labor in a factory under those conditions.

Those conditions ought not to be repeated. When the United States Government saw ahead of it that it had to establish great plants just as the U. S. Steel Co. established at Gary, and the Lackawanna Steel Co. established at Lackawanna, it was evident that it had to build houses. Some people who studied the conditions that confront Great Britain reported how Great Britain had met the trouble. They did not meet it immediately. They had to suffer quite a bit before they took hold of the situation and grasped it firmly, but by and by they did. Great Britain has built a number of very satisfactory communities. How have they done it? They found that to build temporary houses, to build barracks to house single men and to build barracks to house single women, the workers did not stay. To build temporary buildings cost nearly as much as to build permanent ones, and if they built temporary ones in a few years time they had nothing to show for their money. So they decided to build permanent houses. And not only to build houses, but to build those amenities that go with houses. Just a house does not constitute a home. We have got to have a place for our comfort, and places where we can meet our friends and neighbors.

The British build a complete community where they have to build houses for the workers in a munition plant. You can see pictures of them in the publication of the American Institute of Architects in the issues of January to October last. It was just as easy when they had the right kind of architect to build houses that were attractive and beautiful to the eye as it was to build houses that were not beautiful.

We are beginning to learn right here for our own good that we do not want any more of this planning with a gridiron. Those places are planned with narrow streets for residential sections. A residential street should not be adapted for a thoroughfare. It should be so arranged that it has seclusion, and so that the children can play on the street without the risk of being killed. # Government Will Not Build on Battery Park

Protests of Citizens Lead to the Making of Other Arrangements—
City Administration Suggested Old Court House Site

IT is probable that in view of the protests of citizens and of a better understanding of all the facts in the case that Battery Park will not be invaded by the Government for the building of offices for the War Department.

At a recent meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the secretary presented the following communication from the Assistant Secretary of War, under date of July 18, 1918:

War Department, Office of the Assistant Secretary, Washington, D. C., July 18, 1918.

Hon. John F. Hylan, Mayor:

My Dear Mr. Mayor—The problem of housing the various bureaus of the War Department which require space in New York City for carrying on the pressing and enlarged activities of the Department has become acute. The War Department has been compelled to scatter its offices in twenty-two buildings besides the Army Building—from Bridge street on the south to Grand Central Palace, Lexington avenue and 45th street on the north; from 3d avenue on the east to West street on the west. The space occupied in these various buildings range from 750 square feet to 35,000 square feet. The present Army Building is very old, and is extremely unsatisfactory from the standpoint of fire hazard and the risk to which Government records are subjected. Certain of the quarters already occupied are excessively crowded, and there is the additional problem of providing additional office space for the growth occasioned by the increasing scope of the Department's activities necessary for the prosecution of the war. Office space conditions in New York are such that the obstacles, as you will realize, to combining the various activities in one building which is highly important for the efficient conduct of their business and the convenience of the public, are extremely great and have so far proved insurmountable.

The present immediate needs of the Department are over 350,000 square feet without providing for future expansion.

A solution of the problem would be the erection of one building or a set of buildings closely related. A careful survey made by the Department shows that the most available unoccupied space is in Battery Park. It is the terminal of the elevated roads, is easily reached by all subway lines and is readily accessible to the Department's activities on Governors Island, in Brooklyn and New Jersey and the piers and docks of lower Manhattan, Brooklyn. This space would permit the erection of temporary three-story fireproof units containing at least 500,000 square feet.

It is requested by the War Department that the City of New York grant to the Government the use of a site for such a building, or group of buildings, in Battery Park for a period not exceeding five years. The plans for the building and the conditions of occupancy would be satisfactory to you, and the grounds would be restored to the City on the completion of the lease, to their present condition.

The War Department fully realizes the sacrifice involved by the City of New York in the granting of such a request, and it is only because of the exigency of the situation and of the feeling that the attitude of the City of New York is of such helpful co-operation that we have presumed to even make the request, and even if the permission be granted it will not be taken advantage of if any other solution of the situation can be found. Owing to the urgency of the situation it is respectfully requested that prompt consideration, and, if possible, action be taken on this request.

BENEDICT CROWELL,
The Assistant Secretary of War.

After the members of the Board had listened to Captain M. Thompson and Laurence McGuire, who appeared in favor of it, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Resolved, By the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, that the War Department of the U. S. be advised that it is the unanimous opinion of the Board that the Court House site in the Borough of Manhattan heretofore turned over to the use of the Government, be used by the War Department as the most valuable location for the purpose of erecting the proposed concrete structures for the use of the War Department officials set forth in a communication of the Assistant Secretary of War, addressed to the Mayor on July 18, 1918, and that the Board would consent to the use of Battery Park for the construction of wooden barracks. The following resolution was also unanimously adopted:

Resolved, By the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, that the application of the War Department of the U. S. under date of July 18, 1918, for the use of Battery Park for the erection of buildings, be referred to the Committee on War Emergencies with power to take whatever final action is necessary during the recess of the Board.

Following the announcement of the action of the Board of Estimate, Miss Elizabeth Marbury, organizer of the Women's Auxiliary of the American Defense Society, sent to the Secretary of War and members of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and to the public, through the press, a protest against the use of Battery Park, appealing to them to save the park for the use of the city's poor and to afford a breathing space for everyone working or living in that neighborhood. It is understood that others joined her protest to Washington. A Washington dispatch on Monday from Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, said he knew of no proposal to turn Battery Park over to the War Department for the erection of office buildings.

The letter from Assistant Secretary Crowell printed above was produced by Mayor Hylan to prove that the idea of despoiling this old playground for war expediency did not originate within the city administration.

In a telegram on Tuesday to the American Defense Society, Assistant Secretary Crowell indicated that the Government had abandoned, at least for the present, its contemplated use of Battery Park. Belief, however, that the park may later be employed because of reported attempts at profiteering by loft and office renters was nullified by the official reassurance.

The statement issued last Tuesday night by the society reads: "It now appears practically certain, owing to the protest made by many patriotic citizens against the Government tearing up Battery Park and using it for office buildings, that this will not be done." Assistant Secretary Crowell wires: "Have plans before me for War Department Office housing in New York which is effected, will make use of Battery Park site unnecessary. I appreciate your reasons for opposing the use of this site, and now expect to be able to make other arrangements."

It was ascertained that when the Federal authorities picked this site for the location of Quartermaster Corps, warehouses and offices, the demand was for more than 350,000 square feet of space. This estimate of requirements did not take into consideration the expansion that will be necessary when the nation goes upon the basis of a five million man army.

At the present time the Government offices are now located in twenty-two buildings in various parts of the city, and the reason for putting up this structure was to coordinate these offices.

The plan, if carried out, would necessitate the use of 500,000 square feet of space, or four-fifths of the park. It would involve the cutting down of trees and change the character of the place now used by children and adults as recreation grounds.

Zoning Law Not Upset by 58th Street Decision

Edward M. Bassett Says Its Provisions Must Not Be Arbitrarily Enforced—Comptroller Craig Explains Action

IN certain quarters there has been considerable anxiety as to the attitude of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment towards the Zoning Law due very largely to the action of the Mayor in calling for the resignations of the members of the old Board of Standards and Appeals, the abolishment of the Committee on City Plan and the rulings of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment in the Madison avenue and 58th street cases.

It can be stated definitely that whatever question there might have been as to the friendliness of the present city administration to the Zoning Law at the beginning of its term there is no longer any doubt that the law in its main features will be enforced. For one thing it is a fact that when it was feared that there was a movement on foot to upset the law the city officials were in receipt of a great number of communications, many from small property owners, protesting against any action which would imperil the working of the law, and they were forced to the conclusion that the law was popular with property owners generally, and that any change in it would react on the administration.

In regard to the recent action on the 58th street block Comptroller Craig said to a representative of the Record and Guide:

"The board acted for the best interests of all concerned. We feel that the friends of the law desire that its provisions shall be construed in such a manner that the constitutionality of the law shall not be called in question. This belief led to the decision in the 58th street case and may lead to similar action in other cases. The enforcement of the law must not be rigid."

In regard to the point raised by Comptroller Craig the following by Edward M. Bassett is of great interest:

"The question is often asked whether the Building Zone

Law is constitutional, as if a court could read over the law and then declare it valid or not. Such an inquiry is futile. The law as such is undoubtedly valid, the application of parts of it may be arbitrary and therefore unconstitutional. The validity of the whole therefore depends largely on the reasonableness of its administration.

"The charter provision donating the police power of the state to the Board of Estimate regarding height, size and use of buildings is unquestionably valid. But the police power thus donated must be used for the safety, health, morals and general welfare of the community. If used unreasonably or arbitrarily the courts may pronounce that improper use unconstitutional and void, as taking private property neither under the police power nor for a public use after making fair compensation. Note the difference between the exercise of the police power and eminent domain. In the former no compensation is made, but in the latter it must be made.

"The question of unconstitutionality of the Zoning Law is most apt to arise on the maps. For instance, take an extreme case, some future Board of Estimate might put lower Broadway in a residential district. Such an act would doubtless be declared by the courts to exceed the police power of the state. The Zoning Law, however, would not be wiped out.

"In border line cases like Murray Hill and 58th street, between Sixth and Seventh avenues, there is a likelihood that the courts would support the discretion of the Board of Estimate which ever way it might decide, because it is the Board of Estimate and not the courts who must administer the law. Border lines have to come somewhere, as in fixing fire limits, and if the local legislature acts in good faith and within the scope of its authority the courts will usually uphold its decision."

Real Estate Improvements on Staten Island

STATEN ISLAND Chamber of Commerce has just issued its twenty-fourth annual report prepared by its secretary, Cornelius G. Kolff.

"Recent constructions on Staten Island has included a number of interesting buildings. The new Municipal Court House, and the museum opposite the ferry-landing at St. George, are among the more noticeable, the former not yet having been completed, however, though it is expected to be ready in the fall. Industrial enterprises which have enlarged their properties include Louis Delonge & Company, one of the oldest firms and manufacturers on the Island, who purchased a large plot at Centre street and Simonson avenue, Clifton, for a large factory for their paper mill business. The extensive waterfront property facing New York Bay, along Edgewater street, Simonson to Maple avenues, was bought by a syndicate which has since improved the site with bulkheads, piers for ocean-going vessels, and warehouses. I. T. Williams & Sons have planned to develop the waterfront between Tompkinsville and Stapleton in a similar manner.

"The American Dock Terminal Company has largely increased its operations at Tompkinsville. Along the Kill Van Kull, improvements have been made by J. B. King & Co., plaster manufacturers at New Brighton, and shipping concerns at West New Brighton and Port Richmond have shown increased activities. The Standard Shipbuilding Co., Shooters Island, is engaged in extensive building operations and Downey Shipbuilding Corporation acquired the structural iron works of Milliken Brothers at Mariners Harbor. The Edison Electric Illuminating Co., of Brooklyn, acquired about thirty acres of waterfront property near Rossville, for coal storage purposes.

"On the east shore of the Island, the most important development has been the erection of a large Government Clearing Hospital at Fox Hills, between Rose-bank and Grasmere. The Hospital has accommodations for 3,000. The United States Government has here acquired a lease with purchase privileges of about 160 acres on the southerly side of the Staten Island Railroad. American wounded soldiers from the European battlefields will be landed at Quarantine, thence to be transferred to the Clearing Hospital, via a special railroad, and to other hospitals on the Island under Government control.

"Near Holland's Hook the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad has erected large coal docks, and the real estate recently acquired by the railroad in the vicinity, it is expected, will be used for improvements and railroad yards. It is expected there will be an influx of population on the east shore of Staten Island around Fort Wadsworth and Clifton, of over 8,000 people, which will, of course, tax the dwelling and business capacity of that section to the utmost.

"The subway question has been dormant for the last few years, owing to the assurance on the part of municipal authorities that the finances of the city would not permit any more subway construction in addition to what had been undertaken in Manhattan. The development of the Port of New York and the consequent commercial development of the Borough of Richmond have greatly enhanced the prospects of subway extension to Staten Island."

AMORTGAGE recorded on Monday by the North River Savings Bank covering a loan of $30,000 on 46 West Thirty-fifth street given by Oppenheim, Collins & Company as part of the purchase price of the property, contains the clause "thirty days after termination of the war with Germany, but in any event in two years from date or sooner." This is the first mortgage recorded in which time for payment is based on the end of the war.

Housing Progress in the Metropolitan District

Plans Prepared and Work Actually Started on Construction of Houses for War Workers

AFTER numerous delays the Federal program of industrial housing may now be said to be well under way. From this time forth rapid progress in the work of providing living accommodations in modern dwellings for the workers in the shipyards and munition plants is anticipated.

The New York district, which includes a number of the foremost manufacturing cities of the country, naturally looms prominently among the sections in which Federal housing operations are either actually under way or projected for an early start. Although Greater New York will directly benefit by but a single Government housing project of primary importance, the fact that the building material markets of this city will be called upon to furnish a large part of the structural commodities required, as well as the architectural and engineering talent for the design and supervision of these projects, brings this city into close contact with the program of the United States Housing Corporation. Furthermore, a large percentage of the mechanics and laborers required for the work of construction will be drafted from the forces of Metropolitan contractors.

At the present time, in the immediate vicinity of New York City, four important industrial housing operations planned under the Federal program are either actually under construction or working plans are being prepared. The latter projects will be started just as soon as contracts can be awarded and mechanics and materials arranged for.

One of the most interesting if not the most important of the housing projects in the local territory is that on Staten Island and planned to supply greatly-needed dwellings for the workmen in the shipbuilding plants. This is the only large operation of this character scheduled within the boundaries of Greater New York at the present time. Plans for the group of buildings to be erected at Mariners Harbor, S. I., on property already developed but waiting improvement, are now being prepared in the offices of Delano & Aldrich, architects, 126 East 38th street, Manhattan, who are working in conjunction with A. F. Brinkerhoff, 527 Fifth avenue, town planner, and Pollock & Tabor, 21 Park Row, engineers.

Although as yet only tentative plans have been prepared, thus leaving the entire project subject to revision by the Federal authorities, or leeway for additions to the present scheme, the operation will include the construction of thirty-five twin houses to accommodate seventy families. The plans call for frame construction with exteriors stuccoed, two stories in height, and varying in style of architecture and ground dimensions. The dwellings will contain five and six rooms with baths. All roofs will be of slate and the heating arrangements will be either steam or hot air. Electric lights will be installed and particular care is being taken in planning to provide the best sanitary arrangements possible to this type of dwelling.

In addition to the thirty-five residential units the plan for this operation includes the construction of a four-story brick apartment house, to provide living quarters for thirty families in units of four and five rooms, each with private bath. This multi-family dwelling will be constructed strictly in accordance with the tenement house laws of the city and will contain all of the conveniences and housekeeping appliances commonly found in the new moderate-priced apartment houses throughout New York City.

It is planned to expend approximately $400,000 for this work, not including the value of the land, and if upon completion of the buildings originally planned it is found that there remains a shortage of accommodations additional structures will be erected, following the original plans. The working plans for the Mariners' Harbor housing project will be completed and forwarded to Washington for final approval before the end of this month.

At Port Jefferson, L. I., where is located the plant of the Bayles Shipbuilding Company, the revival of shipbuilding brought with it an intolerable situation as far as the housing of workers in this yard was concerned. This firm obtained contracts for the construction of a number of vessels, and in order to speed up the work employed a large number of additional hands. Housing accommodations in the village and in the neighboring towns was soon exhausted and when the conditions became acute Federal aid in solving the problem was solicited.

The Bayles plant at present employs more than five hundred mechanics in its yard, and as soon as plant additions now under way are completed approximately seven hundred additional employes will be hired. To provide adequate sanitary living quarters for these men and their families has become the combined problem of the village and the Government and plans have been prepared, approved and contracts awarded for the construction of housing sufficient to care for at least four hundred of these workmen.

A tract of about eighteen acres located in the heart of the village of Port Jefferson has been secured and this will be developed under the direction of Alfred C. Bosson, architect and town planner, 366 Fifth avenue, New York City, who will have for his assistants in the mechanical and sanitary details the services of J. Byers Holbrook and J. Wallace Higgins, Associated, engineers, 52 Vanderbilt avenue.

According to the existing plans the development of this project will necessitate the expenditure of about $300,000 and will include the construction of forty-two frame dwellings, each varying in style and dimensions and accommodating two families. In addition, a large two-story frame dormitory for bachelor workmen, dining halls, kitchens and other required community structures are included in the contract. The general contract for this work has been awarded to the Mark C. Tredenick Co., 331 Madison avenue, Manhattan, and the preparation of the site and construction of foundations for the buildings is already started.

One of the most recent Federal announcements in regard to housing plans in the Metropolitan district is that the firm of Starrett & Van Vleck, 8 West 40th street, Manhattan, has been retained to prepare the plans for the group of workmen's dwellings scheduled for the Kenilworth section of Elizabeth, N. J. The project will also come under the direction of the United States Housing Corporation, Otto M. Eidlitz, director. In connection with this operation the architects will have the services of A. F. Brinkerhoff, town planner, and C. D. Pollock, 21 Park Row, engineer. Definite details as to the number and type of dwellings to be erected are not yet available.

One of the largest and most important of the scheduled housing projects in this territory has recently been placed under contract and active building operations have already been started. This job is located at Bridgeport, Conn., and has been designed for the accommodation of the great army of workers in the munition plants of that city. Cauldwell-Wingate Co., 381 Fourth avenue, Manhattan, obtained the general contract for this operation, which involves an outlay of more than $3,000,000.

Plans for the dwellings have been prepared under the direction of Russell C. Sturgis, of Boston, and the town planner is A. A. Shurtleff. The plan involves the construction of four distinct groups of dwellings and apartments, located in various sections of Bridgeport, in order that the workers may facilitate their travels from plant to place of residence. Each group will include single dwellings, two-family houses and a number of apartments, each providing for the housing of twelve families. The construction will be of brick and the style varied. The contract time allowed for the completion of these buildings is seven months.

Big Production, But Not Enough

WHILE in the production of both anthracite and bituminous coal the country is considerably below the program set by the United States Fuel Administration as marking a minimum at which the necessary war work could be carried on at the rate of highest efficiency, the fact remains that coal production has reached a higher point than ever before in the history of the industry. In a great many districts, both anthracite and bituminous, production records have been broken, but still production remains short of requirements, by several million tons.

Almost daily applications are being received by the United States Fuel Administration from War Industries for allotments for coal in addition to those made at the beginning of the coal year. Some are from new plants authorized by the War Industries Board, not known to the Fuel Administration at the beginning of the year. The requirements for these plants are in addition to the original allotments. Other demands are from plants already on the Preferred List of war industries, for increased allowances because of enlargements and extensions to original plants, made since the Fuel Administration compiled its estimates of consumption.

The increased demand for coal for the Navy reached almost one hundred per cent. in July. Whereas three and a half million tons was allotted to the Navy in April, the requirements by the middle of July had reached a basis of six million tons. By the end of the calendar year 1919 it is estimated that approximately eight million tons will be required to cover these demands.

With the launching of new ships, the requirements of the Shipping Board have likewise grown beyond all expectation. When the annual allotment was made, at the first of April, ten million tons was assigned for the purpose of the Shipping Board. The actual requirements as demonstrated by experience, and as a result of the phenomenal results being achieved by the Shipping Board, now place the figure at thirteen million tons. So, also, coal for bunkering purposes, at first estimated at thirteen and a half million tons, has grown in demand until present calculations call for twenty-one million tons.

New industries, not in operation at the beginning of the coal year, are now running on full time or are about to start. These new requirements alone represent an annual consumption of nearly a million and a half tons.

Practically all the steel plants and furnaces are running on full time, twenty-four hours per day. There are no suspensions of operations save for repairs and overhauling of plants. In some instances the yearly coal requirements were underestimated. In many others, enlarged production, under increased efficiency has created a demand for additional coal. Invariably, increased steel production calls for increased coal production, demanding about five tons of coal for each ton of steel produced.

In response to appeals by Director of Production James B. Neale of the United States Fuel Administration the mine workers are making every patriotic sacrifice possible to get out the coal. The ranks of the mine workers have been depleted by the draft and by voluntary enlistment. Earlier in the year there was such a marked shortage of cars that other mine workers could not work steadily and numbers of them drifted into other war work.

The appointment of Production Committees in every mine, whose duties are to see that all the mine workers who can work do their full share, six days in the week, should help the situation. At the same time, if mine workers are unable to work because of the inefficiency of the operator, the Committees are to report that fact so that the United States Fuel Administration can place the blame, if there is any, where it belongs.

Another View of a Current Question

AN interesting though rather unusual view of the bearing of war industries on the future of the metropolis was expressed before the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce in a recent address by Mr. Lawson Purdy, former President of the Department of Taxes and Assessments. Because of his long experience and intimate study of conditions in New York City, the Record and Guide reprints in full in this issue Mr. Purdy's address.

The speaker most certainly was on firm ground when he declared that no community in the United States should be backward in welcoming any war industry when it is to the advantage of the United States Government. "But," Mr. Purdy added, "it is by no means desirable for a large community to have added to it suddenly a large number of workers in an industry which must be temporary. I can see no gain to the Borough of Brooklyn by having established here a temporary industry that would bring a large number of workers here for the time being."

A good many observers have been inclined to regret the fact that the government in its war work has not seen fit to locate more of its war industries in the metropolis. They contend, and unquestionably a great many others share their view, that the more war industries there are located in New York City the better it will be both for the city and the government.

Mr. Purdy's address, however, injects into the discussion several interesting lines for thought.

Does New York Want Temporary Factories?

need not be over twenty-four feet. You can have a grass plot between the street and the sidewalk. It costs far less to maintain that than it does the street.

The United States began to take thought of this. The Shipping Board got an appropriation of $50,000,000. The Labor Department was given power to organize a bureau for the building of houses for munition workers. And now the Labor Department has an appropriation of fifty or sixty million dollars. At first there were some who reasoned that the Shipping Board and the Labor Department should spend that money in settled communities by buying a few lots here and a few lots there, which happen to be vacant, and scattering the houses around. I believe that the policy has been definitely abandoned, and we will see substantially the same policy pursued hereafter by the Labor Department and the Shipping Board as they have in Great Britain.

Our problem is not only to house possible workers, but it is to get and keep a contented labor army, and nothing costs too much, and nothing is too much trouble to achieve that end—a contented labor army that will turn out the goods that we need for the war, so that the war may be prosecuted and ended as speedily as possible. Our labor army is the reserve army that will win the war.

Where possible, it should get a tract of land large enough so that it creates a homogeneous community; a tract with considerable residential streets leading into main thoroughfares and into a community centre where the stores and theatres may be. They must have the movies. The people must have the movies, and while you are about it you should have a good movie house and put it in the right place to produce good revenue. The cost is going to be heavy for building at this time. The cost of these buildings will by thirty per cent. more than in normal times. That is an excess cost due to the war and will have to be charged off as a war expense as part of the cost of producing the goods in the factory. The government should not sell a single building in community. Management is the first and last essential toward keeping and maintaining a satisfactory community life. Management spells the difference between success and failure right here in New York in many a building. A friend of mine from Brooklyn was asked to take charge of an office building in Manhattan, which was not paying. He looked the building over and went back to the owner and said that he had found the building practically full, and the first thing he would wish to do was to turn out half the tenants. The owner balked at first, but finally gave him charge of the building. He explained: "You cannot keep these tenants. They will not pay the rent regularly. You cannot get in the kind of tenants you want, who will pay the rent." One of the undesirable tenants had a lease for two years, and refused to vacate. My friend said: "Perhaps after I have talked with the Post Office Department, you might find it necessary to move." This had the desired result, and the tenant vacated. And in time the building was put on a paying basis.

What applied to that office building applies to any community. If it is ill-managed you can have all kinds of nuisances and spoil your community life. If it is well managed you can keep out all the nuisances and can require suitable behavior from the tenants to respect the rights of other tenants, and you can make it a nice place in which to live. Another reason for this unity of control is the fact that where you develop a tract of land, build single-family houses of modest size and with a modest amount of ground about them, and sell them off, you have little pieces of land with a fence around, for a back yard. Some people keep their back yards beautiful and some do not. It is far better to have all the back yards in common. Then you have a tract of land that is suitable for gardening. Tenants have their allotments of plots where they grow their vegetables, instead of each person having a fence around the place. In another part they may have a tennis court, or a flower garden. You can do a great deal more with an acre of ground than you can with a plot of ground about 30x40 feet.

If the United States does that, it may develop a very contented community so far as the conditions of life are concerned outside the factory. If it does that, after the war the probability is that even though the factories are engaged now on something that is temporary, that will be such a good community in which to plant a factory that the community will remain after the war and the manufacturers will go there because there is where they will have a good labor supply. Where there is a labor supply, other things being reasonably good, there is no trouble in getting a manufacturer. And, incidentally, we do not want to lose a town after the war.

Now we have our community so planned and controlled by the Government, and we assume that it has been well managed. What after the war is over? I have a dream of my own. Probably others have had it. It would be a pity after the war to break up that well managed community. Why not let the United States sell it to the people that live there? I do not mean the individuals, I mean collectively. There are a number of plans by which this could be worked out. The one that seems the simplest would be to form a membership corporation without capital stock, and after the Government got back some of its money out of the property let that corporation take it over with a mortgage to the United States, which it shall amortize at a reasonable rate each year, after writing off the excess war cost. If it can get two per cent. over the interest at four and one-quarter per cent. or four and one-half per cent. it can pay off the entire sum. The tenant will pay all the rent that he normally ought to pay and when the United States is paid off, whatever is over and above the ordinary expenses of operation, after setting aside a sinking fund to rebuild the buildings as they are worn out, let them spend the balance as the community sees fit.

Here in this city there has never been a time when we have spent as much money as we could profitably have spent. There never has been a time when the Health Commissioner could come before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and say that he had all the money he needed for the betterment of health conditions. I well remember Commissioner Darlington, when he came before the Board of Estimate and said: "Gentlemen, in certain parts of this city the death rate of babies under one year old is two hundred and fifty per thousand. In other parts of the city it is one hundred per thousand. Whether they live or die is solely a matter of money. Give me the money and I will cut down the death rate."

The death rate for the City of New York is something around fourteen per thousand. When I was a young man it was over twenty. That means spending money. That is only an illustration. We can abolish tuberculosis by the expenditure of money.

There has never been a time when our educational authorities have been satisfied with the facilities that we have afforded for public education in the City of New York. We have been spending more money and more money. This is not a complaint. With all that we have done there has not been a time when the education authorities of the city would not have said: "You can spend to greater advantage more money in certain ways." There never was a time when our Park Commissioners would have been satisfied, and when they would not have been able to use more money to good advantage.

The other day I happened to be over on the East Side in Manhattan, and I walked back and forth through some of the streets. In one way, it does not look so very bad. But in another way it is awful. The streets are pack-jam with children. There is no decent place for them to play. Boys and girls do not grow up so well when they have nothing but the street, and that crowded, in which to play, as where they have a good playground. There are many things which a community that is rich can do for itself.

In such a community as I have described the people themselves would be making the money themselves, which would be spent on themselves, and they would only be paying for the privilege of living there, while heretofore they have been paying for living in a town without half so much advantage. And we should have such a town wherever the factories are for war munition workers.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Unusual Dullness Marks Usual Dull Period and Few Sales Are Reported—Sale of Sixth Avenue Property—Leasing Falls Off

THE past week was an unusually inactive one in realty circles, and few sales of any importance were reported. This is as a rule the dull season for realty, but seldom has there been such a dearth of sales even at this time of the year.

The sale of the property at the southeast corner of Sixth avenue and Twenty-eighth street to the United Cigar Stores Company, for nearly nine years a tenant in the building, is taken as an indication of belief in the ascendancy of that thoroughfare for business coming from a transient population which is steadily replacing the former shopping element.

J. C. Bolger, real estate controller for the United Cigar Stores Company, expressed the opinion that the property is a bargain considering the recuperation prospects of the section since the advent of the new subway.

Continuing the activity of recent months, the Charles F. Noyes Company is still selling downtown property. The latest sale in that section is that of 64 and 66 Cliff street, through the block to and including 303 Pearl street, four and five story buildings, to Edward M. Raphael Company, export and shipping merchants, who will alter and use for their own business purposes.

Norlin Realty Company, Richard S. Elliott president, sold to an investor whose name has not been revealed, 114 and 116 Sixth avenue, with 71 and 73 West Ninth street, a one-story and basement building on plot 40x93. The rent roll of the property is $11,000, and it was held at $100,000.

Announcement that the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company had granted a loan of $200,000 to Dr. Charles E. Nammack on his property at 38 to 42 East Twenty-ninth street, was taken as an indication that mortgage money was being released again after a long period of inactivity, but inquiry elicited the response that this was a special commitment and that there is no prospect that the making of loans would be considered now or in the near future, that occasion being dependent largely upon the war and its influence.

Dr. Nammack will use the money for the improvement of his property with a ten-story reinforced concrete loft building from plans by D. Everett Ward, and says that he has sufficient applications from responsible concerns wanting space in this locality to more than fill the building.

The week just ending marks the passing of the title to the One Hundred and Ninety-five Broadway Corporation, a holding concern for the Western Union Telegraph Company, the New York Telephone Company, and the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, of the property at 172 and 174 Fulton street, for many years the home of the New York Law School. The holding company now controls all of the block bounded by Broadway, Church, Dey and Fulton streets, with the exception of the Fulton street corners, the small building at 179 Fulton street and 54 Dey street, the latter being owned by the Astor family. The Fulton street corner now occupied by Benedict, the jeweler, alone stands in the way of rounding out the plan for a block front structure on Broadway for the holding company.

Leasing was not as good this week as it has been of late and but few leases were reported by the brokers. A new syndicate, organized by W. Sackett Duell, leased from United Cigar Stores Company, through the Empire Trust Company, as substituted trustee for the estate of Matthew Byrnes, the thirteen-story Hotel Lorraine, at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-fifth street, for forty-two years at an aggregate rental of $1,000,000. The property will be continued as a hotel with the lessees remaining in possession of the five stores.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 26 as against 18 last week and 19 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 13 as compared with 6 last week and 6 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 13 as compared with 12 last week and 13 a year ago.

From the Bronx 13 sales at private contract were reported as against 14 last week and 4 a year ago.

Statistical table, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 196 of this issue.

Buyers Law School Property.

One Hundred and Ninety-five Broadway Corporation, which is a holding concern for the Western Union Telegraph Company, the New York Telephone Company, and the American Telephone & Telegraph Company, has taken title to the New York Law School building at 172 and 174 Fulton street. The purchase was made direct with Dean Chase of the law school for $450,000. The holding company now controls all of the block bounded by Broadway, Church, Dey, and Fulton streets with the exception of the Fulton street corners, the small building at 176 Fulton street, and 54 Dey street, the latter being owned by the Astor family and which forms the northeast corner of Church street. The law school is a seven-story office structure, covering a plot 54 by 77, adjoining on the west the Fulton street wing of the twenty-eight-story office building the corporation recently completed on the Boardway and Dey street frontage of the block. As this wing has a width of but 33 feet, and so constructed that it may be carried over adjoining property, it is perhaps safe to assume that when the proper time comes the corporation will carry its great building over the law school site and the lots it has purchased since the completion of the original unit. These purchases include the former Mail and Express building and Judge Gray's property, leaving only the Fulton street corner, occupied by Benedict, the jeweler, to round out the plan for a block-front structure on Broadway.

Another Sale Downtown.

Charles F. Noyes Company has sold for the Estate of John T. Willets, Howard Willets and John J. Carle, Executors, the properties 64 and 66 Cliff street, through the block to and including 303 Pearl street, four and five story buildings covering a plot of 7200 square feet, to Edward M. Raphael & Co., Inc., export and shipping merchants, who will make extensive alterations and improvements to adapt the buildings for their own use. This adds another link to the long chain of recent purchases of downtown business properties for occupancy, which has been the strong feature of the current real estate market. There is added interest to this sale by reason of the fact that the properties are being disposed of by the Willets family after a continued ownership and occupancy of over one hundred years.

Investor Buys Taxpayer.

Richard S. Elliott, President of the Norlin Realty Corporation has sold to an investor through A. N. Gitterman as broker, 114 and 116 Sixth avenue with 71 and 73 West 9th street. The entire corner plot is improved with a one story and basement building and measures 40x93. It contains six stores and a large basement with an entrance to the Hudson Tubes through the Ninth street side. The rent roll of this property is about $11,000 and was held at $100,000. It was sold to the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company for about $180,000, when they contemplated building an extension through Ninth street to Fourth avenue. The buyer was represented by Walter M. Wechsler as Attorney and the seller by Timothy F. Fay of Whaley, Walker and Fay, Attorneys.

Buys on Sixth Avenue.

That Sixth avenue is destined to again become a business thoroughfare is evidenced in the purchase by United Cigar Stores Company direct from the owner, John F. Haaran, the 3-story building covering a plot 46.9x60 ft., at 460 and 462 Sixth avenue, forming the southeast corner of 28th street, for a consideration, which J. C. Bolger, real estate controller for the company, believes is a bargain rate considering the recuperation prospects the section has been exhibiting since the advent of the new subway. The purchaser has been a tenant of the corner for the last eight or nine years. The property adjoins Moquin's establishment, which is said to occupy the old Varian homestead, a landmark of that part of the city when it was a farming district. The old farm house is still standing, but invisible, having been surrounded by brick additions and a modern stucco front.

General Survey of the Building Situation

Federal Housing Activity Progressing Favorably — Suggested Utilization of Secondhand Materials

CERTAIN factors in the determining of fundamental business conditions in general may be depended upon to give the building trade an impetus toward increased activity. Although present building operations total up to a substantial sum yet comparatively they show the industry to be at a rather low ebb. For however the complete record of recent construction, including Government work, may compare with the total of previous years, it cannot be refuted that building in civilian departments constitutes but a fraction of its former value. Various special lines of potential development have been indicated from time to time, both those already taken by the Government, and those which might well be initiated either through Federal authority or by private commercial and industrial interests.

Generally speaking, however, some broader influence must be counted on to change the general trend of building activity. Chief among these perhaps would be an indication that a more positively favorable aspect of the war were presenting itself. If it could be reasonably assured that no retrogression in gains would be likely to take place, financiers would tend to regard building with a more favorable attitude than they do at the present time.

Correspondingly, with such a bettering of war conditions might come the lessening of Government demands for building materials and fuel, thus releasing supplies for other purposes. A factor which will obtain in the more immediate future is concerned with the outcome of the next Liberty Loan. If it becomes apparent that the bulk of the subscriptions are being taken out by a large number of private citizens a more favorable effect would be produced on the minds of those who must be looked to for building loans. The widespread distribution would be a better sign than if large quantities had to be covered by the capital of banking and financial houses, thus concentrating the burden upon them.

The Federal housing plans are rather quickly becoming a reality and are being worked out on a practical basis that might well serve as a model for future projects. Every effort is being put forth to adapt the groups of buildings in the most suitable way possible to their environment, and to make them fit in as an integral part in the life and development of the community. In certain sections where such an arrangement is feasible, the payroll of the company employing the workers to be housed will be examined as a basis for determining the scale of expense which would be proper. An output in the building expense of houses was reckoned generally suitable if a rental approximating 20 per cent. of the average wage would be sufficient to make a fair return of interest on the principal expended. In planning the houses suggestions from the future residents were obtained through conferences. Thus the maximum convenience and practicality was assured.

Furthermore, the location has been taken into consideration and made an asset in carrying out the plans with the greatest efficiency. Where the houses are to be established near available timber resources they will be of frame construction. It is expected that in a similar way brick, cement and combinations of materials will be used as they are more readily available to the locations of housing projects.

Much discussion has centered about the question of the permanence of these buildings. It is doubtless true that the Government has the idea of constructing many groups of merely temporary buildings where it is possible that the demand will undergo a decline after the war. The reason for such a move of pure expedience is evident. The Government would probably not have financed such housing schemes in ordinary peace times, and the fact of the establishments planned with permanent houses show that the future was not disregarded.

At the same time there is much to be said on the side of making all these buildings of a lasting nature. Even if some other occupation must be found to employ the plant formerly used for munitions in order to keep the houses nearby in use it might be worth its expense and effort in that direction. If the housing is temporary, either it must be torn down completely or else may and probably will degenerate into a slum of the most pernicious sort. If this were allowed to happen the land values in the vicinity will dwindle in proportion, those who live in the tenements or near will be under bad or even dangerous surroundings and the once useful group will constitute a public menace.

On the other hand, if the buildings are constructed in an attractive, permanent form it would cost a comparatively small additional amount and certainly many benefits would accrue. Much of the value would remain after the war. Instead of constituting an undesirable part of the community the group would take its place as a part of the improved, enlarged town, giving it something better than existed before. Other housing improvements would be stimulated and the industrial workers would be contentedly housed after the war as well as merely during it.

For those building concerns who are not receiving the benefit of the Government housing plans, however, the outlook is not so bright. Some builders, especially the smaller concerns, are actually having difficulty in keeping their working forces together. For such as these one way out would seem to consist in the rather prosaic method of utilizing second-hand material. This departure from ordinary peace-time methods may seem unattractive. It may seem too trivial or slight in extent to aid in any material way. One of the chief difficulties in the way of building to-day is the impossibility of procuring the materials with which to work. If this difficulty could be done away with or partially obviated it is certain that much opportunity for building would present itself.

In many regions there is accumulated a considerable quantity of used lumber which would be available for anyone who could use it. By utilizing this material for many types of building and especially for alterations and enlargements on old houses few difficulties would present themselves in going ahead with the work. While more care and time are undeniably necessary in dealing with second-hand stock, yet the smaller initial stock together with the perfectly satisfactory results attained neutralize this feature. In some cases the older wood would really be preferable, since it is already seasoned. Nor is this idea confined to the use of lumber alone, since for many purposes second-hand brick could be used.

The use of second-hand material will doubtless be an unwelcome idea to the majority of customers as well as builders. The benefit, however, would accrue to both—projects of such nature that builders would not readily undertake them after the war when they are flooded with work could, under present conditions, be carried on satisfactorily at a less expense than would be incurred later.

Both sides should recognize that, although there would be no great gain or need of using these materials under ordinary conditions, these are not peace times and cannot be regarded as normal in any way. The builder who studies to utilize this material does three things which are of the most benefit. He utilizes waste, which is a way to add to the health and welfare of the nation; he aids the consumer in helping him on with the work which he considers necessary for himself, and he furthers his own interests by adapting himself to prevailing conditions, which will keep life in his trade for post-war activities.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

THE existing high levels at which building materials and supplies are maintained are in part the result of the uncertain prospect of future Government housing plans. The heavy requirement of structural commodities for this purpose already ascertained are regarded in some quarters as an indication that still greater quantities will be called for in the near future. Moreover, it is to be realized that the estimated total value of building materials available for the year is placed at $600,000,000.

From this amount is to come the requirements of the Federal Housing Program to the value of $110,000,000, and construction in civilian departments estimated at approximately $350,000,000. Furthermore, the fact that the construction of ships must be reckoned in as an extremely important factor in the distribution of supplies, as this character of activity uses much the same kind of materials needed for building purposes, makes it readily understood why a serious scarcity of building materials and supplies may be anticipated unless opportunity is offered manufacturers to increase the rate of production. The total inadequacy of the supply of steel for all purposes is shown by the figures. While the production is estimated at 16,500,000 tons, Government demands will probably be at least 20,000,000 tons.

Generally the building situation is quiet, although there is a strong undercurrent of optimism generated as the result of somewhat improved building conditions and a greater willingness on the part of prospective builders to commence contemplated operations wherever possible. Despite the ever mounting cost of building materials a fair volume of new construction work is being undertaken. For the greater part this work consists of projects essential to industrial, commercial or military progress and the additional costs are assumed because of the need of the structures.

Common Brick.—The excessively torrid weather of the past ten days has effected the market for Hudson River common brick. The heat prevented bricklayers from working on walls and considerable active construction was temporarily held up. The natural consequence was a lessening of demand upon the wholesale market. In addition to the decrease in buying activity more bricks arrived from up-river points during the week than there has for a number of weeks past with the result being a weaker price situation than was evident one week ago. Current wholesale quotations at present range between $13.50 and $14 a thousand, to dealers in cargo lots, alongside dock. The lowered price is not expected to maintain after the accumulation of barges, now at the docks, is disposed of and dealers fully anticipate a stiffening within the next two weeks. The manufacturing season of 1918 has not been particularly active, production costs have steadily advanced and labor has been extremely scarce and difficult to hold. The output of the current year will be far below that of past years and even at the slow rate of production there will be considerable brick carried over, due to the scarcity of building operations in the Metropolitan district that has slowed down the demand to negligible proportions. The Raritan district is in much the same position and producers have been subjected to similar difficulties of mounting costs and labor shortage. Brick from the Raritan section are still out of the New York market and producers are anything but optimistic as to the immediate future.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, August 16, 1918. Condition of market: Demand fair. Prices lower. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $13.50 to $14 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 22; sales, 15. Distribution: Manhattan, 2; Brooklyn, 1; Bronx, 4; New Jersey points, 6; outside, 2.

Portland Cement.—Conditions in the cement market are practically unchanged from those that have now maintained over a period of months. The demand is considered fair under the circumstances and the outlook is satisfactory to the producers. Government requirements continue to be the factor of paramount importance to the cement market and undoubtedly will continue to be until the Federal program of construction is finished. The start of numerous industrial housing projects, in various parts of the country, undertaken through the agency of the United States Housing Corporation, has brought considerable additional business to the cement interests and the demands from this source of activity are fairly heavy.

LEHIGH CEMENT

NATIONAL

DISTRIBUTION REPUTATION

Wholesale prices of Portland cement remain unchanged.

Lumber.—The greatest activity in both the wholesale and retail lumber markets centers in the fulfillment of Government requirements. All other phases of activity are being made subservient to Federal demands. There is a fair volume of business emanating from manufacturing consumers, but orders from the building industry are relatively few and far between. There has lately been considerable improvement in the transportation of lumber from mill points and dealers are in better shape as far as stocks are concerned than they have been for some time past. Lumber prices are very firm and for those kinds for which Federal prices have not been established the prices are steadily advancing.

Structural Steel.—The general conditions in the production of structural steel remain practically unchanged. Almost the entire output of the fabricating mills is being diverted to Federal use either in construction work for the manufacture of munitions and supplies for the army and navy. At the present time no building projects requiring structural steel in any important amount are being undertaken or attempted unless they are essential to the fulfillment of the military program. Certain of the eastern fabricators are only able to operate at about fifty per cent. of their capacity owing to the scarce and inefficient labor. Current quotations of mill shipments remain unchanged.

Crushed Limestone.—The market situation is quiet. The demand, outside of Government requirements and sporadic orders from contractors for subway work, is slow and although there is no anticipation of a reduction from the present rate of activity increased business is not looked for at the present time and possibly not until next spring. Crushed stone prices are firm and unchanged.

Window Glass.—Manufacturers of window glass have decided upon a raise in the first and third brackets of A and B, single thick, which will be placed hereafter on the same discount basis. This change will probably become effective within a short time and will be equivalent to an advance in price of 15 to 20 per cent. on the first three brackets, single thick. The outlook for the window glass industry for the coming year is not the best. Present prospects indicate a forced reduction even greater than the fifty per cent. limit now effective. Manufacturing operations are not likely to be resumed before the middle of December, and fires may not be started before the beginning of next year. Although the stocks in the hands of the jobbers are extremely low and badly broken they will have to suffice until new glass is available, and it is most fortunate that the demand is light or conditions in the trade would be infinitely worse than they are at present.

Wire Products.—The situation as applied to these commodities has undergone but slight change during the past week. The mills are doing the best possible considering the limited amount of steel available and the fact the Government demands are exceptionally heavy. Still there will be a fairly good distribution of wire and wire nails to jobbers who have complied with all of the regulations of the War Industries Board, the principal one being the signing of the pledge. It is reported that fairly large mill stocks are being held by the authorities against possible war needs and if such stocks are being held they may be partly released. The price situation remains unchanged with all quotations based upon the Government control figures.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Manufacturers of this commodity who have been applying cast iron pipe for use in connection with cantonment construction and Federal housing projects have received positive assurance from Washington that adequate supplies of pig iron will be available. Pipe producers are extremely gratified that their product has been placed on the essential list. Practically all existing orders are from Government sources and there is little if any municipal or private buying. Government prices, including the new freight rates, are as follows: 6-inch, 8-inch and heavier, $61.75, New York; 4-inch, $64.75, and 3-inch, $71.75.

NEW RULES ADOPTED.

At the regular meeting of the Board of Standards and Appeals last Tuesday the following rules relative to smoking in factories were unanimously adopted:

Rule 1. Permit.

(a) Prohibition. No person shall smoke, or carry a lighted cigar or cigarette in any factory as defined in Article 1, Section 2, of the State Labor Law, nor in any portion of a factory, within the City of New York, except in such protected portions or special classes of occupancies as are specified in Rule 2 of these rules, and then only after the issuance of a permit by the fire commissioner.

It shall be the joint duty of the owner and of the lessee or lessees of the building containing such factory or factories to cause to be posted in each and every entrance hall, stairhall or room throughout the building, as well as in every elevator-car, in English, and also in such other language or languages as the fire commissioner shall direct, a notice of such prohibition, and the penalty for its violation.

(b) Application. Application for such permit shall be made only by the owner of the building on suitable blank forms to be furnished by the fire commissioner.

(c) Time Limit. Such permit shall be for a definite period, not exceeding one year, and shall not be renewed upon expiration until a reinspection of the premises for which it is issued has been made for the purpose of determining whether existing conditions warrant a renewal.

(d) Conditions. The permit shall state the conditions under which, the hours between which, and the place or places in such factory where smoking may be permitted, and this permit shall be framed and kept posted in a conspicuous place in the factory.

(e) Revocation. Violation of any of the conditions specified in the permit, in addition to incurring such penalties as are prescribed by law, shall be full and sufficient cause for the revocation of such permit by the fire commissioner, and he shall not again issue a permit for the same premises until at least one year has elapsed.

Rule 2. Permissible Cases.

Smoking may be permitted in:

(a) Factories engaged in the manufacture of cigars, cigarettes, or smoking tobacco, when necessary for the efficient conduct of the business, provided that:

(1) No smoking other than that for sampling, testing and experimental purposes is carried on.

(2) Such smoking is conducted in a room provided especially for that purpose, separated from the rest of the building by fireproof or fire-resisting partitions, with all openings therein protected by self-closing fire doors, and, further, unless the building is of fireproof construction or equipped with an approved automatic sprinkler system, the floor and ceiling of such room shall be covered with fire-retarding material.

(3) Such chemical fire extinguishers as the fire commissioner may direct are installed.

(4) All waste paper and other inflammable waste materials are deposited in fireproof receptacles.

(b) Factories devoted entirely to one of the following occupancies.

Blacksmithing or horseshoeing;
Boiler making;
Brick, terra cotta or artificial stone works;
Forge shops;
Foundries;
Iron, steel, brass or copper works;
Machine shops;
Smelting;
Stone or monumental works;

provided that in any case:

(1) The building is not of wooden construction;

(2) Such chemical fire extinguishers as the fire commissioner may direct are installed;

(3) All waste paper and other inflammable waste materials are deposited in fireproof receptacles.

JOHN P. LEO, chairman.

Real Conservation

During the past 18 months over 100 large private electric plants have been abandoned for Edison Service in Manhattan and Bronx

This means, first, a tremendous coal saving, as the ratio of consumption between a private plant and the Central Station for a given amount of current is 4 to 1

It means, second, an important saving in coal delivery facilities

These properties have solved the basic problem of maintenance economy. If you still hesitate over such a move, let our engineers provide you with the details

Necessity of Safeguarding Realty Mortgages

Total of Six Billion Dollars in This Class of Securities in New York City Alone

By LEO DAY WOODWORTH,
Secretary, Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, New York.

THE following discussion results from four facts: War conditions, the general weakness of the real estate market, the effect of the growing tax levies and the entire absence of government support in the mortgage market.

I

Hesitancy appears both natural and proper when we would call attention to conditions in the mortgage market. Whole-hearted support of the war administration must not be clouded by any act indicative of mere selfish interest.

The splendid accomplishments of the real estate divisions in floating the war loans, toward the success of which realty board facilities contributed so much—also like deeds by realty's labor, material and contracting allies—give ample proof of the unalloyed patriotism of the real estate interests.

The national "will to win" has swept away deterrent influences. Both material and services now are on the altar without reserve. Even the respected and necessary principles of constitutional government and of political economics are laid aside as necessary—for the time being.

Property is now on a quick asset basis in order to "win the war and do it now." The working capital of the country must be used for the rapid and extensive turn overs of unprecedented payrolls, new construction in most unexpected places, added production of materials at increased prices. Long term private investments would not be opportune.

II

Before the war there were two primary securities in which to invest permanent funds—government bonds and real estate mortgages—both protected by the constitutions and moral standards of the Nation.

Loans secured by realty being the more remunerative, attracted by far the larger amount of capital. This favorable aspect made possible the enormous growth in the real property of the country through improvements and extensions for manufacturing, business, residence and agriculture. The lure of the unearned increment, as Prof. Ely has called it, has supplied us with enterprises and facilities and resulting rewards which enables us at this critical juncture to step in as the big brother among twenty-three allies.

The total of mortgage obligations is about half of the total value of real property. In other words, the investments of realty owners are about equal to those by mortgages. However, in New York City it is possible that mortgage indebtedness amounts to even 60 per cent. of the whole. This immense volume of mortgage securities—over six billions in New York alone—is maturing in one, three and five-year periods and no small part is past due.

Such is the size and scope of the problem of conservation which confronts the real estate interests—borrowers and lenders, landlords and tenants, bankers and depositors, and all others, including public utilities and their strap-hangers!

III

The problems of mortgage securities are tied up with those of public (especially city) finance and credit. A brief sketch will indicate our need for serious attention to this field.

The borrowing power of the city is limited to a percentage of the total assessed value of the real property therein. The taxing power is practically limited to what it can extract from the real estate owners. As if this were not enough, the State of New York has drawn its sustenance from an assortment of indirect taxes which must now be supplemented by a State direct tax upon realty. The threat is now made that the indirect taxes will be more and more preempted or "dried up" by Federal taxation, both during and after war—to the enlargement of the real estate tax.

Real estate values must be conserved, and be maintained as a productive and profitable investment, if it is to carry this burden—and threat.

If real estate values are not conserved and fostered rather than impaired and destroyed by improper tax laws and regulations, we can safely predict a declining market. That in turn produces an increasing total of uncollected taxes, demands for payment or reduction of mortgage debts, decreased building activity, higher rents. How many of these symptoms are present today? If present, are they increasing in severity or are we applying a remedy?

While it is our main purpose here to deal with the need for attention to the mortgage market, municipal finance furnished during the present month an event of significance which should be noted. The Comptroller of the City of New York discontinued certain tax sales for the period of the war. The owners are relieved in order that taxes may continue to pile up against them—but meanwhile the city budget must be met either by borrowings or by further contributions from taxpayers who have already paid their share.

The war is not the real reason. The causes are much more complicated. They are to be found in recognized principles which are not to our taste but which are controlling and follow in sequence about as follows:

Realty will bear a heavier burden of taxation than other property. That burden can be increased so long as the realty is increasing in value or allowed to produce a reasonable net income, but,

- (1) taxes, like all fixed or increasing charges, deter buyers and therefore depress values in properties to both present and prospective demands; therefore,
- (2) owners of vacant or inadequately improved land, as well as improvident owners of improved lands, being without the income from the property or the profits from its re-sale, and likewise unable to borrow on their depreciating security, are forced to permit their holdings to go to tax sale; but,

(3) when tax sales are general they defeat their object, the market is further depressed—and the item of “uncollected taxes” in the budget grows continuously. Every such increase (a) makes larger the amount charged back to other taxpayers, (b) the higher become the taxes assessed, (c) the larger become the totals of uncollected taxes, (d) the greater the amount of property which should but cannot be sold for taxes, (e) the cycle repeats, and, therefore,

(4) values become further depressed and troubles increase. Every sacrifice at tax sale depresses the value for all purposes of both the property sold and that held by other taxpayers—and so it happens that tax sales become both undesirable and impossible; then

(5) finally, it becomes cheaper and also prudent to ignore tax bills and not pay taxes. Confiscatory rates under the general property tax now lead us to condone tax dodging by owners of personal property—and the same unmoral attitude may develop for the over-taxed owner of realty.

An over-drawn picture? No! It is not only theory, but it is fact. An exact parallel is to be found today in the Western provinces of Canada where promised magic of a near-approach to the application of the single tax doctrine has produced chaos in public finance and taxation along the lines described here. For example: Vancouver this year has a tax levy of $4,369,000 and tax arrears of $5,038,537—payable by 22,000 taxpayers among a present estimate population of 102,422. Think of a condition where the total of uncollected taxes exceeds the current budget!

New York City and State, thanks to the efforts of the “New York Tax Reform Association” and similar bodies and other single tax propagandists, have been brought closer to this Henry George heaven (?) than any other part of the United States or Europe.

Furthermore, although the evils have long been evident and have been clearly exposed by able economists, there are several Federal and some few State officials who would graft such a destructive tax policy onto the public land, the colonization and even the housing ventures of government.

Where the situation is most serious, as in New York, the real estate owners and those having “an equity of redemption” are now bearing the brunt of the situation. But,

Tenants, especially those dependent upon wages or salaries, are most affected in the long run from the bread-and-butter viewpoint. Every condition unfavorable to real estate ownership makes for fewer and poorer housings and higher rents. In America, if not in “the old country” across the seas, everyone who will may own his own home and garden or farm, as land ownership is not monopolized or made difficult—and if it is our choice to rent we must expect to employ our landlord at what the job is worth—we must make it worth his while!

Mortgagors as a class do not face any serious danger of loss of investment, with the interests or owners and tenants alike involved for the conserving of their security. But the great bulk of mortgage money comes from such trust funds as savings deposits, insurance premiums, estates, endowments and other funds which must be liquidated sooner or later. The management of such funds involves superior sagacity and prudence—and bad risks can find no favor. Therefore, the security for loans must be conserved.

Various phases of this situation as affected by tax laws will be discussed in more detail following the completion of studies being made for the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, for the information of taxpayer, commercial, banking and all other classes of citizens.

IV

The conservation of mortgage securities appear to require immediate attention to certain banking problems. The War Finance Corporation Act authorizes a measure of relief to institutions for savings, but the inclusion does not extend to mortgage, insurance and other corporations or individuals. In short, at the present time our mortgage investments are outside the pale of either public or popular consideration.

Of course we all admit that some problems of the day, large as well as small, must wait on others. Fortunately the mortgage market can, far better than less tangible securities, take care of itself—primarily because of popular faith that it is and always will be worth 100 cents on the dollar. Full value and prompt payment of interest is deemed more certain here and market fluctuations are not recognized except in rare cases.

But in spite of these advantages, the banking problems of real estate cannot be allowed to drift indefinitely. On the one hand, the housing needs of the country cannot be ignored, as has been pointed out by Senator Calder. War housing by the Federal Government is intended to meet the direct emergencies of the conduct of the war.

Back of the front line of offences is the far larger aggregate of industry and commerce which provides the sinews for the former, and we must anticipate these other housing needs after the first are provided for. In the second place, we cannot assume a stagnant condition in the tremendous real estate interests of the country.

It has been stated that the mortgage indebtedness of realty owners in New York City alone totals six billion dollars, of which about one-fifth matures annually. Having in mind the small units into which this debt is divided on both the debtor and creditor sides, we realize the need for a certain amount of new financing or re-financing if each individual is to enjoy the greatest economic efficiency such as is required at the present time.

Various remedies have been proposed. That we may not resort to a temporary expedient which will be injurious in the long run, let us consider the various plans proposed, in what we consider to be their order of importance.

(1) Forbearance by mortgagee. General action along this line in all cases where the security is being maintained by the borrower, will preserve to the mortgage market that independence which has been its strength. We commend the efforts along this line by Chairman Nathan Hirsch, of the Mayor's Committee on Taxation. The Advisory Council early spoke against the ill-considered patriotism of lenders who called their real estate mortgages in order to acquire Liberty Bonds, as this shifting of the mortgage does not reduce the principal nor increase the amount of money available to the Government—in addition, unnecessary expense results to the borrowers. This spirit of leniency appears to prevail among the great lending institutions, in spite of the calls upon them by depositors. The principal offenders are those less acquainted with the peculiarities of the mortgage market, such as managers of endowment funds who desire to make a showing for their institution, club or society on the score of patriotism. Any lender guilty of profiteering should be promptly exposed and should be forever barred from the mortgage market. On the other hand, borrowers should be especially careful to

U. S. Government Asked to Protect City's Credit

Comptroller Craig Protests Against Proposal to Tax Municipal Bonds—Mayor Wants Police Exempt

MUNICIPAL affairs of the City of New York figured this week in a protest filed by Comptroller Craig with the members of the Ways and Means Committee of Congress, and an appeal by Police Commissioner Enright and Mayor Hylan, backed up by the Chamber of Commerce, to the Secretary of War, Provost Marshal General Crowder, Chairman Chamberlain and the Senate Military Affairs Committee, and Chairman Dent of the House Military Affairs Committee.

A protest against the proposal to tax municipal securities for war purposes was made on Monday by Comptroller Charles L. Craig in a telegram sent to each member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives. The Comptroller said:

"August 20, 1918.

"Press reports state that your committee contemplates including in the new revenue bill a provision for the taxation of State and Municipal bonds. On behalf of the City of New York permit me to express an urgent and earnest protest against such taxation. The burdens of such taxation would fall most heavily upon the Municipal Government of the City of New York and seriously cripple its governmental functions. The City of New York has aided the Federal Government in every way in the prosecution of the war. Large and valuable properties have been turned over without charge for Army and Navy purposes. The co-operation of the municipal authorities is continued and unreserved.

"A tax, direct or indirect, upon municipal bonds is in effect a tax upon the government of the City of New York. It is a tax upon public schools, hospitals, charitable and correctional institutions and upon fire and police protection, and upon water supply, rapid transit and waterfront improvements. A certain amount of such improvements are vital under war conditions. The power to tax is the power to destroy. It is inconceivable that Congress should prostrate the credit and cripple the functions of a great and devoted municipal government. The gain cannot possibly offset the injury of a tax that so clearly appears to be unconstitutional. I earnestly urge that no tax be laid directly or indirectly upon municipal bonds.

"CHARLES L. CRAIG,
"Comptroller, City of New York."

Financial interests relied upon to handle municipal bonds in blocks, advised the Comptroller that the imposition of a war tax on these securities would make them less attractive and might result in the failure of future financial operations on the part of the city. Protests against the proposed tax were filed with the Ways and Means Committee by some of these financiers and it was understood that assurances were received from individual members of the committee that they personally believed the laying of a tax on these bonds would be unconstitutional as set forth by the Comptroller in his telegram of protest, and for that reason they would oppose the measure.

Police Commissioner Enright, in a letter to Senator Calder, listed four plans under which members of the New York City police department might be exempted from military service. The Police Commissioner suggested these avenues of exemption for policemen:

"Application of an amendment proposed by the Provost Marshal General projecting the exemption among others, of those in employments necessary to the maintenance of the national interest.

"Direct and specific exemption of New York policemen, permitting the retention of those remaining on the force and the recruiting of the department from the civil service list.

"Exemption of municipal police forces of all seaport cities of the United States having a million or more inhabitants.

"Deferred classification for New York policemen, making them subject to call only when all other preceding exempt classes have been exhausted."

Of the four plans, Commissioner Enright favors the first. In his letter to Senator Calder, Commissioner Enright said: "There seems to be no logical reason why the police force of the largest city on this hemisphere, a city from whose docks and piers depart seventy-five per cent. of the soldiers and sixty per cent. of the supplies, should not come under the heading 'necessary to the maintenance of the national interest.'"

In a letter to Senator Calder, Mayor Hylan said: "Possible uprisings against authority due to dissatisfaction with the war or with the Government may occur in New York, and would bring about a very grave situation without adequate police protection for the metropolis.

"Under the extended draft ages practically every policeman in the city would eventually go into the army, and they would have no plea for exemption on account of dependents, because under the Fenner law the difference in their police pay and army pay would be made up by the city. More than seven hundred New York policemen are already in the army, and one thousand more will be before the end of the year, even under the present draft age."

The Chamber of Commerce in a letter to Secretary of War Baker, General Crowder, Chairman Chamberlain and the Senate Military Affairs Committee and Chairman Dent of the House Military Affairs Committee, said: "Men cannot be trained quickly to knowledge of the laws under which the police have to act and to their duties. Green men can be much more quickly trained to be efficient soldiers of the line than to be efficient police officers.

"The value of the existing trained force of police in their present position is worth vastly more to the interests of the Government and the country while at war than would be the military value of the whole force were it put into the army as a unit. Indeed, this force is worth immensely more to the Government where it is, in protecting the vast industries and functions being performed here than many times their numerical strength as soldiers of the line."

It has been pointed out that there are 75,000 alien enemies in New York City and hundreds of thousands of citizens of the Teutonic races against whom demonstrations may be expected under certain conditions.

That ample provision will be made in the new draft regulations for retaining proper police protection for New York City, Provost Marshal-General Crowder on Thursday informed Senator Calder in answering the Senator's letter pointing out that the new draft was likely to leave the city absolutely unprotected. General Crowder said: "In view of your request and upon the approval of the bill now before Congress, I shall endeavor to make suitable provisions by regulations."

Senator Calder had said in a letter to General Crowder that if necessary he would offer an amendment to the draft bill exempting policemen and firemen from the draft.

Building Trades Choose Liberty Loan Chairman

Otto M. Eidlitz Will Again Lead the Campaign—Committees of Real Estate Men Organized

A CCEPTANCES have been received by George de B. Greene, chairman of the Advisory Trades Committee of the Rainbow Division, for the Liberty Loan from forty Industrial Committee chairmen named by Governor Benjamin Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank, to conduct the campaign of the Fourth Loan among the trades of New York City. Of particular interest to the building industry and the various trades affiliated with it is the announced acceptance of Mr. Otto M. Eidlitz, of the firm of Marc Eidlitz & Son, and Director of Industrial Housing for the United States Housing Corporation, as chairman of the Fourth Liberty Loan Committee for the Building and Allied Trades. Mr. Eidlitz acted as the chairman of this committee for the Third Loan drive and it was largely through his interest, influence and co-operation that it was possible for the committee representing the building trades to report a large over-subscription to their quota notwithstanding the far from prosperous condition of the building industry as a whole.

Already the machinery has been set in motion that will insure the complete success of the Fourth Liberty Loan as far as the building trades of New York City are concerned. The general committee for the industry has been formed and will consist of Mr. Otto M. Eidlitz, chairman; Messrs. Ronald Taylor, Charles J. Kelley and John P. Kane, vice-chairmen; Francis A. Shinn, secretary, and Bertram Sears, publicity member. As for the last drive, the Liberty Loan Committee has appointed Mr. Cecil Landale as advisory member.

The work of forming the sub-committee representing the various branches of the building industry is under way and up to the present time the acceptances lead to the opinion that the sub-committee chairmen that served so faithfully for the last drive will again devote their time and energy to this work.

At the luncheon which closed the drive for the Third Loan all of the committee men present responded favorably to the appeal from the toastmaster for their services in the next drive, and it can be stated that the personnel of the sub-committees will be changed only in instances where former members have been called to more important patriotic work. The complete list of committee chairmen will be announced next week.

For the purpose of more thoroughly canvassing the building industry there has been a slight re-arrangement of the various trades. These will be grouped as follows: Builders, Shorers and Hoisters; Investing Builders; Building Materials; Woodworkers; Cement Workers; Elevators; Insulation; Lighting Fixtures; Marble Industry; Painters; Plasterers; Plumbers; Roofers and Sheet Metal Workers; Steam Fitters;

Stone Industry; Steel and Iron; Ornamental Bronze and Iron; Wire Workers; Metal Lathers and Glass Industry. The new grouping somewhat broadens the field of activity for the building trades, and the Liberty Loan Committee feels that the reclassification will materially increase results in the forthcoming drive.

A complete card catalogue of the building trades has been devised and each chairman will be furnished a list of names to canvass as in the last campaign. By retaining the personnel of the sub-committees and having the use of the extensive card system that has been worked out it is predicted that the Building Trades Committee will make a new high record in the campaign for the Fourth Liberty Loan.

Realty Men's Sub-Committees

AT an organization meeting of the Steering Committee for the Fourth Liberty Loan drive in the offices of Robert E. Simon, Chairman, the following sub-committees and their duties were named:

1. District, Captains and Teams, T. G. Hobbs, A. B. Ashforth, Mr. Benedict and E. P. Blake. The duties of this committee will be to select captains for assistants on their teams and allot the districts in which they are to work.
2. Publicity Committee, Joseph P. Day, Chairman. This committee is to keep the public informed of the activities of the larger committee.
3. Committee on Literature, Douglas L. Elliman and Mr. Guerrlich. This committee is to prepare the literature for all sub-committees, informing the public, as well as those who will be actively engaged in the canvass of the work of the General Committee.
4. Committee on Lists and Allied Lists. Messrs. Schuyler, Rainey and Ramsey. This committee is to prepare lists of all allied trades which might be asked to subscribe either the full amount or part of their subscription through the Real Estate Board; also lists of individuals who might be justified in subscribing through the Real Estate Board, who are the owners of property or control canvass, of the work of the General other trades.
5. Committee on Accepting Liberty Bonds as Collateral, Mr. Wheelock, Chairman. This committee will see all classes of financial institutions which have large amounts outstanding on bond and mortgage, regarding Liberty Bonds as collateral, to avoid payment of cash in reduction of mortgages. The headquarters of the General Committee will be at the Real Estate Board rooms.

Protection of New Concrete Work Necessary

ALL newly placed concrete work must be protected against the elements and against injury from other outside causes until the concrete has thoroughly hardened. In most cases this protection need be no other than a covering of some sort which will prevent rain from falling directly on the exposed concrete surface.

In certain climates, and in certain seasons of most all climates, especial precautions must be taken to protect the concrete against freezing temperatures. There are various ways of doing this. The most effective and also the most usual and easily accomplished is to build a sort of covering over the concrete either of boards or canvas and place under this covering small stoves or heaters which are kept burning continuously until the concrete has hardened. The heat given off by these stoves will be sufficient to prevent the concrete from freezing.

In seasons of extreme heat it is also necessary to protect the concrete against direct rays of the sun and direct exposure to the heat. Such exposure will cause the water in the concrete mixture to evaporate or dry out before the concrete has had an opportunity to harden, and thus an inferior concrete will be produced, particularly at the surface. The best way to protect the concrete against such injury is to keep it covered with water until it has hardened. In the case of pavements or floors, this is easily accomplished by building little dams of clay or other suitable materials across the surface of the concrete and keeping the enclosed spaces filled with water for several days, or until complete hardening has been accomplished. In other cases where this method is not practicable the concrete may be protected by keeping the air in the room in which the concrete is located saturated with moisture either by means of escaping steam or fine spray of water.

The presence of water or moisture in the atmosphere will not in any way injure the concrete either before it has hardened or after. Before hardening has set in the presence of moisture in the air is exceedingly beneficial to the complete and thorough hardening of the concrete. After the hardening has been accomplished the presence of moisture in the air will not affect it.

The application of paint or other protective coatings to concrete work before it has hardened will cause it serious injury.

Fashion in Building Stone Runs in Periods

Ohio Sandstones Now in Favor—Light and Warm Tints Taking Place of Dull Brown Stone of Early Days

By ARLANDO MARINE.

THE physical appearance of New York City has changed in many ways in the last fifty years, but in no other respect more than in the outward aspect of its principal buildings, due not only to the great changes that have taken place in the architecture, but also in great measure to a change in the character of the materials and in the style of the facades, the show walls, of the city's big business blocks, apartment houses, churches and other monumental buildings and its better-class private houses.

In the early days of New York the buildings were sombre in color and plain in architectural lines. Brown stone and red brick predominated along the streets and the severeness and lack of originality in the elevations of buildings, and a depressing sameness in their general appearance, made the city singularly unattractive. But this ugly, low-toned and monotonous three, four and five-story city has given place to one that is bright and cheerful, whose buildings are full of color and variety and reflect the best ideas of the greatest architects of all times.

The advent of the "skyscraper" has had much to do with changing the appearance of the city. Built of light-colored materials, they have risen above the mass of low-lying and dingy blocks and dominated the whole color scheme, changing the skyline from its former stratified character to a more picturesque, sometimes slightly grotesque but always interesting and compelling irregularity. Early American architecture in cities was generally of a strictly utilitarian type. We all know, or knew, the woman who would not live in any other than the conventionally and austere planned, badly-lighted and poorly-ventilated brown Connecticut stone house with its prison-like yard, this house only one unit in a block repeated endlessly throughout fashionable New York. Now the same woman or her daughter cannot be induced to enter the portals of a building unless its main architectural features are carved out of Indiana limestone, Ohio sandstone, Knoxville marble or some one or other of the delicately-tinted and wonderfully-attractive materials of which our modern buildings are constructed. There was too much Queen Anne in the country and too little Stanford White in the city in the early days in New York.

It is my intention to discuss the advance in the architectural treatment of buildings particularly as affected by the change in the choice of materials, to call attention to the great changes that have taken place in the use of the one building material with which I personally am most familiar. It is since my coming to New York, thirty-two years ago, that the greatest change in the outward aspect of the city's chief buildings has taken place, and it is in the use of various kinds of stone that the greatest transformation had been affected.

Fashions in building stone as in other things may be said to move in cycles. These periods have succeeded each other, roughly speaking, at intervals of ten or fifteen years, and during the time under discussion nearly the whole range of available building stone has been covered until at the present time there is a return to the use of certain kinds of stone which were largely used a number of years ago, but which in successive periods were displaced in the esteem of architects as they turned to the use of some other kinds of building material.

The periods in which various building stones have held their own against other varieties have been established by chance more than by any concerted action of architects. The old favorite has been displaced and a new one set up when some leading architect has successfully used a particular stone with telling effect. Other men have quickly adopted the idea until all the leading architects would be using the same stone. Then would come a time when all were tired of it and almost simultaneously turned to some other variety.

It is interesting to remember that in the whole wide expanse of the country east of the Rocky Mountains, there are comparatively few deposits of workable building stone. Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky produce probably ninety-five per cent. of the free stone used in buildings throughout the entire country. The New England States are the granite field, while as to marbles Vermont, New York State and Georgia produce the white building and monumental stock, and Knoxville, Tenn., the colored stock, the light pinks and grays. Since the war the foreign supply represented by the French limestones and the Roman Travertine has been entirely cut off.

The result is that architects have been turning to the domestic fields and are finding the native stones very satisfactory. For one thing the local stone is adapted to the climate. One of the curious things about stone is the well-known fact that a stone can be used successfully east or west along the latitude in which it is quarried, but if laid in a colder climate is apt to disintegrate rapidly. Not all building stones quarried in a temperate zone can be used successfully in a more rigorous climate than in the one in which they are produced. Another interesting fact is that Vermont marble and Indiana limestone are practically of the same composition, each containing about ninety-eight per cent. of carbonate of lime. The Vermont marble can be polished while the Indiana limestone cannot. The Vermont marble was crystalized by heat and pressure in the process of formation, giving it texture which makes it susceptible to polish. This is not true of the limestone.

Attempts have been made to imitate these native stones, and also some of the more popular foreign varieties. But the imitations, while some of them widely used because of their cheapness, have never met with the favor of the best men in the architectural profession. Peary and Cook found ice a desirable building material up to a certain point, but it, too, has its limitations. Real stone contains natural quarry sap which under the action of the elements ages the stone, making it life-like, giving it character and adding to its beauty. It is durable and dignified. No man-made material has ever equalled the natural product in this process of acquiring the appearance of having been meant for the place it is taking in the architectural layout.

Previous to my acquaintance with this market, which began in 1886, Connecticut brown and Ohio gray sandstones were largely used, but prior to this, dating back to 1850, considerable white marble was in use. In the period from 1886 to 1900 a very noticeable change came about in the style and colors of stone, and this period is particularly marked with the use of red sandstone from Lake Superior, Longmeadow and Maynard, Mass., as also from Scotland and England. Of the Scotch stones, the Murray Hill Hotel is a notable example, while the Waldorf-Astoria is built of the Lake Superior and Maynard stones. There were also used olive-colored sandstones from Nova Scotia. At the close of this period the limestone from the Bedford and other Indiana districts began coming in and it was marked also by the return to the use of white marbles.

The most notable examples of the use of marbles, towards the end of this period, were in the building of the Public Library, in which Carrere & Hastings made use of Vermont marble; the Stock Exchange, in which Geo. B. Post & Sons used Georgia marble, and the Tiffany Building, for which the choice of the architects, McKim, Mead & White, fell upon South Dover, N. Y., marble. It is an interesting fact that the South Dover marble comes from the quarry nearest to New York City. Not less interesting is the fact that while the Public Library was in process of erection, Mr. Owen Brainard was a constant visitor to the quarry in Vermont and personally selected the stone which was laid in its walls. Later, when Messrs. Carrere & Hastings got the contract for the United States Rubber Building, they made use of a large amount of stone originally intended for the Public Library, which was not up to the high standard set for material in that public edifice, thus materially reducing the cost of the latter building, while not seriously altering its fine appearance.

In the period of 1900 to 1915 the taste of the architect and the public as directed by the leaders of the profession tended to the more widespread use of tinted marbles rather than to the white examples which have just been mentioned. The desire for color, for relief from the lack of warmth in white marbles, was met in the fine Knoxville, Tenn., varieties, which run to delicate pinks and greys, with peculiarly interesting veinings. Some of the prominent buildings erected from these marbles are the Morgan Library, of which McKim, Mead & White were architects; the Morgan Bank Building, Trobridge & Livingston, architects; the New Haven Post Office, James Gamble Rogers, architect; the Morton F. Plant residence, Guy Lowell, architect, etc.

Also during this period (1900 to 1915) French limestone and the Roman Travertine stones began to be used for special buildings. In the former a notable example is the Altman Stores, Fifth avenue and Thirty-fourth street, Trobridge & Livingston, architects. Of the Roman Travertine stones, the Duveen Bros. Building, Fifth avenue, at Fifty-sixth street, Horace Trombaur, architect, is a notable example. Roman Travertine was also used for the interior work of the Pennsylvania Station.

The distinguishing feature of the French limestone as compared with domestic limestone is its beautiful warm, yellow tone. It might be interesting to say that when the Altman Building was put up the architects designed to use Indiana limestone, but when Mr. Altman's attention was called to the beauty of French limestone he decided to use it, although the change involved an additional cost of approximately $150,000.

The distinguishing characteristic of the Roman Travertine stone is the warm, yellowish tone and the irregular perforations in the stone. This stone is evidently of a lava formation and is found in the vicinity of Mt. Vesuvius.

In designing the Kane residence, at Forty-ninth street and Fifth avenue, which has attracted so much attention and was so favorably received by the architects, attempts were made to get a domestic stone that would approximate the appearance of the Roman Travertine. This stone was discovered in some of the Indiana quarries, the bottom cuts of which had never been thought of any value. Stanford White, who saw samples of these domestic Travertines, specified that they should be used in the Kane residence, and he also used the same stone in the Second National Bank Building, Twenty-eighth street and Fifth avenue.

But the dominant material of this period as a whole was Bedford or Indiana limestone, which took practically the whole market not only in New York but throughout the United States in many public and monumetal buildings, post offices, city halls, bank buildings, private residences, etc. The Columbia University Buildings are built entirely of this stone, including the great library building, the Grand Central Terminal Group, the Yale Club, Biltmore Hotel, Commodore and Pennsylvania hotels, St. Bartholomew's Church, the Racket and Tennis Club, the Henry C. Frick residence, and many others.

During the past five years architects have been searching for other stones. Having tired of the use of limestone, they have again turned to the use of Ohio sandstones, among which may be mentioned mahogany, Briar Hill, Buff Wakeman, Gray "Canyon," Buff Mountain, etc. These met the desire in that they afford a variety of color and texture. During this period there has grown a great change of sentiment in favor of variegated colors and variety of textures, this desire being met first by the use of the Kingwood stone, which was used in the Synod Hall of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, the Russell Sage Memorial Building, Lexington avenue and Twenty-second street; the Ledyard Blair residence at Tuxedo Park; the Duncan residence at Newport, etc. This stone, however, is very expensive to produce and work and has not met with popular success. The Ohio sandstones above mentioned are produced in large quantities and are easily fabricated and are rapidly growing in favor. They have also the precedent of weathering satisfactorily in this market, having been used here for probably sixty years.

This climate is very trying on all building stones because of the action of the salt atmosphere. The obelisk in Central Park, a product of Egypt and far from its home, is an example of stone deteriorating when taken out of its native environment. It has undergone treatment regularly ever since it was erected in Central Park to preserve it and to prevent its crumbling. The Old Blue-Hole limestone of which the William K. Vanderbilt mansion is such a good example, while it has withstood the climate of New York in a satisfactory way, has been found in some particularly exposed portions of the seacoast to disintegrate.

In the selection of stones architects have to take into consideration climatic conditions and in that they are sometimes hard put to find just the stone that will meet the texture and color and at the same time afford the necessary staying qualities. In the J. K. Branch residence, Richmond, Va., a very palatial residence, the architect, John Russell Pope, used a combination of Briar Hill stone and rough brick with very marked success. Jas. W. O'Connor is now using the same material in the Sherman House at Great Neck, L. I.

Among the notable buildings where Ohio stone has been used for interior work is the very wonderful church of pure Gothic at Bryn Athyn, Pa., begun about four years ago by Ralph Adams Cram, architect-in-chief of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine. This church stands alone as the most unique building operation ever undertaken on this continent. All of the material is fabricated on the site of the building. For this purpose a cut-stone plant was erected and fully equipped with modern machinery. The stone for the field of the exterior was quarried on adjoining property. All of the cut stone for the exterior is of Kentucky limestone, but fabricated in the plant at the site. A modelling building was erected where all the stone models were made up of plaster, the windows and all important cut stone work being set up in place on the building to be passed upon by the architect before being executed in stone. In some cases, even after the stone had been cut and erected, it was discarded and the models changed. The tower of the church is now being erected. The wooden frame work of the roof has all been fabricated on the ground and the leaded glass windows, many of which are completed, are being prepared on the site of the building. The stone work in the interior is perhaps the most beautiful of the age. The heavier mahogany colors are used in the lower strata, shading off to the lighter mahogany colors and then to the warm buff colors toward the top of the building, the whole presenting a wonderful study in harmony of colors and markings. This church is the monument which a wealthy member of the Swedenborgian Congregation determined to leave for himself and family. He set aside five millions of dollars with which to build the church edifice, bishop's residence, etc. It is estimated that two years longer will be required to complete it. Lovers of art from all over the country are already making pilgrimages to the site to study the interesting effects. Truly there are "Sermons in Stones."

In the interior of St. Thomas' Church Mr. Bertram G. Goodhue used Kentucky sandstone, and in the interior of the Chapel of the Intercession, One Hundred and Fifty-fifth street and Broadway, he used Tammany Buff, as also in St. Vincent Farrar, Sixty-sixth street and Lexington avenue, and at the present time is using the same stone in St. Bartholomew's Church, Fiftieth street and Park avenue. The character of these buildings indicated that we are now in the "stone age" for church interiors. The use of stone in interior walls of churches is of recent development in this country, although in practically all the church interior in Europe stone has been used for centuries.

Cut stone is also being used extensively in various large private house interiors, stairways, wainscoting, etc. In the Harkness Memorial Quadrangle group of buildings now being erected in New Haven for Yale College, the architect, James Gamble Rogers, selected for the field, Seam Face Granite from East Weymouth, Mass., and for all of the cut stone trimmings, Briar Hill stone from Ohio, using throughout the building all of the variations promiscuously as found from the top to the bottom of the quarry. These variations run from gray to mahogany in warm tones and buff shades, from ochre to the deepest brown with pink streaks. This group of buildings is one of the largest building operations ever undertaken in the east, the cost running well into the millions, the trimmings alone amounting to approximately 300 carloads.

Grand Central Palace a Government Hospital

Printing Crafts Building Taken Over for Administration Purposes by War Department

AMERICA'S participation on the battlefields of France has been forcibly brought home to New Yorkers not only by the casualty lists daily appearing in the papers but also by the recent announcement that the Federal authorities have taken over a number of prominent buildings in this city and will convert them into reception hospitals for wounded soldiers and sailors.

Some time ago a careful survey of the buildings suitable and available for this purpose was undertaken under the direction of the Real Estate Board of New York, and it is now reported that from the list of structures found suitable to Federal requirements a number have been selected and will soon be taken over, if orders for them have not already been issued.

Grand Central Palace, occupying the block front on the west side of Lexington avenue between 46th and 47th streets, is probably the best known of the buildings to be classed as non-essential and turned over to Government use. Tenants in this structure have been notified by the management that they must give up their leases and be prepared to vacate by September 15 in order that the Medical Department of the United States Army may make required arrangements to transform this building into a hospital for the reception of wounded prior to their transfer to the base hospitals at Mariners Harbor, S. I., and at Lakewood, N. J. Although definite details of the project are not available the tentative plans contemplate only slight structural changes. The Government plan in taking over buildings of this character for war purposes is to find the most suitable, without material structural changes, so that at the termination of their usefulness, the buildings may be returned to the owners, in approximately the same condition as when taken.

Plans for the Grand Central Palace contemplate the installation of about 6,000 beds and the equipment that is required to efficiently serve them. The ballroom will probably be used as a recreation hall for convalescents.

Another prominent building said to be included in the list of structures now being considered by the Government for use as a reception hospital is the handsome structure built recently for the Yale Club. This is a twenty-two story building, with roof garden, kitchens gymnasium and swimming pool, located at the northwest corner of Vanderbilt avenue and 45th street. The building possesses every possible requirement for adaptation to hospital uses, and Federal officers recently went over the premises thoroughly with the view of taking it if necessary. The club management admits the interest of the Medical Department in this building, but at present is unable to confirm the report that it has formally been commandeered.

The modern office building owned by the United States Rubber Company, at the corner of Broadway and 57th street, also figures in the rumor involving military hospitals, but there has been no confirmation of the fact other than an acknowledgment of the canvass of the Federal officers and their acceptance of the structure if found desirable later.

Lease of the twenty-two-story Printing Crafts Building which occupies the westerly block front on Eighth avenue, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, facing the Pennsylvania tunnel, by the United States Government, is taken by those familiar with important details of the transaction as an indication that the Federal Government has abandoned the plan to establish extensive executive quarters in Battery Park, because of the opposition manifested. This building is one of the largest of its kind in the city and will house, it is said, the administration branches of the army and navy in which there are upwards of 15,000 employees.

There are few structures in the city that will meet the needs of the Government for this purpose as well as this one. The building has a frontage on the avenue of approximately 200 feet, and extends back on each street about 120 feet, giving each floor an area of 24,000 square feet, making a total amount of space provided in excess of 500,000 feet. The property is owned by the 461 Eighth Avenue Company, composed of Thomas A. & Edward L. Larkin, and others, which purchased the site in January, 1915. The present building was erected expressly for the purpose of housing under one roof, all branches of the printing business, including machinery, ink, and supplies, and practically all of its tenantry is made up of firms in the printing and allied trades. The order to vacate, to make room for Government departments, will work unusual hardships for those firms under the present renting conditions and particularly since there is not another structure in the city so well adapted to their needs. The city last year assessed land and building at $2,700,000, all but $670,000 of which represented the value of the improvements. There is a first mortgage of $1,800,000 on the property, held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. The lease just made with the Government calls for a yearly rental running well into six figures. Tenants, it is said, will be given a reasonable time to seek other quarters, and as soon as possession can be obtained, the Government will begin elaborate structural changes to meet its needs.

Title Company's Lawyers May Act

THE application of the Brooklyn Bar Association to intervene in a foreclosure suit brought on a mortgage guaranteed by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company, has been denied by Judge McDermott of the County Court of Kings County. This motion was made by the Brooklyn Bar Association in connection with its effort to stop the title insurance companies from doing that which the association claims violates the provisions of the Penal Law against practicing law by corporations. This application was made by the Bar Association for leave to intervene in an action to foreclose a mortgage which Evelyn G. Post had bought from the Title Guarantee & Trust Company, of which the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company had guaranteed payment of principal and interest.

When an action to foreclose the mortgage was brought in the name of Mrs. Post and at the request of the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company, its attorney, Harry C. Thompson, appeared for Mrs. Post. The Brooklyn Bar Association alleged that this was unlawful and a violation of the Penal Law, because Mr. Thompson was retained and paid by the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company and not by Mrs. Post. It alleged that the general practice of the bond and mortgage companies was to have mortgages foreclosed by their attorneys, at the expense of the mortgage companies, and that the attorneys who appear in such actions are not the attorneys of the persons for whom they nominally act as plaintiffs. This application was brought as a test of this practice of the mortgage companies.

Judge McDermott says in his opinion:

"I do not consider that the plaintiff, whose good faith is not questioned, should be deprived of the rights she believed she acquired when purchasing the bond and mortgage and accepting the company's guarantee."

This decision apparently enables the mortgage companies to continue their practice under which they control the time when mortgages may be foreclosed. The concerted action of the mortgage companies in this respect has been a very great relief in the present mortgage situation. If the individual holders of the many thousand mortgages which have been guaranteed by the mortgage companies on homes and property of the people, amounting to many hundred million dollars, were not thus protected and if the holder of each mortgage were free to press the owners of the property, without the controlling influence of the mortgage companies, the present situation of property owners would be very much worse than it is and a real estate panic might long ago have been precipitated.

A Good Example

To the overburdened taxpayers of New York City it must seem almost too good to be true that Commissioner Enright has saved three quarters of a million dollars in the cost of conducting the Police Department during the first six months of 1918. Yet such seems to be the fact, as shown in Commissioner Enright's first semi-annual report to the Mayor, covering the period which ended June 30th.

The operating costs of the department, the Commissioner reports, were reduced $777,158.23 during the first six months of the year. This result was accomplished despite the fact that a total of $240,575 was paid to the families of policemen taken into the military service. Nearly 700 of the uniformed force and twenty-seven civilian employes are now in the service, but Commissioner Enright has adopted the policy of handling the department's business without filling these vacancies. If the city can be safely policed with the lesser number of men, no objection can be raised to the plan.

Commissioner Enright has made a big saving in the matter of special patrolmen. Formerly about 2000 of these men were employed at a gross cost of $1,203,361. The total on June 30th had been reduced to 349 and the Commissioner figures that on this item alone a saving of $326,680.50 was made during the first half of the year.

Many of these men had been used to safeguard private property and the Police Commissioner has arranged for their services to be paid for by the property owners benefited. Seventeen automobiles have been retired from service, the men operating them have been returned to regular police duty and thereby nearly $13,000 a year has been taken from the department expenses. Another item of $25,000 has been saved by not filling clerical vacancies.

The Record and Guide is pleased to call public attention to the good financial showing made by Commissioner Enright. The taxpayers of the city have to go down into their pockets to get the money necessary to run this and all other branches of the municipal administration. The total bill has grown to be enormous and most taxpayers will hope that the example set by Commissioner Enright will be followed by the heads of many other departments.

Commissioner Enright has given a good illustration of the fact that the way to save money is not to spend it.

The Fourth Liberty Loan

The campaign for the Fourth Liberty Loan will begin September 28th and close October 19th. The result of the loan will be watched with keen interest in Europe, not only by our Allies in the war against the Teutonic powers, but by our enemies. It will be regarded by them as a measure of the American people's support of the war.

The Germans know full well the tremendous weight and significance of popular support of the people at home backing up the troops in the field. If the loan is a success, the morale of our enemies will be that much weakened; if the loan falls short their morale will be strengthened. Every dollar subscribed will help and encourage the ever-increasing American troops in France who are doing their part in a manner to win the admiration of the world.

The loan will be a test of the loyalty and willingness of the people of the United States to make sacrifices in some degree comparable with the willingness of our soldiers to do their part. There must be no failure by the people to show their appreciation of courage and devotion of our men on the firing line. Many have given their lives; shall we at home withhold our money?

Let us not prove false to the trust reposed in us. Let us devote our last dollar, if need be, to the support of those who are fighting for Liberty, Justice and Democracy.

Winning the War Comes First

Announcement is made from Washington that builders and contractors not engaged in the erection of structures for war work have been placed in the industries listed as non-essential by the Community Labor Board of the District of Columbia, and are called upon to voluntarily release their unskilled labor for war work to help overcome the shortage of 1,000,000 unskilled laborers in the country. The reserve of skilled workers is also exhausted, according to the field agents of the Federal Employment Service, and further curtailment of non-essential production is planned to release them for war work.

Community Boards are being organized throughout the country by the Department of Labor to work in co-operation with local draft boards, and it is probable that the list of non-essential industries designated by each of these boards will be similar to the one promulgated by the District of Columbia board.

Local building operations have been so curtailed by the difficulty of obtaining money and materials that the effect of such action is not likely to make any great change in the building situation in this city. Already operations of any other character than for war purposes have been reduced to a minimum. This latest ruling, like that of the War Industries Board providing that all freight cars heretofore used in hauling sand, gravel and other building materials shall be used exclusively in hauling coal, may seriously affect the building industry throughout the country and therefore may react on local producers and manufacturers of building supplies.

But this rigid curtailment of building at this time, whether it affects the local situation or not, will be accepted with good grace as necessary for the successful conclusion of the war within the next year.

The military experts are pretty well agreed that by this time next year the war will be over or well in hand. It is worth while making a good American job of it while we are at it. Things are almost at a standstill, anyway. The best thing to do is for all to take a hand in the fight, doing or not doing whatever will be of help, each man in his own way. There is a good time coming, when it is all over, for those who have done their part.

Readers' Comment on Current Subjects

New York, August 22.

Editor of the Record and Guide:

An examination of the preliminary 1919 budget estimates of the city, county and borough departments and offices shows a large increase over 1918.

Salaries have been raised, new functions of government have been established, and the cost of all materials used by the city has largely increased.

If the increases are sustained, and they probably will be, the budget of 1919 for the ordinary expenses of government will reach $245,000,000.

The comptroller and the subway officials have made various estimates of the deficit in operation and maintenance charges of these lines, the estimates running from $6,000,000 to $15,000,000.

There will also be the regular increase in the cost of debt service and very likely a larger amount necessary to cover the item of unpaid taxes. Then there must be a greater State tax than last year. In all a budget of at least $260,000,000 may be expected and a consequent general increase in the tax rate of 28 points.

This would bring the rate in the Borough of Richmond at least to 2.74 or about, if not over, the constitutional limit of two per cent. exclusive of the debt service.

The wisdom of the effort made last winter by Lawrence McGuire, President of the Real Estate Board, and by Robert E. Dowling is clearly apparent. They asked the Legislature to fix a limit of two per cent., including the debt service, as the amount real estate could be taxed, and that a tax of 2½ mills be placed on personal property, with no exemptions, and with some satisfactory system of listing. A tax of thirty per cent. on the average gross earnings of any kind of property is almost confiscatory and should never be imposed except as a war measure.

Real estate must be relieved. There should not only be great economies effected by the abolition of unnecessary city departments and the consolidation of departments doing similar work, but $30,000,000,000 of personal property should be taxed. A 2½ mill tax on personal property would bring in $75,000,000.

The Comptroller last year made an excellent suggestion both as to a system of listing and as to the method of raising taxes. He proposed that a personal tax be first levied and collected and then the balance of the budget, after deducting the surplus revenues of the general fund, be levied on real estate.

EDWARD P. DOYLE,

Chairman Budget Committee, Real Estate Board.

Necessity of Safeguarding Realty Mortgages

meet their interest obligations promptly and to preserve an unquestionable equity above their debt.

(2) Federal aid. If our statement as to the importance of the real estate interests is correct, it stands to reason that the War Finance Corporation should undertake at an early date to alleviate any cases of special hardship which result from the absorption of investment funds in the conduct of the war. The selection of the cases to be aided would involve some difficulties, but the general result would be beneficial to the nation, and also it would be far from burdensome when compared with the enormous expenditures needed by utility and industrial corporations.

(3) Mortgage bank or cooperation among mortgagees. Voluntary cooperation and a virtual pooling of the resources of lending interests would provide a safety valve. It would command capital and credit superior to any now existing, and it would be in such command of the situation as to eliminate well-known abuses. This idea was advanced very forcibly two months ago, in the Record and Guide, and it would seem to be time to act upon it if the attitude of the national Administration does not show more interest than formerly in our second proposition.

(4) Federal mortgage bank. This idea is brought forth with new trimmings from time to time by persons more or less ignorant of the several experiences in this country with public loans for private purposes. Every one has failed. It is well known that the ordinary rules of sound business and the principles of economics do not mix well with our system of political organization. Even the Federal Farm Loan act has yet to justify its enactment, either as a means for improving agricultural conditions and for stimulating production, or as a proper use of Government credit. Taxpayers are interested because to save the farmer $5 in interest we grant a tax exemption to some bondholders of over thirty dollars, and pay from the budget for various overhead expenses which are more or less necessary. These defects in this system will doubtless be overcome, the same as large defects in the original Federal Reserve act had to be greatly modified by amendment. It would seem that the cost of "pork-barrel politics" is already great enough without injecting this new source for Government expense. Also, private capital as a general rule will not compete with Governmental activities.

(5) Moratorium. Failing all other relief, the doubtful merits of a general moratorium must be considered as soon as there is too great competition for the funds available for new loans. The disadvantages of a suspension of the right to foreclose, and the many difficulties in preventing abuses, are not difficult to ascertain by any one who undertakes to prepare a definite plan.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Chance in Contract for Commission.

IN an action by a broker to recover a commission under an express contract upon a sale of real property, it appeared that the broker was unable to negotiate a sale according to the terms of the listing agreement previously made. The defendant entered into a less favorable contract negotiated by the broker with the understanding as claimed by the defendant that the broker was to make up the difference out of his commission. The North Dakota Supreme Court held, Paulson v. Reeds, 167 N. W. 371, that no commission in excess of that provided by the new contract could be recovered.

Approval of Title.

A contract for the sale of land provided that the buyer should pay interest at 7 per cent. on the agreed price from the date the title was approved. It also contained a provision that he should pay the interest on an existing mortgage on the land for $4,000, bearing 8 per cent., until the date named for the payment of $5,000 on the purchase price. In an action in which the sole controversy was as to the date when by approval of the title the buyer became liable for interest, the Kansas Supreme Court held, Gillidet v. Hayden, 171 Pac. 617, that the existence of the mortgage could not be regarded as an obstacle to the approval of the title, at least where by oral evidence an understanding was shown to the effect that the mortgage was to be satisfied out of the $5,000 payment.

Priority of Liens.

The Oregon Supreme Court holds, Alliance Trust Co. v. Hubbard, 171 Pac. 550, that a note executed by the owner of a building and secured by his assignment of a lease of part of it creates a lien which must be postponed to the liens of the owner's mortgages, except insofar as one of the mortgages, subsequent to the assignment, may be affected by the rentals that have been or may be collected on the lease.

Building Restrictions—Incumbrances.

Since it is only when the purchaser, at the time of contracting, has full knowledge of existing incumbrances which could not be removed by the vendor, that the purchaser may be compelled to take title under a contract to convey free and clear of incumbrances, constructive notice not being sufficient, unless the incumbrances are apparent upon the premises themselves, the New York Appellate Division holds, Lincoln Trust Co. v. Williams Bldg. Corp., 169 N. Y. Supp. 1045, that a purchaser, having at the time of making the contract no actual knowledge of restrictions placed upon the property by resolution of the board of estimate and apportionment under Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, c. 466, as amended by Laws 1914, c. 470, and Laws 1916, c. 497), giving the board power to designate certain areas to which restrictions as to use of buildings shall apply, would not be compelled, in suit for specific performance, to complete the purchase under the contract, for such restrictions are not required to be made public and can be learned of only by examination of records of the board.

Building restriction placed upon land by resolution of the board of estimate and apportionment, passed pursuant to Greater New York Charter (Laws 1901, c. 466, as amended by Laws 1914, c. 470, and Laws 1916, c. 497), giving the board power to designate certain areas to which restrictions as to use of buildings shall apply, is an "incumbrance," within the meaning of a contract to convey property free and clear of all incumbrance, and not in the nature of a governmental regulation, to which such contracts are impliedly subject, not being placed upon the property by any public statute, nor by an ordinance of the city.

Breach of Building Restrictions.

Property in a residential improvement scheme was conveyed with covenants not to build any building to cost less than $2,500, not to use the premises for any other purpose than for a private dwelling, and that any building or extension should stand at least 15 feet back from the street line, and a map which the grantor made showed lots running east and west and fronting on streets running north and south. The New York Appellate Division holds, McKenna v. Levy, 169 N. Y. Supp. 1009, that the erection upon two of such lots, of three houses built on spiles, with no cellar, fronting toward the south to face the ocean, except for intervening buildings, and reached by a court or passageway on the south side of the southern lot, was a breach of the covenant, for the covenants must be read and construed with reference to the map, and the words "building" and "dwelling" therein meaning a building or dwelling on the lots so laid out, an owner had no right to change and alter the map by laying out a private court or way at right angles to the streets shown on the map, or to so radically change the lay-out as to build three houses on two lots by changing the frontage to the side line.

Passways by Necessity.

Where an estate was partitioned, the Kentucky Court of Appeals holds, Godman v. Jones, 202 S. W. 662, that easements of necessity were immediately created, but a subsequent change in conditions would not give rights to a way by a necessity. The owner would be confined to the way existing at the time of the partition. On the conveyance of one of several parcels of land belonging to the same owner, or upon a partition of land in a judicial proceeding between the heirs of a deceased owner, there is an implied grant or reservation of all apparent and continuous easements or incidents of property which have been created or used by the owner during the unity of possession, though they could then have no legal existence apart from his general ownership.

Broker's Contract.

A contract, complete and unambiguous, which has provided for the payment of a specified commission if a purchaser of land was procured by the broker on stipulated terms without any limitations as to the person to whom the sale might be made, must be regarded as a complete expression of the entire agreement as to commission, and it cannot be contradicted, added to, or modified by parol evidence of a prior oral agreement to the effect that no commission was to be paid if a sale was made to a particular person.—Buxton v. Colver, Kansas Supreme Court, 171 Pac. 1158.

Forfeiture of Tenant's Deposit.

The New York Appellate Division holds that, under a lease providing that, if the lessee is dispossessed, the sum deposited by him as security for faithful performance shall belong to the lessor as liquidated damages, where the lessee was dispossessed before the expiration of the term for non-payment of rent, he could not recover the deposit. Silverman v. Hill, 189 N. Y. Supp. 409.

Suits to Foreclose—Receivership.

The New York Appellate Division holds, Cohn v. Bartlett, 169 N. Y. Supp. 604, that the fact that the payment of a mortgage is guaranteed by a title company, as to whose solvency there is no question, is not sufficient reason for denying a motion for a receiver in a foreclosure suit, as the guarantor is equally entitled to protection.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Unusually Dull Market With Operator Figuring in Majority of Sales—Apartments and Loft Buildings in Sales—Leasing Continues Good

THE past week has been an unusually slow one in realty circles, and few sales were recorded. At this time of the year when brokers and office assistants are on their vacations there is, as a rule, a somewhat apathetic market, but this week has been unusually so.

Frederick Brown, the operator, figured in two of the principal sales of the week. Mr. Brown reports that there is a particularly healthy market for high-class properties which are being offered at attractive, but not what he considers bargain prices, and he further reports that he has been able to, in spite of the war conditions, dispose of his properties at attractive figures, so that the volume of business this week has been done by Mr. Brown. He sold the five-story apartment house covering the block front in East 178th street, between Marmon avenue and Southern Boulevard, which he recently acquired in a cash transaction. The house accommodates 29 families, and, with the four stories fully occupied, yields more than $13,000 a year. The property was held at $100,000.

The building at 20-26 West 36th street purchased by Mr. Brown about two weeks ago has been resold to Conrad Hubert, and is another evidence of the confidence of investors in real estate in that section of the city. The transaction involved considerable over half a million.

Transformation of the block front in the south side of One Hundred and Fortieth street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, into a district for the homes of colored folks is contemplated through the purchase of the Terry Holding Company of the properties at 202-230 West 140th street from the Corporation of H. A. Cohen. The property includes a six-story tenement and six- and seven-story apartment houses, and is subject to a mortgage of about $500,000.

The sale of the eleven-story loft building at 57-59 East 11th street to I. Randolph & Everett Jacobs, operators, was consummated by the United States Trust Company, which secured it through foreclosure three years ago. The property is between Broadway and University road. Contracts were signed this week by the Young Women's Christian Association for the purchase of the twelve-story structure at the southeast corner of Lexington avenue and Thirty-eighth street known as "Allerton House," and it will be used for the housing of self-supporting women. Title of the property, which is valued at $300,000, will be taken in October.

Paramount in the leases of the week was that of the twenty-two-story Printing Crafts Building, covering the westerly block front on Eighth avenue, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, to the United States Government for the housing of the administrative branches of the army and navy. A rumor has been current, but lacks confirmation, that the Federal Government is about to take over the Grand Central Palace for conversion into a war hospital. Last May announcement was made that an organization in which Alfred I. du Pont was one of the stockholders had purchased the lease-hold of the building and intended to use it as an exhibition place for foreign and domestic goods of all kinds. The leasing of this structure would give the Government one of the best hospitals in the world. There are twelve floors, each floor having 50,000 square feet of space.

Apartment leasing was fairly active this week, and the brokers in their reports indicate that there is a constantly increasing demand for apartments in all parts of the city, but because of lack of new buildings due to war conditions report that the demand far exceeds the supply, and many tenants are compelled to remain where they are because of inability to secure other quarters.

Sale in Midtown Section.

Midtown loft zone, which has shown signs of renewed speculative activity during the past few weeks, furnished another interesting transaction this week in the sale of 20 and 26 West Thirty-sixth street, a twelve-story loft building occupying a plot 48x98.9.

William M. Sperry, formerly of the Sperry and Hutchinson Company, sold the property to Frederick Brown, operator. It is fully rented for about $38,000 a year, and was held at $400,000. William A. White & Sons negotiated the sale. Last month Mr. Brown purchased the Horner Flint building at 20 to 26 West Thirty-sixth street, and resold it last week to Conrad Hubert for investment. The three transactions involved over $1,500,000.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 20 as against 26 last week and 17 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 8 as compared with 13 last week and 6 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 12, as compared with 13 last week and 11 a year ago.

From the Bronx 12 sales at private contract were reported as against 13 last week and 8 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 222 of this issue.

162 REMSEN ST. BROOKLYN
Telephone 6480 MainHomes for Colored People.

Transformation of the block front on the south side of 140th street, between Seventh and Eighth avenues, into a district for the homes of colored folk is contemplated through the purchase by the Terry Holding Company (Watt Terry) of the properties 202 to 230 West 140th street from the Corporation of H. &amp; A. Cohen. The property purchased by Mr. Terry, title to which was transferred yesterday, comprises a plottage 100 feet deep with a 575-foot frontage, improved with fifteen six-story tenements, adjoining, on the Seventh avenue corner, the Dorothy, a seven-story apartment house, and at Eighth avenue the Lourian, a six-story apartment. The holdings are subject to a mortgage of approximately $500,000, and were transferred through Samuel Horowitz, as attorney.

Sells Bronx Apartments.

Frederick Brown resold to Louis Smith, Jr., the five-story apartment house covering the block front on East 178th street, between Marmion avenue and Southern boulevard, which he recently acquired in a cash transaction from Hattie Goldschmidt. The house covers a plot 36x171xirregular, accommodates twenty-nine families, and, with four stories fully occupied, yields more than $13,000 per annum. The property was held at $100,000. Louis Fine was the broker in the present sale.

Home for Women.

Contracts have been signed by the Young Women's Christian Association for the purchase of Allerton House, a twelve-story structure valued at $300,000 at the southeast corner of Lexington avenue and 38th street. Title will be taken in October, and the property used for the housing of self-supporting women. The present owners, the Allerton 38th Street Company, have arranged to transfer the 250 tenants of the Allerton to a new sixteen-story building which the company is about completing at 143 East 39th street.

Chicago Property Taken in Trade.

An interesting exchange was consummated on Thursday by Frederick Brown, operator, who sold to David Herring, 54 Vermilye avenue, adjoining the corner of Academy street in the Dyckman section, a five-story apartment house with accommodations for twenty families on plot 50x100. The property was held at $70,000. In part payment Mr. Brown took 2024 East Seventy-second street, Chicago, a modern brick residence adjoining the Lake and South Shore Country Club. This property was held at $30,000, and is free and clear. Negotiations are pending for the resale of the Chicago property by Mr. Brown.

Sell Loft Building.

United States Trust Company sold the eleven-story loft building, 54x103, at 57 and 59 East 11th street to I. Randolph and Everett Jacobs, realty operators. The property is between Broadway and University place, and was developed about nine years ago by Charles Brogan, builder. It was acquired through foreclosure by the present seller three years ago.

Successful Auction Sale.

Several houses and plots were sold at the Edgemere Crest Auction Sale, Saturday afternoon and evening, August 17, under the direction of Lewis H. May, Chas. S. Gerth, Alfred S. Wagg. Associated among the purchasers were Bernardo Di Salvo, Morris N. Lubell, M. Moses, E. J. Ruland, Samuel L. Lubell, Geo. A. Fairchild, N. S. Stern. The remaining houses and lots will be offered this afternoon and evening.

NEWARK, N. J.—Charles Prichard of South Carolina purchased from Margaret Sandford the old Sandford homestead, at the southwest cor. of Madison av and South 10th st. The buyer will occupy after improvements, including the addition of a garage, are made. Feist & Feist were the brokers.

NEWARK, N. J.—Charles F. Kraemer has sold in Newark, N. J., 737 Parker st, a dwelling, on plot 50x100, for Robert Kuebler to Edna May Bates of Nyack, N. Y.; 96 South 8th st, a dwelling for William Rommelts to Amy Balduc, and 883 South 18th st, a dwelling for Fred Dienfenthaler to Paul Fuchs.

PASSAIC, N. J.—The Alliance Silk Co. bought a tract at Erie av and Feronia way to erect a manufacturing plant.

PICTON, N. J.—American Felt Co. bought four houses at Picton, adjoining Rahway, N. J., from the M. H. & A. Wolfe Realty Co. These houses are adjacent to the mills of the felt company, on which it recently expended $300,000 in extensions. The houses were needed to accommodate families of new employees.

PLAINFIELD, N. J.—The plant of the Bosch Magneto Co. on South av, which was recently acquired by the Wright-Martin Aircraft Co., has been resold to the Wasson Piston Co. of New Brunswick.

NYACK, N. Y.—A Hudson shore property of 2½ acres, with a large residence and other improvements, fronting on Tappan Zee Bay, at Nyack, has been sold by Howard Goldsmith to Alvin S. Johnson of the editorial staff of The New Republic. The property was owned by the estate of Margaret Cushing and adjoins the residence of County Judge Mortimer B. Patterson.

STAMFORD, CONN.—James G. Phelps Stokes sold Caritas Island, his 4-acre summer place at Stamford, Conn., to Joseph P. Bartram, of Bridgeport, Conn.

RECENT LEASES.

Leases Printing Crafts Building.

Printing Crafts Building, covering the westerly block front on Eighth avenue, between Thirty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, facing the Pennsylvania Terminal, one of the largest structures of its kind in the city, has just been taken over by the United States Government. Here, it is said, will be housed the administrative branches of the army and navy, in which there are upward of 15,000 employees.

The structure has a frontage on the avenue of approximately 200 feet, and extends back on each street about 120 feet, giving each floor an area of 24,000 square feet. As there are twenty-two stories the total amount of space provided exceeds 500,000 square feet. The realty is owned by the 461 Eighth Avenue Company, composed of Thomas A. and Edward L. Larkin and others, which purchased the site in January, 1915. The present building was erected expressly for the purpose of housing under one roof all branches of the printing business, including machinery, ink, and supply houses.

The city last year assessed land and building at $2,700,000, all but $670,000 of which represented the value of the improvement. There is a first mortgage of $1,800,000 on the property held by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Grand Central Palace Leased?

Tenants in the Grand Central Palace, it was reported on Saturday, had been notified that they must give up their leases and prepare to vacate the premises by Sept. 15. The Government, it was said, had negotiations under way to take the property over for one of the great war hospitals at this port. It was announced in May last that an organization in which Alfred I. du Pont, of Wilmington, Del., was one of the stockholders had purchased the leasehold of the building and intended to use it as an exhibition place for foreign and domestic goods of all sorts. The principal object of the new organization was to stimulate trade between the United States and other countries, and so, it was planned, that part of the building would be converted into a club for foreign buyers. No confirmation of the reported taking over of the property by the Government was obtainable from the officers of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Exchange, which controls the building. G. D. Grundy, proprietor of the Dancing Carnival, which occupies two floors of Grand Central Palace, said that he had received notice that he must give up his lease. Mr. Dupont confirmed the report on Thursday and said that he had agreed to lease the building to the Government, but the amount of rent and other details have not yet been arranged. The leasing for hospital purposes of the Grand Central Palace would give the Government one of the largest hospitals in the country, if not in the world. There are twelve floors, each floor having 50,000 square feet of space.

The House of the Future.

In building the simple house, the plan is the beginning of wisdom. The person building should himself study every detail of the plan. He should know just what is absolutely essential for him and his home and what he is willing to give up. He must consider the best way to use every foot of space.

In fact, the moderate house is successful in its appearance just so far as the outside of it fails to suggest lack of space within. After the plan is decided upon and economy is assured, the question of materials arise.

Here in America we have practically everything essential for the building of the home, for the finish of the home. So interesting and varied are the sites in this country for home building, so inexhaustible the materials, so wide the range of individual interest and expression in home making, that I am bound to believe that, in spite of the war, in spite of our social and political outlook, we shall come into a better, more artistic condition in our homes, a holier state so far as architectural beauty is concerned.

The house of the future will surpass all other forms of domestic architecture in that it will be the most sanitary, the most fireproof, the most comfortable. The very fact that we are a luxury-loving people may help us to devise this right kind of house. And eventually we will demand that the people who build our cities will be trained craftsmen.—Bertram G. Goodhue in "The Craftsman."

Federal Housing for Workers in War Industries

Comparison With English Housing Economics Promises Success to Present Government Plans

AT the present time when many perplexities and difficulties are presenting themselves in the building industry, it is interesting to catch glimpses of the situation as it presents itself elsewhere. England, as well as the United States, is feeling acutely the extensive demands which are being made for adequate housing facilities. Moreover, it is recognized that post-war requirements will be even heavier than they are at present. English building concerns are looking ahead to the future, and doing their best to assure an adequate answer to this demand.

A problem which they must reckon with, however, is one from which contractors here are free. Land owners and speculators face a graduated income tax on the same basis with all other business men. Such a tax would prevent them from making excessive profits at the community's expense. In addition, they have to contend with the difficulties arising from the land tax. This tax originated previous to any income tax, and although considered obsolete by many on this account, it still obtains. At the time of its inception the idea was that through this means could be prevented the selfish holding up of property by private individuals when it was needed for development by the community.

Another benefit which was anticipated from such a ruling was that when land values increased because of improvements of a community nature, heavier taxes could rightly be required since the increased property value was due to the community.

As a matter of fact, the actual application of the tax at no time came up to expectations. It appeared that the number of landowners selfishly holding land was small, and could be more effectively dealt with through special legislation. Moreover, when the results of thoughtful planning and invested capital were taken into consideration, the augmented value of real estate through community improvements alone was negligible. Oftentimes the tax seemed more a levy on skilfully carried out speculation than anything else; a tax to which no other industry was subject.

In addition to the fact that the revenue gained in this way was very small, the tax had the extremely unfavorable result of curtailing building activities. Even before the beginning of the war, the influence in directing capital away from building activities was manifest. Investors do not wish to put their money into ventures where the government takes a share of the profits and leaves what losses there are to the speculator. That capital has been driven away on account of this condition is an established fact. Builders are hoping for a repeal of the bill, as the logical way in which to draw capital again into building channels. If this financing can be secured, they call the building problem more than half solved.

The building concerns feel that with this condition changed, adequate housing could be provided in the usual way without government supervision, except as it would occur in the way of certain perfected legislation. And, indeed, many features of the English housing projects show that in the initial working out of such plans on a large scale, very real difficulties have been encountered.

The extent of the need for some form of housing was shown by the house shortage, reckoned in 1913 to be over 100,000, and to have increased at the rate of 75,000 a year since that time. Total appropriations for housing, up through the first quarter of 1917, amounted to less than $30,000,000. Only a half of this amount was used for war housing, with one third expended for temporary housing. In view of the comparatively insufficient number of these dwellings, it is extremely significant to note that in some localities only 31% of them were occupied. Moreover, the general average of occupation was estimated to be only 56%, indicating a loss as regards the proper interest on capital and necessary expenses of upkeep.

In view of the general shortage of accommodations for workers, the existence of such a situation indicates the difficulties that have been encountered in applying the scheme. Problems in the exact location and type of building required were unsatisfactorily met, and incurred a penalty in the form of lack of rentals. The necessity for more careful estimates and more skilful judgment in the erection of such buildings was thus painfully made manifest.

Merely for the interest of comparison with our own housing projects, the expense of these cottages may be mentioned. At the Woolwich Arsenal the average cost of 1,200 houses, including purchase of land, roads, and other necessary expenses of development, reached the figure $3,221. A house erected at this cost must be regarded in the light of its suitability for the occupant. When it is realized that the weekly wage of the men laborers is said to be not more than $11.76, and of the women $8.29, one can see the reason why such a high proportion of unoccupied houses is reported.

A comparative figure for the worker's average salary in this country is difficult to ascertain, and if once found would be subject to constant higher revision. It is, however, a matter of common knowledge that it stands on a substantially higher level than that of the English worker. A fair indication of the value of similar houses in this country may be determined by averaging the estimated cost of nearly 80,000 houses. Such a process gives about $3,725 for a single dwelling, a price only slightly over that of the English houses. It follows, then, that in the United States rent consumes a smaller part of the laborer's salary than in England. This is evidence of sound planning and perhaps the direct result of the conferences with employees. It would seem to augur better, in one direction at least, for the success of our Federal building projects.

Progress in Government's Plans for Dwellings

LACK of housing facilities in industrial communities where the production of war munitions and supplies are among the principal occupations of the localities has rapidly outstripped the ability of the Federal Bureau of Industrial Housing to provide decent living accommodations for the workers. From all accounts the $100,000,000 appropriated for the alleviation of the intolerable congestion brought about through the scarcity of living quarters for mechanics and laborers will not be sufficient to provide the number of structures necessary.

The problem of housing the hundreds of thousands of workers in war industries has been one of the most serious problems the Government has had to contend with in handling its military program. The Shipping Board had funds to provide homes for its workers but lacked the required authority to use the money for this purpose. Congress subsequently passed a bill giving the right to construct workmen's dwellings and stipulated that the work be done in conjunction with the Housing Committee of the Department of Labor.

The original appropriation made available $60,000,000 of which the sum of $10,000,000 was specifically set aside for the erection of dwellings to relieve the congestion in the District of Columbia. Later an additional $40,000,000 was appropriated to extend the scope of the housing program, making the total provided by the Government $100,000,000.

Throughout the country the lack of dwellings is serious and in many localities has materially hampered the production of war necessities. Requests for assistance in solving their difficulties by providing housing facilities for newcomers who are employed in war industries are being received from many towns in all sections of the country. Many of the applications are from cities and towns along the Atlantic seaboard where a large part of the manufacturing for war purposes is centered. All housing projects that come under the control of the Federal authorities require the assent of the War or Navy Department before action will be taken by the Housing Bureau. Further requests for additional housing facilities in war manufacturing centers will be granted only upon the certification of these departments that the desired structures are absolutely to the fulfillment of war contracts.

The original plans of the Government for housing war workers and their families in sanitary and comfortable dwellings contemplated entering into an agreement with local interests and jointly cooperating in providing the needed houses. This, however, was found to be subject to too many

THROUGHOUT all departments of the building industry the subject of Federal housing for industrial workers is engaging attention to the entire exclusion of almost all other phases of construction, with the exception of essential military building operations and those projects of an industrial character that are destined to directly contribute in winning the war. The housing plans are practically perfected and in a number of localities active construction has already been started upon projects planned under the direction of the United States Housing Corporation.

The markets for both materials and labor will be effected by the plans of the Government to supply adequate housing facilities for mechanics in war industries. From a building material standpoint the construction of thousands of dwellings in various parts of the country will be a large order. For the Metropolitan markets for materials, supplies and labor, the task will be still a greater one as in the territory included in the Metropolitan district some of the most important housing projects are scheduled. Brick, cement, lumber, roofing materials, slate, tile and composition, and heating, plumbing and electric fixtures will be called for in immense volume. Labor will be commandeered in order to erect these dwellings in the minimum of time. Both the materials and labor required for the housing projects must be acquired at the expense of those private building operations that do not either directly or indirectly contribute to winning the war, as essential projects cannot be hindered. As a natural consequence it is predicted that the immediate future will witness a further recession in private building endeavor, but this will be more than offset by increased activity in Government building and housing construction under Federal control.

The lack of new speculative building is daily becoming more apparent as the renting season draws to a close. Practically all space in apartments, flats and small dwellings is contracted for under leases for the coming year and there are yet hundreds of families who are seeking for living accommodations and are willing now to take whatever they can get. The condition makes easy the prediction that there will be an unprecedented boom in speculative and investment building operations immediately following the close of the war and as soon as labor and materials can be released for work of this character. High construction costs will maintain, but builders will be willing to pay them, as there will certainly be every opportunity for renting properties at high rentals for a long time to come.

Common Brick.—The Hudson River common brick market has passed through an extremely quiet week. The demand is not particularly active and sales have been relatively light. Arrivals from up-river points are in volume that about equal the actual sales and the reserve unsold remains nominal, with sufficient for all ordinary requirements, but not enough to supply a sudden heavy demand. Prices are unchanged since last week and apparently steady at the present level, although it is predicted that they will again advance to the $15 level and might even go considerably higher before next spring. The producing end of the brick business is exceptionally dull and manufacturers are now thinking of closing operations for the season.

From all accounts the season of 1919 will witness a still lower rate of output than than which maintained this year. The only hope is that there will be a strong Government demand for common brick, that will make it possible for the producers to obtain adequate labor and fuel, and to dispose of their product at a reasonable margin of profit. Many rumors of Federal requirements of common brick have been current from time to time, but up to the present they have not materialized in actual orders and the industry is settling down into an apathetic condition and is willing to wait for greatly improved building conditions before it endeavors to force production.

cent average in volume, and prospects for the future considerably brighter than they have been. One of the most satisfactory phases of the present market situation is the slight easing up of shipping difficulties particularly from southern points, and this factor is responsible for anticipated further improvements in the transportation conditions from all parts of the country. Better transportation facilities will be of material advantage in making it possible for both wholesale and retail dealers to replenish their badly depleted stocks and will assist in stabilizing lumber prices to a marked degree. At the present writing lumber prices continue firm, with a strong tendency to advance. The demand is fair in general consuming channels, although the building interests are not in the market to the extent that was anticipated some time ago when it seemed as though building operations, and especially the construction of small frame dwellings, were on the increase. There have lately been additional deterrents to building progress through Federal demands for materials and labor for war industries, and these are the prime cause for the slight volume of building work.

Structural Steel.—The preponderance of Government orders allows but slight opportunity for activity in the commercial end of the steel market. At the present time dealers are being granted only sufficient material to bring their stocks up to the average of the first six months of the year. Steel supplies for consuming interests not directly contributing to Federal military plans are being strictly curtailed. The demands from the various Government departments are daily growing heavier and practically all new work now being placed is for Federal account. According to the records of the Bridge Builders' and Structural Society it is shown that during the month of July, 1918, one hundred sixteen and one-half per cent. of the entire capacity of the bridge and structural shops of the country was contracted for. The total tonnage contracted for during the first six months of the current year was fifty-six per cent. of the entire capacity. New York prices for fabricated steel are unchanged.

Portland Cement.—Demands from Government sources continue to dominate the cement market situation and all other requirements are made subservient to filling the Federal wants. Manufacturing is progressing without interruption but on a reduced rate of output. There is very little cement now available for export at the present time and the outlook for this phase of business is not bright. The demand from private building sources is light and no increase is anticipated until general building conditions are materially changed and there is an improvement all along the line. Portland cement prices are firm and unchanged.

Building Stone.—Owing to the general scarcity of important building operations the market for building stone is exceptionally quiet. The recent agreement of the War Conference Committee at Washington, that all building construction except that most essential to the progress of the war be withheld until the situation is clarified, will effectually put a damper upon what little work was contemplated. Stone prices are steady, but without fluctuation.

Window Glass.—Practically the only movement in this market is that caused by Government orders for cantonment extensions, hospitals, and other military projects. Private consumption is at an extremely low ebb owing to the widespread recession in building construction. The very limited volume of business coming from private building interests is due to alteration and repair work. Glass manufacturers and jobbers have recently held meetings relative to the resumption of manufacturing operations and price schedules, but as yet no definite announcement as to future plans are obtainable. There are tentative plans to resume production in a number of plants about December 8, but this date is uncertain. Unless business materially improves only a relatively small amount of the product will be required for the needs of the coming year.

Fuel for Cement Making Restricted

Federal Administrator Garfield Orders Industry to Curtail Coal Consumption.

United States Fuel Administration,
Washington, D. C.

August 8, 1918.

It appearing to the United States Fuel Administrator, after consultation with the chairman of the War Industries Board, in view of the necessity for conserving the country's resources for the prosecution of the war, and in consideration of the increased demand for fuel for industries engaged in the production of munitions and commodities required in the conduct of the war; and the fact that owing to the limitations upon transportation facilities and other causes resulting from the war, there is an insufficient supply of fuel for these purposes and also for all the other purposes existing in normal times, that it is essential to the national security and defense for the successful prosecution of the war, and for the support and maintenance of the army and navy, to restrict the consumption of fuel in certain lines of industry; and that among such industries is that of the manufacture of cement, as defined in the regulation hereinafter prescribed; and the United States Fuel Administrator hereby finding that the restriction of fuel consumption to the extent specified in said regulation is reasonable, and that such restriction will contribute to the successful outcome of the war through the releasing of fuel and other resources for war purposes, and will result, with other limitations upon the use of fuel in various other lines of industry through the establishing of similar regulations, in an equitable distribution and apportionment of fuel among consumers, in accordance with the relatively essential nature of their products to the prosecution of the war:

THE UNITED STATES FUEL ADMINISTRATOR, acting under authority of an executive order of the President of the United States, dated 23 August, 1917, appointing said administrator, and of subsequent executive orders, and in furtherance of the purpose of said orders and of the Act of Congress therein referred to and approved August 10, 1917, and as requested by the chairman of the War Industries Board.

HEREBY MAKES AND ESTABLISHES the following regulation, effective until further or other order and subject to general or specific modification hereafter from time to time and at any time:

REGULATION.

Restricting Fuel Consumption by Manufacturers of Cement.

1. That the term "cement" in this regulation shall be construed to cover all Portland cement, natural cement, and Puzzuelan (slag) cement, made by any process whatsoever, as those terms are customarily used in the trade.

2. That the term "manufacturer" in this regulation shall be construed to cover any person, firm, association or corporation engaged in the manufacture of cement.

3. No manufacturer, as defined above, shall at any of his plants consume, burn or use fuel of any description, including coal, coke, natural gas, fuel oil or other petroleum products, or use power derived from any such fuel, for or in connection with the manufacture of cement, as above defined, during the year beginning January 1, 1918, and ending December 31, 1918, to an amount in excess of the amount required to manufacture seventy-five per centum (75%) of the average annual production of cement as such plant during the period from January 1, 1915, to December 31, 1917.

Excepting,

First: In case such plant was not in existence on January 1, 1915, then and in such case the period during which it had been in existence prior to January 1, 1918, shall be used as a basis in arriving at a determination as to the quantity that would constitute seventy-five per centum (75%) of the average annual production.

Second: That any manufacturer of cement may burn fuel for the manufacture of cement in excess of the amount provided for in this order whenever permission in writing for such excess production is granted by the United States Fuel Administration to such manufacturer.

(a) Upon evidence that the necessities of the Government in the particular district in which such manufacturer is located cannot be supplied by plants within practical shipping distance of the place where the United States Government requires such product, unless permission is granted for such excess production, and that on this account it is necessary in the interest of the United States Government that such permit be issued.

(b) Upon receipt of certification from the Fuel Administrator of the state in which the plant is located that the material to be manufactured is to be used in connection with building operations of urgent public necessity and that the fuel used in manufacturing such material can be spared for such purpose.

Third: That whenever two or more manufacturers of cement shall find that a further fuel economy would result from combining and using jointly the allotments of fuel to their several plants permitted by this regulation, upon application to the United States Fuel Administration, and upon receipt of a permit therefor, such manufacturers may use at one or more of such plants to be operated by them jointly, sufficient fuel to manufacture seventy-five per centum (75%) of the aggregate of the average annual production of all such plants when operated separately, the manufactured product of such jointly-operated plants being distributed to the individual manufacturers as may be agreed between them.

Fourth: That wood and peat, when not requiring railroad transportation, may be used for the manufacture of cement, in excess of the amount provided for in this regulation, and all manufacturers of cement shall, within five days after beginning the use of such wood and peat as fuel for the purposes aforesaid, notify their respective State Fuel Administrators, in writing, of the exact time they and each of them began the use of such wood and peat as fuel.

Any such manufacturer violating or refusing to conform to the above regulation will be liable to the penalty prescribed in the aforesaid Act of Congress.

H. A. GARFIELD,

United States Fuel Administrator.

FEDERAL HOUSING

differences and an altogether new plan was evolved, upon which the Government is now operation, and which consists of a clean cut policy in which the Government will erect, own and rent the homes provided. In order that greater freedom of action might be possible it was decided to create an adjunct to the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation, which was to be known as the United States Housing Corporation, of which Otto M. Eidlitz is the director.

The United States Housing Corporation enjoys a distinct legal entity and through it will make the payment of reasonable local taxes by the Government a possibility.

One of the principal means by which the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation has been attempting to meet the demands for accommodations for industrial workers and to offset the shortage in dwellings has been to induce local residents, with unoccupied rooms in their homes to place these rooms at the disposal of workers at moderate rentals. This plan has not proved feasible, however, and the construction of new buildings was found to be urgent. Another plan of the bureau involved the extension of local transportation facilities to bring war workers into closer touch with their occupations and to bring adjoining residential communities into closer proximity to manufacturing centers.

Among the systems where these plans have not measured up to their early expectations and immediate action to relieve the existing congestion will be taken include Elizabeth, Bayonne, New Brunswick, in New Jersey, Staten Island, Bridgeport and New London, in Connecticut, and Quincy, Lowell, Mass., and Watertown, New York. Plans for the dwellings to be erected at a number of these localities have already been prepared and in some instances contracts have been awarded and work usually started.

Real Conservation

During the past 18 months over 100 large private electric plants have been abandoned for Edison Service in Manhattan and Bronx

This means, first, a tremendous coal saving, as the ratio of consumption between a private plant and the Central Station for a given amount of current is 4 to 1

It means, second, an important saving in coal delivery facilities

These properties have solved the basic problem of maintenance economy. If you still hesitate over such a move, let our engineers provide you with the details

GOOD WILL

The Advertiser's Priceless Asset

NO matter what effect this war may have upon your business, there is one thing you cannot afford to lose—the GOOD WILL which has been created by your advertising.

Material things may be replaced, GOOD WILL once lost is gone forever, or at least can be restored only by years of effort and the outlay of much money.

The Record and Guide will keep your name, your product and your trade-mark before a 100 per cent buying class at a cost small in proportion to results. Its advertising columns are the gateway to a fertile field. The purchasing power exercised by its readers is a factor you cannot afford to overlook.

You may not be able to meet the present demand for your product, nor to secure the raw material. Neither of these facts, however, constitutes a logical argument for permitting the public to forget your name, your product or your trade-mark.

The business concern which maintains its publicity for the sake of that priceless asset, GOOD WILL, alone, will be infinitely better off after the war than the concern which takes down its sign.

Let us serve you. We can plan an effective campaign for you that will justify your outlay on a GOOD WILL basis.

M. & L. HESS, INC., leased for estate of Bradish Johnson, Inc., the 2d floor of the building at 923-5 Broadway and 149-51 5th av, northwest corner 21st st, to Alexander Jamieson & Co., of Scotland. Everett M. Seixas Co. represented the lessees.

HENRY HOF leased the store at 695 2d av to Jacob Mast; also the store at 553 3d av to Jacob Metsh.

HENRY HOF leased for C. E. Tyte the 1st loft at 623 3d av to A. Pulise.

HOUGHTON CO. leased for Edward Rafter Estate the 4-sty dwelling at 43 West 80th st to Margaret Marshall.

HOUGHTON CO. leased for estate of Ewen McIntyre the 5-sty dwelling at 303 West 74th st, opposite Charles M. Schwab's mansion, to M. P. Polich for five years.

HOUGHTON CO. leased for Henrietta J. Freeman the 4-sty dwelling 354 West End av to Charles H. Torrey.

JOHN J. KAVANAGH leased for Dr. E. L. Keyes his dwelling at 28 East 75th st to Dr. Alfred Meyer; also for Dr. F. G. Becker the 4-sty dwelling at 105 East 80th st to Mrs. Everett Bowler.

PEASE & ELLIMAN rented the following apartments: 350 Park av to Anson W. Hard; 44 West 10th st to Gertrude W. Harder; 565 Park av to Henry W. J. Bucknall; 850 Park av to Mrs. Sidney Whelen; 4 West 50th st to Dr. W. B. Coley; 103 East 75th st to Mrs. Edward Ingraham; 21 West 58th st to John Z. Middleton; 138 East 36th st to Mrs. Willard Parker, Jr.; 44 West 10th st to Jas. W. Masterman; also let furnished for Mrs. G. B. Cook to Mrs. George H. Gray the 3-sty dwelling at 140 East 65th st, between Lexington and 3d avs.

DOUGLAS ROBINSON, CHARLES S. BROWN CO. leased to United Cigar Stores Co. from Alexander Jay Bruen the property at the southeast corner of 135th st and Lenox av, containing five stores, for a term of years.

M. ROSENTHAL CO. leased to Roth & Sachs the top loft in 118-120 5th av; to Max Kirschman the 2d floor at 1213 Broadway; to Pioneer Ladies' Garment Co. the 15th floor at 6-8 West 32d st; for the receivers for American Real Estate Co. at 114-116 5th av, corner 17th st, the 14th floor and the 18th floor, containing 35,000 sq. ft., at an aggregate rental of $100,000, to Kehillah Society and Federation of Jewish Philanthropic Society; for Cruikshank Co. the loft at 244 5th av to When Stores Co.; to Pincus & Hershkovitz the 5th floor at 31-33 West 31st st; to Loeser-Auslander Co. the 11th floor at 131-137 West 35th st; to Jane Rosner the 4th floor at 23 West 45th st; to George Jacobson the 7th floor at 48x56 West 25th st; to Samuel Gerst the 3d floor at 6-8 West 32d st; to Monarch Dress Co. the 21st floor, at an aggregate rental of about $60,000, at 11-13 East 26th st through to 10-12 East 27th st; and to Crown Underwear Co. the 9th floor at 12 West 31st st.

SHAW & CO. leased for Mrs. Elizabeth Winthrop Chapman, Winthrop Astor Chanler and William Astor Chanler, who were represented by Charles S. McVeigh, of the firm of Morris & McVeigh, attorneys, the plot 200x200, running from 55th to 56th st, 200 ft. west from 10th av. The tenant is 512 West 56th Street Corp., who will erect a 1-sty garage on the plot.

FREDERICK SOUTHACK & ALWYN BALL, JR., leased for Ideal Gas & Electric Co. store and basement at 433 Broadway, corner Howard st, to Tawil Bros., Inc.; for Samuel E. Bernstein store and basement at 474 Broadway to William Allen & Co., Inc.; and for Kanter & Aronwitz store and basement at 294 Church st to B & C Manufacturing Co.

STEPHEN H. TYNG, JR., & CO., INC., leased at 381 4th av offices to Max Lippman; at 50 Union sq offices to Samuel Schwartz and to New York Piece Goods Co.; at 31 Union sq offices to William Fischer & Co. and Pablo Del Rio Co.; at 100-102 Worth st the 5th floor to Metzger & Lind; 4th floor to Isidore Gelbtrunk; for William H. Whiting & Co. 2d floor at 373 4th av to S. J. Hall & Sons, Inc.; for Tucker, Speyers & Co. 10th floor at 11-13 East 26th st to American Shirt Co., Inc.; sub-leased, in conjunction with Roy Scherick, for M. Heminway & Sons Silk Co. the 7th floor at 890 Broadway to Herbert B. Lederer Co.; sub-leased for R. L. Cochran Co. space at 11 East 36th st to E. Virgil Neal Chemical Works; sub-leased for Kienzie Clock Co. space on the 3d floor at 129-31 5th av to J. C. Dowd & Co.; and sub-leased for George Borgfeld & Co. 5th floor in the building at 105-7 East 16th st to Martin & Lundburg.

UNITED CIGAR STORES CO. leased a store at the southeast corner of 6th av and 58th st.

UNITED STATES RAILROAD ADMINISTRATION leased the following stores formerly used by various railroads: 172 Broadway to Gillette Safety Razor Co.; 387 Broadway to Begie Brothers, and 1182 Broadway to American Salvage Co.

CHARLES B. WALKER leased to Standard Commercial Tobacco Co. the 6-sty building at 222 to 228 West 14th st, for use as a warehouse. It will be occupied by West Fourteenth Street Warehouse Co. This lease provides for an annual rental considerably over 200 per cent. in excess of the rental paid by the present tenant.

Backing Up Our Ships With American Dollars

United States Is Now a Creditor Nation and in a Favorable Position to Build Up Huge Foreign Trade

By EDWARD N. HURLEY,
Chairman United States Shipping Board.

THE United States is the greatest coffee consuming nation in the world.

We buy every year from Brazil about $100,000,000 worth of coffee. Potentially, that should be the greatest influence for sales of our own products to Brazil. Actually, this coffee consumption has yielded to the United States only a fraction of its potential benefits.

European shipping concerns have controlled practically all shipments from Rio de Janeiro and Santos to New York and New Orleans. About two-thirds of the coffee comes to New York and one-third to New Orleans. An average of three ships a month were required in normal times to carry to New Orleans the 2,000,000 bags for the South and Middle West. In a well-balanced trade, these ships would have been available for return cargoes of American products.

The Middle West, especially, might have been in an advantageous position, because it could command lower railroad rates to New Orleans than New York. But the ships of this coffee fleet, all under foreign flags, made no effort to secure return cargoes. After discharging coffee, they loaded with cotton and other raw materials for European manufacturers. They steamed away to Europe, took on cargoes of manufactured goods made largely from American raw materials, and carried these back to Brazil.

Lacking ships to South America and banks on that continent our coffee importers had to pay exchange and commission to European banks. The foreign ships upon which we depended provided a smooth highway for Brazilian coffee into New Orleans, greased the way for American raw materials to reach European mills, and carried European goods to Brazil, where they were paid for with the Brazilians' profits on sales of coffee to the United States. These foreign ships were so routed that they rendered their first service to the European exporter, their second service to the Brazilian coffee grower—and we came in for service after that.

Our foreign trade has been full of opportunities like this. But, lacking American merchant ships and American banking facilities in other countries, we have let the foreigner improve the opportunities.

Now we are building a real merchant marine. American banks are establishing foreign branches. The American ship and the American dollar are going to work together, and the more attention we pay to this great field of business the harder they will work for us.

Shipbuilding for war purposes has made a tremendous appeal to the American imagination. We must now put our merchant marine into the Nation's thought in just the same way. These are the Nation's ships. They will increase prosperity for people in the corn belt even more than those on the seaboard. They will serve the farmer and consumer even more than the manufacturer and exporter. When we get the American merchant marine into the daily thought of every producer, and our boys and girls play with shipping toys, and American youth consider the sea in choosing a career, then we shall have something upon which to build foreign trade, foreign exchange, foreign investment.

War has made us a real creditor nation. We have bought back from European investors billions of dollars worth of American securities. We now own our own railroads and factories, and hold the bonds issued by our state, county, and municipal governments. We have lent billions of dollars to the Allies, and will lend them billions more before the war ends. We have opened book accounts with nations not actively engaged in the war who want to buy goods on credit from us. Best of all, we have begun to learn new habits of thrift and investment through buying liberty bonds, so that peace ought to find us with the mortgage of foreign investments on this country paid off and money in pocket to lend other nations.

The world owes us a great deal of money. But our principal debtors are the great manufacturing and exporting nations, like England, France, and Italy. Naturally, they will pay their debts in goods as far as possible, and much of the trade which grows out of these obligations will take the form of shipments of American raw materials to make the goods with which they will pay us. Necessity will also lead them to be active sellers of manufactured goods in South America, the British colonies, and the Orient, and in that trade there will never be either American competition or jealousy over business that properly belongs to them, because we realize the enormous sacrifices they have made for humanity, and wish to see them return to peaceful prosperity as fast as possible.

But there is trade to be built on new shipping routes between this and other countries. More than that, there is service to be rendered other countries by our ships and money.

Let us take Brazil as an illustration. When American ships go to Rio and Santos for coffee, they will carry American officers and seamen. There are no better salesmen or creators of good will in the world than the men who man merchant ships running on regular lines from one country to the other. For their employment depends largely upon freight traffic. With our coffee, brought to us in American ships, and paid for in American manufactures sent back to Brazil, our officers and sailors will work like those of other nations to get freight.

With our manufacturers making payments in goods

Realty Men Urge City Officials to Save Money

Budget Committee of Real Estate Board Shows How Taxes Can Be Reduced Considerably

IT is the intention of the Real Estate Board of New York, through its Budget Committee, to show the city authorities how large sums of money can be saved without in any way affecting the efficiency of government or curtailing any proper service now rendered the community.

These statements will be sent weekly to the Board of Estimate, and will be published, so that if possible proper public sentiment may be awakened in this time of stress against extravagance or against the use of public funds for purposes not proper functions of government.

At the beginning the Real Estate Board desires to establish this basic principle that should control Municipal expenditures, the principle "that nothing should be done by the city for any individual, except as a matter of charity, that the city is not ready and able to do for every member of the community." What the Real Estate Board means is this: if one citizen is entitled to free college education, free doctors, free dentists, free nurses, free medicine, then all citizens are.

A family living on the east side is not entitled to anything free from the city that the city is not prepared to give to a family living in Flushing or on Staten Island.

The members of the Budget Committee also feel that there never was a time when the poorer people of the city needed less help than now. The poorest kind of unskilled labor is in demand at $4.80 a day and skilled labor is paid from $50.00 to $125.00 a week. The rents in cold water tenements have not increased, and there are many vacancies, and the latest government report shows that the cost of living has only increased 65 per cent. since 1914.

It should be idle, therefore, for the sentimentalist, the professional settlement worker, or the professional mendicant who, so often in the past, have unjustly influenced City Boards to waste City money, to make much impression now.

The Budget Committee of the Real Estate Board urges this week the saving of one point in the tax levy by the following:

1—The collection of water taxes in the Comptroller's office and the abolition of the Bureau for Collection of Water Revenues in the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. Water taxes come due and can always be made to come due at a time when there is very little to do in the Tax Collection Department of the Comptroller's office. A proper reorganization of the inspection and audit forces of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity would make the matter of certifying the reading of water meters to the Comptroller's office a simple one. This economy would result in a saving of at least $300,000.

2—There is no need for a separate bureau in the Comptroller's office for the Collection of Assessments and Arrears and the Collection of City Revenue. The Bureau for the Collection of Taxes would take care of the collection of taxes, assessments, water taxes, city revenues, and still not be overworked. There ought not to be one place to pay taxes due, one to pay taxes in arrears and another to pay water taxes. All accounts due the City should be paid at one place and over one counter. This would save $100,000.

The Law and Adjustment Bureau in the Comptroller's office should be part of the Bureau of Auditing, Accounting and Disbursing. With the aid of the Corporation Counsel's office that Bureau could easily pass on disputed claims and save another $100,000. The Chief Accountant should be in charge of Municipal Investigation and Statistics or at least the work of that Bureau should be divided between the Auditing Bureau and the Chief Accountant's Bureau and at least $75,000 saved.

The Comptroller should be City Treasurer and the First Deputy could act as Chamberlain and $40,000 saved the City.

The Commissioners of Accounts, which have been in the past, and may be in the future, used merely as instruments to injure political opponents of the Mayor, should be abolished. Some of their expert accountants could be used in the Bureau of Audit in the Comptroller's office and given special charge of the investigation of the accounts of certain departments.

All the bookkeeping of the City, however, ought to be done in the Comptroller's office. At least $175,000 could be saved here. To summarize:

In the collection of water taxes.....	$300,000
Abolition of Assessments and Arrears Bureau..	100,000
Abolition of Law and Adjustment Bureau.....	100,000
Abolition of Municipal Investigation and Statistics.....	75,000
Abolition of City Chamberlain.....	40,000
Abolition of Commissioner of Accounts.....	175,000
	$790,000

$800,000 is one point in the tax levy.

Backing Up Ships With Dollars

to Brazil, there will be a direct money exchange between Rio and New York, Santos and New Orleans, instead of the old triangular payment of money by American coffee importers to Brazil through European banks. So American dollars will be working with American seamen to safeguard the trade that belongs to us.

What sort of manufactured goods will our ships carry back to Brazil?

Some of the stuff will be for consumption, such as textiles, shoes, hats, millinery, agricultural implements, office equipment, household furniture. But Brazil needs production and public service equipment as well. The Balkan war diverted European capital from her industries and communities. The world war has put her on still shorter allowances. Her prosperity thus far has rested on two products—coffee and rubber. The development of rubber plantations in the East Indies has decreased her sales of crude rubber and awakened her to the necessity of wider agricultural development—cattle raising, grain growing, and the like. This calls for investments in agricultural enterprises, the settlement of new lands, the building of new railroads, the financing of new communities. Brazil also possesses vast undeveloped water power, and is endeavoring to establish manufacturing industries. She will need a market for her bonds and stocks, and if the American dollar helps her create the basis of prosperity, it will be followed by American electrical machinery, railroad equipment, and other apparatus, thus creating freight for the return voyages of American merchant ships operating regularly in the Brazilian coffee and passenger trade.

Ships are the keystone of this whole elaborate structure.

No Coal Shortage this Winter, says D. W. Cooke

State Fuel Administrator Confident Supply Will Meet Legitimate Demand But Must Be No Extravagance

D. W. COOKE, U. S. Fuel Administrator for New York State has authorized the following statement as to the outlook for coal supplies for this city for the approaching winter.

"I never have had and I do not now have any fear that there will be any shortage of coal during the coming cold season provided there is reasonable care taken to prevent waste and careless extravagance and provided the weather is not so extreme as last winter, but is similar to that prevailing in average seasons."

In support of this statement Mr. Cooke reviewed the various conditions obtaining in the handling of coal from the mine to the consumer, in response to an inquiry of a representative of the Record and Guide made to clear up the situation so far as it effects property owners and managers in the city.

It is known that the Federal Administration has taken steps to provide for the falling off in man-power at the mines and the War Industries Board has arranged with the Railroad Administration to divert more cars for the handling of coal. There is plenty of coal in the mines. What is of particular interest to consumers in this city is whether the local facilities for handling coal are adequate.

Mr. Cooke has been in office long enough to master the details of the work of providing New York with its quota of fuel. What he says applies to anthracite coal, which is the kind used in heating the offices, apartment buildings and private residences in the city.

"The system of handling coal in this city is all right," said Mr. Cooke. "We are not making any revolutionary changes in it. What is the feature of the condition to-day is that we are all working together to obtain a certain result. All the administrative functions have been co-ordinated for this purpose.

"We have this year, in addition to the former method of administration, a director of dock terminals who will see to it that they are used to the best advantage.

"We have sufficient barges and towboats and the railroad terminals are adequate. There is additional capacity in coal shutes provided by the new Jersey Central coal shed and there are additional steaming plants for handling coal in severe weather.

"The retail dealers are provided with proper and sufficient equipment to do their share of the work.

"The method of handling coal for New York City has been satisfactory, except in such extreme seasons as last year which was exceptional. Unless we have a recurrence of the extreme weather of last year we shall be able to supply New York without any trouble. The quota is 12% more than last year. But there must be no waste or extravagance."

It can be stated that provision has been made for breaking ice in the Hudson River if there should be any trouble as there was last winter, but the Fuel Administration does not care to announce publicly what steps have been taken as these involve matters over which the National Government has jurisdiction.

The tremendously increasing demand for coal for special war purposes in the Eastern part of the country, particularly for the Navy and Transport service, is making it necessary to draw more heavily on the Eastern coal fields than was originally contemplated.

In order to decide how best to secure this coal for these purposes with the least disturbance of the coal supply moving to other industries, a meeting of all State Fuel Administrators East of the Mississippi, and also the States of Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, was held in Washington last week.

At this meeting it was decided that to accomplish the desired result it would be necessary to limit the amount of coal storage that industrial plants would be allowed to accumulate and to carry on hand and to fix a uniform amount for each State.

United States Fuel Administrator Garfield announced the basic policy of the Fuel Administration as to storage as follows:

"Coal in excess of that required for current operations shall be delivered to plants not on the Preference List of the War Industries Board only when it is not in demand for use before April 1, 1919, by consumers on said list, namely, railroads, the Federal Government, states, counties, public utilities, retail dealers, or manufacturing plants on the Preference List.

"In carrying out this policy, allowance shall be made for differences in distance from the mines and for differences in transportation conditions which may require more or less storage at the beginning of winter to insure uninterrupted operation until the following spring."

The storage allowance fixed by a committee of State Fuel Administrators aided by officials of the Administration, was adopted by the conference, and concurred in by Dr. Garfield. For nearby states it was as follows:

MAXIMUM NUMBER DAYS STORAGE BITUMINOUS COAL ALLOWED UNTIL FURTHER NOTICE.

	STEAM COAL			BY PRODUCT AND GAS COAL
	Public Utilities	Preferred Industries	Non-Preferred Industries	By-Product and Gas Plants	Preferred Industries	Non-Preferred Industries
Maine .....	120	90	30	120	90	0
Mass., Vt., N. H., Northern N. Y.	90	60	30	90	60	0
Conn., R. I. ....	75	45	20	75	45	0
Southern N. Y., N. J., Del., Eastern Pa. ....	30	30	15	45	30	0

The report says: "It is understood that these limits are mandatory and each Fuel Administrator is expected to see that the different classes of consumers are not allowed to exceed these limits. At the same time, it is understood that particular cases may require special treatment by a State Fuel Administrator, either by way of granting more stocks of coal than are indicated by these limits, or by restricting them to a less supply than indicated by these limits.

"Where a State Administrator decides that the maximum limit should be exceeded in a special case for some special reason, he shall have authority to grant a revocable increase in writing for a specific added number of days. The administrator shall report each such specific case in writing immediately to the United States Fuel Administrator at Washington, which may in writing disapprove the extension granted by him. Otherwise, it shall stand subject to action of the State Fuel Administrator."

War Service Committee of Building Stone Men

ANOTHER of the nation's highly-important industries has organized and formally tendered its co-operation to the Government for the winning of the war.

The War Service Committee of Building Stone has been formed, including in its membership the leaders in the building stone industry throughout the United States. Colonel Sam Tate, of Georgia, is chairman of this new War Committee, Charles T. Vandever is Acting Secretary, and Philip B. Parker, of New York City, is Chairman of the Central Group.

The communication in which this new committee tendered its services to the Government follows:

To the War Industries Board:

Actuated by a desire to co-operate in every way with the Government in the present emergency, we hereby pledge our hearty support in whatever action may be deemed necessary as affecting our industry and as outlined to us by your Mr. Humphrey in conference with us at New York last month, and beg leave to report that in compliance with the suggestion previously made to us we have perfected a permanent organization.

A War Service Committee has been selected consisting of Mr. H. E. Fletcher, of Boston, Mass., representing the New England group; Mr. P. B. Parker, of New York City, representing the Central group; Col. Sam. Tate, of Tate, Ga., representing the Southeastern group; Mr. R. M. Richter, of Bedford, Ind., representing the Mid-west group; Mr. Mastin Simpson, of Kansas City, Mo., representing the Trans-Mississippi group, and Mr. John D. McGilvray, of San Francisco, Cal., representing the Far-west group.

These several group chairmen were duly confirmed at meetings of their respective groups held at Boston, Mass., New York City, Atlanta, Ga., Chicago, Ill., Kansas City, Mo., and San Francisco, Cal.—all within the past week.

They have organized by designating Col. Sam Tate as National Chairman, and Mr. Chas. T. Vandever as Secretary and Treasurer. Mr. Vandever will be located permanently in Washington on behalf of the Building Stone Industry and its War Service Committee, with offices at 626 Colorado Building, telephone, Main 3932.

The action of the group meetings above referred to, confirming the unanimous opinion of the Chairmen of the War Service Committee on Building Stone, makes it imperative, in our opinion, that the fabricators of building stone for both exterior and interior use be included in our National organization. The quarrying and fabricating of stone for building use are so closely co-ordinated and inter-related that, in our opinion, the best interests of our Committee, and the War Industries Board, can be served by including the cut stone and marble plants under our Committee and we respectfully request your consent to such procedure.

The Building Stone Industry is one of the basic operations of the Nation, and represents a vast National resource, the conservation of the investment in which is of the utmost importance to our commercial fabric.

The output of natural building stone of all kinds is, under normal conditions, measured by tens of millions of dollars annually and the capital at stake may very conservatively be placed at fifty million dollars.

The conditions respecting labor in numerous quarry districts, which may be found in all sections, are that a considerable contingent of workmen represents a second and third generation at this particular task. Many of these men have grown old in the service, are, in fact, not fitted for a change in occupation, and otherwise find themselves tied to their native localities through ownership of modest homes and dependence of family relations.

By reason of the consistent policy of the government in discountenancing building operations not directly or indirectly necessary for the prosecution of the war, the Building Stone Industry has already been reduced in volume to a point where the percentage of production for this business, as a whole, must probably be fixed at some point between 25 and 50% of normal. In effect the condition we have with us represents an irreducible minimum unless the industry with respect to its investment and organization is to be extinguished entirely. That we have been told is not the purpose. The fact of the matter is that perhaps in excess of one-half of the volume of operations remaining is fairly directly contributory to the Nation's war program, and we express the hope that the Government will recognize our pleading that many factors combine to justify a material expansion of these opportunities.

A substantial proportion of the many different structures in course of erection and planned by the different departments is of a permanent and semi-permanent nature. We have in mind the housing program going forward under the jurisdiction of the Department of Labor, large warehouses for the War Department, officers' quarters, hospitals, dormitories, and other buildings for the military and naval establishments, dry docks, sea walls, railroad terminals, bridges, telephone and telegraph buildings, ammunition and other factories, schools, Y. M. C. A. buildings, and many more too numerous to mention.

We are convinced that we can demonstrate conclusively that natural stone may quite properly be called upon wholly or in part to render service in all such operations as have just been set out.

While ordinarily natural building stone is the logical product in connection with such building operations, there are powerful reasons why to-day more than ever its use should not only be encouraged but in fact insisted upon.

Likewise, for sanitary reasons, artistic value and permanency, stone for interior work should recommend itself for extensive use on side walls, toilet and shower partitions and floors.

The production of natural building stone involves the consumption of a negligible quantity of fuel, 3% to 5% as compared with substitutes involving fuel consumption approximating, probably, a ration of pound for pound of fuel for finished product—or 100%.

To relieve the pressing demand for steel and transportation, buildings can be constructed of natural stone of the wall-bearing type from material generally, and immediately, available in the several localities where such buildings are needed. Simplified designs with a minimum of ornamentation need not increase the first cost of such to any appreciable degree, if at all, over buildings designed with a large amount of structural steel, and their permanency and beauty cannot be questioned.

The application of already existing machinery, now largely idle, reduces the amount of labor required in the production and fabrication of building stone to a minimum.

These we cannot produce except as an operation concurrent with, and dependent upon, the production of building stone. We have in mind here fluxing and lime for the steel industries, lime for water purification, and fertilizer, crushed stone for railroad ballast, concrete work and road construction, paving and riprap. To undertake direct production of these essential by-products would enormously increase the cost of same and would destroy the value of any building stone quarry property so converted.

Finally, inasmuch as we have voluntarily complied with the expressed desires of the Government by curtailing the production of natural building stone in the United States, it would seem eminently fair and justifiable that the importation of all building material of a like nature from foreign nations be entirely suspended during such period of curtailment.

SAM TATE,

Chairman War Service Committee on Building Stone, Washington, D. C., Aug. 20, 1918.

[The War Industries Board has accepted the offer of co-operation from the Building Stone Industry and important results are expected.]

Plans Commodity Exchange for Foreign Trade

New Owner of Grand Central Palace Proposes to Make It Headquarters for After-the-War Business

FOLLOWING the announcement that the Grand Central Palace has been taken over for use as a hospital Alfred I. du Pont, chairman of the Allied Industries Corporation, who bought the building recently, outlined his plans for its use after the war. Mr. du Pont purchased control of the building by obtaining the stock of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Exchange, which investment cost him about $1,000,000. With this he secured a lease which has forty-two years to run. The lessee becomes owner of the building after twenty-eight years.

Mr. du Pont explained his plan as follows:

"My purpose in acquiring the Grand Central Palace for the home of the Allied Industries Corporation was, and is, to establish a point of contact between commercial United States and the rest of the world in the development of foreign trade. Yet ours is essentially an After-the-War activity and as it has now appeared that our Government desires this building for hospital purposes we are heartily glad to devote it to that use for the duration of the war. While all of the details of the transfer have not yet been completed we have given notice to our tenants to vacate by September 15th.

"This will not alter the plans I am prepared to announce for the permanent use of the Palace Building. These plans are so vast and so far-reaching that a great amount of preliminary organization is necessary. This work will be carried on during the Government's occupation of the Palace, and I have no doubt that by the time we are ready to use the building it will have again reverted to us.

"The vision of the position which this country may occupy in the markets of the world, if it takes advantage of its present opportunity, is not exclusively mine. Many men have dreamed it, but it remains for someone to realize that dream, and it is my hope that through the Allied Industries Corporation this may be done.

"Foreign trade is not, however, a one-sided matter. It does not consist solely of selling your products to other countries—it consists of selling to them and buying from them, reciprocally. It consists, further, in the establishment, through trade relations, of greater international understanding, of appreciation for permanent business alliances with their nations and other peoples which will result in closer world-friendships. This is the antithesis of present world conditions, except insofar as concerns the Allied nations. It is my hope and belief that through the plans we are developing around the Grand Central Palace, the alliance we have made for purposes of war will be cemented and strengthened for the years of peace that are to follow.

"At the Hague there is a Peace Palace that stands for something very definite in the world, however circumstances may have nullified its immediate practical usefulness. It is my purpose that here in New York there shall stand a Palace that is no less for peace, though its functions be to promote foreign trade and closer international understanding—the basis of peace.

"It is all very well for us to talk of these things but it seems to me the thing to do is to create some very definite local point around which these thoughts can be crystallized into acts. Therefore, the Grand Central Palace is to be something more than an executive building for a great business corporation, representing only an exclusive group of manufacturers. While we shall assemble there the American made goods of our Allied industries, which are to be offered to the buyers from other countries, and reciprocally, foreign made goods that are seeking an entry to the markets of the United States, the Grand Central Palace under its new direction will become also the assembling place for the commercial thought of the whole world.

"New York is very definitely the gateway through which American goods must go out to the markets of Europe and South America, just as it is the gateway through which the products of these countries must largely enter the United States. It is not that we wish to narrow the gateway, but rather to broaden it, very definitely locating its place and for the future we hope to bring together these buyers of all the world under one roof in this city, in order to facilitate the exchange of commodities and the interchange of ideas. Our expositions of domestic and foreign goods will become—like the Leipsic Fair—events of world-wide importance and should attract an increased number of buyers.

"Further, to develop our plan, it is proposed to centralize here, as far as possible, the entire flow of foreign trade. It has generally been thought that the Palace was to be used only by such groups of manufacturers as were allied with the Allied Industries Corporation. This is not correct, since the purpose is, as I have said,

Asks Mayor to Remove Commissioner Day

Receivers' and Distributors' Association Says His Activities Are Directed Against Retail Merchants and Affect Realty Unfavorably

THE Receivers and Distributors Association, Inc., of this city has filed with Mayor Hylan a request for the removal of Rev. Jonathan C. Day from the position of Commissioner of Markets. Edward P. Doyle, secretary of the association, gives the following explanation for this action:

"The Receivers and Distributors Association asked Mayor Hylan to remove the Rev. Jonathan C. Day, Commissioner of Markets, because it has seemed to us that his whole attitude, since he assumed office, was that of professional agitator apparently seeking to excite certain classes of our people against business men. The reasons for the high cost of living are plain to all intelligent men, but they are no so easily understood by the uneducated, especially if they are of foreign birth.

"The Reverend gentleman before his appointment as commissioner was in charge of a mission located in the Labor Temple at 14th street and Second avenue. He is very persuasive and is an adept in that form of oratory which appeals to the passions and not to the reason of an audience. Because of this he was able to render very valuable service to Mayor Hylan during the mayoralty campaign and apparently for such service was made Commissioner of Markets.

He was not a man of business knowledge or experience and had never in any way been connected, as far as we can ascertain, with any form of business or with markets.

"He first attracted the attention of our organization by his purchase of 700,000 pounds of fish, which proved unsalable, and by a remarkable interview published in the New York 'Sun' on March 12th advocating the entire shifting of trade centers and existing terminals and the building of great storage warehouses where each East Side housewife could store, in the summer, the necessary food for winter use. This plan, if carried out would have cost the taxpayers many millions of dollars, and would have destroyed real estate values in many sections of the Greater City. Then came his two requests for $350,000 to buy eggs and butter to be sold the poor and his starting the city in business. The Record and Guide recently accurately analyzed and described this feature of his career.

"At the suggestion of the Broadway Association a meeting was held at the Hotel Martinique to protect the business interests of the city against the commissioner. I attended, representing the real estate board. As a result of that meeting the West Side Taxpayers Association retained Senator Wm M. Bennett to begin an investigation of the commissioner and his methods. That investigation disclosed the fact that the commissioner was conducting a business in violation of the City Charter; that he was buying merchandise, in the name of the city, before he had obtained an appropriation; that he was selling and billing in the name of the city, merchandise so purchased and depositing the proceeds, not with the Comptroller or City Chamberlain as required by law, but in a bank account opened by himself.

"The investigation showed that he was selling to stores, hotels, restaurants, and to individuals in the Municipal building, fish, butter, eggs, coffee and sugar, and that he had no proper books of account approved by the Comptroller. Protests were made to the proper authorities and on July 16 the Board of Aldermen appointed a commission of 5 to supersede the Reverend gentleman as purchasing and selling agent of the city.

"In the meantime and again without the slightest justification the commissioner began attacking the ice and coal dealers of the city and claimed that he had contracted for an enormous quantity of ice and 300,000 tons of coal to be delivered at very much lower prices than those being charged by, as he called them, the 'profiteering' merchants of the city. This of course was all talk and has resulted in nothing except to again create public sentiment against business men. Our association thought it was about time the thing stopped. The long rows of empty stores on all our avenues are sufficient evidence of the damage already done through unjust interference by city and state authorities with small business men.

"We asked for Commissioner Day's removal, and will continue to ask for it, and we will ask the Legislature to modify the law under which he was appointed."

Department of Labor on Rent Profiteering

Makes Suggestions as to How Landlords Who Demand Excessive Amounts for Leases Can Be Curbed

THE Department of Labor authorizes the following as a possible solution of any rental profiteering by landlords.

From many industrial cities engaged on war contracts complaints of rent profiteering have been received by the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation. The following measures to overcome this evil have been recommended by the bureau to the local councils of defense and other co-operating agencies, and are applied under the direction of the Homes Registration and Information Division of the bureau:

First, the supply of housing accommodations can be increased by means of a publicity campaign and a canvass of the vacant houses, flats, and rooms. Property owners who have never before taken roomers should be appealed to on patriotic grounds to open their houses. By listing all vacancies from one central registry, rent extortion may be, to an extent, prevented through the law of supply and demand.

Next, lists maintained by the registry may be rendered accessible to the local city governments, which in some places have instructed the assessors to increase the valuation of houses so that taxes will be levied on the basis of the profiteer's rental. When the valuations of houses are raised to the extent to which the rent has been raised, profiteering, it has been found, is quickly curbed.

In addition to these methods, and most important of all, representative local committees on rent profiteering have been established in 30 cities through the Homes Registration Service of the Housing Bureau. The Council of National Defense has co-operated in establishing such committees. These are divided into rent adjustment committees composed of one representative of labor, one representative of real estate interests, and one representative of the general public. One such sub-committee meets one night weekly and summons both landlord and tenant.

Landlords who have raised their rentals are considered profiteers by the Bureau of Industrial Housing. Those, however, who have raised them are called on to show expenses and improvements which will justify increases. Landlords guilty of profiteering are appealed to on patriotic grounds. They are shown that their practices interfere with the comfort and well-being of the workers. They are shown that their action increases labor turnover by making the workers discontented and that thereby the production of war essentials is reduced.

When they see that rent profiteering means aiding the enemy and postponement of victory, they almost invariably agree to the decision of the committee. If they do not agree, the facts are published in full without comment. These committees are thus a powerful means of creating sentiment against the profiteer and of inducing all citizens to co-operate with the Government in securing homes for war workers at reasonable rentals.

The local committees are able, by these patriotic appeals and by publicity, to check rent profiteering. Reports to the Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation have indicated notable success of this plan.

Improved Real Estate Being Bought Steadily

Large Operator Declares War Conditions Have Not Stopped Demand for Property at Good Prices

By FREDERICK BROWN, Real Estate Operator.

TO many people the assertion that war conditions have brought about an increase in the value of New York real estate may seem doubtful. But as an operator who has been very active since America entered the world war I feel that I am qualified to pass upon the matter, my knowledge being gained from personal experience rather than from hearsay.

My business as an operator has been better during the last year than it has been since 1903. There has been no building going on during the past year and as a result there has been a great demand for property at good prices. There is no mortgage money to be had but mortgages are not being called, as some people would have us believe.

In 1917 my business amounted to $16,000,000, and I am confident that for 1918 it will exceed $22,000,000. The reason for this increase in business as well as the stability of real estate in spite of war conditions is that rents are better, and property is one hundred per cent. rented, instead of the usual ten per cent. vacancies during the times when building operations exceed the demand for property. While the upkeep of property is higher the great demand and the better rental incomes make for increased values.

While realty in all parts of the city is in great demand I have found it most noticeable in the Washington Heights and West Bronx sections. Of late there has been great activity in the midtown loft section. Mr. Noyes in his article in the Record & Guide a few weeks ago gave some very interesting facts and figures about downtown property and the recent activity on the part of tenants to buy their buildings. But Mr. Noyes omitted many parcels that have changed hands through other brokers or are at the present time being negotiated for.

The war will have no bad effect on New York realty. There is always something on the market and I do not have to leave my office to pick up attractive parcels. Every day many offers are made to me. I do not have to dig them up. In the last two months business property has not been so active, but high class apartments and even private dwellings are unusually active and at prices by no means in the bargain class. By this I mean owners are not trying to dispose of their holdings at any price, but on the contrary are asking good prices and getting them. While there has been great activity in the lower end of the city the loft section between 14th and 42d streets is coming in big.

I fully expect that conditions will remain good during the next five years. Beyond that period a man cannot very well predict. But there is a scarcity of renting space and no new buildings are going up, so that I believe that conditions will not only remain as good as they are today but become better. It takes at least a year to put up a building, so that when labor and material are no longer needed for Government war work there will not be many new buildings to supply the great demand for at least one year after the war.

The methods of transacting mercantile business have changed in recent years and so have the methods of the operator in real estate. The operator of today is nearer in his ways of doing business to the merchant than was the operator of ten years ago. One reason for this is that since the building boom of 1907 there has been a steady decrease in building and the operator who no longer is able to assemble plots and resell them to builders for structural purposes has had to branch out in a bigger and newer field, that of buying improved properties and reselling at a profit to speculator, investor or occupant.

It may be that my method of doing business is different than other operators: perhaps it is, but the fact remains that I am successful. My way means a great volume of business to me and I am always busy looking into offerings and discussing trades and resales, so after all what some people have been pleased to term my unique method is productive of results and that is what counts. I always tell a prospective customer my lowest price when he comes in to do business with me. If we should dicker over the price it would take too long to close the deal. I put in my contracts of sale a clause stating that the purchaser has the right to decline to take title to the property under negotiation without damages. That makes him feel safe in dealing with me. I feel sure that I can sell anything that I carry, and the clause in the contract enables me to close in a day a sale which under old-time methods would have been hanging fire for a month.

Perhaps I am a jobber. I don't object to the appellation, for I was a merchant for twenty years before going into the real estate business. I have met few of the principals in the deals which I have made. I transact all details so far as possible with brokers.

It frequently happens that I take in exchange out of town property, as in the sale last week of property uptown, in part payment for which I took property in Chicago, and never even saw the Chicago property.

In offering a piece of property for sale it is the best policy to give the prospective buyer plain facts and plain figures. If all the cards are on the table the broker knows where he stands. In bygone days they would ask for rental figures and often were given exaggerated amounts. My plan is to buy for cash and sell in trade. Frequently I can take a piece of property with which the owner can do nothing and exchange it. One of my rules is to give the name of the buyer in the contract of sale.

I keep an index of my properties for sale. There are between seventy-five and one hundred cards in the file now. Information about them is written on a card. The cards are numbered and filed numerically. Another card contains a list of properties in street order, and the index numbers are placed beside the street numbers. This information is copied on slips, one to a property—and these are placed on a table in the reception room of my office. There anybody may see them, and if one of the slips suggests a possible transaction to him I am ready to talk. If he doesn't see anything that attracts him he doesn't need to take his time discussing with me the merits of a property of which he knows only the location.

I am always willing to talk property with a man and there is no other formality necessary than to come to my office and walk right in, provided there is no one ahead of him, in which event he must take his place and await his opportunity. It is not necessary to make an engagement with me, since I am always open for attractive offerings.

Numerous inquiries are made of me for property in a certain section or sections of the city and if I happen to have on my list what I consider just the thing sought I at once place all data concerning the property before my inquirer. If I have not got on my list what he wants I so advise him and when I am able to pick up a piece of property in the section mentioned I do so and then begin negotiations for the resale of it and in this way I manage to keep things moving all the time.

Here is a sample of the slip containing information for prospective buyers for a typical apartment house:

Coal Enough But None to Waste

The statement of Mr. D. W. Cooke, New York Fuel Administrator, that the city can reasonably expect enough coal for heating purposes this winter ought to be reassuring to both landlords and tenants. Before taking hold of his present work Mr. Cooke was Vice-President of the Erie Railroad, one of the largest coal carriers, and therefore is fully conversant with the coal business from mine to consumer. He was in a position to get first hand information as to the difficulties under which the city labored last year, and can now profit by the experiences of his predecessor in office during the most strenuous year this section of the country has ever known.

Mr. Cooke's statement deals largely with local conditions and his assurance that the terminal facilities are adequate is of good augury. There are other facts in the general situation which he has left to the National Administration's announcements, which have been made from time to time, and which, progressive in character, have all tended to assist in providing additional safeguards against a recurrence of the troubles of last year.

These are briefly the organization of a Bureau to Stimulate Production; the allotting of coal mined in the East to eastern, and that in the West to western consumers, thereby saving an immense amount of unnecessary haulage; the shifting of flat cars from other work to that of hauling coal; the encouragement of coal storage during the summer months in anticipation of later needs; the opening of new mines; inducing miners to work on holidays and cutting down "off" days to make up for the decrease in the number of men which has been reduced by the Draft and their transfer to other and better paid employment; a systematic attempt to locate new industrial plants in districts outside the congested ones where the coal supply is below the present demand; fixing of prices; restriction of anthracite shipments to Canada; curtailment of non-war industries; conservation of fuel by "lightless" nights and by setting the clock ahead; and a general publicity campaign to influence consumers to husband coal with the greatest care.

New York State is to receive 12.69 per cent. more anthracite coal than last year. While the output of bituminous coal is way behind the requirements, which are 80 million net tons over last year, the shipments of anthracite in the first six months of 1918, as reported by the anthracite Bureau of Information, is 1,183,447 tons more than last year, an advance of over three per cent. This is not a huge gain but it is at least indicative of improvement.

But no one should bet the idea that with all that has been done to prevent the disastrous experiences of last year we are to lie on a bed of roses during the coming winter. We may not have to hibernate in order to keep comfortable, but we shall all have to be careful not to overfill the coal scuttle and every man will have to sift ashes—it's a healthful exercise and it will add to the discomfiture of our common enemy who is starting in on the Winter of his discontent.

Relation of Rentals To Taxation

Several of the daily newspapers recently have commented on the figures printed by the Record and Guide comparing income and expenses of typical groups of buildings in this city. The burden of the criticism seems to be that the statistics furnished by this publication do not justify an increase of twenty-five per cent. in rentals, and there is an implication that the figures are inexact or camouflaged in order to favor owners of buildings.

It was pointed out by the Record and Guide when the figures were printed that they were exact, and not made up for the occasion nor presented with any object other than to give the truth about the serious conditions obtaining in the real estate business to-day. Buildings were selected at random, the only consideration being that they were modern high-class structures. The managers of these buildings were asked for the figures at hand, and these were turned over to this publication without reserve and were the actual statistics for the business of the years under discussion, made up for the use of the managers themselves, and were not especially prepared for publication. A considerable number of items thus furnished were grouped under general heads instead of being given separately.

It was because of this plan of getting the figures that several items show abnormal amounts. In one group there was included a very large repair item which brought the total way above the average. In another group the inclusion of new buildings made this tax item not representative of the average for the city. But this was explained when the figures were printed.

It is not necessary to get the figures for any group or groups of buildings to show that taxes in New York City have advanced in the last few years to an extraordinary degree. In 1915 the Manhattan rate was 1.87, the highest since the inauguration of assessments at full valuation. In 1918 the rate was 2.36. Thus in three years the rate has advanced 49 points, or 26 per cent. If rentals, then, were fixed in accordance with the fluctuations in the tax rate there would be ample justification for an increase of twenty-five per cent. over rentals prevailing at the beginning of the war.

But the statistics presented by the Record and Guide showed that landlords of high class office and apartment buildings had advanced rents only from 5.23% to 8.40% and that because of increased operating expenses, including taxes and insurance, the net income decreased during the period from 3.38% to 17.40%, according to the group of buildings.

The Record and Guide is not without appreciation of the fact that when the editors of the Tribune, the Evening Post and the Globe seek information about real estate they consult the columns of this publication, which has for more than fifty years consistently and faithfully tried to represent and serve the interests of realty men. In publishing the facts about the net incomes obtained from investments in high class buildings in this city the outstanding fact is that landlords have not increased rents anything like twenty-five per cent. There may have been some instances where the increase has reached such a figure. But the real estate men generally have not been able to make their incomes keep pace with the outgo. Taxes, and other expenses, have run up faster than it has been possible to advance rentals. Leases are frequently made for three years and it has been pointed out that in the last three years taxes have become twenty-six per cent. greater with the landlord having no adequate opportunity to reimburse himself for the increased outlay, nor for the numerous advanced costs of coal and other supplies, or labor, which have no fixed period for making fresh inroads on the property-owner's cash account.

The Record and Guide does not attempt to argue in favor of increased rentals of twenty-five per cent., or any other per cent., unless the advance is justified by the facts. The figures presented showed with a fair amount of reason that rentals on high-class property do not give the landlord the same returns on his investment that he was getting three years ago, and it may be fairly assumed that at that time he was not getting more than he was entitled to. There is no concert of action, nor trust, in the real estate business. No single interest controls enough property to give it the power to fix the general rental rate, nor even to unduly influence it. There are many thousands of landlords in the city and there is the keenest competition in the business of renting. In no other line of business is there greater competition. And in no other line of business does the city arbitrarily take a big slice of the income, leaving the landlord at its mercy as to the amount it will assess his property.

The figures given by the Record and Guide were printed rather to point to the necessity of reform of the system of taxation than as justification of abnormal increase of rentals. And on the question of tax reform this publication will continue to be heard from frequently.

to make it the focalized center of all our foreign trade activities.

"The Grand Central Palace will become in this spirit the home of a Commercial Union of Nations, a formal association as definite as 'The League to Enforce Peace,' the objects of which will be to foster reciprocal international trade relations, the establishment of international customs tariffs, standardization of merchandise, the promotion of international legislation affecting trade relations and of international good will and co-operation. It will investigate international market requirements and international natural resources. It will tabulate international exporters and importers for the service of buyers and sellers and disseminate information on these subjects. International trade marks and patents will be listed and international financial investigations made and kept on file. In other words, the Commercial Union of Nations will become the connecting link between the already organized trade associations of the entire world.

"In conjunction with this will be operated the Allied Club, an international club affording all of the usual and some very unusual club privileges to its members who will be foreign and domestic importers and exporters, brokers, bankers, lawyers, shipping men and commercial agents. Membership in this club will include all of the proposed branches at London, Paris, Milan, Brussels, Lisbon, Shanghai and Tokio.

"Through the Club's information bureau, its members will be entitled to use of all the data gathered by the Commercial Union of Nations, and when in New York to the use of the club rooms, conference rooms and reading rooms, writing rooms and library, together with the great convention room and banquet hall. It is rather absurd that there is no place in New York, other than some hotel, for great gatherings of world business men assembled in a spirit of co-operation.

"The World's Fair will be opened in 1920-21 and will operate for the first two years in New York, and thereafter every third year, alternating with London and Paris. This will occupy seven of the twelve floors of the Grand Central Palace for a period of three months, showing the products of representative international industries and bringing together the world's leading manufacturers and buyers, regardless of whether they are associated with the Allied Industries Corporation or not. One thousand of these will be invited to visit the Fair as the guests of the Allied Industries Corporation, and this gathering will resolve itself into the first International Trade Convention to consider international trade problems.

"Other expositions will follow in their turn, so that throughout each year there will be a succession of these modern educators—one dealing with goods 'Made in U. S. A.' and intended to popularize that mark; another with seasonable exhibits of domestic goods and still another to be known as 'The World's Wants Exhibit,' to educate American manufacturers and others in the raw products of the world and the uses to which they may be put.

"Permanently the Grand Central Palace will be the executive offices of the Allied Industries Corporation and its activities as the central selling organization for the manufacturers and producers of the world, and also for the French-American Constructive Corporation, the function of which is to assist in the rebuilding of certain sections of devastated France when hostilities happily shall have closed.

"Together with all of this, there will of necessity be the conduct of the broadcast campaign of education possible to promote, beyond the immediate reach of the influence of the Grand Central Palace, the principles of good will and international understanding generated there. This influence is to be made to radiate as widely as possible through a comprehensive system of public education through the co-operation of other associations, by its own publications, and, it is hoped, through the friendly co-operation of the press which will interpret these various activities in their full significance.

"This is the work we must set out to do to gain for America its fair quota of World Trade but by methods which we believe are in harmony with the thoughts of those nations which are to-day allied in opposition to another method which is passing.

"The general plans laid down for the Allied Industries Corporation are formulated to co-operate very closely with the various domestic and foreign Trade Bureaus of our Government and to work in harmony with the various International Foreign Trade Bureaus of the Allied and neutral Governments."

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

Vendee's Duty to Examine Title.

IT is the duty of the purchaser of land on receiving an abstract of title to examine it within a reasonable time and to point out the defects and requirements so as to give the vendor an opportunity to have them corrected. This rule also applies to making a further examination of the abstract after the vendor has in good faith attempted to cure all defects pointed out and asserts that he had done so by a new or supplemental abstract. Higgins v. Engleton, 155 N. Y. 406. Hobson v. Lenox (Mo.) 201 S. W. 964.

Agreement to Approve Alterations.

A lessor agreed that all plans for alterations should be submitted to and be approved by the lessor before any alteration was made, and that on the breach of any of the conditions of the lease the lessor might obtain possession by an amicable action and confession of judgment in ejectment. The lessor sold the reversion and the lessee made improvements, consent of the owner. There was evidence that the owner's refusal was capricious and solely to enable him to forfeit the lease. The Pennsylvania Supreme Court holds, Williams v. Notopoulos, 103 Atl. 290, that the owner was not entitled to judgment.

Abstract Showing Marketable Title.

Specific performance of a contract for the sale of land is not a matter of strict right, and whether it will be ordered is a question for consideration. Where a vendor agreed to furnish an abstract showing marketable title, the Michigan Supreme Court holds, Bradway v. Miller, 167 N. W. 15, that specific performance of a contract to purchase will not be decreed where the title shown by the abstract contained defects; for if the title was good, the vendor would probably suffer only the inconvenience of delay, while if it was bad the purchaser might suffer loss. It was not a compliance with the agreement that other facts showed the vendor to have a title good in law, though not in record, such as title by adverse possession.

Parol Agreement for Future Tenancy.

The Ohio Supreme Court holds that a parol agreement made by a landlord and tenant in possession under an existing lease, prior to the expiration of such lease, for a tenancy in futuro from and after the original lease, may be repudiated by either party before it has been validated by possession taken thereunder. Notice by the landlord to the tenant, after the parol agreement has been entered into, that he desires possession of the premises at a time prior to the time fixed for the tenancy by the parol agreement, is a repudiation of such an agreement.—Buschman Co. v. Garfield Realty Co., 119 N. E. 142.

Assumption of Mortgage Debt.

The California Supreme Court holds, Andrews v. Robertson, 170 Pac. 1129, that a promise at the time the parties met to carry out an existing enforceable agreement by exchange of lands on the part of one that he would protect the other against a certain mortgage constituted no part of the consideration for the grant, and imposed no personal liability for the mortgage debt; there being no new consideration. Such a promise was a mere voluntary promise without binding effect. The validity of a promise by a grantee of a mortgagor to such mortgagor to assume the mortgage debt, where there is no new and independent consideration, is based upon the theory that such assumption in some way constitutes a part of the consideration for the grant.

Revocation of Broker's Authority.

The Texas Court of Civil Appeals holds, Binder v. Millikin, 201 S. W. 239, that when the agent turns aside from his plain duty and seeks individual advantage inconsistent with the rights of his principal, his authority is automatically destroyed and the agency revoked. A purchaser secretly agreed with the vendor's agent that the agent should become a partner in the purchase and that a contract should be signed by which the security of the vendor would be greatly impaired. The court held that a fraud was thereby perpetrated upon the vendor stopping the purchaser from asserting any claim for misrepresentation of the agent made prior to such partnership agreement.

Delivery of Deeds—Conditions.

Where the vendors who understood that a payment for land should be in cash, on finding that the purchaser was not prepared to make such payment, executed the deed, contending that it should be held in escrow for two days, when payment was to be made, the vendors may, in the event of the purchaser's failure to make payment on or before the expiration of the time limited, rescind the contract. A deed takes effect only from its delivery; and where a deed is placed in the hands of a third person as an escrow, the grantee is only entitled to its delivery on a strict compliance with the terms of the agreement, which was clearly a condition precedent to its delivery. It is the rule that the performance of the condition of an escrow must be absolute and accurate, and cannot be dispensed with on any otherwise substantial performance. The evidence in the case indicated that the grantors wanted the cash at once, and there was nothing to indicate that a payment in a reasonable time would satisfy them. Time was an essential matter with them, and was of the essence of the contract.—Grimm v. Williams, Texas Civil Appeals, 200 S. W. 1119.

Owner's Liability to Adjoining Owner.

Under New York Building Code, §230, subd. 3 b, providing that, where the excavation is not, or is not intended to be, more than 10 feet in depth, the owner of the wall, building or structure, the safety of which may be affected, shall preserve the same from injury, and for that purpose may enter upon the excavated land, the New York Appellate Division holds that the excavating owner is not liable, in the absence of negligence, for injury to a wall, building, or structure on adjoining land. But where the excavating owner practically took possession of the adjoining owner's yard, and thus by his trespass deprived her of the beneficial enjoyment of that part of her premises, the excavating owner's exercise of due care was no defense.

Condemnation Award.

The Maine Supreme Judicial Court holds that a utility company which has begun proceedings to condemn land for its site, an award of damages having been made and confirmed, without appeal therefrom, could not thereafter abandon the proceedings, the property owner having acquired a vested right in the award.—York Shore Water Co. v. Card, 102 Atl. 321.

Building Restrictions—"Houses."

The Missouri Supreme Court holds, Bolin v. Tyrol Inv. Co., 200 S. W. 1050, that an apartment house containing six dwelling apartments is a house within the meaning of the term as used in a restriction covenant, providing that not more than one such dwelling "house" shall be erected on each 50 feet front of the lot, and is not six houses.

Abrogation of Option to Purchase.

The New Jersey Court of Chancery holds, Thommen v. Smith, 103 Atl. 25, that an option to purchase contained in a lease is not abrogated by the parties making a purchase agreement containing different terms of payment which they later abandoned by mutual consent, and thereafter continued to pay and receive rentals under the lease.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Loft and apartment structures figure in sales of quiet week. Leasing continues good.

LOFT buildings and apartment houses figured in what few sales were consummated this week. That property in the former retail shopping district is again being looked upon as desirable, is evidenced in the sale of the 12 story store and loft structure at 43-5-7 West 16th street sold by Hugh E. O'Reilly to the Nason Realty Company, Max M. Nathanson, president. The selling price in understood to have been about $265,000.

Another loft building in the same section was acquired by Metcalf Brothers & Co., woolen commission merchants who bought from Ira A. Kipp, Jr., the 12 story loft building at 45-47 East 20th street. Metcalf Brothers & Company evidently intend entering the real estate field more extensively, since they have formed the 45 East 20th Street Company under which they will take title to the property which was purchased as an investment.

Downtown business property continues to attract buyers, the most recent sale being that of the modern 6-story fire proof loft building at 25-27 West Houston street, sold by L. Tannenbaum-Strauss & Co. for the United States Trust Co. This property was foreclosed by the trust company in 1915 and its sale this week makes the third time that these brokers have sold it. The first sale was of the land in 1891 for $91,500 and the second sale of a new building and land for $225,000 in 1893.

To meet constantly increasing demands for apartments of small suites which, since the beginning of the war, have become very scarce, the 64 West 77th Street Corporation, Lewis Cowan, pres., has purchased from the Finn Holding Corporation, 64 West 77th street, at the southeast corner of Columbus avenue, a 7-story elevator apartment building with several stores. This building will be reconstructed into apartments of small suites with kitchenette, will have two elevators and every modern improvement. Brokers predict an unusual active period in the reconstruction of private houses and other structures into buildings capable of providing small apartments. A striking example of this being the transformation of the private dwelling at 19 East 56th street by the Payson McMerrill Co., Inc., into street and parlor floor stores and apartments with all up-to-date devices of one and two large rooms and bath. When it is taken into consideration that an expenditure of less than $13,000 for the work of reconstruction, this building will rent in its new form for nearly $14,000 as against $4,500 that it would bring in its old condition as a property dwelling, the wisdom of such reconstruction is manifest.

On Washington Heights, Frederick Brown, the operator, bought from Isaac Meyer the two 5-story buildings at 502-6 West 173rd street, between Amsterdam and Audubon avenues, held at $120,000.

Another apartment house property figuring in the sales of the week was that of the 5-story structure at 3246 Kingsbridge avenue which has accommodations for 32 families and was held at $70,000. A five story apartment house accommodating forty families at 318 and 322 Haven avenue was purchased by A. Joachim, a retired commission merchant, as an investment. This property was held at $127,000 and was sold by the Chas. Hensell Construction Company and was one of four houses completed by the selling company on Haven avenue.

Paramount in the leases of the week was that of the five-story hotel covering the block front on 8th avenue between 58th street and Columbus Circle and occupied since its completion about 15 years ago by Pabst, which has been leased for a long term by Walter J. Solomon. The fact that the property is now leased for a period of twenty-one years and still has two years to run is taken as an evidence that property in this section will be in great demand a few years hence. The International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. has taken space on the fourth and fifth floors in the old Renaissance Hotel at the southwest corner of Fifth avenue and 43d street recently converted into store and office building by William Ziegler. The International Committee leased last January in the Equitable Trust Building on Madison avenue and 45th street, 7 floors, but they are no longer spacious enough to take care of the ever increasing war activities of the committee and the latest rental is expected to provide sufficient space to take care of the committee's work for some time to come.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 15 as against 20 last week and 13 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 7 as compared with 8 last week and 3 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 8, as compared with 12 last week and 10 a year ago.

From the Bronx 13 sales at private contract were reported as against 12 last week and 7 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 252 of this issue.

realty. The property in question, a twelve-story store and loft structure, covering a plot 65x92 at 43, 45 and 47 West 16th street, was sold by Hugh E. O'Reilly to the Nason Realty Company, Max M. Natanson, president. The sale is said to have been consummated for a price approximating $265,000. The seller originally owned the site, which he sold in 1911, together with three dwellings, to the Hasco Building Company, Lorne A. Scott, president. The latter improved the plot from plans by Walter Harfeli, at an estimated cost of $225,000, and sold it back to Mr. O'Reilly in an exchange transaction in the following year, which included the five-story front and rear tenements at 87 Monroe street. The property just sold faces St. Francis Xavier Church and the home of the Greenwich Savings Bank at the corner of Sixth avenue. A few weeks ago the structure was partly damaged by fire and was purchased as is by the Nason Company; which will restore the property.

To Convert Apartment Building.

Finn Holding Corporation has sold to the 64 West 77th Street Corporation, Louis Cowan, president, Finn L. Fossum, treasurer, 64 West 77th street, southeast corner of Columbus avenue, overlooking Manhattan Square and the grounds of the Museum of Natural History, a seven story elevator apartment building, with several stores, on lot 50x102. The new interests have filed plans for the reconstructions of the building into apartments of small suites with kitchenettes. The building will have two elevators and will contain every modern improvement. The facade will be of stone and brick and the store fronts on the avenue entirely modernized. To assist in overcoming the servant problem, the owners will provide maid service with each apartment. The building will be completed and ready for occupancy by October 15. The new interests are the owners and builders of the Hotel Alexandria, a fifteen story structure completed last October.

Sale of Bronx Apartment.

Bernard Noonan purchased from the Ulster Court Corporation, Joseph G. Abramson, president, the five-story apartment house at 3246 Kingsbridge avenue, on a plot 50 by 125. This property, which contains thirty-two apartments showing an annual rent return of $9,500, was held at $70,000. In part payment the buyer gave the new building on Linden avenue, Nepperhan Heights, Yonkers, occupying a plot 150 by 100, and two corners each 100 by 100, on Linden avenue at Marlborough road and Morningside road, the entire plot and building being free and clear and held at $20,000. Hiram T. Wood was the broker.

Investor Buys Apartment.

Rembrandt Court, a five-story apartment house, accommodating forty families, on a plot 75x119, at 318 to 322 Haven avenue, was purchased as an investment by A. Joachim, a retired shoe merchant. The property, held at $120,000, was sold by the Charles Hensle Construction Company, and is one of four houses the company completed on Haven avenue, one of which, 306 to 310, was sold last December to Bert L. Haskins, vice-president of the Chatham-Phoenix National Bank. C. J. Elgar was the broker in both transactions.

Merchants Buy Loft Building.

Metcalf Brothers & Co., woolen commission merchants, have purchased the twelve-story loft building, on plot 50x92, at 45 to 47 East 20th street, from Ira A. Kipp, jr., who acquired the property about six years ago, subject to a mortgage of $240,000, held by William Ziegler, jr. The new owners have formed the 45 East 20th Street Company, under which they will take title to the property, which was purchased as an investment.

Sell Downtown Loft Building.

L. Tannenbaum, Strauss & Co. have sold for the United States Trust Company to one of their clients the modern six-story fireproof loft building, 25-7 West Houston street, size 50x100, which was foreclosed by the Trust Company in 1915. This is the third time that this firm of brokers sold this property. The first sale was of the land in 1891 for $91,500 and the second sale of a new building and land for $225,000 in 1893 at which period the building was rented for $16,000 and the first mortgage $120,000 held by the United States Trust Company which was reduced to $80,000 prior to foreclosure proceedings.

Operator Buys on Heights.

On Washington Heights Frederick Brown bought from Isaac Mayer the two five-story buildings at 502 and 506 West 173d street, between Amsterdam and Audubon avenues. The structures, which house forty families and cover a plot 100 by 100, have been held at $120,000. Harry J. Rogers was the broker.

Land Company Buys in Newark.

Through the offices of Feist & Feist, Inc., of Newark, N. J., the American Investment Co. have sold one of their central properties, located at 21-23 Central avenue to the Fuller Land & Improvement Co., of Philadelphia. The property is on the north side of Central avenue and has a frontage on the street of fifty feet and a depth of one hundred feet, on which is erected a large, gray stone, old fashioned mansion. The present property will probably be wrecked in the very near future and the Fuller Land & Improvement Co. will then begin the erection of a substantial and modern commercial building. The property lies midway between Broad and Halsey streets and is in what is known as one of the best sections of the city for specialty shop purposes. It is anticipated that the new structure will be ready for occupancy early next year. This property was held by the former owners at $100,000. The American Investment Co. were represented in this transaction by John C. Eisele, of Eisele & King, and the Fuller Land & Improvement Co. interests were taken care of by J. C. Fuller, of Philadelphia.

Edgemere Auction Sale.

At the sale of Edgemere property last Saturday afternoon and evening, houses sold from $2,350 to $6,975 to the following purchasers: C. W. Yates, Peter Tessler, Sarah Bernard, Mrs. Allen, C. V. Ruland, Aaron Lubell. Lot buyers were: Herman Brash, Peter Tessler, C. V. Allen, Wm. A. Allen, Elizabeth S. Hurwitz, Max Lehrer, W. A. Yates. The sale was conducted by Chas. S. Gerth, Alfred H. Wagg, Lewis H. May, associated, and will be continued Saturday, Aug. 31, afternoon and evening.

- VII. 16 lots in Jamaica, on Queens Boulevard and Maple St., near Hillside Av.

NOTE. The Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Co. is extremely conservative in loaning on vacant property, generally limiting any such loan to 10% of the value. For one reason or another, it has accumulated the above properties. It is not in the real estate business and, like every really great financial institution, adopts the policy of disposing of the collateral it is obliged to take over—if necessary at a loss that to the average real estate operator would be prohibitive.

The character of the parcels reflects the conservatism of the company, for they are all in active sections and close to stations of the "Dual Subway System."

In order to make this auction a popular offering, all lots (excepting the Shore Road plot) may be paid for in MONTHLY INSTALMENTS; or on purchases of over $1,000, two-thirds may remain on mortgage. On the Shore Road plot 75% may remain on mortgage.

ALL TITLES ARE INSURED to purchasers without expense to them by the Title Guarantee & Trust Co.

With the exception of the Shore Road plot, all parcels will be sold in lots. Illustrated book maps and additional information from

The five-story hotel covering the block front on Eighth avenue, between 58th street and Columbus Circle, occupied by Pabst's since its completion about fifteen years ago by Albert Flake, who up to his death was a partner of Robert E. Dowling, has been leased for a long term by Walter J. Salomon. The lease, which was made for the present owner, Mrs. Nellie Flake, by William P. Mangan, of S. Osgood Pell &amp; Company, is for a period of twenty-one years, operating from the expiration of the present contract, which terminates about two years hence. The hotel, which was completed by Flake &amp; Dowling along with the Majestic, now the Park Theatre, has a frontage of 40.8 feet on Eighth avenue, 100 feet on 58th street, facing Reisenweber's, and 115.4 on the Circle. The taxpayer stores to the west of the entrance to the theatre, known as 8, 9, and 10 Columbus Circle, have also been leased under the above contract by Mr. Salomon, who about fifteen years ago developed out of a series of old tenements and dwellings the present Thoroughfare Building, now owned by Jacob Wertheim, and comprising the block bounded by Broadway, Eighth avenue, 57th, and 58th streets.

Y. M. C. A. Leases More Space.

Apparently the seven floors which the international committee of the Y. M. C. A. leased last January in the Equitable Trust Building at Madison avenue and Forty-fifth street are no longer large enough to take care of the ever increasing war activities of the committee, for it was learned today that it has taken space on the fourth and fifth floors in the old Renaissance Hotel, southwest corner of Fifth avenue and Forty-third street, recently converted into store and office building by William Ziegler. There are more than 12,000 square feet in the quarters just taken. The lease, made with the Park Avenue Operating Company, J. Curry Watson, president, is said to be for three and a half years and calls for a yearly rental of about $30,000. The work of the international committee assumed such proportions with America's participation in the war that it was decided last January to bring the various departments, then housed in seven different buildings, under one roof and the Madison avenue lease followed.

Belgian Relief Leases in Newark.

Through the Factory Department of Feist &amp; Feist, Inc., of Newark, N. J., the Commission for Relief in Belgium have just leased for a term of years a warehouse in Newark, which will be the main distributing station for the Relief Commission in the United States, before shipping to various points. The building just taken was originally occupied by the Gould &amp; Eberhardt Company, and is located at the corner of New Jersey, Railroad avenue and Green street, and was more recently rented to the McGann Company. The property has a frontage on New Jersey Railroad avenue of some 250 feet, and on Green street of about 200 feet. Erected on the plot is a four-story, steel and brick constructed building, having an unusual amount of carrying capacity, and covering an area of 60,000 square feet. This building will be used for reconstruction work and shipping. Possession will be taken at once, and after a few minor improvements are made the commission will employ in the neighborhood of 100 to 150 hands in the conduct of their relief work. Newark was decided upon by the commission as a central point of distribution by reason of its nearness to all the main piers, as well as being a central point for all the big trunk lines of the United States. All of the clothing, shoes, and other merchandise that is collected for the commission throughout the United States will be sent to Newark before being finally shipped. The Commission for Relief in Belgium were represented in this transaction by H. C. Hoodnel, Director for the United States and B. C. Hempel, treasurer, and F. W. Arrowsmith. The McGann Company interests were taken care of by J. T. McGann, president and general manager of the company.

GOOD WILL

The Advertiser's Priceless Asset

NO matter what effect this war may have upon your business, there is one thing you cannot afford to lose—the GOOD WILL which has been created by your advertising

Material things may be replaced, GOOD WILL once lost is gone forever, or at least can be restored only by years of effort and the outlay of much money.

The Record and Guide will keep your name, your product and your trade-mark before a 100 per cent buying class at a cost small in proportion to results. Its advertising columns are the gateway to a fertile field. The purchasing power exercised by its readers is a factor you cannot afford to overlook.

You may not be able to meet the present demand for your product, nor to secure the raw material. Neither of these facts, however, constitutes a logical argument for permitting the public to forget your name, your product or your trade-mark.

The business concern which maintains its publicity for the sake of that priceless asset, GOOD WILL, alone, will be infinitely better off after the war than the concern which takes down its sign.

Let us serve you. We can plan an effective campaign for you that will justify your outlay on a GOOD WILL basis.

BELLE DE COSTA GREEN, librarian for J. P. Morgan, is the buyer of the residence at 123 East 38th st, sold recently by Charles E. Rhineland.

METCALF BROTHERS & CO. are the buyers of the loft building 45 to 47 East 20th st. The property was purchased for investment from Ira A. Kip, Jr.

McDOWELL & McMAHON have been appointed agents for the building known as the "Atlanta" at the northwest corner of 178th st and Amsterdam av.

MARY MARGARET is the buyer of the taxpayer at the northeast corner of 6th av and 9th st, sold last week by R. S. Elliott, and held at $100,000. In part payment the buyer gave the private dwelling 65 West 52d st.

DOUGLAS L. ELLIMAN & CO. announce their appointment as managing agents of the 13-story apartment building at 969 Park av, northeast corner 82d st, by the owners, Randolph Walker Corp., John H. Randolph, president.

FRANK D. VEILLER, real estate broker, has entered the service of the Government and is temporarily stationed in Washington. He has discontinued his office at 10 East 47th st for the duration of the war, after which he will re-establish himself in the real estate business.

CITY CLERK P. J. SCULLY has been requested by Robert L. Moran, vice-chairman of the Board of Aldermen, to place the report of the Police Department on vacant apartments in this city in the hands of the Deputy Clerk in each borough, with instructions to aid apartment seekers in securing information they may wish concerning the vacancies listed.

Apprentices in England.

A new scheme of apprenticeship in the building trade was some time ago unanimously adopted at a conference convened by the London Advisory Committee for Juvenile Employment. The conference was between representatives of the Institute of Builders and of the Building Trades Organizations. The object was to regulate the method of entry into the trade, and to provide proper means for training. All apprentices are to be bound for a period of five or six years. If, however, a boy has satisfactorily completed a two years' course at a day technical school where instruction is given on the lines of the Bristol School of Building and has obtained a certificate of proficiency from the principal, the period so spent is to count as part of the apprenticeship and the apprentices will start at the third year's rate of wages.

The training is to be of two kinds, in the workshop and on the job. The employer must see that every opportunity shall be given the boy to learn the trade to which he has been apprenticed. In the continuation school all apprentices who have not obtained a certificate from a day technical school shall be bound during the first two years of apprenticeship to attend such during the employer's time for one whole day or two half days every week, or a minimum of six school hours, as may be found most convenient to the employer. This is without deduction from wages. The apprentice is further bound to attend evening school for two evenings each week while the schools are open.

All apprentices during the third and fourth year of their apprenticeship shall be bound to attend technical classes for two evenings each week while the schools are open. All apprentices shall be encouraged to qualify for the Institute medals and award.

How the Ancient Built Walls.

The statement is frequently made that the ancient Romans used concrete freely, and that their work has lasted perfectly down to the present day. The impression that is sought to be conveyed by all such statements is that the concrete was precisely similar to that we are using now, and consequently is an argument for the durability of some of our cheap construction. Every one who has looked into the subject with any thoroughness knows, of course, that the Romans faced their walls with stone, and merely used a core, or filling, of cement and spalls, says Stone. This is far different from our concrete poured into removable forms. C. R. Peers, chief inspector of ancient monuments and historic buildings in Great Britain, delivered an interesting address on "The Care of Ancient Monuments," recently. Among other things, Mr. Peers said:

We are accustomed to hear comparisons drawn between the work of former ages and our own, not to our own advantage. This is by no means always fair. There has been good and bad building in all ages, and in the course of nature more of the bad buildings have perished than of the good, and in consequence the achievement of any period which has left an appreciable number of works is liable to be judged on too favorable a ground. Even in such Roman buildings as are left there is no uniform standard of merit.

The Roman tradition of building with two faces and a core was continued in the Middle Ages, but often with none of the care and thoroughness which was necessary for its success. In the eleventh century, at any rate, the core in many instances was little more than earth and building rubbish packed in between wrought stone faces, these latter in small stones with shallow beds. Such walls would stand no great weight and were also particularly sensitive to any foundation movement or lateral stress, having no natural strength.

In a small building, where stresses are neither great nor complex, a weather-proof wall face protecting a weak core will often serve well enough for the time, but the ruin or reconstruction of many of our medieval buildings has followed the adoption of such a principle. Walls were pointed in tolerable lime mortar, but built in nothing but clay, and as long as the pointing was able to keep the weather out, they were able to do the work for which they had been designed. But if, through any settlement or stress, a fracture developed, the masonry had no power of resistance, but fell away and became fit for nothing but pulling down, for lack of sound walling to which to bond a repair. It will easily be seen that it is almost impossible to strengthen such a wall so as to prolong its existence appreciably without destroying its character, considering that its character is the very source of its weakness.

Efficiency of Wooden Joints.

Tests of the efficiency of various types of wooden joints were made during the past year by the Forest Products Laboratory maintained by the United States Department of Agriculture. About three thousand nail-pulling tests were completed on nails driven into twenty-five different species of American timbers. While the data has not been analyzed, it appears that the holding power of nails has a definite relationship to the density of the wood, and that there is practically no difference in strength between a solid beam and a wooden beam of the same dimensions made of two planks nailed together.

Estimate of Acreage.

When one person says to another, in an exchange of lands, "I have 3/4 acres or more," or, in a large body of land, that "I have 374 acres and maybe 400," or that "I think," or "I believe I have," it is tantamount, for all practical purposes, to an express notice that he does not know the number of acres, and is only expressing an opinion, or giving an estimate. It can make no difference how positively one may express his opinion or belief, for he may have a confident opinion and a strong belief, yet he may not know, and he is not guilty of fraud in expressing such opinion. To be liable, in this character of action, he must, with intent to defraud, represent the matter spoken of to be a fact, when he knows it is not, or does not know whether it is or not.—Torbitt v. Hayes (Mo.), 196 S. W. 788.

Brooklyn has 201 miles of waterfront and Queens is second with 196, Bronx third with 68. Richmond has 57 miles, and Manhattan 55, the total waterfront of the city is about 577 miles.

The American Museum of Natural History was incorporated in 1869. It is governed by a self-perpetuating board of twenty-five trustees who hold office for five years, and by the Mayor, the Comptroller and the President of the Park Board, who serve as trustees ex-officio.

BLISS SERVICE

BLISS Exterminator Service is essential in the modern apartment house, private residence and every office building where vermin can exist.

The maintenance cost of Bliss Service is so small that not even the moderate-priced apartment house should be without it. Tenants demand it, not only on grounds of cleanliness and sanitation, but because they themselves cannot satisfactorily solve the vermin problem.

Free demonstration to owners or agents—no money in advance and satisfaction guaranteed.

Concrete Mixtures.

THE strength and density of concrete are dependent upon correct proportioning of all materials. Strength, of course, depends upon using clean, hard, durable sand and broken stone or pebbles, while density depends largely upon correct proportioning.

Proportioning of materials must be such that the cement will coat every particle of sand, and the cement mortar will coat every pebble or particle of broken stone and be slightly in excess of what is actually required to fill the air spaces or voids in the mass. Unless these conditions are secured the concrete will be porous, and hence not watertight.

The generally recommended mixtures and the types of concrete construction to which they apply are herewith appended. The figures represent the volume of material used—1 being generally taken as a cubic foot. The first

Reduce Tenement Construction in New Jersey

Statistics Compiled by State Board of Tenement House Supervision Show Marked Decrease During Current Year

UNDOUBTEDLY it would be difficult to obtain a more potent or convincing manifestation of the serious shortage of housing accommodations that exists, as a result of the recession in building construction in the United States during the past two years than the table of comparative statistics recently compiled by the New Jersey Board of Tenement House Supervision. These statistics show in detail the number of plans for new tenement houses and alterations to existing ones, approved by the Board during the first six months of 1915, 1916, 1917 and 1918. In addition are shown the number of families provided for in each project and the total amount scheduled to be expended in the erection or alteration of these buildings.

The degree to which the marked drop in the number of new structural projects has effected the housing situation is best evidenced by the fact that Federal assistance has been solicited by municipalities in all parts of the United States. That the conditions have been felt in New Jersey cities to a degree in excess of that experienced in many other congested communities, is particularly marked by the recent urgent demand for housing accommodations which has resulted in a number of the most prominent cities of the commonwealth making application to the Federal Government for immediate relief from their housing difficulties.

Elizabeth, Bayonne, New Brunswick, Camden and other large cities that are leaders in industrial activity, have become so congested since the beginning of the war, that plans have been formulated and in some instances contracts placed and work started upon Federal housing projects, to provide the relief that the stoppage of private and speculative building operations made essential to the welfare of the respective communities.

According to the figures compiled by the New Jersey State Board of Tenement House Supervision 1916 was the banner year, as during that year plans were approved for a total of 404 new tenement houses, providing living accommodations for 3,666 families and representing a total expenditure of $5,808,000. The year 1915 was second in importance, having plans filed with the Board for 418 new multi-family projects designed to house 3,227 families at an estimated cost of $5,290,000. Beginning with January 1, 1917, there was a distinct falling off in both the number and cost of tenement house projects in the State and the first six months of that year shows a total of 203 plans approved for new structures, including accommodations for 1,935 families and costing approximately $3,804,000. The figures for the first half of the current year are almost discouraging, as they have dropped to the lowest ebb on record in the department. From January 1 to July 1, 1918, only 65 plans for new projects in New Jersey were approved, supplying homes for 818 families and estimated to cost $1,793,000.

Although tenement house alteration projects largely follow the trend of new operations the decline is not quite so sharp in the comparison of the four years. During 1915, alteration plans were approved for 157 projects, housing 716 families and costing $165,700; in 1916, there were 145 plans approved, housing 675 families and costing $164,500; in 1917, the approved plans numbered 145, accommodating 688 families to cost about $137,900 and in 1918, the total was for 103 alteration plans approved, providing for 531 families and costing $136,000.

That the great decline in the volume of tenement house construction has materially affected the building markets of New York is easily seen when it is realized that in the most prosperous times the largest part of structural activity of this character is closely confined to the territory contiguous to greater New York and draws a large portion of its materials and labor from the markets of the Metropolis.

Bayonne, Jersey City, Hoboken, Weehawken, Newark, the Oranges, Elizabeth, Paterson, Passaic and Harrison in the past have all experienced considerable tenement house construction and it has been in these very centers that the recession has been the most apparent.

Newark is an excellent example of the manner in which tenement house construction has fallen off during the past four years, as shown by the statistics for the first six months of each year. In 1915, new plans were approved for 104 projects, to house 776 families and to cost $1,204,000; in 1916, approved plans amounted to 47, accommodating 413 families and costing $759,000; in 1917, a total of 27 plans were sanctioned for 265 families, costing about $561,000, and in 1918, the number dropped to 14 plans approved by the Board, providing for 232 families and costing in the neighborhood of $467,000.

Orange, Paterson and Passaic are equally fine examples of the recent status of speculative and investment building in New Jersey. The drop is practically the same as is shown by the Newark figures, the only difference being that, during the first six months of the present year, no plans were presented to the Board for its approval.

Throughout the State of New Jersey the falling off in the construction of tenement and apartment houses has been general and in no instance has the current year shown an increase over the figures of previous years. Furthermore, the ratio of decrease in the various communities has been about the same in all cases, indicating conditions of a similar character in all sections of the commonwealth.

Atlantic City is practically the only large city outside of the Metropolitan district that could be considered an important center of apartment house construction. Here, as in communities in closer proximity to the Metropolitan district, the recession in tenement house construction has been rapidly declining. Of the past four years, 1916 was undoubtedly the best from the speculative builder's viewpoint, as during that year a total of 12 plans for new tenement houses were approved by the State Board, providing living quarters for 154 families and costing $294,000. The figures for 1915 were about fifty per cent. lower than for 1916, but were infinitely greater than those for the current year, when during the first six months only 2 plans were approved, accommodating 9 families and costing but $30,000.

Of the 66 communities in the State of New Jersey which, during the past four years have been the scene of tenement house construction in a greater or lesser degree, only 19 have experienced activity of this character in the first six months of 1918, the remaining 47 being entirely without representation among operations of this type.

Alterations Increase Income

TO increase the rental income of a building by nearly three hundred per cent. at an outlay of considerably less than the first year's income after alteration and to complete the transformation of a brownstone high stoop dwelling into a modern store and apartment house in less than two months is an accomplishment just completed by the Payson McL. Merrell Company, Inc.

The property in question is the former home of the late N. Cornwall Rogers, for many years a prominent figure in legal circles in this city, at nineteen East Fifty-sixth street. The house was originally a private dwelling, four floors and basement, containing sixteen rooms, the upper floor being cut up into quarters for maids. The house was occupied by Mr. Rogers up to the time of his death a few years ago and was placed in charge of the Payson McL. Merrill Company as rental and managing agents. The improvement of the building was planned by this company and L. B. Smith was the architect commissioned to draw the plans for the alteration. The work of reconstruction was commenced on June 15 and the building will be ready for occupancy on September 1. A dwelling of this character in its original condition would usually rent for about $4,500 per annum. Under its new arrangement of two stores and six apartments of two rooms and bath it will bring when fully occupied a total rental of $13,760, the apartments which are of the non-house-keeping style renting from $780 to $1,400 per annum, according to location and dimensions of the rooms.

Aside from the financial gain to the owners of the property because of the improvement, the operation is a striking example of what can be done in a comparatively short space of time by improving a residence of this type to relieve the housing shortage due to the lack of new apartment buildings.

The managing agents have already received many applications for apartments in the reconstructed buildings and are not at all dubious about renting every apartment within a very short space of time after the alterations are fully completed.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

It has been stated that the War Industries Board recently ruled that for the remainder of the war no additional schoolhouses shall be erected in New York City, but up to yesterday noon no confirmation of the statement has been obtained. Mr. C. B. J. Snyder, architect of the Board of Education of New York City, has prepared working plans for about fifteen new school buildings and alterations and improvements to a number of old structures and this work will involve an outlay of city funds approximating $10,000,000. The matter of obtaining priorities for the materials required in the construction of these buildings has been placed before the Priorities Committee of the War Industries Board and in a telegram to President Somers of the Board of Education received yesterday, it was stated that the subject of priorities for materials and supplies was under advisement by the War Industries Board and that the local authorities would be notified of the decision in a few days.

Should the War Industries Board render a decision adverse to the prompt erection of these most essential buildings the ruling would be a far-reaching one that will undoubtedly apply also to the construction of other public and semi-public structures in all parts of the country and would include in its scope post offices, court houses, police and fire stations and many other buildings that do not come under the classification of projects absolutely essential to the war aims.

With the rulings to the effect that non-essential building operations would not be countenanced during the remainder of the war it is but a natural corollary that there should be a marked falling-off in construction even from the extremely low rate of activity that has lately been evident. Except for required industrial expansion and planning for new operations scheduled for a start after hostilities have ceased and building conditions materially improve, there is but little of interest in the local building situation. A limited volume of speculative work progressing favorably but additional projects of this character are urgently needed to house the growing population of the city.

However, as the fundamental purpose of the Government is to win this war with all possible speed, the requests of the War Industries Board will be heeded by the building industry, no matter what additional difficulties may be involved. During the past two years the building and allied trades have weathered many storms of adversity and have emerged with a better understanding of the meaning of cooperation and coordination, and with high hopes for the future.

Under the circumstances it is but natural that the building material markets should be exceedingly quiet. There is little demand for building commodities except for those going into direct or indirect Federal work. Inquiries have recently dropped to a negligible volume and the prospects for increased activity in the markets for building materials and supplies is not particularly bright. At the same time commodity prices are well maintained and recently some lines have recorded sharp advances. These have been caused by the mounting production costs and not by any increased demand.

Common Brick.—There has been no particularly outstanding feature to the wholesale market for Hudson River common brick during the past week. Prices seem to be almost stabilized at the $13.50 to $14 level and material fluctuations from these figures are not anticipated at present. Arrivals of barges from up-river plants have been somewhat in excess of the sales, which have been light, and as a consequence there is a reserve now accumulating that will have a tendency to hold prices from sharp advances. Conditions at the plants are about the same as they have been. There is no improvement noted in the labor situation, and manufacturers are not at all optimistic for next year unless the Government should come into the market for brick in large quantities. At the present time the only real prospect for increased business for the brick industry is that expected from Federal sources, but so far only rumors instead of tangible orders have been current.

SUMMARY—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, August 30, 1918. Condition of market: Demand light; prices unchanged. quiet. Manufacturers who are equipped are turning their efforts to making fire and chemical brick for war industries. A few brick producers have advanced their prices somewhat, but in the majority of instances current prices are unchanged.

Lumber.—Both wholesale and retail Metropolitan lumber markets have been quiet during the past week. The lumber demand is almost wholly confined to orders and inquiries emanating from Federal sources or from industrial projects directly traced to war activity. Manufacturing consumers have been an important factor in the market, but the demand from this source has slowed down somewhat owing to the curtailment of non-essential industries. The lumber situation as applied to the building industry leaves much to be desired. Orders for private building operations are extremely light and there is no material improvement anticipated by the lumber dealers at present. Some time ago there were prospects of a marked improvement in structural activity, but during the past two or three weeks a number of factors have entered into the situation that have been effective in causing a large number of contemplated projects to be withheld for the time being. Lumber prices are firm without exception and the upward price tendency is still manifest in all departments of trade.

Building Stone.—Lack of demand caused by the scarcity of important structural projects is the dominating feature of the cut stone situation. The producers of building stone are for the greater part marking time and waiting for improved conditions throughout the building industry. Prices are unchanged since last week.

Wire Products.—The Federal authorities recently placed orders for 21,000 tons of plain wire, 2,600 tons of wire rope and approximately 100,000 kegs of wire nails. The major portion of these contracts are designed for the needs of the army in France. Wire mills were recently ordered by the Government to turn out large quantities of shell steel and this is taken to mean that the output of wire and wire nails will be still further curtailed. During the past month or so the mill output has been in the neighborhood of sixty per cent. of capacity and it may now be reduced to thirty-five per cent. or less. At present stocks in the hands of jobbers are at an extremely low ebb and there is no prospect of increased supplies for some time. Official prices for wire products are unchanged: Wire nails, $3.50 base per keg and bright basic wire, $3.35 a hundred pounds.

Portland Cement.—The cement situation is without feature and although producers are busy to the limit of their ability the cement produced is largely being diverted to Government use. Demand for this product from building sources for use in private construction is not particularly brisk and no increased business in this line is anticipated until the structural conditions generally improve. Prices for Portland cement remain unchanged.

Structural Steel.—The shortage of steel has greatly decreased the amount available for building purposes, and according to all accounts there will be little to be had for a long time to come. Government requirements must come before orders for private interests are filled, and at present Federal needs are dominating the steel situation to an extent that will leave practically none of the product for consumption outside of war industries.

Window Glass.—There is but little activity in the glass market. Stocks are light and there is practically no buying except for direct and indirect Government account. There is virtually no current demand from the building trades and this phase of the business is not expected to improve for some time. Up to the present time it has not been determined when glass production will be resumed in the autumn or winter nor is it yet definitely known what action the Government will take regarding glass production during the coming season. Tentatively the second week in December is being considered as the time for resuming manufacturing operations, but as yet no real forecast can be made.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Conditions in this market are without feature. Both buying for direct and indirect Government account have slowed down materially and private business is negligible. Prices are unchanged at $61.75 a ton for 6 in., 8 in., and heavier; $64.75 for 4 in., and $71.75 for 3 in.

Linseed Oil.—There is a marked scarcity of this product which is having a tendency to maintain wholesale prices at their existing high levels.

New Pacific Coast Shipyard.

With the Victory Plant at Squantum completed and boats being launched there every few days, the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation has again turned its attention to further expansion and authorized the construction of a new shipyard located at Alameda, California, near the present plant of the Union Iron Works. Contract for the construction of the plant was awarded to the Aberthaw Construction Co., of Boston, who recently completed the Victory Plant in record time, and who has handled practically all the wartime expansion of the Bethlehem 000,000 exclusive of the present work. The Alameda plant will be the second largest in the United States, exceeding in size only by Hog Island. It will be twice the size of the Victory Plant at Squantum and will involve twice the expenditure. The plant which will be complete for building on ten slips will cover over a third of a square mile and from three to four million yards of dredging will be necessary. Large cargo vessels will be constructed, contracts for which have already been awarded to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation by the United States Shipping Board. The formal opening of the work occurred on August 13 when the first pile was driven and there was a big celebration with addresses by Mayor Green of Alameda, W. H. Ryerson of the Aberthaw Construction Co., Mr. Ely of Monks & Johnson of Boston, the Architects and Engineers, and by several representatives of labor, who pledged their hearty support. 500 men are already on the grounds and it is anticipated that the construction work will require the services of approximately 15,000 men within the next few weeks.

Meeting the Test

Edison Service has always meant conservation. Today, more than ever before, our Waterside Stations are the one means of producing current on a conservation basis

The demand for such electric service grows daily more pressing. Fuel and labor uncertainties grow daily more serious. Only a great organization with resources such as ours can meet the test

Property managements and industries of all types are recognizing this fact in increasing numbers. Let us insure you at once in this vital matter

Many Private Houses East of Central Park Sold

Good Demand This Year for Desirable Residences by People Who Formerly Lived in Apartments

By LAWRENCE B. ELLIMAN of Pease & Elliman.

THE scarcity of well-appointed apartments has led to a movement in real estate that is interesting and significant and which may easily be productive of a great change in conditions in the residence districts of the city. In the section in which my firm operates—south of 96th street and east of Central Park—there has been, since January 1st of this year, a decided demand by our clients for private houses, and a considerable number have been sold to people who formerly lived in apartments or rented houses in this or other uptown neighborhoods. The movement started in a small way, but has grown more important as the season has advanced, and the number of transactions of this character handled by our company and by other brokers has attained such dimensions as to indicate a more than ephemeral or sporadic interest in this class of property.

It is not difficult to find the cause for a growing change in sentiment of the large number of people who can afford to live in dwellings of the more expensive kind away from the jointly occupied apartment building towards the privately owned house.

There is, of course, no comparison between the freedom and exclusiveness of the latter as compared with the former. The introduction of modern conveniences like the private elevator, which puts the house on a par with the apartment so far as facility in reaching any part of the dwelling is concerned, and of the various mechanical devices in the service part of the house reducing manual labor, have minimized many of the objections to the three or four story building as a home.

There is character and exclusiveness in the private house which cannot be successfully emulated by the apartment building, however fine its appointments. Especially is it true that the private house affords the better location for social affairs, and notwithstanding the great improvement recently made in the planning of apartments there is no doubt that in the house the social and living rooms are more effectually segregated from the service departments.

But while these considerations are now doing their share towards bringing back recognition of the desirability of the privately owned house they are not new, but are only effective because other things have allowed their claims to be brought forward. What is, of course, the real cause for the renewal of interest in private houses is the lack of apartments such as are usually in demand by our clients, ranging in price from about $2,500 or $3,000 per year up to about $15,000.

Under present war conditions, it is practically out of the question for any builder to erect a large apartment house on account of the uncertainty in getting supplies, building materials and labor, and there will be during the continuance of the war a very great shortage of such accommodations.

Due to this shortage of new buildings, and also due to the fact that private house rentals and sales prices have been radically reduced so that to-day private houses are relatively very much cheaper than apartments, we believe that now is the proper time to lay the facts before owners of private houses in order that they can take advantage of this situation.

In the last few years previous to 1918 there have been built each year in the section referred to an average of twelve to twenty buildings, say, from 300 to 600 apartments counting thirty apartments to the building. With a building program of this extent the supply of apartments kept up fully with the demand, but this year there has been no new building and only one which work was started last year has been thrown open to occupancy. Consequently there has been a great scarcity of apartments to rent.

The demand has been so great and the supply so small that owners have been able to advance rents from 10 to 15 per cent. Incidentally I may say that this does not indicate, nor is it, "profiteering." For one thing it is the working out of the old rule of supply and demand regulating prices. For another and more cogent reason it has been necessary for owners to secure larger incomes to offset the greater operating expenses so that they might obtain suitable returns on their investments.

It can be said without successful controversy that four years ago rents could not have been advanced as they have been during the war period even although the landlords were not being adequately paid for their enterprise in building up the city. There were too many vacancies at that time and tenants could not be forced to pay more than they were accustomed to even if the landlord was out of pocket, but the situation has rectified itself and justly so. At that time the apartment house had tremendous vogue, due to the extraordinary success of the leading architects and builders in designing and perfecting this kind of domicile to the requirements of modern life in a great city. It is not surprising that people were weaned away from the old-fashioned idea that a man's house is his castle to the later dictum that his apartment is his throne room. Certainly some of the modern buildings are regal in their appointments.

There are also a great many people who prefer their own front doors and who wish to feel that they are "lords of all they survey," which is not possible in an apartment house, subject to certain well defined rules which are perfectly proper and necessary for the peace and comfort of a majority of the tenants.

But there was another reason other than the surpassing convenience and good taste of the new apartments that influenced people to move out of private houses into these multiple family buildings, and that was the amazing lack of self-interest displayed by the owners of private houses, whether they lived in them themselves or rented them to tenants. It seemed that when the owner of a building paid the last of the construction bills he felt that he had done all that he was called on to do. Repairs and upkeep had to be forced out of him. Dwellings consequently in time became run down, lost their freshness of appearance and were without the latest contrivances to insure comfort and convenience.

The woman of today wants the best of everything and usually gets it. When her home was behind the times she demanded a modern one, and for the time being the apartment met this demand more completely than any other kind of domicile. But there is no place so pleasant as the modern or modernized private house, and owners of buildings that can put them in perfect order and can install all the latest conveniences have no difficulty in finding purchasers or tenants for them.

Here lies one of our difficulties as brokers. There are many owners of dwellings who would like to rent or sell them who are unwilling to spend any money to put them in presentable condition until they are sure of securing a tenant, or effecting a sale. Now it is almost useless for us to offer a private house to a possible purchaser, except at a bargain price, unless it is in perfect condition. The average woman has little imagination—you have got to show her. It is all right to say to a man that the property is a "good buy," that it will pay him to purchase it and spend money on certain repairs, decorations and improvements and that then his expenses will be cut down from the figure he has been laying out in rent of an apartment; but an argument of that character is useless with a great many women.

Let us suppose that a broker has a woman, customer seeking a place of residence. He shows her a number of private houses on his list, all of which are unoccupied—windows dirty and rooms darkened by the interference with outside lighting; floors not scrubbed; paint cracked; decorations of a prehistoric and badly mutilated character; bathroom impossible; kitchen worse. No matter what picture he presents to his prospective customer of the wonderfully attractive home that can be made out of this building with certain expenditures and the lapse of several weeks time she will not be able to shake off the feeling of disgust that is certain to come over her as she steps daintily, holding up her skirts to avoid the dust, through the cobwebby building.

Then the broker escorts her to a modern apartment house. She enters a marble corridor decked with palms and is gently and safely carried by a luxurious elevator to the floor on which the vacant apartment is located, having seen uniformed and attentive attendants in hall and elevator. She enters the apartment and finds it ready to the minutest detail for immediate occupancy. Floors are polished, paint immaculate, windows clear, decorations in good taste and everything spotlessly clean. No wonder she decides instantly that she wants the apartment—and her husband signs the lease.

It is as if you took your wife to a jeweler and a clerk should show her a lot of second-hand jewels which were undoubtedly great bargains but unmistakably dirty and then took her across to a competitor, where she is shown brilliants that were so partly at least because they were in beautiful, new settings.

Don't, Mr. House-Owner, ask us to sell or rent your house at a fair price unless you first put it in perfect condition. Don't tell us that you will fix it up when we get you a purchaser or tenant. Fix it up first and we will get you a buyer or tenant at a fair figure.

The number of sales since the beginning of the year proves that many people have found that they can buy first class improved real estate at prices that will cut down their living expenses. It is cheaper to own a house in a good location than to pay rent in one of the apartment buildings fitted up on a scale to provide living quarters equal to those which a family has in a private house.

The prices of many good houses are as low as they were 18 years ago, although their intrinsic value is much greater than it has been at any time in the past, due to the phenomenal growth of this great city. Government decisions are of very great advantage to the owner of a home. The income with which you pay rent has to pay the Government Income Tax; whereas, if the investment from which this income is derived is invested in your own house, there will be no income tax from this sum so invested; and furthermore, you will be permitted to deduct the taxes paid on your house, and also any interest on any mortgage from the balance of your income. Therefore, the actual overhead cost of houses to-day, due to their extremely low prices, is really very much less than it has been for a great many years past; and in fact, in many cases, less than the rent which the houses would actually bring under existing conditions.

To show what has been done since January 1st I have had prepared a list of houses sold by us and by other brokers to people for occupancy by themselves. The larger number formerly lived in apartments. A few bought to protect the property they already owned. If the business has been so good in this section—south of 96th street and east of Central Park—it must have amounted to a good-sized figure throughout the city. In this same period of time ten private houses were rented to former occupants of apartments, in addition to the following list of sales in the district mentioned:

No. 855 Fifth avenue purchased by Judge Elbert H. Gary, who owned the adjoining property.

No. 37 West 56th street purchased by Rodman Wanamaker, who formerly lived in an apartment at Sherry's.

No. 14 East 72d street purchased by Morris W. Kellogg, who formerly lived in a rented private house.

No. 21 East 70th street purchased by Gustav Pagenstecher, who formerly lived in an apartment at 129 East 69th street. This property was a vacant lot and is being improved with a private residence.

No. 116 East 65th street purchased by Mrs. C. J. Welch, who formerly lived in a rented private house.

No. 752 Park avenue purchased by W. H. Woodman, who formerly owned 127 East 69th street.

No. 14 East 67th street purchased by Harris Fahnstock to protect his residence in the rear.

No. 8 West 53d street purchased by Charles D. Wetmore, who formerly lived in an apartment at 31st street and Madison avenue.

No. 933 Fifth avenue purchased by Mortimer L. Schiff for the protection of his adjoining property.

No. 39 West 54th street purchased by Dr. Charles A. Holder, who formerly lived in an apartment at 31 East 49th street.

No. 54 East 68th street purchased by Guy R. McLane, who formerly lived in an apartment at 535 Park avenue.

No. 157 East 70th street purchased by Felix T. Rosen, who formerly lived in an apartment at 45 East 62d street.

Propose Eleven Point Reduction in Tax Levy

Budget Committee of Real Estate Board Offers Further Suggestions For Relief of Taxpayers

THE Budget Committee of the Real Estate Board, in making its second weekly statement as to needed economies in city expense, calls the attention of the Board of Estimate to the tremendous estimate of the Board of Education. The amount stated to be required for 1919 is about $50,000,000.

This estimate does not include the amount needed for free college education. In 1906 the amount appropriated for school purposes was $23,358,188.69; in 1911, $29,007,747.14. Seven years later the Board of Education asks for $50,000,000.

The tremendous increase in the number of parochial schools and the establishment of parochial high schools have had no effect in checking the increasing cost of the school system in this city.

Dr. Henry W. Berg, who is an educational expert, has for a number of years analyzed the estimates of the Board of Education and has shown conclusively that thousands of dollars have been wasted on all kinds of fads and that the estimates themselves are based upon incorrect registration and incorrect and improper grading. He has made his yearly protests and has been backed up by the real estate interests of the city, but to no purpose.

The Real Estate Board cannot state within the limits of this article in detail Dr. Berg's objections to the individual items, but submits that there should be no appropriation beyond the amount fixed by law—4-9/10 mills—which would produce about $43,000,000. This amount was fixed by experts as the limit to be expended for school purposes, and is ample to provide for the proper education of our children. As the estimate calls for $50,000,000 this would reduce the proposed budget $7,000,000, or nearly nine points in the tax levy.

To the real estate interests it would seem that no argument was necessary to prove that there is no obligation on the part of the municipal government to give any person a free college education. It might be advisable under certain exceptional circumstances to give students in the lower grades possessing unusual qualifications scholarships, enabling them to take special courses in colleges, if the students were unable financially to take such courses, but to furnish such education yearly to hundreds who can merely qualify is absurd.

Vocational training, properly carried out through systems of apprenticeship in the industry itself, is of the highest value to the community, and should be encouraged by governmental appropriations; but to merely add to the number of lawyers, doctors, engineers or to any of the other overcrowded professions by the use of city money is to injure the city with its own funds.

In addition to this the city is not able financially to give free college education to all who desire such education and should therefore give it to none unless specially qualified. By abolishing Hunter College and the College of the City of New York or charging a tuition fee sufficient to provide for their support and maintenance the city authorities could save two points in the tax levy, or $1,600,000. We feel that we have shown that in the education estimates alone eleven points in the tax levy can be saved.

EDWARD P. DOYLE,
Chairman Budget Committee.

How War Revenue Law Will Affect Real Estate

THE war revenue acts, in accomplishing their purpose of reaching all surplus profits, have had some effects upon the ownership and use of real estate which were not intended. That condition resulted from the attempt to treat real property and its various interests under the provisions which related primarily to mercantile and commercial interests. The redrafting of the war revenue act has given an opportunity to review some of those provisions and the rulings of the Treasury Department thereon. The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests has been in constant touch with the situation during the past summer, and yesterday issued a statement on some of the more important features of its work as follows:

1. Rentals. The new bill taxes rental receipts with other incomes rather than accepting the treasury's proposal for distinguishing between earned and unearned incomes, rents being classed with the latter, which were to be taxed at a higher rate. The committee wisely declined to approve such a classification because of the difficulties of administration. To decide that any income is "unearned" is a difficult task and becomes almost impossible when specific cases are considered. The normal tax on individuals now proposed is 12 per cent. upon the taxable income except that it is 6 per cent. upon the first $4,000 thereof. The surtaxes on incomes up to $150,000 are generally doubled, and there are substantial increases as to the higher incomes, the highest rate being 65 per cent.

2. Additional Incomes Taxed. The new bill includes in taxable income the interest on new obligations of states, territories and political subdivisions issued; also the salaries of the president, judges and all other federal and state officers and employees, and leaves the validity of such taxes to be determined by the courts.

3. Deductible Interest. The pending bill does not allow borrowed money to be included in computation of invested capital for the purpose of the war profits and excess profits taxes, but allows the full amount of interest paid as a deduction in computing net income.

The injustice in the present law which allowed deduction of one-half such interest has become very evident, especially in the case of many real estate corporations which are capitalized low, but which have large mortgage indebtedness.

4. Depreciation. As in the present law, a reasonable allowance may be obtained for the exhaustion, wear and tear of property. A new provision would permit the Treasury Department to allow for amortization in the case of special buildings and machinery for war purposes, but not exceeding in any year 25 per cent. of the net income. No deduction for obsolescence has been allowed under the present law and that rule may be continued. (The Advisory Council has been urged to test the very small percentage now being allowed for annual depreciation, and any person or corporation interested might find it desirable to lay the facts before the council and co-operate with others in that investigation.)

5. Investors or Dealers. Operating companies are being taxed as investors rather than dealers in some cases merely because of an inactive market. (Such rulings are being placed before a special committee of the Advisory Council, and it is suggested that persons or corporations affected should communicate with the council.)

6. Special Taxes and Provisions. The new excise, amusement and other levies in the bill as introduced can hardly be regarded as final. For instance, the beverage taxes are estimated to yield over one billion dollars. If the pending prohibition measure is enacted the great bulk of this amount will probably be covered by new levies on articles consumed, or perhaps a general tax on all sales.

The effect of the pending legislation on state and local revenues will probably be very marked, especially if the state excise taxes are wiped out. The special tax committee of the Advisory Council is finding it necessary to hold its estimates as to the fiscal needs of the city and state in abeyance until the new federal provisions assume their final form.

War Labor Board's Ruling on Wage Question

Decision in Bethlehem Steel Company Case Indicates Attitude of Government Towards Workers Generally

THE National War Labor Board authorizes the following:

The National War Labor Board has rendered its finding in the case of the Bethlehem Steel Co., Bethlehem, Pa.

This decision, one of the most important in many respects which has been reached in the history of the board, grants the workers the right to organize and to bargain collectively, orders the revision or complete elimination of the bonus system now in operation at the plant, the revision of piecework rates, and the establishment of a designated, guaranteed minimum hourly wage rate for some 5,000 machine shop workers in conformity with one of the scales now being applied by the War or Navy Departments; applies the basic eight-hour day with payment of time and half time for all overtime and double time on Sundays and holidays, and provides for just overtime payment to pieceworkers; calls upon the company to pay men and women alike when performing the same work and to allot women no tasks disproportionate to their strength.

It provides that the piecework rates shall be revised by the plant management co-operating with committees of the workers and representatives of the Ordnance Department, which is the department principally interested in the product of the plant; and also that a permanent local board of mediation and conciliation, consisting of six members, three chosen by the company, three by the workers, be established to effect agreements on future disputed points and on disputed points not covered in the award. This board is to be presided over by a chairman to be selected by and to represent the Secretary of War. In addition, an examiner of the War Labor Board is to be assigned to interpret and enforce the award, being specifically instructed to investigate and report to the board upon all charges of discrimination against union men by the company.

Specific wage increases are granted to the 440 electrical workers who made an issue of their wage rates. They demanded increases to 67½ cents an hour for electricians and at least 40 cents an hour for helpers. The board awarded 67½ cents an hour for first-class electricians, 62½ cents for second-class electricians, and 40 cents for helpers. Wages for other workers will be fixed through the system of bargaining and co-operation between the company and the men provided for in the award. Approximately 28,000 workers will be affected by the award.

The case came before the War Labor Board on May 7, following a series of strikes by machinists and electrical workers, and after various Government agencies bent on mediation had exhausted their efforts to effect a settlement. Since that date the War Labor Board has conducted a thorough investigation into the relations of the company and its workers, both by hearings of facts and investigations of conditions. Hearings were first held in Washington by a section of the board composed of Herbert H. Rice, vice president of the General Motors Co., and Thomas J. Savage, executive officer of the International Association of Machinists. The section disagreed, however, and the case came before the entire board, which instructed the secretary, W. Jett Lauck, to conduct an investigation in the field. Hearings were held in Bethlehem by Mr. Lauck and by H. S. Hanna, chief examiner, and these were supplemented by the work of trained investigators.

Stated generally, the workers demanded the application of the basic eight-hour day, with time and half time for overtime, with double pay for Sundays and holidays; the right to bargain collectively through committees; prohibition of discrimination of any kind because of trade-union activities; readjustment of the hourly and piecework rates on the basis of the rates paid in the shipyards of the Bethlehem Steel Co.; elimination of the bonus system of payment. It was contended by the machinists' representatives that the bonus system, with the alleged practice of continually changing rates under it, operated to hamper production because the men do not understand the method by which their pay is computed. They asserted that the bonus method was in effect a substitute of time and half time for overtime. On the other hand, the company maintained that the bonus system offered a premium for increased production and that the time and one-half was paid independent of the bonus.

Concerning collective bargaining, representatives of the men said the controversy would have been settled had the company chosen to meet with committees of its own workers. The president and vice president of the company stated that the custom of the company in dealing individually with its employees would not be changed and that no committee in the choice of which the management had not some voice would be received.

The machinists said the question of collective bargaining was an issue as vital to them as the methods of payment and conditions in the shops; for it was, they said, the refusal of the company to meet a committee of the workers, seeking to discuss the question of overtime payment at the time the working day was changed from 8 to 10 hours and 25 minutes, that caused the strikes at the plant. They made no demands for a closed union shop or for union recognition, but merely that the company receive committees of its own workers selected by their fellow workers. They presented evidence to support their assertion that the machinists' union was denied the privilege of meeting in any hall or meeting place in the city of Bethlehem and that its leaders and members were discriminated against in various ways, including dismissal from the shops. It was charged that a number of workmen were taken from the shops by the police because they held membership in the machinists' union. A list of names of 91 union workers was submitted by the workers. They declared it to be a copy of a list furnished the employment officers at the various shops. It was captioned, "These men are undesirable and should not be employed." Several witnesses testified that they had been discharged in one shop and secured employment under false names in others. One of these workers told his story in the presence of Vice President H. A. Lewis, who told him to go back to the original shop under his right name and promised the board that he would penalize a particular foreman against whom charges of unfair dealing had been made. It was also brought out that J. A. Kresge, proprietor of the Colonial Hall, leased a portion of the building for a meeting of the machinists, but later refused to permit the meeting on the ground that he had been instructed by the chief of police against permitting labor unions to meet in the building. The chief of police admitted this on the witness stand. Archibald Johnson, vice president of the company, is the mayor of the city.

The attitude of the company with respect to collective bargaining, as expressed by Eugene C. Grace, the president, was that the company was willing to meet employees individually, but not through committees or by any methods "savoring of organization." As to charges of discrimination against union workers, Vice President Lewis said: "So far as the company knows, there is no such thing."

The machinists employed at Bethlehem held their meeting in the city of Allentown. Following the first hearing of the case in Washington they caught a Pinkerton detective in their meeting. The man was arrested and fined $50 by the mayor of Allentown.

The investigations of the board revealed conditions that undoubtedly were reflected in lost production of important war materials. It was discovered, for instance, that during the year ended May 31, 1918, the company employed 57,423 workers, while during the same period 56,771 left for other employments. It was stated that during the Bethlehem hearings by Vice President Lewis that the labor turnover for the month

Street Car Fares Are Increased in 238 Cities

More Than One-Quarter of Urban Population of Country Now Paying More Than Five Cents

AN urban population of more than 11,000,000 people in the United States and Canada is now paying more than a 5-cent fare for its street car rides. The total urban population of the United States is approximately 41,000,000.

There are 237 cities in the United States and Canada, in which fares have been increased. Thirty-two of the forty-eight States of the Union are represented. The method of increase ranges from a straight ten-cent fare on one of the few municipally owned and operated roads in this country, to the abolition of workmen's reduced rates. The following summary give the methods used:

Ten-cent fare, 3 cities; eight-cent fare, 1 city; ten-cent Owl Service, 7-cent regular, 1 city; ten-cent Owl Service, 6-cent regular, 1 city; ten-cent Owl Service, 5-cent regular, 5 cities; seven-cent fare, 39 cities; six-cent central zone with additional charge for ride outside, 16 cities; six-cent fare, 83 cities; five-cent central zone with additional charge for ride outside, 11 cities; five-cent fare, one-cent charge for transfer, 17 cities; reduced rates eliminated, 42 cities; four-cent fare, one-cent charge for transfer, 1 city; workmen's reduced rates abolished, 18 cities.

While Boston is the largest city in which a seven-cent fare is being charged and there are more seven-cent fares in Massachusetts than in any other State, the Bay State is not alone in increasing its fares two cents. Maine, Mississippi, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, and Washington are also represented in the list.

A six-cent fare is being charged in cities in 18 states—these cities having a total population of more than four and one-half million people.

A 10-cent fare is being charged on municipal lines in Tacoma, Wash.; Manister, Mich., and Spencer, Mass. Eight cents is charged in Reading, Pa. In Montreal, Canada, the day rate is six cents, but the "owl" or late night rate is ten cents, and in the following cities the day rate of five cents becomes ten cents for the "owl" service: Ottawa, Canada; Des Moines, Ia.; Little Rock, Ark.; Lincoln, Neb., and Fort William, Canada.

Boston and Cambridge, Mass., are the two largest cities charging seven cents, and a seven-cent fare is charged on the Tacoma privately owned lines. Sixteen Massachusetts towns with populations from 16,000 to 130,000 charge six cents in the central zone with an additional charge for rides outside this zone.

It St. Louis, Mo.; Montreal, Canada; Kansas City, Mo.; Portland, Oregon; Vancouver, Canada; Pittsburg suburbs, Pa.; New Haven, Conn.; Bridgeport, Conn.; New Bedford, Mass.; Hartford, Conn.; and Reading, Pa., cities of from 100,000 to 750,000 population, the fare is six cents and the number of cities in which this rate prevails is 83.

Many cities have adopted the policy of charging for transfers and in a long list of cities where reduced rates formerly were in use these have been abolished and a straight five cent fare adopted. Cleveland, long noted for its three-cent fare, has been forced to raise the rate to four cents. Workmen's rates have been abolished in a large number of cities.

Subways Affect Realty Values

Whatever else they may accomplish the new subway lines will bring about a redistribution of population, a tremendous stimulus to business in sections which heretofore had suffered from the lack of appropriate transit facilities, and a readjustment of the business and social life of hundreds of thousands of persons.

The effect of the old subway on real estate values may be judged by the increased assessments on buildings in the section most affected and comparison being made of the valuations made in 1905 and in 1918.

The Broadway Theatre increased from $1,250,000 to $1,500,000; the Knickerbocker Theatre from $2,350,000 to $3,800,000; the Hotel Astor from $3,200,000 to $3,875,000; the Long Acre Building from $945,000 to $2,375,000; southwest corner of Broadway and 48th street from $300,000 to $575,000.

The longest distance a passenger can travel for five cents on the completed lines are as follows:

	Miles.	Minutes.
Mt. Vernon to Coney Island.....	28.85	83
Jamaica, L. I., to Coney Island....	28.25	71

It Is Time to Be Specific

With the political primaries out of the way owners of real estate in New York City will want to get a line on the attitude and taxation policies of the important candidates.

The Republicans have renominated Charles S. Whitman for governor and the Democrats have selected Alfred E. Smith as his opponent.

There may be added hope for New York real estate owners in the fact that both of these candidates are residents of this city. That coincidence should make both of them naturally sympathetic with the overburdened realty owners of the metropolis and eager to aid in a readjustment of the tax burdens which have become such a serious matter.

Not much satisfaction is to be gained from a study of the platforms on which Mr. Smith and Mr. Whitman are running because these platforms deal only in generalities. New York City's tax problems have become too serious to be longer treated superficially.

It is vitally necessary that this question be taken up specifically, that earnest consideration be given to its details. Nothing is more important to the property owners of the metropolis, who have been put off with generalities entirely too long.

When the next state administration takes charge at Albany on January 1st it should favor a definite, broad-gauged, square-dealing policy to relieve New York real estate from the unjust burden it has been bearing up to the present time.

Realty Becoming Stabilized

The Record and Guide is fortunate in being able to present in this issue another phase of activity in real estate during the existing general dullness. Mr. Lawrence B. Elliman's very interesting article in this publication is both timely and instructive.

We have had occasion several times during the last few months to show that all the real estate offices were not inactive. Our readers will recall the article by Mr. Charles F. Noyes, among others, as proving the interest of buyers in downtown property. Mr. Elliman shows that the field of operations is not confined to lower New York, but proves that there is good buying power throughout the city for improved real estate at existing prices.

It is becoming more and more apparent that real estate is becoming stabilized by the long period of inactivity in building. To use a war expression, realty may be said to have improved its position and consolidated it. It has "dug in" and is now ready to go ahead, when the pressure is removed.

Investment in property already improved by permanent holders takes just so many parcels out of the market when good times, which are sure to come, make their presence felt. There is ground for renewed confidence in the future of real estate in the conditions prevailing today, likely to become more important as time goes on, which are so graphically described by Mr. Elliman.

National Banks and Liberty Bonds

The Comptroller of the Currency has made an interesting statement of the part the national banks played in the three Liberty Loans.

He reports that $6,000,000,000, a little more than half of the aggregate of the loans, passed through national bank channels. By far the greater part of this was absorbed by individual subscribers. On June 29 only about $400,000,000 of Liberty Bonds, constituting less than 3 per cent. of their assets, were held by national banks. At the same time the national bank loans on Liberty Bonds were only $457,000,000, or 2½ per cent. of their assets.

These figures are taken by the Treasury Department to indicate that Liberty Bonds have been taken largely by individual investors and are being held by them.

The Comptroller of the Currency has no jurisdiction over and makes no reference to the banks of the country other than the national banks, but it is believed that an investigation would show that most of the other banks were equally active in the loans.

Secretary McAdoo, in speaking of the work of the banks for the various loans, made no distinction between national and other banks in praising their efficient assistance and co-operation, and he has expressed the hope and belief that in the coming loan they will continue the policy which has been of such tremendous service to the Treasury and the country.

It is well here, however, to quote further from Secretary McAdoo's statement regarding the banks:

"The loan must have the support of the people of America. The support of the banks, great as their support is, and welcome as it is, and splendid as it has been, is not enough alone to carry the burden. * * *

The only true way to finance this war is to sell the Liberty Bonds to the people of the United States. The better it is for America and the more discouraging more people who buy $50 bonds, $100 bonds, $500 bonds it is for our enemies."

War Labor Board's Ruling on Wage Question

of May, 1918, was 10.39 per cent., or at the rate of 118 per cent. per year.

A charge made by the men, testimony in support of which was turned over to the War Department, was that the company was employing the draft law to coerce workers into remaining at the plant.

The importance of the case from the standpoint of the Government's war program was emphasized by representatives of the War Department in several communications to the board.

Following is the board's decision and award in full:

NATIONAL WAR LABOR BOARD.

Machinists and Electrical Workers and Other Employees

v.

Bethlehem Steel Co.

Findings.

The case of the Machinists and Electrical Workers v. Bethlehem Steel Co. is of unquestionable importance from the standpoint of the war. It appears beyond doubt that the dissatisfaction among the employees of the company has had and is having a seriously detrimental effect upon the production of war materials absolutely necessary to the success of the American Expeditionary Forces. This was clearly developed in the testimony of the officials of the Ordnance Department.

The main cause of the dissatisfaction is a bonus system so complicated and difficult to understand that almost one-half of the time of the hearings was consumed in efforts to secure a clear idea of the system. The absence on any method of collective bargaining between the management and the employees is another serious cause of unrest, as is also the lack of a basic guaranteed minimum wage rate.

After having carefully reviewed all the evidence in the case the board makes the following findings:

1. Piece rates. Bonus and basic hourly rates, machine shops.—(a) That the bonus system now in operation should be entirely revised or eliminated; that piecework rates should be revised also; and that a designated, guaranteed minimum hourly wage rate be established in conformity with one of the scales now being applied by the War and Navy Departments as most nearly fit the conditions in this particular case. (b) That any necessary revision of the piecework rates shall be made by an expert in co-operation with the Ordnance Department, the plant management, and a committee from the shops, such expert to be selected by the National War Labor Board and with the approval of the Secretary of War. (c) That the piece rates thus established shall not be reduced during the period of the war.

2. Overtime.—That the principle of daily overtime should be compensated at the rate of time and a half and double time on Sundays and holidays. That in the fixing of piece rates provisions be made for overtime payment such as are now provided in the case of time workers. The application as to the definition of what days constitute holidays and the division of the weekly work periods can in the opinion of the board be best settled by conference between committees hereinafter provided and the management of the plant.

3. Committees.—The right of the employees to bargain collectively is recognized by the National War Labor Board; therefore the employees of the Bethlehem plant should be guaranteed this right. The workers at the Bethlehem plant should use the same method of electing committees as is provided in the award of the National War Labor Board for the workers of the General Electric Co. at Pittsfield.

4. Employment of women.—That on work ordinarily performed by men women must be allowed equal pay for equal work and must not be allotted tasks disproportionate to their strength.

5. Military exemption.—That the evidence relative to the complaints of the workers that foremen and other subordinate officials of the plant have made improper use of the selective draft act shall be referred to the War Department for such action as may be warranted by the facts and the law.

6. Electrical workers.—The board finds in the case of the electrical workers that the following rates should be established: First class, 67½ cents per hour; second class, 62½ cents per hour; helpers, 40 cents per hour. Overtime provisions should be the same as hereinbefore specified.

7. Other departments.—That wages and working conditions of other departments and crafts shall be considered and adjusted by the committees provided for in paragraph "b," subsection 1.

8. Local board.—That a local board of mediation and conciliation, consisting of six members, shall be established, three members of which shall be selected by the company and three by the employees, for the purpose of bringing about agreements on disputed issues not covered by this finding. In the event of the local board failing to bring about an agreement, the points at issue shall be referred to the National War Labor Board. The members of the local board shall be compensated for their services by the parties whom they represent. This board shall be presided over by a chairman, who shall be selected by and represent the Secretary of War.

9. No reductions.—The revision of wages or earnings provided for in this award shall in no case operate to reduce the wages or earnings of any employee.

10. Discrimination.—The examiner hereinafter provided for shall investigate the charges of discrimination, and shall report his conclusions, with recommendations, in each unsettled case to the National War Labor Board and to the company.

11. Examiner.—The National War Labor Board shall detail an examiner to supervise the application of this finding. The examiner shall hear any differences arising between the parties in respect to this finding, from which an appeal may be taken by either party to the National War Labor Board. Pending the appeal the decision of the examiner shall be enforced.

12. Duration.—This finding is to take effect August 1, 1918, and shall be effective for the duration of the war, except that either party may reopen the case before the board at periods of six-month intervals for such adjustments as changed conditions may render necessary.

13. The board desires to point out to both parties to this controversy that the questions raised and for which the board has endeavored to find solution have largely to do with matters which will require a reasonable time to satisfactorily adjust, and that in view of the vital importance of the output of the Bethlehem Steel Co. both sides should address themselves with patience and good spirit to finding fair and reasonable adjustments of the matters to which the board here directs attention.

The Story of THE WINDOW SHADE

(This talk is No. 1 of a series.)

HERE is a new angle on an old story. Either you must buy new shades periodically, or you must have the old ones cleaned.

The only reason you don't have the old shades cleaned is that you are never sure what you get back. Maybe shrunk shades, or shades with no body left, or uneven coloring, or cleaning that leaves most of the dirt still in.

If at 1/3 cost of new ones, you get back shades that were actually as good as new, would you hesitate?

That's just the service we offer

To prove it, we will take your worst shade and clean it free. Any future work guaranteed up to sample, or no pay. Will you take us up on this?

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of
Real Estate Board, Samuel P. Goldman, Chairman

AN oral agreement to convey an estate or interest in real property, other than a lease for a term not exceeding one year is nugatory and unenforceable. New York Real Property Law (Consol. Laws, c. 50), § 242. A party to the agreement may legally and rightfully refuse to recognize or perform it. The breach of a void agreement is not a fraud or a wrong in law. Levy v. Brush, 45 N. Y. 589. He may, however, withdraw himself from the policy and defense of the statute, or waive its protection, by inducing or permitting without remonstrance another party to the agreement to do acts, pursuant to and in reliance upon the agreement, to such an extent and so substantial in quality as to irremediably alter his situation and make the interposition of the statute against performance a fraud. In such a case a court of equity acts upon the principle that not to give effect to those acts would be to allow the party permitting them to use the statute as an instrument defending deception and injustice. The acts, must, however, be so clear, certain, and definite in their object and design as to refer to a complete and perfect agreement of which they are a part execution, must be unequivocal in their character, and must have reference to the carrying out of the agreement. An act which admits of explanation without reference to the alleged oral contract or a contract of the same general nature and purpose, is not, in general, admitted to constitute a part performance. Because the acts in part performance are essential to the relevancy and enforceability of the oral agreement, it has been held that the agreement cannot be proven until the acts which constitute the part performance of some contract to reconvey have been proven. A grantor paid a mortgage which the grantee had assumed, paid taxes and assessments on the property conveyed, received such rents as the grantee paid him, and complained to the grantee that he did not receive enough. In a suit for specific performance of an oral agreement by the grantee to recovery to the grantor or such persons as he might designate, the New York Court of Appeals holds, Woolley v. Stewart, 118 N. E. 847, that this did not constitute such part performance of the alleged oral agreement as to authorize a court of equity to disregard the statute of frauds and compel performance of the oral agreement, as these acts did not create necessarily or naturally and reasonably the conclusion that the grantor had, or believed he had, the right again to acquire the title to or possession of the property.

Party Able and Willing to Buy.

The Michigan Supreme Court holds, Garrisi v. Kass, 167 N. W. 833, that where an owner instructed a broker to find a purchaser for property at the price of $7,000, $1,000 cash and the balance on time, and the broker found a man willing to buy, who visited the owner with $900 cash, and who owned property worth $6,000 or $7,000, he produced a purchaser who was ready, able and willing to buy.

Contracts to Sell Land.

A writing agreeing to give a broker all over $90 per acre to sell land, "$3,000 cash, . . . balance at 5 per cent. interest," without stating when or how the balance was to be paid, was held by the Michigan Supreme Court, Cochran v. Staman, 167 N. W. 1015, to be sufficient under the Michigan statute, providing that every agreement to pay any commission for or upon the sale of any interest in real estate shall be void, unless some note or memorandum thereof be made in writing; and parol evidence was admissible to show that the broker had earned his commission by furnishing a purchaser ready, able, and willing to buy. Where the broker proved that he had furnished one willing to buy at $100 per acre, it was not a fatal variance to show that the broker offered to buy the land himself at $90, the owner having questioned the responsibility of the proposed buyer. If error, it was not so prejudicial as to require reversal to permit the broker to show that the value of the land had advanced to $250 per acre, the broker only suing for $10 per acre.

Commissions Between Brokers.

An assumpsit by a real estate broker to recover commissions in a deal consummated by the plaintiff and the defendant jointly, where the defendant sought to recoup under a contract whereby the plaintiff was claimed to be liable for payments made by a tenant, the Michigan Supreme Court, Forsyth v. Nostrand, 167 N. W. 1002, held it improper to withdraw the subject of recoupment from the jury merely because the parties did not agree as to what such contract was. It was also held improper to permit a cross-examination of the defendant as to charges made by him in dealings not connected with that sued on, where his good faith had been challenged, and the examination affected his credibility.

Agreement to Divide Profits.

An oral agreement was made that the plaintiff and the defendant should enter into the business of purchasing houses and remove them to and relocate them upon real estate which should be purchased for that purpose, that such buildings and real estate as might answer the purpose of their agreement should be sold, that the financing of the transactions should be provided for by the plaintiff, that the defendant should supervise the necessary operations of removing, relocating and erecting such buildings, that the plaintiff should have control of the manner and time of sale and the sale price of such properties, and that the profits which might be derived from the transactions should be equally divided between the plaintiff and the defendant. The Michigan Supreme Court holds, Thompson v. Hurson, 167 N. W. 926, that the agreement was not within the statute of frauds, since the defendants' claim as finally made was merely for one-half of the profits of the transactions as compensation for services rendered, and not for any interest in lands.

Use of Right of Way.

Generally where a right of way is granted or reserved without limitations upon its use it may be used for any purpose to which the land accommodated thereby may naturally and reasonably be devoted, and the grantee thereof is entitled to vary his mode of enjoying the same and from time to time avail himself of modern inventions, if by so doing he can more fully exercise and enjoy or carry out the object for which the easement was granted or reserved. And, agreeable to this principle, the owner of such a right of way may without imposing upon the servient estate any additional burden not reasonably within the contemplation of the parties to the grant or reservation erect or cause to be erected poles and wires along and over such right of way for the use of a private telephone at his residence on the dominant estate. Davis v. Jefferson County Telephone Co., West Virginia Court of Appeals, 95 S. E. 1043.

Defects in Title.

The New York Court of Appeals holds, Begen v. Pettus, 119 N. E. 549, that where the plaintiff was desirous of carrying out his contract to purchase land and helped to cure defects in the title, but subsequently changed his mind before purchasing the property, a decree of specific performance in favor of the defendant should not charge the plaintiff with interest or taxes accruing prior to date when the first deed curing the defects was tendered.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Private Dwelling Hotels and Business Property Figure in Sales of the Week. Several Important Leases Consummated

HOTELS, a dwelling and business properties figured in the sales of a week considerably more active than for the four weeks preceding, and the indications are that the autumn will see a resumption of real estate activity in a market that has been dormant of late.

Paramount in the sales of the week was that of the former residence of Henry P. Davison, at 12 West 51st street, which Mr. Davison turned over to the Y. M. C. A., for use as a Hostess House. The land and building have a total valuation of $115,000 according to the city assessors, $56,000 representing the value of the dwelling. Mr. Davison lived in this house up to the time that his new dwelling at Park avenue and 69th street was completed.

The sale last Thursday at private treaty of the property of the Trow Printing & Publishing Company at 87-89-91 Third Avenue and 205-213 East 12th street, forming the northeast corner of these thoroughfares, to Louis Leavitt, of Brooklyn, for use, it is said, as quarters for the location of firms engaged in the sale and manufacture of printing accessories, and it is said that the new owner will open negotiations with the tenants in the Printing Crafts Building, recently taken over by the Government, with the view to having them locate in this building. The new owner paid $184,000 for the property.

Rumor has it that the Federal Government contemplates taking over the eleven-story Cluett Building at 22-28 West 19th street to supply the over-flow needs of the former Greenhut Building, which the Government has leased for a hospital and supply depot.

A new corporation, composed of T. Elliott Tolson, David H. Knott and W. W. Wyckoff, purchased the Hotel Bristol property, 122-124 West 49th street, which is leased to the Wynotol Realty & Hotel Company of which Mr. Tolson is president. Mr. Tolson recently made a contract with the National War Work Council of the Y. M. C. A., to care for their over-seas force during the continuation of the war. Six floors of this building will be set aside for the exclusive use of the association.

In the downtown business section Baker, Carver & Morrell purchased the five-story building at 51 Water street, including the lease on the structure, from the tenants, E. Eising & Company. This purchase was made to provide additional space for their increased war business.

In the Bronx the Barnett Realty Company resold the six-story apartment house with nine stores and containing thirty apartments and held at $100,000. The property was at once resold to Jacob Berlin for investment. The house is fully rented.

Continuing its policy of selling all properties acquired from time to time the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company will offer for sale through the Jere Johnson, Jr., Company, auctioneers, on the evening of September 11, at the Brooklyn Real Estate Sales Rooms, seven properties in Brooklyn having a book value of $114,000 and an assessed value in excess of $200,000. The properties will be sold to the highest bidder as it is not the purpose of the company to protect them at the sale.

There was particular activity in the leasing of business properties during the past week the principal transaction being that of the Manhattan Hotel property, now held by the Armbo Operating Corporation of which John McE. Bowman is president, to the same corporation at a substantial increase over the present rental, the aggregate amount of the new lease being more than $6,000,000. This new lease secures Mr. Bowman from any outside invasion on his chain of hotels in the Grand Central Terminal zone, as the Hotel Manhattan was the only one of the hostelrys under his control not leased for a long term. The large fireproof garage, recently completed at 305-307 West 28th street, between Eighth and St. Nicholas avenues, has been leased for twenty-one years from September 1, at an aggregate rental of more than $250,000. The lessee will be a corporation to be formed by a number of interests for the purpose of continuing the business.

The United Cigar Stores Company leased from Melville H. Bearns the two-story Subway Building at the northeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 181st street, containing twenty stores on the grade floor with offices on the second floor. The lease is for twenty years at an aggregate rental said to be in the neighborhood of $500,000. The United now occupies one of the stores.

On Staten Island the extensive property of the I. T. William & Son, lumber dealers, at Stapleton, has been leased by the Federal Government for a term of twenty years at an aggregate rental of about $1,300,000. A large dry-dock, where ships damaged by U-boats will be reclaimed will be constructed here. The Government recently took over the plant of the Merritt-Chapman Derrick & Wrecking Company, which is only a short distance away from the Williams property.

The lease of the Grand Central Palace to the Government for use as a hospital was consummated last Thursday, Pease & Elliman representing the owners of the building.

IMPORTANT AUCTION SALE

Jere Johnson, Jr., Co. Will Sell for Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Co.

Institutions, firms and individuals are now setting their houses in order against the time when war will have been won and business will be resumed again on a peace basis. This applies not only to the real estate and building markets, but also to every business pursuit.

When the peace treaties have been signed there will be a building boom such as had not been witnessed in this city for many decades. The natural result of this large turnover will be the enhancement of real estate values, for builders, speculators and operators, now out of the market, will again become active. Loaning institutions will resume on a large scale the making of commitments and activity all along the line will result.

While knowing this condition and being thoroughly familiar with all phases of the real estate market, nevertheless, the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company has decided to continue its policy of selling all properties which acquires from time to time. It has been decided to hold the next sale at 7:30 p. m. on the evening of September 11 at the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange salesrooms, 189 Montague street. The Jere Johnson Jr. Company will be the auctioneers.

In speaking of the coming sale, Frank Bailey, vice-president of the Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company, and in charge of its Brooklyn and Queens business, said yesterday: "The company has decided not to depart from its fixed policy of liquidating its real estate, and we intend to sell, without reserve, all of the properties offered. Few people buy cheap in any of the markets of the world, while the most pay high prices. This is especially true of real estate. Therefore we do not expect to receive what would be considered good prices in peace times.

"We are going to persist, however, in the auction because we feel that there are many who will buy real estate with the water squeezed out. There is a good real estate market in Brooklyn and Queens, especially so far as small properties are concerned. Though it is not generally realized the number of transfers in Brooklyn this year is almost equal to that of the corresponding period last year. In 1917 from January 1 to August 21 there were 14,893 deeds recorded, while this year the total was 14,480, practically no difference.

"The Bond & Mortgage Guarantee Company was formed about twenty-five years ago to bring money into the mortgage market where people did not know the value of property and still wanted to have someone step in and become surety for it. As the result of the undertaking we have today about 34,500 mortgages outstanding on which guaranteed $436,000,000 in mortgages and paid off $242,000,000. The company has $11,500,000 assets back of its guarantee.

"The coming sale is not to be viewed as a clean-up of the realty owned by the company. It is only one of a series of sales which are held from time to time. The policy of the company is to sell its real estate as soon as possible, either at private sale or public auction. We do not accumulate realty, not being in that line of the business. We always keep our assets clean and in shape.

"The book value of the seven properties to be sold is $114,000, and the assessed value exceeds $200,000. It is not the purpose of the company to protect the property at the sale, but it will go to the highest bidder. I consider it a decided opportunity for the investor to buy."

Following is the list of properties to be sold: A plot on Shore Road near 80th street, containing over 68,000 square feet with substantially built dwelling overlooking New York bay; 72 lots in the block bounded by Utica and Schenectady avenues, Montgomery and Malbone streets and Lefferts avenue, five blocks from Utica avenue station to the Eastern Parkway subway, now nearing completion; 30 lots on Ft. Hamilton Parkway, 55th and 11th avenue, two blocks from 55th street station on New Utrecht avenue of West End line, dual subway system, 11 lots on East Third street and East Fourth street and Avenue J, close to Avenue J station on Gravesend avenue of Culver line extension (now almost completed) of dual subway system; 15 lots on Avenue N, East 12th street and Coney Island avenue close to Brighton Beach line. There is an old house on the property. One lot at Rugby, on East 88th street near Avenue B, two blocks from Church avenue trolley; 27 Jamaica lots on Queens boulevard and Maple street just north of Hillside avenue 1½ blocks from elevated railroad on Jamaica avenue or Fulton street (now running). Passed by trolley from 59th street, Manhattan, to Jamaica. A short walk from main Jamaica station of the Long Island railroad.

Architectural League Competition.

The subject of the competition to be held by the Architectural League of New York for the Henry O. Avery prize of $50 for sculptors and a special prize of $300 for the best design submitted by an architect, sculptor and painter in collaboration was recently announced. Two spaces have been assigned in the forthcoming exhibition of the Architectural League, on either side of the steps approaching the Vanderbilt Gallery in the Fine Arts Building, 215 West 57th street, for the installation of two jardinières in arched recesses. The design of these is the subject of this competition. The jardinières and their supports are to be of stone, faience or metal and the back, side and soffit of the recess or niche, together with the space surrounding it, are to be treated as part of the design in any material desired. The jardinières or their supports must include in the design a sculptural representation of the human figure or of animal life.

Increased Income to Property Owners

WAR CONDITIONS, increased cost of labor, high prices of coal and other material are serious perplexing problems that confront every property owner. Consequently, many apartment and office buildings are barely paying expenses.

The Pease & Elliman system of efficient management will face and overcome these issues. It is a GUARANTEE that a better income can be derived from your property.

We are now managers for some of the largest office and apartment buildings in New York and can refer you to their owners.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 20 as against 15 last week and 8 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 10 as compared with 7 last week and 3 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 10, as compared with 8 last week and 5 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported as against 13 last week and 5 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 250 of this issue.

H. P. Davison Sells.

Mrs. Gustav E. Kissell, granddaughter of Commodore Vanderbilt, has bought for her permanent home the former residence of Henry P. Davison at 12 West 51st street, latterly occupied by Y. M. C. A. as a hostess house. The dwelling is five and a half stories, on a lot 22x100, with a rear extension that goes to the full depth of the property. It is attractively arranged, with large living rooms, library, conservatory, and a large number of bedrooms. Mrs. Kissell, who made the purchase through John N. Golding, will occupy the premises after completing alterations. She now resides at 12 East 55th street, a dwelling owned by William Rockefeller. Columbia College owns the land occupied by the former Davison house, the building having been built by W. W. and T. M. Hall about ten years ago and subsequently sold to Mr. Davison, who made elaborate changes before taking possession. Land and building have a total valuation of $115,000, according to the city assessors, $56,000 representing building value. Mr. Davison lived in the house up to the time his more pretentious residence at Park avenue and 69th street, built by Mark Eidlitz & Son from plans by Walker & Gillette, was completed. The Y. M. C. A., which had possession from February to August, recently moved its hostess house to 30 East 52d street. About five weeks ago it was announced that the 51st street house had been sold to Isidore Book, an operator. While tentative contracts were signed this transaction was never completed.

Trow Property Sold.

One of the most important realty deals in the Stuyvesant section of Manhattan effected at private treaty in recent years was closed Thursday by the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, involving the property of the Trow Printing & Publishing Company, which went into the hands of receivers recently. The transaction was sanctioned Thursday morning for the receivers of the defunct company, Edward H. Titus and John B. Johnson, affects the premises known as 87, 89 and 91 Third avenue and 205 to 213 East 12th street, forming the northeast corner of these thoroughfares. They comprise a five-story structure, erected a few years ago by the Trow Company, whose principal work was the publication of a city directory. The Third avenue frontage consisting of a plot 77.6x100, is a leasehold expiring in 1938, the ground being owned by the Hamilton Fish Corporation, while the 12th street side of the holding, comprising a plot 125x103.3, was owned in fee by the Trow Company. The combined properties have a frontage of 225 feet on 12th street, 77.6 feet on Third avenue, and an east line of 103.3 feet, this permitting an area in the five floors approximating 100,000 square feet. With this area, probably the largest in the city available in a single building for immediate possession, the transaction partakes of added significance, in view of the disturbance of large concerns through the commandeering of buildings for war purposes by the Government, and will doubtless solve the problem for one or

POSITIVE AUCTION
By order of the BOND & MORTGAGE GUARANTEE CO

at 7:30 P. M., in the Brooklyn Real Estate Exchange, 189 Montague St.
WEDNESDAY NIGHT, SEPT. 11

THE PSYCHOLOGY—The time to buy real estate is when the other fellow wants to sell—when the market is depressed—but when the trend of events indicates a change for the better. Only property of intrinsic merit and value and with the best rapid transit should be purchased.

THE ARITHMETIC—The business of the Bond & Mortgage Co. is to loan money on real estate—not to own and carry real estate. It loans only on good property. Its policy has always been to dispose of any property it is obliged to take over at the earliest opportunity. It has recently accumulated the parcels included in the sale. These parcels are assessed by the city at a total of $200,000 and stand the Company in only $114,000, or 57% of the assessed value. If the Company cannot come out whole it is perfectly willing to take a substantial loss, which to it means nothing, but which to any real estate operator would be prohibitive.

The Following are the Properties to be sold:

- I. Plot containing 68,380 sq. ft. on Shore Road, near 80th St., together with the substantially built frame house thereon.
- II. 72 lots in block bounded by Utica Av., Montgomery St., Schenectady Av. and Malbone St.
- III. 30 lots on Ft. Hamilton Parkway, 55th St. and 11th Av.
- IV. 11 lots on E. 3d St. and Av. J.
- V. 15 lots on Av. N, East 12th St. and Coney Island Av.
- VI. Lot at Rugby on E. 88th St., near Av. B.
- VII. 27 lots in Jamaica, on Queens Boulevard and Maple Ave., near Hillside Av.

The character of the parcels reflects the conservatism of the company, for they are all in active sections and close to stations of the "Dual Subway System."

In order to make this auction a popular offering, all lots (excepting the Shore Road plot) may be paid for in MONTHLY INSTALLMENTS, or on purchases of over $1,000 two thirds may remain on mortgage. On the Shore Road plot 75% may remain on mortgage.

ALL TITLES ARE INSURED to purchasers without expense to them by the Title Guarantee & Trust Co.

With the exception of the Shore Road plot, all parcels will be sold in lots.

more firms thus displaced. The Trow property, which is a landmark, is ready for new occupancies, having been cleared of the personality of the former owner. Presses, office furniture, and other fixings have been recently removed by the purchaser, Louis Leavitt, of Brooklyn, who paid the receivers $184,000 for the outfit. The two holdings, assessed by the city for a valuation of $284,000, are now the property of an investor, who is negotiating with prospective tenants through the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company.

Executors Sell Holdings.

Pease & Elliman sold for the executors of the estate of George Macculloch Miller to Samuel H. Gillespie property in Morristown, N. J., on Whetmore avenue and Ogden place and consisting of two residences, "Valetop," which Mr. Gillespie has been occupying under lease for a number of years, and the "Knoll," which was the residence of the late Mr. Miller, consisting of stables, garage, greenhouses, and about fifty acres of land. This is the remains of the residential section of Morristown which Mr. Miller laid out and developed and sold off in plots.

Important Water Street Deal.

In order to provide additional space for their increased war business, Baker, Carver & Morrell have purchased through Wm. A. White & Sons the five-story building, 51 Water street, 30x85 from Daniel Birdsall, and have also bought the lease on the building from the tenants, E. Eising & Company. Baker, Carver & Morrell several years ago purchased the large plot on the corner of Water street and Coenties slip where they erected an eight-story building entirely for their own use.

Hotel Bristol Sold.

T. Elliott Tolson, with his associates, David H. Knott and W. W. Wyckoff, forming a corporation, have purchased the entire Hotel Bristol property, 122-124 West Forty-ninth street, and 129-135 West Forty-eighth street, so that they are now the sole owners leasing it to the present company which has been operating the hotel for the last eight years, the Wynotol Realty and Hotel Company, of which T. Elliott Tolson is president. Last week Mr. Tolson made a contract with the National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian Associations of the United States to care for their overseas force during the continuation of the war, and six floors in the Forty-ninth street building will be set aside for the exclusive use of the association. The necessary alterations are expected to be completed within two months. Douglas L. Elliman & Co. negotiated the lease.

Garage for Beef Company.

The three-story garage covering the westerly block front on First avenue, between 42d and 43d streets, has been resold by Leo S. Bing to the United Dressed Beef Company. It is on a plot of 200.10 feet on the avenue by 50 feet on each street, diagonally opposite the big plant of the new owner. Mr. Bing, who made a contract for the purchase of the property last November, acquired title from Charles Shongood Wednesday and immediately reconveyed the realty to the United Dressed Beef Company, subject to a mortgage of $80,000. The property was formerly under lease for a long term to the Postal Transfer Service, Inc.

Sale and Resale in Bronx.

Grossman & Phillips have resold for the Barnett Realty Company the six-story apartment house with nine stories on a plot 137x6x87x irregular at 936 Intervale avenue, near the 163d street subway station, in the Hunt's Point section. The structure contains thirty apartments and has been held at $100,000. The buyer is a client of S. S. Isaacs, attorney. For this unnamed purchaser the same brokers have resold the property to Jacob Berlin for investment. The house is fully rented. It was put up about four years ago by the Sillshire Construction Company and a year later they sold it through the same brokers to the Barnett Realty Company, the two tenements at 125 and 127 Stanton street figuring in the deal.

Commitments for Buildings Heavy*Current Year Exceeds Any in Past Nine*According to Dodge Company Statistics

NOTWITHSTANDING the gradual reduction in the volume of private building construction throughout the entire country Government building operations are being undertaken that, considering the total amount of expenditure, more than makes up for the lack of private structural endeavor. A study of the table of comparative statistics compiled by the F. W. Dodge Company which shows the totals of contracts awarded from January 1 to September 1, for the past nine years indicates that the current year overtops all previous ones in the expenditures for new construction work.

The figures given are for building and engineering projects in the States north of the Ohio River and east of the Missouri River, including New England, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, District of Columbia, Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Wisconsin, Michigan, Minnesota, North and South Dakota and portions of Missouri and Eastern Kansas.

During the first eight months of 1918 the total of the contracts for building and engineering operations in this territory amounted to $1,211,065,000 of which 31 2/5 per cent. was for direct Federal account. The total for the current year is greater than for any previous period during the past nine years and was only approached last year when the total for similar months amounted to $1,156,176,155. In 1916, for the same time the total amount of building commitments was $838,024,000 and in years of record prior to this time the totals never reached $700,000,000.

The figures for the first eight months from January 1 to September 1 for the past nine years are as follows:

Contracts Awarded	1918....	$1,211,065,000
"	1917....	1,156,176,155
"	1916....	838,024,922

"	1912....	558,820,000
"	1911....	539,256,313
"	1910....	589,175,910

In the local territory, including New York State and Northern New Jersey, there has been a reduction from the total of last year for the same time. The gross amount placed in new construction work for the first eight months of the present year was $181,322,000 as compared with $212,328,000 for 1917, which was the banner year, and $145,085,500 for 1916. Of the total valuation of the new construction work for 1918 30 9/10 per cent. was Government ex-

Figures for the eight months of the past nine years in the local territory are as follows:

"	1910....	180,359,500

The territory that shows the greatest increase for the current year is unquestionably that which included the cities of Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington. In this district the total volume of contracts awarded for the first eight months of 1918 amount to $313,306,000, of which 46 3/5 per cent. was for direct Federal account, as compared with $146,544,000 for 1917 and $104,793,000 for 1916. The locality placed second in the ration of increase for the current year is the Pittsburgh District, which includes Western Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Ohio. Here for 1918 the total amount of building and engineering expenditures amounted to $302,518,000, as compared with $143,403,000 for 1917 and $113,730,000 for 1916. Of the total for 1918, 37 3/5 per cent, was for the Government.

Successful Auction Sales.

The auction sale of Manhattan Beach property was one of the most successful conducted in or about New York for some time, and might be construed as a reflection of the public wants. Four hundred lots and six houses were sold to bidders who showed a keen interest in the proceeding, and took the entire offering in less than five hours. Revised figures show a total of $357,475 was realized. Of this $66,150 represented the proceeds from the houses, an average of $11,000 each. The sales of lots, exclusive of those included with the houses, netted an average of $1,000 each. Actual prices ranged from $850 to $1,750. The higher price was obtained for lots on Corbin place between the Esplanade and Oriental boulevard. A corner plot of five lots at Corbin place and Oriental boulevard brought $6,750. Inside lots on Beaumont street brought $900, while lots directly on the Esplanade sold for $1,500 each.

Auction Sale at Far Rockaway.

J. H. Mayers on Saturday, August 31, and Monday, September 2, conducted an auction sale at Coronado Beach, Far Rockaway, L. I. The sale was held for the account of Joseph Cassidy and 63 lots were disposed of at an average price of about $400, the prices ranging from $340 to $575 per lot. The following are the names of some of the buyers: Frank P. Cumisky, Charles G. Rosewall, Louis T. Walter, Jr., John W. Seaton, W. R. McLean, Walter J. McGill, Fred Fitter, E. W. Webster, R. B. Taft, Sidney A. Schutte, John W. Seymour and O. C. Bianchi. The prices received were far from expectation, as these lots should have brought from 30 to 50 per cent. more, but we had to accept war time prices. Mr. Mayers will continue to offer the balance every Saturday afternoon in September, until the entire 200 bungalow lots are sold.

OPEN FLAME BURNERS WASTE GAS

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AND THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION DISAPPROVE OF THOSE BURNERS

Open flame burners use 6 to 8 feet of Gas an hour. Perhaps more. That is a waste of Gas; of Coal and Oil, both of which we must conserve.

A Gas Mantle Burner consumes 3 1/2 feet an hour and gives a far superior light.

We have a large assortment of Gas Fixtures and Lamps at all of our Branch Offices. Call and select the one best suited to your purposes.

Westchester.

LARCHMONT.—Griffen, Prince & Ripley sold for Mrs. Jennie Eggers her residence in Larchmont Park to Maude Smith Shannon.

Out of Town.

MORRISTOWN, N. J.—Pease & Elliman sold for executors of the estate of George Macculloch Miller to Samuel H. Gillespie, property situated on Whetmore av and Ogden pl and consisting of two residences. "Valetop," which Mr. Gillespie has been occupying under lease for a number of years, is owned by the Miller estate; also property known as the "Knoll," which was the residence of the late George Macculloch Miller. The property consists of stables, garage, greenhouses, and about fifty acres of land. This is about all that remains of the residential section of Morristown, which Mr. Miller laid out and developed and sold off in good-sized plots. The family having owned it for many years, and foreseeing the growth of Morristown, have been able now to dispose of the land at very substantial prices.

RECENT LEASES.

Lease Involves Half a Million.

For an aggregate rental understood to be $500,000, the United Cigar Stores Company has leased from Melville H. Bearns the two-story subway building at the northeast corner of St. Nicholas avenue and 181st street covering a plot 100 by 175, and containing twenty stores on the grade floor with offices on the second floor. The lease is reported to be for a period of twenty years. The United now occupies one of the stores. Mr. Bearns acquired the property, which is assessed at $375,000, in July, 1917.

Hotel Property Leased.

W. J. Boller, acting for the Anahma Realty Corporation, negotiated an extension of the existing lease of the Manhattan Hotel property, now held by the Armbow Operating Corporation, of which John McE. Bowman is president, to the same tenant for a long term, at a substantial increase of the present rental, the aggregate amount of the new lease being over $6,000,000. The existing lease was made two years ago for a ten-year term, thus having eight years more to run. This new lease secures Mr. Bowman from any outside invasion on his chain of hotels in the Grand Central terminal zone for many years, as the Manhattan was the only one of his hotels on which his lease was not for a long term.

$250,000 Garage Lease.

S. Osgood Pell & Company, represented by G. M. Mabie, have sub-leased for Proper Brothers the large fire-proof garage recently finished at 305-7 West 128th street between Eighth and St. Nicholas avenues, for a term of twenty-one years from September 1 at an aggregate rental of over $250,000, which represents a considerable profit. The same brokers recently leased the building before it was finished, for twenty-one years to the present tenant for George Heinlein, the owner, after obtaining a building and permanent loan for five years of $50,000. The sub-tenant will be a corporation to be formed by a number of interests for the purpose of continuing the business. The garage accommodates about 160 cars and although opened this summer is already nearly full.

Government Dry Dock on S. I.

A huge drydock, where ships damaged by U-boats will be reclaimed, is said to be planned for the property of Ichabod T. Williams & Sons, lumber dealers, at Stapleton, S. I., just leased by the Government for a term of twenty years. The tract has a water frontage of 1,500 feet and includes everything from the Tompkinsville line to the land at Stapleton, excepting the Brady property. It is understood that about $1,300,000 has been appropriated for the improvement of the land. Recently the Government took over the plant of the Merritt & Chapman Derrick & Wrecking Company, in Bay street, Stapleton.

Building for War Needs.

According to a rumor in real estate circles the Government has practically concluded arrangements for taking over the eleven-story Cluett building, at 2 to 28 West 19th street, running through the block to 19-23 West 18th street. This property, it is understood, is wanted for the overflow needs of the big structure formerly occupied by the J. B. Greenhut Co., which the Government recently leased as a department for the personnel of hospitals and supply depot. The latter building has a floor area of 507,000 square feet, and Cluett building contains approximately 165,000 square feet.

ESSENTIAL BUILDING.

War Industries Board Asks Cooperation of State Defense Councils.

The War Industries Board authorizes the following:

The determination of the War Industries Board and its chairman, Barnard M. Baruch, to meet the demands for war materials from the United States military authorities and the Allies, has brought a tightening up policy as to civilian building plans with a view to the conservation of building materials and to the release of labor to war work.

To assist the Board in passing on the need and essentiality of proposed new non-war construction, Mr. Baruch has called to his assistance the State Councils of National Defense which are asked to investigate through their local organizations and report on all proposed new building projects in their respective territories.

While the recommendations of these local organizations will not be final they will be followed to the extent that no application for materials for projects coming within their jurisdiction will be considered by the War Industries Board until the Council has reported. Final decision in all cases is reserved by the Board.

Judge E. E. Parker, Priorities Commissioner, is preparing a set of instructions for the various State Councils for their guidance in making recommendations as to the needs and essentiality of non-war construction. The duties of the Councils will not include undertakings directed, by or under contract with, the War Department, Navy Department, Emergency Fleet Corporations, Bureau of Industrial Housing and Transportation of the Department of Labor, the United States Housing Corporation, and the following civilian enterprises:

Repairs of or extensions to existing buildings involving in the aggregate a cost not exceeding $2,500.

Roadways, buildings and other structures undertaken by, or under contract with the United States Railroad Administration or a railroad operated by such Administration.

Those directly connected with mines producing coal, metals and ferro-alloy minerals.

Public highway improvements and street pavements when expressly approved in writing by the United States Highways Council.

For building projects not falling within one of the class mentioned there will be required a special written permit issued by the Chief of Non War Construction Section of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board.

Anyone contemplating a building which he conceives to be in the public interest or of such essentiality that under existing conditions it should not be deferred, should make a full statement of the facts in writing, under oath and present it to the local representative of the Council of National Defense for his approval. This representative will report his approval with statement of reasons, to the Non War Construction Section of the War Industries Board for final decision.

Secretary Baker, acting as secretary of the Council of National Defense and of the Advisory Commission, promptly accepted for the Council the request for co-operation and assistance made by the War Industries Board.

Assignment of Lease.

The mere assignment of a lease has no effect to release the tenant from his contract obligation to pay the agreed rent to the end of his term; and the mere fact that the landlord consents to the assignment, or thereafter receives rent from the assignee, will not of itself discharge the original lessee from such liability. If, however, the landlord expressly or impliedly consents to treat the lease as having been surrendered or abandoned and enters into a new or substituted lease with the assignee, the contract relation between the original parties is severed and the obligation of the original lessee to pay rent ceases. Such surrender of the first lease and release of the first lessee may be implied from circumstances even where the lease forbids an assignment without the lessor's written consent. Keeley v. Beenblossom, Iowa Supreme Court, 167 N. W. 638, citing Wilbur v. Collins, 4 App. Div. 417, 38 N. Y. Supp. 848, and other New York cases.

Description of Lands.

Oral testimony is not admissible to prove the terms of a contract required by law to be in writing, or which the parties have put in writing, but such evidence is admissible to apply the terms of the contract to the subject matter; that is to say, to identify such subject matter where the contract itself furnishes the key to such identification. In other words, such testimony is not admissible to supply a total want of description, but is admissible to make more certain the imperfect description given in the contract. Stroburg v. Walsh (Tex.), 203 S. W. 391.

Post-War Prosperity for Building Industry

Contractors and Allied Interests to Experience Unprecedented Structural Activity Is Prediction

NO industry has surpassed the building trades in the spirit and energy which they have manifested in the great cause of winning the war. Today the industry is unremitting in this effort, and yet in common with every other line of business is looking forward to conditions which will exist after the war, and is endeavoring to anticipate with intelligent foresight the situation which will then exist.

In this connection it is vital to note that by all laws of economics the building trades are destined to enjoy a tremendous revival of activity during the post-war period. Present quietness in the industry will be more than offset by renewed activities in building after the war is won. Evidence multiplies of the planning for new building after the war. A straw showing which way the wind blows is the Congressional appropriation of $100,000 for investigating the reclamation of swamp and cut-over timber lands. One of the purposes is to provide farming lands for the millions of soldiers who will return to civilian life and to whom occupation must be furnished. It is noteworthy that the authorities have urged the appropriation of $2,000,000 for investigations of this character. Certainly if the United States plays a proportionate part in the program of post-war activity projected by other countries our share in the revival of building and allied industries will be tremendous.

For some time the importance of this reconstruction problem has been widely appreciated abroad and far-reaching legislation has been proposed. In many cases bills have already been passed looking to the providing of homes and occupation for the millions who have risked their lives in the defense of home and country. In Australia $100,000,000 has been appropriated for use after the war in providing and improving land for homes for returning soldiers. If a corresponding amount were appropriated by the United States in proportion to the relative population this would mean an amount of $2,000,000,000. Similar measures will be undertaken by Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany and Italy.

Moreover, the building trades of the United States have also to consider the significant fact that we may rightfully be called upon to carry out reconstruction not only for ourselves, but for other countries as well. Reconstruction and housing problems will be especially acute in those lands where density of population is a serious problem. This will mean that, in addition to a vast amount of building activity at home, the building and allied trades will be called upon to fill orders for building materials for the housing of the returning millions in other nations.

The housing problem is far broader in its scope than the mere erection of dwelling houses. In its widest aspects reconstruction, especially in so far as related to reclamation and other farming projects, may be expected to include road building, public utilities, municipal improvements, and in fact all the varied activities associated with the building of practically new communities. Altogether, in view of new construction which will be necessitated, it is not too much to anticipate that the building trades will themselves experience one of the greatest periods of activity and prosperity in their entire history.

Official reports on the building situation in Canada covering thirty-five cities indicate that building operations at present, as judged by building permits, are within about 10 per cent. of the value for the corresponding period of last year. In fact, in five provinces there is an actual increase in activity ranging from about 83 per cent. gain over last year for Nova Scotia to 2 per cent. gain for Saskatchewan, with the intervening figures as follows:

Alberta, 37 per cent. gain; British Columbia, 29 per cent. gain; Ontario, 22 per cent. gain. For the remaining provinces losses are reported as follows:

Manitoba, 42 per cent. loss; Quebec, 55 per cent. loss; New Brunswick, 69 per cent. loss.

With reference to the individual cities the highest percentage of gain over last year is reported for Fort William, which shows an increase of nearly 530 per cent. Other cities where the statistics indicate an encouraging degree of activity are as follows:

Kingston, 216 per cent. gain; Saint Catherines, 175 per cent. gain; Peterborough, 162 per cent. gain; Brantford, 157 per cent. gain. The city which shows the greatest decline is Saint Johns, with a loss of 96 per cent., although an unfavorable showing is also made by Sherbrooke, where the loss is 91 per cent., and by Port Arthur, Kitchener, London, Stratford, Montreal-Maisonnette, Westmount and Windsor. For all of the last named localities there are losses of 50 per cent. or more compared with last season.

Among the forces at work which may be expected to react favorably upon the building industry in Canada is the incessant growth of the shipbuilding industry. Estimates at hand from reliable sources effecting that before 1919 there will be available fifty-nine steel ships, totalling 290,000 tons, and fifty-three wooden ships, totalling 160,000 tons. The present rate of output is annually ten times that of peace years.

The department of marine has recently contracted for several new steel ships of 5,100 to 3,400 tons each, and it is expected that by November the keels will be laid for three vessels of 10,000 tons. Activity is also evident in various other lines of industry, and the eventual result can hardly fail to be reflected as a standing factor in the building trades.

Government Warehouses Costing $218,000,000

THE estimated cost for storage warehouses and other construction required to facilitate the speedy handling of materials at storage points for the use of the army, already erected and at present in the course of construction in the United States, is about $218,000,000. When completed these projects will provide approximately 33,800,000 square feet of warehouse space, additional wharves and piers and improved harbor depths at various points.

The largest of the warehouse projects is now under construction in Brooklyn. It is estimated that, when completed, it will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000,000 and provide 3,850,000 square feet of space available for storage purposes. There are two great buildings, each nine stories in height. Building A is 200 x 980 feet and will have twenty-seven elevators, each with a capacity of 10,000 pounds. Building B is 206 x 980 feet and will have thirty-six elevators. Both structures are built entirely of reinforced concrete and steel. There will be three new piers included in this great undertaking, 150 x 1,257 feet, and one pier measuring 70 x 1,300 feet. Five slips will be provided, three of which will be 250 x 1,300 feet, one 185 x 1,300 feet and one 145 x 1,300 feet. The three main piers will be connected to Building A by bridges at the second-story level. These terminals are to be served by railroad yards accommodating 1,480 cars. The estimated date of completion is July 1, 1919, although half of the warehouse space and one slip and pier will be ready for operation October 15, 1918. The work, under the direction of the Turner Construction Company, was started May 17 of this year.

At Boston, Mass., another important federal storage project is well under way, and the total cost of the building operations, both temporary and permanent, will reach about $29,111,890. The New Orleans warehouse facilities involve the construction of three warehouses and a large wharf house, and will cost, according to War Department estimates, about $20,000,000. The new quartermaster terminal at Charleston, commenced June 1, 1918, and scheduled to be completed by December 1, will cost approximately $11,550,000. The work at Norfolk, Va., includes the construction of both warehouses and piers, and will involve an expenditure of about $16,438,000. The Philadelphia quartermaster depot includes the construction of piers, railroad yards, dredging new channel and the erection of storage buildings, the whole operation to cost in the neighborhood of $30,000,000.

Additional storage facilities, designed along similar lines, have been constructed or are at present under construction at Chicago, Ill.; St. Louis, Mo.; Schenectady, N. Y.; New Cumberland, Pa.; Columbus, O.; Newport News, Va., and Little Rock, Ark.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

OUTSTANDING features in the building situation with the boundaries of the Metropolitan district are lacking this week. The period has been one of extreme quietude with the industry marking time and wondering to what extent it will be affected by the new draft. Aside from Government contracts and for construction work directly traceable to military activity the structural interests of this district are chiefly concerned with alteration projects and there are not many of this character.

In alteration work the chief interest is in those projects that call for the reconstruction of former private residences into studios and apartments. There are quite a few operations of this type actually under way at present and plans for others are being prepared. Owing to the general lack of new speculative and investment construction the addition of the facilities afforded by these remodelled buildings will be welcomed by homeseekers.

Building operations of a purely private nature are exceedingly scarce and structural interests hold little hope for a revival in work of this kind until the war has ceased and the economic conditions return to the normal of the pre-war period. The need for new construction is admitted in almost every quarter but the needs of the Government are of paramount importance to everyone, and everything that will not assist in furthering the Federal plans of speeding up war activity must be held in abeyance until conditions have materially improved.

Local markets for building materials and supplies are quiet and aside from Government orders transactions are light. Recently the number of inquiries have dropped off to a large extent and the manufacturers and handlers of structural commodities have no anticipation of renewed business until next year. Notwithstanding the curtailed volume of business building material, prices are well maintained in all departments and with the increased cost of labor, raw materials and general overhead, further advances are well within the range of possibility. There is almost a consensus of opinion that material prices have not yet reached their top levels and that in those lines that have not been taken under Federal control increase may be looked for.

Common Brick.—The wholesale market for Hudson River common brick has passed through a quiet week. The demand has slackened off considerably and there are few current inquiries for future deliveries. Arrivals have been in volume about equal to recent weeks but with the reduced demand there is somewhat of a surplus accumulating about the docks. Common brick prices are firm at $13.50 to $14 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots, with a few barges of superior grades being offered at $14.25. These prices are expected to hold for some time and there is no promise that the growing surplus will have a tendency to reduce quotations to any degree. The end of the manufacturing season is rapidly approaching and producers generally glad of it. The scarcity of labor, coupled with the limited output has increased the operating overhead to such a high percentage that but a slight margin of profit remains even at present high price levels. Up-river conditions are reflected in the Raritan situation and from all accounts there will be no brick from this district in the Metropolitan market until next year.

SUMMARY—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, September 6, 1918. Condition of market: Demand very light; prices steady. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $13.50 to $14 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 15; sales, 8. Distribution: Manhattan, 2; Brooklyn, 1; New Jersey points, 4; outside, 1.

Portland Cement.—Conditions in the Portland cement market are unchanged. The demand from Government sources continues heavy and is the dominating feature of trade at the present time. Prices are firm at the level that now has maintained for some time with the only change being the increase in the rebate upon returned bags. Upon all bags returned 25c. will be allowed instead of 10c. as heretofore. After the meeting of the War Service Committee of the cement industry on August 23, the price fixing committee of the War Industries Board fixed the following basis of prices for Portland cement, f.o.b. at the locations named, for Government purchases, effective for the four months ending December 31, 1918: Hudson, N. Y., $1.82; Northampton, Pa., $1.72, and Universal, Pa., $1.72. Shipments in bulk, 5 cents a barrel less; shipments in paper bags, 30 cents a bar-

Lumber.—Improved conditions in the Metropolitan lumber market have been manifest during the past two or three weeks and the circumstances are due for the greater part to the betterment of the transportation facilities. The improvement has chiefly affected the wholesale department of trade and has allowed a considerably enlarged volume of activity to this branch of the lumber industry. The retail market has slowed down perceptibly, due, in part, to a decreased demand from consuming channels. Orders from building sources are almost a negligible quantity, and although there is a small volume of suburban activity, the city building is at an extremely low ebb. Prospects for increased structural activity are anything but bright, and at the present only those operations are going ahead that are essential to the military program. Government demands are paramount in the market, and from all accounts this condition is likely to maintain until the end of the war. Prices in all branches of the lumber market continue firm and there are no immediate prospects of lowered prices for some time to come. Production is lower than normal and the labor situation is daily growing worse, and it is anticipated that the new draft will materially add to the hardships of the lumber producers.

Linseed Oil.—Recent arrivals of flaxseed from the Argentine have to some extent relieved the linseed oil situation. There is still a scarcity of this commodity that would undoubtedly become acute with a strengthening in the demand. Fortunately business in this line has been anything but active during the past month or six weeks and jobbers have been able to fill demands, although in some instances deliveries have been delayed. Manufacturers are the most important source of current business as there is little or no volume of ordering from building sources. Linseed oil prices have advanced and are firm at $1.95 a gallon in lots of five barrels or larger.

Wire Products.—The Government recently placed heavy orders for wire for shipment to France and there are strong rumors that the same interests have allotted orders for about 100,000 kegs of wire nails. Owing to the large wire and nail orders for Federal use and the fact that mills have been curtailed in output so that part of their facilities may be turned to the manufacture of steel shells, shipments to jobbers are a negligible quantity. Jobbers' stocks are at an extremely low ebb where they are not entirely depleted and there is no prospect that their supplies will be renewed for some time to come. Official prices are unchanged at $3.50 base, per keg for wire nails and $3.35 a hundred pounds for bright basic wire.

Structural Steel.—Although the only business of consequence in the steel industry is wholly for Government operations the total volume of the commitments for the month of August was not exceptionally large. There is almost no inquiry for fabricated material from private sources although it is definitely known that quite a number of large and important structural operations would immediately proceed if it were possible to obtain the required structural steel.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Although municipal buying has dropped off considerably there has been a marked improvement in the volume of business emanating from private sources that has operated to hold up the market situation. There is also a limited amount of business from the Government but this phase of activity is slowing down. Prices are unchanged. Government prices, including freight are as follows: 6 in., 8 in., and heavier, $61.75; 4 in., $64.75 and 3 in. $71.75.

Window Glass.—Except for the limited volume of business coming from Government sources the market for plate and window glass is without activity. The almost complete cessation of private building operations has cut off the source of business to the glass interests and no material improvement in the building situation is anticipated until the war is ended. Prices are exceedingly firm and indicate further advances in the near future.

Rivets.—There is practically no new demand for rivets from commercial sources. The limited output is being largely consumed by the Government on direct and indirect orders. Current quotations are as follows: Cone-head structural rivets, $4.40; cone-head boiler rivets, $4.50 per hundred pounds.

The Upward Trend

Real elevator service demands real power. Methods of twenty years ago will not do now. What was adequate at the time of the Spanish-American War is obsolete today

This in part accounts for the change in elevator service in the big twenty-one story office building of the

American Surety Company

100 Broadway

The seven hydraulic elevators, which have served since the structure was built, have been discarded and seven electric elevators of the traction type have taken their place. Electric motors totaling 425 horse-power operate the cars. The fact that current is supplied from the mains of The New York Edison Company insures adequate service at all times

The trend of big building management today is toward the better and more reliable service of the electric elevator. New buildings are equipped with electrics from the start. Existing buildings, to compete in the rental markets, must provide the best in transportation for their tenants

If you are still using the older methods of elevator operation, let our engineers study your property and submit a report showing the costs of electric service

Order to Breweries Will Affect Real Estate

Loss of Revenue, Computed by Comptroller at $6,000,000, Will Advance Tax Rate Many Points—Property May Regain Value

THE probable effect on real estate in New York City of the recent order of the National Fuel Administrator prohibiting the manufacture of beer after December 1 and the sale of that commodity after July 1, has occupied the minds of realty interests this week probably as much as it has those interested in the sale and manufacture of beer, especially as to the effect it will have on realty values and rentals and the further fact that the closing of saloons and other places where beer is sold will mean a falling off in the revenue of the city.

Just what the sale of beer in the City of New York means in the way of income may be conceived from the following figures compiled in the office of Comptroller Craig. In 1915 the city derived from liquor licenses $5,248,040.94, which represents fifty per cent. of the total amount received by the state. In 1916 the city's portion was $5,202,881.38, in 1917, $6,147,870.60, and this year under a new provision of the Liquor Tax Law the city will receive a revenue slightly in excess of fifty per cent. and to date has received $464,374.29. As liquor licenses are issued from October 1, the total figures will not be known until that time.

There are in the City of New York approximately 9,673 saloons, hotels and cafes where beer is sold, and the opinion prevails that a large majority of these places will fail to renew their licenses on October 1. Colonel Jacob Ruppert, a member of the board and president of the New York State Brewers' Association, puts the number as high as fifty per cent. The matter of continuing in business, however, is up to the brewers, since the license fees as a rule are advanced by the brewers and paid by the saloon keeper in weekly instalments. Just to what extent the brewers will decide to go in helping the saloon keepers this year is problematical in view of the order of the Fuel Administrator, which practically forces the brewers out of business.

The closing of so many places where beer is sold will put in the market thousands of stores and apartments occupied by saloon keepers and their families. It is a well-known fact that stores used for saloons return a higher revenue to the owners than do stores used for other business purposes, so that the argument is advanced that the vacation of these stores will result in decreased incomes from the properties and incidentally a decreased valuation of the property, since the income fixes the selling value of property.

Edward P. Doyle, president of the Society for the Prevention of Municipal Waste and the Protection of Property Rights in New York City, Inc., said yesterday:

"If the saloons close generally on December 1, it will mean between 9,000 and 10,000 vacant stores. These stores are the most desirable, as far as location is concerned, and have earned large rentals. There will probably be a loss, in rentals alone, of $9,000,000 yearly. This capitalized at 8 per cent. would mean a capital loss of $112,500,000.

"It will be claimed that many of these stores will be rented to merchants now occupying interior locations, but if so, they will be rented at a lower rate and the interior places left vacant. At present there are more vacant stores in the greater city than has ever been known before and the vacancies are increasing. Nine thousand vacancies will not only mean a loss of rents for the new vacancies, but by largely increasing the number of unoccupied stores it will mean a lowering of rents generally through competition.

"In my opinion the closing of saloons on December 1, 1918 will mean a loss of at least $10,000,000 directly and indirectly in rentals throughout the city, or a capital loss of $125,000,000, and an increase of taxes through loss in assessed valuations of $3,000,000 and a loss in revenue through the abandonment of licenses of $6,000,000. This would add between eleven and twelve points to the tax levy of 1919.

"I have already called attention to the fact that the coming levy would reach the constitutional limit. This would carry the levy beyond the limit and make it unconstitutional and invalid unless new sources of revenue are formed."

Charles F. Noyes states it would be idle to deny that prohibition would not, temporarily at least, result in a serious reduction of the income secured from many of the prominent locations, and would adversely affect real estate including apartments in which are located stores used for the cafe or liquor business.

Without attempting to go into the seriousness of the drastic and sudden edict that breweries must close December 1, and the fact that already many of the cafe proprietors have expressed an opinion that they will suspend operation on October 1, Mr. Noyes states:

"While the adverse effect on real estate will unquestionably be serious if we have prohibition, or if cafes and saloons are forced to close their doors, yet as time goes on this space will probably be made use of by other lines of business, and eventually—although it will be many years distant—I believe the income conditions will return to normal.

"New York City is growing rapidly, and when one takes into consideration that most cafe stores are in prominent locations, and such locations are in demand for eating places, shoe stores, haberdashery shops, cigar counters, etc., my opinion is that the blow will not be fatal, although exceptionally serious. It will be unfortunate to real estate interests to have 1,000 stores at prominent points close their doors at once."

William H. Shackford, of Daniel Birdsall & Co., Inc., said:

"I can see no detriment to realty values because of

What the Telephone Co. Will and Will Not Do

Official Statement from Vice-President Bethel Interpreting Government Order on Extension of Service

WHAT to expect in the way of new telephone connections or renewals or transfers of existing lines has been in doubt since the Government has taken over the telegraph and telephone business, landlords and tenants of apartment and office buildings have been anxious to have an authoritative statement of what action the telephone company might take in various circumstances. To clear up the situation the Record and Guide asked the New York Telephone Company for a statement of its interpretation of the order issued by Postmaster-General Bursleson for effecting a saving in the expense of the telephone business.

In reply to this request the following statement was sent to this publication by Mr. F. H. Bethel, vice-president of the New York Telephone Company:

"As requested by the Postmaster-General in his order, dated August 15, 1918, all new telephone service will, until further notice, be restricted to the classes enumerated in his order, quoted below:

To All Telephone Companies:

Pursuant to the authority vested in me by the President of the United States in his proclamation of July 22, 1918, you are notified that during the period of federal control, and unless and until otherwise advised by me, all telephone companies operating in the United States are directed:

To confine extensions and betterments to imperative and unavoidable work to meet war requirements and the vital commercial needs of the country. All companies should at once adopt and enforce such rules and regulations as may be necessary and proper to accomplish this result because of difficulties, incident to war conditions, of securing adequate supplies, labor and transportation."

In forwarding the statement of Mr. Bethel's printed above Mr. H. W. Casler, the advertising manager of the telephone company, wrote:

"This order affects only applications for new and additional service. It is obvious that service for ship-yards, munitions plants, federal, state and municipal governments falls within the class which will receive service without question. Service for industries listed by the Federal Government as non-essential and for residences falls without this class. There will be certain border-line cases which will have to be considered specifically on their merits as they arise."

It is evident that while telephones already installed would not be removed, it is assumed the burden of the war-time economy order will be felt by dwellers in new apartments or new residences, as well as those who had abrogated telephone contracts or allowed them to lapse. Another phase of the situation growing out of the order is that individuals holding telephone contracts may not transfer them, as, for example, in cases where apartment houses or private residences change ownership.

"Contracts for telephone service," a telephone official said, "are between individuals and the company, and the company could not in any circumstances recognize any private transaction between individuals to transfer service from one to another."

Owners of apartment houses who recently decided to discontinue their branch exchanges with a view to saving money and substitute slot telephones in booths for the accommodation of their tenants were said to be trying to revoke their cancellations of the branch exchange contracts. They were informed, however, that the cancellations were final and that the branch exchanges must come out by October 1. With the war economy order effective September 1 it was said many of these houses would probably be unable to secure slot machine installations and that tenants would have no telephone service.

Commission Holds Up Demand for Zone Fares

THE Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company notified the Public Service Commission this week that at the end of thirty days it would put into effect a new tariff, under which ten cents would be charged for many rides that now cost only five cents. It also asked for a modification of the transfer order of 1914 to correspond with the new tariff, which would cut off transfers at all except fifty-seven points.

At the offices of the Public Service Commission it was announced that there is no possibility that any part of the increases proposed by the Brooklyn Rapid Transit Company system will become effective until the whole matter has been thoroughly inquired into and all doubtful questions of law and fact carefully determined. The Commission has already suspended all of the proposed tariffs for a period of sixty day on motion of Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke pending hearing, and the Public Service Commission law gives the Commission power to suspend the new tariffs for a further period of three months in the event that its investigation into the propriety of the proposed increases and changes has not been concluded within the initial period of sixty days. Meanwhile all fares remain at five cents and transfers are given as at present. The initial hearing upon the propriety of the proposed increases was set down by the Commission for September 30 at 10:30 a. m.

Commissioner F. J. H. Kracke, one of the Brooklyn members of the Commission, said this morning:

"No resident of Brooklyn need have any fear that a ten-cent fare will be put in force or transfers withdrawn unless and until the company shows the urgent and undeniable need for such action. More than that I cannot with propriety say until I have heard the evidence. The company's proposal is one of the most sweeping and startling in the transportation history of this town. Strong proof will be required to justify letting any part of the new tariffs ever to become effective."

The company says it does not at all prefer the proposed plan to that suggested to the Board of Estimate some time ago, whereby all fares would be raised to seven cents, with two cents additional for a transfer. It declares that in some respects the latter would be less onerous and drastic, at the same time giving more substantial relief.

It is stated that since June 30 passenger receipts have fallen off $400,000, while operating expenses have increased steadily. Since August 2 wages have been increased to the extent of $1,000,000 a year.

Death of Douglas Robinson, Leading Realty Man

Stricken with Heart Disease While Planning Enlarged Activity
Necessitated by War Conditions

DOUGLAS ROBINSON, who died Thursday afternoon at Amsterdam, N. Y., was one of the leading real estate men in New York City, and prominent in many activities in this community. Mr. Robinson was taken suddenly ill on a New York Central train when on his way to his country home in Herkimer County, and died in a hospital from an attack of heart disease. He was in his sixty-fourth year.

Mr. Robinson's wife, who was with him when he died, was Miss Corinne Roosevelt, a sister of ex-President Roosevelt. He is survived also by two sons and a daughter, Theodore Douglas Robinson, formerly State Senator, who is now an officer in the training camp at Louisville, Ky.; Captain Monroe Douglas Robinson, now in command of Company B, 307th Communication Train, 37th Division, American Expeditionary Forces, now in France, and Mrs. Joseph Wright Alsop, wife of Senator Joseph Alsop, now a member of the Connecticut State Council of Defense. Another son, the youngest, Stewart Douglas Robinson, was accidentally killed at Harvard in 1909.

As President of the Douglas Robinson, Charles S. Brown Company, of No. 14 Wall Street, one of the largest real estate firms in the city, Mr. Robinson was a leading figure in realty circles. He was also president of the Douglas Land Company, trustee of the Atlantic Mutual Insurance Company and the Astor Trust Company.

Mr. Robinson was making preparations to take on more of the duties and responsibilities of his business enterprises than he had assumed in a number of years. William H. Wheelock, Vice President of the Douglas Robinson Company, has been selected by the Government to establish a real estate department, and this fact had led to the decision by Mr. Robinson to person-other great properties valued at many millions of dollars.

Mr. Robinson was one of the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway Company in 1908. He had many business connections in the city, but he devoted his time mainly to real estate operations. He was frequently called in as an expert by big corporations when they were in the market for real estate.

Mr. Robinson, accompanied by his wife, was received by the Japanese Emperor on May 5, 1910, and he was received by the Italian King in March, 1907. It was on the trip to Italy in 1907 that Mr. and Mrs. Robinson visited the Pope.

Mr. Robinson was graduated from Oxford in 1876. His town house was at No. 9 East Sixty-third street. His clubs were the University, State Realty Men, Riding, Down Town and the Essex County Club.

The funeral will be held at his country house, Henderson House, Warren, Herkimer County, N. Y.

ally take over more of the work of the company, believing that in this way he would be giving some aid in the winning of the war.

Among the large real estate transactions managed by Mr. Robinson was the assembling and buying for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company all the real estate that entered into the building of the Pennsylvania's new terminal in the Seventh avenue and Thirty-fourth street region. He executed a similar commission for the Hudson and Manhattan Railroad Company when the McAdoo tunnels were brought to the Hudson Terminal.

Up to the time that the late John Jacob Astor lost his life on the Titanic Mr. Robinson was a trustee of that part of the Astor estate which Mr. Astor's father had left in trust to Vincent Astor's father. Mr. Robinson also managed the affairs of the Kennedy estate and

Annual Convention of State Realty Men

THE 15th Annual Convention of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York held its first session on Thursday in Buffalo. The program included exercises yesterday and today. One of the proposals before the Convention is to organize a Federation of the Real Estate Boards on the general lines followed in several Western states.

The Convention was called to order at the Statler Hotel by Mr. Fenton M. Parke, President of the State Association. The delegates were welcomed by Frank L. Damforth, President of the Buffalo Real Estate Board, Mr. James Frank of New York, responding for the Association. During the first session there were reports followed by a discussion on stabilizing and liquidizing of mortgages by Alfred H. Wagg and M. Morgenthau, Jr., of New York, and George E. Priest, of Batavia, three former presidents of the State Association.

The program for yesterday included papers on "Amortization of Mortgages," by Edgar A. Tredwell of New York City; "Stabilizing and Liquidifying of Real Estate Mortgages," by John W. Parish of New York City; "The Possibilities of Realtors in Extension of Activities of Building Loan Association," by Anning S. Prall of New York City.

The convention will close to-day with an election of officers and a "Hoover" dinner.

Real Estate Taxes Heavier Than in Other Cities

New York Property Bears Greater Burden Than in Other Big Municipalities—City Impairing Its Credit

FACTORS in the fixing of rents, the supply of mortgage money, the encouragement to building construction and also the promise of profit from real estate investment, are to be found in the census report on municipal revenue for 1917, just issued. The Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests calls attention to some of the more important facts in the following statement:

"New proof is afforded by the report mentioned of the claims made by the Advisory Council that New York's tax burden is the highest per capita of any of the large cities of the country and that this city imposes the highest proportion thereof upon one class of property. Also, the tendency is for this condition to become more burdensome even apart from the conditions created by the war. This constant pressure can only result in higher rents, reduction in loanable value, less building activity and smaller investments.

"These facts and principles are not called to the attention of the public by the New York Tax Reform Association, the tax committee of the City Club or the other single tax propagandists. However, they are of special importance at this time when the city budget for 1919 is under consideration. They are of interest to every citizen. They indicate the need for a close study of the purpose, cost and management of every municipal function. The relation of taxation to production and to capital values has been discussed at unusual length in connection with the War Revenue Bill. It must be clear to every thinking person that there is some relation between the municipal budget and real property depreciation and the complaints of tenants. Furthermore, it is not good business for any municipality to exhaust its powers of both borrowing and taxing as thereby its credit may be seriously impaired.

"The following statistics furnish new proof that the real estate interests, including all tenants and lessees, have been imposed upon and are paying the price of 'the most vicious form of single tax ever perpetrated upon any people in America,' as stated by the State Auditor of Ohio.

"This census report for 1917 states the population of New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, St. Louis and Boston, respectively, as follows: 5,600,000, 2,500,000, 1,700,000, 760,000 and 767,000. The next five cities have about 600,000 each, viz.: Cleveland, Detroit, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

"The total revenue of these cities in 1917 were in the order named as follows in millions: 236, 88, 46, 26, 38, 14, 23, 18, 46 and 23. It therefore appears that the Chicago budget was only one-third that of New York, although it is one-half the size. The Philadelphia budget is one-fifth the size of the New York, although its population is about one-third. The St. Louis budget is only one-ninth of the New York, although its population compares as one to seven. The same disproportion appears in all cases, Pittsburgh excepted.

"This situation is not improved by any deduction for special assessments and other special charges for outlays, as the proportion of the various budgets therefor was as follows: New York, 6.3; Chicago, 1.5; Philadelphia, .1; St. Louis, 10.2, and the other cities, respectively as named, 10.2, 1.0, 8.4, 8.9, 1.9, 8.4, 10.1.

"The percentage of the total revenue derived from business taxes and licenses vary in the different cities, the percentage levied in New York being among the lowest of the ten cities, the percentages of the total income from this source being as follows for the respective cities: 3.3, 11.2, 4.9, 15.2, 3.3, 4.7, 3.2, 6.7, 3.6, 6.5.

"The proportion of these business and license taxes derived from the liquor traffic is of special interest at this time. 2.2 per cent. of the 1917 New York City revenue, or $5,196,588, was paid by the liquor traffic. This was a decrease of about one million dollars from the amount formerly collected therefrom. In 1903 the city revenue from the liquor business was 5.3 per cent. of its total budget and the percentage has decreased annually since then.

"The percentage of the liquor taxes to the revenue receipts in the cities named was as follows: 2.2, 8.0, 4.1, 4.2, 4.7, 4.1, 3.1, 5.6, 3.0, 6.2.

"Earnings of general departments generally range from about 3 per cent. of total revenues up to nearly 8 per cent. in Detroit, but New York received less than 1 per cent.

"Special receipts from donations and pension assessments in New York totaled 1.3 per cent. of the receipts, Boston 0.5 per cent., all the other cities receiving more up to Detroit with 5.8 per cent.

"Highway privileges, rents and interest paid New York, 7.6 per cent.; Philadelphia, 15.6 per cent.; Baltimore, 10.7 per cent., but most of the other cities received less than New York.

"Public service enterprises contributed 8.9 per cent. of the New York budget, which was about the average for the ten cities.

"This leaves a total levy on property of 71.5 per cent. in New York. Practically all of this amount was a levy upon real estate, as is well known. The percentage of the city revenues from the property taxes in the other places named was as follows: 55.9, 59.7, 56.3, 74.6, 61.8, 64.0, 61.0, 73.5, 64.1. Although the percentage for Boston is above that for New York, the levy upon real estate is shown to be at a higher percentage in New York, both by reference to total budget as compared with population mentioned above, and also to the fact that Boston has a tax limit law.

"In further reference to the possibility of raising a larger amount of city revenues from business and license taxes, as urged by the president of the Taxpayers' Association for the 12th and 19th Wards, Mr. Henry Bloch, mention may be made of the fact that whereas the list of license taxes for New York comprises only 55, of which four are on vehicles and three on peddlers, there are many southern and western cities which have even three and four times as many such special charges."

Brewery Order Will Affect Realty

the law forbidding the manufacture and sale of beer, and, in this connection, I include spirituous liquors as well. In my opinion the best way to exemplify this is to cite the effect as observed in the district between Duane and Bleecker streets, contiguous to Broadway.

"In the past twelve or fourteen years as many as fifteen cafes, some of them famous ones in their day, have passed out of existence and no others have taken their places.

"This district, as is well known, has gone through a very dull time because of the changes in occupancy and, notwithstanding this fact, all of these stores, in which cafes were located, are now occupied by successful mercantile concerns. Not only has this change occurred, but with the passing of the saloons from the stores, the upper portions of the buildings have improved in value, for it is needless to say that there is always a great hesitancy on the part of representative concerns to locate their business in buildings in which a cafe is conducted."

Editor of the Record and Guide:

If the proposed increase in carfares is found essential, it should be done with the proviso that all New York City car lines interchange transfers universally. This would not necessarily decrease their receipts in legitimate fares, because the interchange would even out and at the same time afford the traveling public to move about Manhattan without congesting certain thoroughfares or lines at the expense of others; particularly Second avenue line, which cars run empty most of the time because of lack of transfer privileges.

This arrangement would satisfy the "wolf" and spare the "sheep" simultaneously.

May Complete Buildings Under Construction

But Government Ruling Prohibits Non-War Projects Costing More Than Twenty-five Hundred Dollars

THE construction of new buildings and extensive alterations and repairs to structures that will not directly contribute to the winning of the war will be effectually held up for an indefinite period and possibly for the duration of hostilities by the terms of the recent ruling of the War Industries Board, which withholds all priorities for building materials entering into projects of a non-war character. According to the statement authorized last week by Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the War Industries Board, the ruling was made so that building materials and labor essential to the military program could be released immediately. The line has been sharply drawn and prevents all new construction and alterations and repairs that cost in the aggregate more than $2,500 excepting certain classes of construction that come directly under federal control or for which a special written permit issued by the Chief of Non-War Construction of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board has been obtained. Structural projects involving an expenditure in excess of $2,500 will be unable to obtain the required materials from manufacturers or dealers and must be held in abeyance until the ruling is abrogated or modified.

Dealers in building materials, brick, lime, cement, etc., have been asked by the Board to sign pledges to the effect that as long as the present emergency exists no materials for new construction will be deliberately sold or delivered to builders or their operations where the total cost of the project is in excess of $2,500.

Early in the week there was considerable uncertainty as to the exact status of the large operations that are at present under construction. Material dealers were not sure that the ruling did not apply to new structures or large alteration projects that had already been started or upon which work was well advanced. The matter was taken up with the authorities at Washington, and Wednesday morning the first reply to this question was received by Harold Hammond, secretary of the Hudson River Brick Manufacturers' Association. The letter was from the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board, and read as follows:

"Circular No. 21, issued by the Priority Division of the War Industries Board under date of September 3, 1918, dealing with the non-war construction, applies only to projected buildings, not those already begun. Where a substantial portion of a building has already been constructed manufacturers and distributors of and dealers in building materials may continue to furnish such materials for the completion of such buildings pending further action by the War Industries Board. The local representatives of the Council of National Defense are requested to make surveys of all building activities in their respective territories and report same as promptly as possible to their state chairmen, together with their recommendations concerning the necessity for the continuance of such construction, or deferring same until after the war. The state chairmen will in turn forward such reports with their recommendations to D. R. McLennan, chairman of the Non-War Construction of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board, Washington, D. C."

Prominent among the structures that are permitted to proceed by the terms of this document are the Hotels Commodore and Pennsylvania, as well as some other smaller hotel projects in this city and quite a number of operations already well advanced in construction that are imperatively needed for the housing of the industrial and commercial activity of this territory, as well as supplying homes for a number of families.

The Government, through the War Industries Board, intends to keep a close check upon the building situation in all parts of the country. In order to simplify and facilitate this work building material dealers are required to report monthly a statement of their commodity sales, with the location to which materials were delivered, the amounts involved in each order, name of consignee and the purpose for which the materials were to be used. The reports for each kind of material, brick, lime, cement, etc., are to be made direct to the association controlling the manufacture of said commodity. These central bodies will in turn report in a monthly statement direct to the War Industries Board. If it is discovered that material dealers are not living up to the intent of the recent ruling regarding the sale and delivery of materials to non-war building operations priorities for the deliver of materials from manufacturers will be revoked. There is no penalty attached, the dealers being placed strictly on their honor as patriotic citizens and industries to support the Government while the emergency shall last.

The local building field will feel the effects of the recent ruling preventing new construction in no uncertain manner. Although there has been a steady decline in the number of private building operations for many months past and the total amount expended for operations of a non-war character has dropped almost to a negligible figure, there had been indications of late that before long the building situation would radically improve, and the structural interests were making their plans to take on a materially increased volume of construction work. During the past few months plans have been prepared for quite a substantial amount of private and semi-private construction that will now be held in abeyance under the terms of the War Industries Board ruling.

The Board of Education of the city of New York contemplated during the coming year the erection of about fifteen new school buildings in various parts of Greater New York, and alterations, additions and extensive repairs to a number of existing school structures. C. B. J. Snyder, architect for the Board of Education, has completed his plans and specifications for this work, which would have called for the expenditure of approximately $9,000,000 of city funds; but this construction cannot now be started because of the fact that when representatives of the Board of Education presented their applications for priorities for materials an adverse decision was rendered by the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board.

Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the Board, in connection with this matter, authorized the following this week:

"The statement made recently in newspapers that the War Industries Board had been unable to approve the new school building projects in New York City and other points because of shortage in materials, involved was accurate as printed. The telegram printed Saturday morning in some of the New York papers as coming from the Board to the effect that 'report in papers is premature' referred to the fact that the official ruling has not yet been formulated, although the Board has reached a decision. This, as published, is that for the present no non-war building enterprises can be given priority rating except for replacement or emergency cases. The need for conservation to the point of sacrifice is so great that the Board can consistently take no other course. It expects that one building will be made to do the work of two during the period of pressure."

The wide-reaching effect of the ruling of the War Industries Board is probably best evidenced by the fact that the city of New York has been requested to forward to Washington all plans for municipal improvements contemplated for an early start. Only such projects as are fundamentally essential to the health of the community will be permitted to proceed. Already a number of repaving plans for this city have been held up for the duration of the war, and a large part of the balance of the work planned by the municipality will be placed in abeyance indefinitely. The construction of the new state prison, an operation that would have cost approximately $10,000,000, and which was out for estimates, has been recalled and will not be started until

Opposes Taxation of Income From City Bonds

Mayor Hylan Starts Movement to Secure Elimination of Provision from Revenue Bill Now Pending in Congress

AMONG the provisions of the pending revenue measure in Congress is one for the taxing of the income obtained from municipal bonds. The city authorities are exceedingly anxious that this section of the bill shall be eliminated before its passage, fearing that the effect of its enactment into law will be disastrous to the credit of the city through the depreciation of bonds which have been sold and depressing the price at which future issues may be marketed.

Comptroller Craig several weeks since took the matter up with the Washington authorities and with the New York representatives in Congress, but with apparently little success so far. Replies to inquiries as to the probable action of Congress stated that Congress now generally believed the provision of the bill to be unconstitutional, but that there was little doubt, as it was apparently a part of the administration program, that it would be passed.

In an effort to create public sentiment against the proposed action Mayor Hylan has sent the following letter to the mayors of the principal cities in the country:

September 6, 1918.

Sir:

I take the liberty of calling your attention as mayor of a municipality that has borrowed or may expect to borrow money hereafter on municipal bonds to the provisions of Sections 213, clause 4, and 214, clause 2, of the Revenue Bill, now under consideration by Congress.

Even if these are constitutional, which I doubt, they will depreciate the value of securities issued by municipalities out of all proportion to the gain to the national treasury, and will raise the tax rate in every city in the country unreasonably. Furthermore, if these provisions should later on be declared unconstitutional the cities would have had to pay high money rates without the national treasury gaining thereby.

I am asking the New York Senators and Congressmen to urge a revision of these provisions of the proposed Revenue Bill as discriminatory and of doubtful value.

The comparatively small amount of additional tax that is expected thus to be raised for the Government could very easily and much better be otherwise secured without inflicting a great and irreparable injury on the credit of the municipalities of the nation.

I respectfully suggest, if you feel as I do on this subject, that you communicate your views to the mayors and members of Congress from your state as it is a matter that vitally affects all municipalities throughout the country.

JOHN F. HYLAN, Mayor.

A similar letter sent by the mayor to all members of Congress from New York State contained the following:

"Aside from the question of the constitutional right of Congress to pass legislation affecting the past, as well as the future, financial contracts of a political subdivision of a state the proposed legislation is objectionable because, without any corresponding financial benefit to the nation, whose requirements are, of course, concededly paramount, it will do great and irreparable injury to the credit of every municipality in the country.

"I feel, too, that it is in a sense discriminatory because it would operate to give an undue preference to farm loan bonds as against securities issued by states or municipalities."

Calls on Dr. Garfield to Investigate Gas Rates

Commissioner Whitney Says Companies Obtain Large Incomes from Manufacture of Toluol

THAT gas consumers of New York City are contributing a very substantial share of high explosives to the American Army is indicated in a report just filed by Commissioner Travis H. Whitney and approved by the Public Service Commission for transmission to Dr. Garfield, Federal Fuel Administrator. Commissioner Whitney points out that under contracts with the Ordnance Department the large gas companies are now washing toluol, the chief constituent of T.N.T., from the gas; and that while the legal standard is 22 candle-power and the equivalent heat content in 1917 was 670 B. T. U's. (British Thermal Units), the gas is now about 16 candle-power and 625 B. T. U's. The reduction in quality, Commissioner Whitney states, is a contribution by the consumers to the Government, as the companies get paid only the actual cost of extracting the toluol. The war requirements are so great, however, that further washing may be necessary, so that the quality may drop as low as 12 to 14 candle-power and 600 B. T. U's. Commissioner Whitney points out that the companies are not benefitting as a result of such reduction in quality for the reason that, under the toluol contracts, they are obliged to use as much oil as was necessary in preceding years to meet the 22 candle-power standard.

Commissioner Whitney recommends that Dr. Garfield be asked to review the entire situation in order that there may be a final determination as to whether there is any need of national fixation of standards, qualities, revenue and rates.

At the office of the Consolidated Gas Company an official of the company stated that not one complaint as to the heating value of gas had been received, although the reduction in B. T. U's. had been in operation for some time. The "candle-power" measure of gas value is generally obsolete, and not in use except in this city. Incidentally, a Government expert had testified that the human eye could not distinguish between the light from a 22-candle and an 18-candle burner. The gas company, it was stated, would continue to carry out any orders which might come from the National Government, at whatever cost to the company.

The Public Service Commission has denied the application of the Queens Borough Gas & Electric Company for permission to increase its rates, as a war emergency, from $1.15 per thousand cubic feet to $1.40 per thousand cubic feet for gas, and from 12 to 14 cents per kilowatt hour for electricity. The motion was adopted by a divided vote, Commissioners Whitney, Hervey and Kracke constituting the majority in favor of denying the application, while Chairman Hubbell and Commissioner Ordway opposed the motion, the two latter holding that an emergency existed entitling the company to some relief. Commissioner Whitney held that gas rates could not well be acted upon by State commissioners until the National Fuel Administration had fixed reasonable prices for gas and oil and had finally decided whether it would reduce the standard and quality of gas throughout the country.

On the ground that the Brooklyn Union Gas Company's earnings justify a higher return to stockholders than the current 6 per cent. dividend, Thomas Read, president of the Union Ferry Company of New York and Brooklyn, is soliciting proxies for the annual meeting on November 12. Mr. Read said yesterday that he had received the proxies of 700 or more of the 2,000 stockholders he had written to.

New Yorker Chosen Government Realty Expert

William H. Wheelock Appointed to Establish a Real Estate Department and Direct Its Many Activities

GOVERNMENT need for real estate in all parts of the country has reached such gigantic proportions that it has become necessary to establish a Real Estate Department, and to organize and direct the work of the department William H. Wheelock, vice-president of the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company and real estate manager of the great Trinity Church Corporation, has been selected.

Mr. Wheelock will be in the real estate department what Mr. Ryan is to the Aircraft Board, Mr. Stettinus to the Munitions Board, and Mr. Hurley to the Shipping Board. His immediate superior will be Quartermaster General Goethals, but the department will be practically an independent unit composed of the best experts from all parts of the country that Mr. Wheelock can obtain. To this department will be delegated the task of obtaining all sites and buildings to be used by all governmental departments and industries.

Having selected a site or building, Mr. Wheelock and his associates will negotiate purchase or lease, and failing to reach terms with the owner or tenant will commandeer the property, fixing the compensation to be paid by the Government. In New York alone the Federal Government has spent many millions of dollars since the war started in buying fees to properties and in taking over leased space. Its needs for more space are so great for offices, storage, hospitals, barracks and manufactories that many times the number of buildings that have been taken will be occupied within the next year or two provided the war lasts that long. Throughout the country the Government's real estate costs are mounting by the millions, and from now on all such properties, no matter where located, will be under the direction of Mr. Wheelock.

Mr. Wheelock will have no commission, but will serve under a civilian title. One of his principal assistants will be Simon Newman, who has been associated with him for many years in the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company, and who left that office several months ago to join the Government's real estate forces. Both Mr. Wheelock and Mr. Newman will give their services to the Government.

Mr. Wheelock is one of the younger generation of real estate brokers, but has had considerable experience in handling big real estate transactions, his most notable achievements being the sale of the American League park, the assembling of the site for the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Manhattan, and the purchase of the properties necessary in the construction of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad, better known as the McAdoo line.

In addition to his duties as vice-president of the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company, Mr. Wheelock is manager of the $15,000,000 holdings of the Trinity Church Corporation. Mr. Wheelock has elaborate plans for the development of this property, but they will now have to wait until the end of the war for execution. Mr. Wheelock married a daughter of the late Rev. Morgan Dix, rector of Trinity Church.

He is a member of the Real Estate Board of New York, and is one of the three representatives of the brokerage and management interests on the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests, vice-president of the Bradish-Johnson Estate Company and other real estate interests. He has announced his intention of giving up all active participation in his business affairs with the exception of the Trinity Corporation and will devote Saturdays and Mondays for the duration of the war for attention to these interests. The remainder of the time he will be stationed at the War Department in Washington.

Much greater speed is expected in handling the real estate branch of the Government through the creation of the new department of which Mr. Wheelock becomes the head, and much greater satisfaction to both the Government and to the individual owners and tenants affected by transactions that will be made. Since the war started the Government has been handicapped in taking over what property it needed by having in its service in all parts of the country, experts who had no authority to make deals. When a property was desired they would negotiate for it, prepare necessary papers and then go to Washington where the matter would be presented to the Quartermaster-General for his approval. Not being a real estate expert himself and having many other matters to attend to that official sometimes had to delay action or to act hastily. From now on Mr. Wheelock will be the final authority in all real estate matters, and working speedily with his own experts will see that full justice is done both the Government and the seller or lessee.

In announcing his designation as head of the Real Estate Department, Mr. Wheelock also made another and very patriotic announcement to the effect that during the war the Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company, will take over and manage the real estate business of all firms which would have to close up their offices because of the members entering the service.

The firm will manage and conduct the affairs of these firms just as they would their own business affairs on an agreed and equitable commission basis, stipulating to turn back to the broker their business at the end of the war. The Douglas Robinson-Charles S. Brown Company will handle, however, only properties of the same high class as the firm handle itself and will not undertake to manage and operate tenements or similar buildings, since they do not handle such property in their regular course of business.

Mr. Wheelock resides at 100 East 39th Street, Manhattan, but will divide his time between Washington and New York in the future, spending only Saturday, Sunday and Monday in Manhattan, the rest of the week in Washington.

May Complete Unfinished Buildings

conditions are radically changed or the ruling of the Board rescinded.

Although there have been strong rumors of governmental restriction of building operations, the recent ruling came generally as a distinct shock to the building interests, as the restrictions seem to be more drastic than were anticipated. Building contractors throughout the metropolitan district are not yet fully certain as to the manner in which they will endeavor to counteract the effect of the decision of the War Industries Board. Naturally the first thought was toward an effort to obtain additional contracts for direct federal construction or for industrial projects that will be permitted as essential to war aims.

At the present time there are no great prospects of largely increased federal building activity evident to the building trades. The majority of the cantonments required for mobilization purposes have been completed and so have numerous terminal facilities, warehouses and storage buildings. Most of the important munition plants have been finished and a great amount of the construction involved in erecting plants for the manufacture of ordnance, ammunition and other military essentials has been completed.

Although an indefinite amount of additional building of this nature will of necessity continue throughout the duration of the war, the urgency is not at present nearly so great as it was six months ago. The marked decline in the volume of strictly Government work has been quite noticeable during the past month or so, and this has released many thousands of skilled building mechanics and laborers who have been busy for more than a year on federal projects.

The Death of Mr. Robinson

The Record and Guide shares in the deep regret which so many thousand representative New Yorkers feel over the sudden death of Mr. Douglas Robinson.

For many years Mr. Robinson had occupied a most conspicuous position not only in the Metropolitan realty field, but also in the national field. The vastness of the projects he handled, the unerring judgment he displayed and the success which he attained in managing the interests of many important clients will be remembered for years to come.

Mr. Robinson made a deep impress on his day and generation. He will be sorely missed by associates and friends, to whom his accurate judgment and his attractive personality meant so much.

Mr. McAdoo's Sound Suggestions

Much comment has been made to the effect that Mr. Wm. G. McAdoo is a very busy man, with the multiple tasks he has to handle as Secretary of the Treasury in President Wilson's Cabinet, as Director-General of the railroads of the United States, as chief promoter of the various Liberty Loans and in other directions.

Despite all these activities, however, Mr. McAdoo has not been too busy to discover the weak spot in the forthcoming Liberty Loan campaign. That weak spot had as its sponsor Chairman Kitchin of the Ways and Means Committee. If Mr. Kitchin had been trying studiously to devise a plan for making a failure of the Fourth Liberty Loan he could not have accomplished more in that direction than by his taxation plans for raising war revenues.

Secretary McAdoo has taken a sound position in insisting that the interest on an amount of bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan which does not exceed $30,000 shall be exempt from income taxation for the duration of the war and for a limited period thereafter. His position also is sound when he demands exemption of interest on an amount of bonds of the First Liberty Loan converted, the Second Liberty Loan, converted or unconverted, and the Third Liberty Loan, the principal of which does not exceed $45,000 in the aggregate.

It is encouraging to note that these suggestions of Secretary McAdoo are receiving immediate and favorable attention in Congress. The success of the Fourth Liberty Loan is vital to the successful prosecution of the war and it is fortunate that Congress has so promptly recognized its advantages over the Kitchin plan.

When the Building Boom Comes

One of the problems to be solved at the end of the war is the question of the employment of men who have been called from civilian occupations not only into military life but into industries which provide the necessities of war—munitions, shipbuilding, and aircraft manufacture. With the ending of the war the demand for their services in these capacities will automatically disappear. Excess demand for labor such as is evident at the present time will tend to give way to unemployment and in a ratio corresponding to the suddenness with which labor has been drawn into industry. A recognition of this natural tendency should constitute an important step in any preparation to counteract it.

Eventually there will be found employment for all who seek it. Some unfilled positions, especially on farms and in heavy industrial occupations, will be immediately available after the war. Commercial expansion and growth in manufactures and an increased foreign trade will naturally call for more workers as time goes on. But these factors in alleviating conditions of unemployment will not of themselves suffice for the immediate need. Nor can the casual occasion be counted on to provide for a contingency of such magnitude and overwhelming importance. The war has pointed out the insufficiency and futility of individual enterprise which is not backed by public support. The Government has been forced to take over the distribution of labor for war purposes. This is in the interests of winning the war.

Many employers and leaders of labor have suggested that Government aid be called upon to avert an unemployment crisis after the war. The organization is already formed and experienced which could attack the problem in the broadest way. The United States Employment Service is just now concentrating its resources upon "finding the man for the job." In its future potential capacity it should meet with even greater success in "finding the job for the man."

Mr. John B. Densmore, Director General of the United States Employment Service, in his address at the Labor Conference for Manufacturers, emphasized the certainty that "there will be work enough for everybody after the war if natural resources are developed and the brains of the country are then directed along constructive lines as they are now mobilized for destructive purposes."

This statement was supported by the information he gave concerning the plans which the President of the United States is now considering for bringing about industrial development after the war. Development of water power, new railroads, land reclamation, forestry work—these and many other undertakings will be made use of to bridge over the period while the country is changing back from a war basis to a peace basis.

The complete and inclusive organization of the Government will be able to follow the exact condition of the labor market, and so regulate these activities accordingly.

When this time comes, it will be just as much a patriotic duty to encourage a building boom as it now is to repress unessential construction which consumes materials needed in war industries. Both the housing of the returning soldiers and their re-establishment in the industrial world will depend largely for its success upon the building and allied trades. It is for them to recognize the responsibility as well as the opportunity which will be theirs after the war. The preparations which they are able to make during the present period will gauge the measure of their efficiency when the time actually comes.

Readers' Comments on Current Topics

Editor of the Record & Guide:

For the past week or more it has been rumored that the Government proposes to curtail the construction of all buildings whose cost is to exceed $2,500. I think that had the Government Officials sent representatives to New York City to analyze the building situation, they would not have been so hasty in making such a drastic proposal.

If this order should go into effect, it would mean that hundreds of builders, who were earning their livelihood by building, would be ruined. A great many, and in fact the majority of architects, would have to close down as well.

What really should be done is this: Discontinue the issuing of permits for theatres, public garages, stables, moving picture houses, and all other buildings which are of a non-essential character. The only class of buildings which should be permitted to go up are one and two family dwellings and all other buildings which are absolutely essential at this time for the housing of families. Factories for war purposes only are also essential.

With reference to dwellings in particular, we all know what a hard task it is either to rent an apartment or even buy a house at the present time. Since such is the case, I do not see as to why the Government should not help the people along instead of making matters worse. What should be done is to have a delegation of architects and builders go to Washington and lay their facts before the proper board and ask for a reconsideration. In doing this I think that it will be to their advantage.

Mayor After Personal Property Tax Dodgers

MAYOR HYLAN proposes to publish the names of citizens of New York who have been dodging payment of personal taxes by maintaining a legal residence outside the city limits. He has sent to President Cantor, of the Tax Department, a letter, which said in part:

"I am informed that there are many men who are very prominent in the business and financial circles in this city . . . who are assessed on the personal property . . . who have appeared before your board and evaded payment by making oath that they are non-residents of the city and generally give their places of residence in some small settlement just outside of the city of New York or in a neighboring State where the administration of the personal tax law is not effective and the rate much lower . . . while enjoying all the privileges of city life, including the benefits of police and fire protection.

"They . . . can always be relied upon to initiate all civic movements, while the people generally are under the impression that they pay their share of the city's expenses. They are also largely interested in our transit companies. . . .

"I wish that you would send me a list of these men . . . and I will endeavor by publishing their names to see that proper publicity is given them."

Shadows Cast by Skyscrapers

AT noon, on the shortest day of the year, the shadows of different skyscrapers envelop large areas. The Adams Express Building, which is 424 feet high, casts a shadow 875 feet in length; the Equitable Building, which is 493 feet high, one 1,018 feet in length; the Singer Tower, which is 546 feet high, one 1,127 feet in length; and the Woolworth Tower, which is 791 feet high, one 1,635 feet in length.

The effect of skyscrapers casting shadows from a sixth to a third of a mile in length on surrounding property is well illustrated in the case of the Equitable Building. Its shadow which at noon on December 21 is about one-fifth of a mile in length, completely envelops an area of 7.59 acres. The ground area of the Equitable Building is only 1.14 acres.

The shadow cuts off all sunshine from the Broadway façade of the United States Realty Building, which is twenty-one stories high. The New York Title & Mortgage Company Building, fourteen stories high, and the Washington Life Insurance Building, nineteen stories high, are both completely shaded. The south side of the Singer Tower is shaded to a height of twenty-seven stories. The nearest part of the City Investing Building 400 feet away is in shadow for twenty-four of its twenty-six stories. Even part of the New York Telephone Building north of Cortlandt street is shadowed by the Equitable Building.

Cedar street, the street immediately north of the Equitable Building, has an average width of 34 feet between Broadway and Nassau street. The height of the Equitable Building is  $14\frac{1}{2}$  times the width of this street. On a north and south street of this width in New York, uniformly improved on both sides with buildings having a height equal to that of the Equitable Building, only 9.31 per cent of the windows would receive any direct sunshine at noon on the shortest day in the year. On north and south streets only the windows nearest the top for a distance equal to 1.35 times the width of the street would receive direct sunshine at noon on December 21 at New York ( $40^{\circ}$  North Latitude). The windows in the first thirty-four stories nearest the ground would receive absolutely no direct sunlight. Direct sunlight would only enter those windows in the four stories nearest the top. Not a single window within 447 feet of the street level would receive a ray of direct sunshine.

The Equitable Building is, of course, an extreme case. But even in much lower buildings a considerable number receive absolutely no direct sunshine at the winter solstice. Up to a height equal to 1.35 times the width of such a street all the windows (assuming they fulfill the standard requirements described below) receive some sunshine. If the street, however, is improved with buildings one and one-half times the street width in height, only 90 per cent. of the windows obtain direct sunshine. If the height be increased to two times the street width the proportion receiving direct sunshine is reduced 67.5 per cent. The number of windows receiving direct sunshine on north and south streets with buildings of different heights is as follows: Two and one-half times, 54 per cent.; three times the width of the street above its center level receive 27 per cent.; and six times, 2.5 per cent.

LEGAL NOTES AFFECTING REALTY

Prepared by Committee on Real Estate Laws of

Action for Rent.

A LANDLORD sued for rent for the month of February, 1918, amounting to $38, and for $2.90 telephone charges. The defendant had leased an apartment in premises owned by the plaintiff, the rental being $38 per month, payable in advance, and, claiming a constructive eviction by failure of the plaintiff to furnish sufficient heat, vacated the premises on February 5, 1918. He sent a check to the plaintiff for five days' rent and $2.90, the amount of his telephone charges, which was returned to him.

The trial court found, after sufficient testimony to warrant such finding, that there was a lack of sufficient heat, and thereby constructive eviction, and gave judgment for the defendant. On appeal the plaintiff claimed, and the New York Appellate Court holds that in this claim he was correct, that as the defendant did not vacate the premises until February 5, 1918, at which time the rent was past due, judgment should have been given him for that month's rent. The authorities, the court said, are so numerous as to need no citation, that, to constitute a defense for rent, an eviction must take place before the rent becomes due. The judgment for the defendant was therefore reversed and judgment directed for the plaintiff.—Hampton v. Thomson, 170 N. Y. Supp. 400.

Enforcement of Restrictions.

The Circuit Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit, Crocker v. Ingersoll Engineering, etc., Co., 249 Fed. 31, holds that where a grantor subdivided the lands and disposed of them to numerous grantees, and the several deeds all contained a restrictive covenant in the nature of a condition subsequent, allowing the grantor to re-enter in event of breach, the restriction must be deemed for the benefit of the several grantees, and can be enforced by them, though the grantor had lost his rights of re-enter. Injunction is an appropriate remedy to enforce such a restrictive covenant. The running of limitations against the right of a grantor to enforce a restrictive covenant in the nature of a condition subsequent does not show that the grantee had freed his property from the incumbrance of the restriction, where it was enforceable by other grantees of the same grantor, whose number exceeded 100, for limitations available against the grantor might well not be available against all the grantees or their successors.

Options—Enforcement.

An owner agreed to convey her property to the defendant at any future time when the owner might elect, the intention being to give the defendant the option on the purchase of the property if the owner at any time should desire to sell, and the defendant agreed that if the owner should convey to him within a certain time he should make a certain payment. The Connecticut Supreme Court of Errors holds, Saraceno v. Carrano, 103 Atl. 631, that such agreements created a double option, a promise by the owner to sell at her option to the defendant at his option, unenforceable unless the owner elected to sell and the defendant elected to buy at the same time.

When there is an absolute agreement to sell at the purchaser's option, and no time is mentioned within which choice is to be made, the option must be exercised within a reasonable time. In all contracts to convey property at the option of the buyer to the seller, time is the essence of the agreement, and it would be unreasonable to hold that the owner could not, during her lifetime, exercise her right not to sell, and at the same time if she had agreed to sell the property at the defendant's option that such option must be exercised by the defendant within a reasonable time.

The defendant acquired no right beyond the privilege of purchase if the owner elected to sell for the price named, and it would be presumed after nine years that the owner elected not to sell.

Priority of Liens.

The Arkansas Supreme Court holds, Pemberton v. Barker, 203 S. W. 9, that in a suit by the first buyer of land against the immediate and a remote purchaser from him, the trial court properly treated the petition or complaint of the first buyer against the remote purchaser as for the sum claimed on the original action by the original vendor against the first buyer, and ruled properly in declaring the lien and directing sale of the land to be made to satisfy both the original vendor's lien and that of the first buyer, preserving in the distribution of the proceeds the priority of the original vendor.

Mortgage Tax.

New York Tax Law (Consol. Laws, c. 60) § 255, provides that supplemental instrument or mortgage, recorded pursuant to some provision or covenant in recorded instrument, shall not be subject to taxation unless it creates or secures a new or further indebtedness or obligation other than the principal obligation. Pursuant to recorded mortgage, providing that on request the mortgagor would execute to the mortgagee new bonds and a new mortgage, the mortgagor executed a new mortgage and bonds to take the place of the old, and for the same amount. The New York Appellate Division holds, People v. State Board, 169 N. Y. Supp. 978, that a mortgage tax could not be exacted as a condition to recording the new mortgage. The change of 33 bonds for $1,000 each in place of one bond of $33,000 was but a change in the form of the debt, which did not extinguish or affect the lien, the mortgage, being a "supplemental instrument," and the word "provision," as used in the statute, meaning a distinct clause.

Specific Performance.

A purchaser, knowing the property was subject to zone restrictions, reserved a complete power to cancel and have his deposit returned on ten days' notice, but, when the board of appeals granted him leave to erect the desired kind of structure on the property, he formally notified the vendor of his definite election to take the property, after which it was held in certiorari proceedings that the board of appeals had no authority to grant such leave. The New York Appellate Division holds Albany Heights Realty Co. v. Vogt, 169 N. Y. Supp. 1049, that the purchaser could not, on the ground of accident or mistake in the wording of the agreement, have the contract reformed, by inserting a clause relieving him from obligation to purchase in the event he could not use the premises for the desired purpose. In view, however, of the later review of the determination of the board of appeals by certiorari, specific performance of the contract would not be decreed, as it would be inequitable.

A court of equity, declining to grant specific performance, may decree compensatory damages, especially where both sides seek equitable relief, and the complaint pleads the alternatives of specific performance and money damages.

Where a purchaser, relying on permission of board of appeals to use the property for a desired purpose, gave notice that he closed the contract, the vendor, in suit for specific performance or for damages, as alternative relief, although denied specific performance because of later judicial holding that board of appeals had no authority to grant such permission, could recover such damages as, on the faith of the purchaser's notice, were incurred by reason of the purchaser's not taking title as agreed.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Downtown Holdings of Trinity Church Corporation Sold. Washington Heights and Bronx Apartments in Exchange. Leasing Good.

REALTY transactions this week centered on the sale by the Trinity Church Corporation of the southeast corner of Spring and Clark streets. This property which measures 90 ft. in Spring street and 175 ft. in Clark street has been in the market for some time and was held at $90,000. Except for the Spring street frontage on which are four old buildings, a flat and three dwellings, the property is unimproved. It is understood that a garage will be erected on the site, but confirmation of this could not be obtained as William H. Wheelock, Manager of Trinity Church Corporation, appointed this week head of the Real Estate department of the Federal Government, was in Washington. The sale of this property is in keeping with the announced intention of this corporation to sell or lease downtown property where the demand for space warranted, and this is a direct departure from the previous policy of the corporation to sell any of its holdings.

A downtown Sixth avenue corner with an entrance to the Hudson Tubes also figured in the sales of the week involving the one-story taxpayer at 114-116 Sixth avenue at the northeast corner of Ninth street. In the Washington Heights section apartment houses figured in an exchange when Abraham Ruth sold to Mrs. B. B. Newkirch, the northeast corner of Audubon avenue and 178th street, and 285 Audubon avenue adjoining two five story apartments, taking in part payment the block front in the north side of 158th street from 3rd to Fulton avenues, in the Bronx, a plot of 24 lots fronting 337 ft. in 168th street by 176 feet at Third avenue. Two large apartment houses on Riverside Drive, approximating $800,000, were involved in an exchange transaction closed this week. One of the properties involved is the Chesterfield, a ten story structure at the North corner of 98th street, built in 1910 by the Barkin Construction Co.

In the Bronx a new six story elevator apartment at 656 West 152nd street with an annual rental of $320,000, fully leased and held at $225,000, was sold by Nathan H. Brandt as Trustee, to the New York Protestant Episcopal School, taking in part payment the six story loft building at 390 Canal street and the vacant lot 135x100 at 515-29 East 79th street. The school takes the property as an investment.

Leasing continued good and one of the principal leases negotiated was that by Charles F. Noyes Co. of the New Amsinck Building, corner of Wall and Water streets, for many years occupied by the Ward Steamship Co. It is rumored that the Federal Government contemplates taking many of the large buildings located south of 59th street, and it is known that arrangements are being made by representatives of the Quartermaster's department for the leasing of a large westside building for the use of the local departments of the Government.

Another lease downtown of importance is that of 1-5 Congress street, 181 West Houston street and 189 West Houston street, to the Partola Manufacturing Company, manufacturers of patent medicines, made for the Congress Warehouse and Forwarding Company by Wm. A. White & Sons on a long lease and an aggregate rental approximating $750,000. The plot at Congress street is covered by a one story building, that at 3-5 Congress street with a five story building, 179-181 West Houston street is a vacant lot. 189 has on it a three and one-half story building and rear of 191 a one story building. The whole covers a plot of about 50,000 square feet.

Confirmation of the lease by the Government of the Grand Central Palace was made on Monday by J. H. Nixon, vice president of the Merchants' & Manufacturers' Exchange which owns the leasehold, who says that the Government has had actual possession of the building since September 1. The annual rental was announced at $395,000 and maintenance of the building, which is to be used for the period of the war and three months thereafter.

Torrens Title Successfully Closed.

Mr. Frank Fetzer, a member of the Torrens Title League, has just completed the registration of the title to No. 645 Lexington avenue, which he purchased from Philibert Combier. The purchase price was $43,000 and the total expense for official fees for registration including the survey is $128.35 which is a very considerable saving over the Title Company charges.

The examiners report on title was submitted to Judge Ottinger of the Supreme Court, previous to the closing and the title received the approval of the Court in time for the closing under the contract. This procedure gives the purchaser the great advantage of having before him at his closing the complete report on title confirmed by the judgment of the Supreme Court, so that no possible question can arise as to the validity of the title so that the purchaser runs no possible risk in his closing.

Altogether there are now twenty-five titles either complete for registration or in process in the several counties in the neighborhood of New York City. The majority of these are applications by purchasers under contract.

Successful Auction Sale.

The total realized by the Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company at its night auction sale of Brooklyn properties was $88,695. The Jere Johnson, Jr., Company was the auctioneer. The Van Brunt homestead, in Shore Drive, 68,380 square feet, was sold to Howard E.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 16 as against 20 last week and 16 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 10 as compared with 10 last week and 8 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregate 6, as compared with 10 last week and 8 a year ago.

From the Bronx 14 sales at private contract were reported as against 14 last week and 7 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 308 of this issue.

Riverside Drive Apartments Sold.

Two large apartment houses located on Riverside Drive corners with valuations approximating $800,000 are involved in an exchange transaction closed this week. The exact location of one of the properties in the Washington Heights section of the Drive could not be ascertained, but the larger house involved in the deal is the Chesterfield, a ten-story structure at the north corner of 98th street. The Chesterfield was built in 1910 by the Barkin Construction Company. It covers a plot fronting 106.5 feet on the Drive and 96.11 feet in 98th street. It was sold by the estate of George Abeel, of White Plains. Representatives of the estate could not be reached, but from another source it was learned that the disposal of the property had been made to operating interests who gave in part payment an apartment house on Riverside Drive in the vicinity of 180th street, valued in the neighborhood of $300,000. The Chesterfield, which has changed ownership several times in the past five years, was acquired by the late Mr. Abeel in a foreclosure auction conducted by Henry Brady last May for a bid of $446,150.

Trinity Corporation Sells.

Trinity Church Corporation has sold the southeast corner of Spring and Clark streets. The property has been in the market for some time at $90,000. It measures 90 feet in Spring street and 175 feet in Clark street. Except for the Spring street frontage, on which are four old buildings, a flat and three dwellings, the property is unimproved. The use which the new owner will make of the corner is not known. The impression is that a garage will be erected on the site. Two blocks to the south, where Clark street joins Broome street, 142 feet of frontage have been leased by the church corporation for a period said to be twenty-one years. The property leased is the row of six three story dwellings at 539 to 549 Broome street, which is on the south side of the street, facing up Clark street. The story is that the houses will be removed and the site improved with a garage. The property has a debt of 85 feet. Further details as to the character of the projected improvements or the name of the buyer or the lessee of the properties could not be learned, as William H. Wheelock, manager of the Trinity Church Corporation, was in Washington.

Buys on Washington Heights.

Washington Heights apartment houses and an unimproved block front in the Bronx figured in an exchange transaction this week. Abraham Ruth sold to Mrs. B. B. Newkirch the northeast corner of Audubon avenue and 178th street and 285 Audubon avenue, adjoining, two five-story apartment houses on a plot 100 by 95. In part payment the buyer gave the block front in the north side of 168th street, from Third to Fulton avenue, in the Bronx, a plot of twenty-four lots, fronting 337 feet in 168th street, by 176 feet on Third avenue by irregular. Frederick Zittell & Sons were the brokers in the deal.

School Buys Bronx Property.

Nathan H. Brandt, as trustee, sold through Samuel Kronsky, 656 West 162d street, a new 6-story elevator apartment, 125x100, fully leased, has an annual rent roll of $32,000, and held at $225,000. The buyer is the New York Protestant Episcopal School, which gave in part payment the 6-story loft building at 390 Canal street and the vacant plot, 135x100, at 515 to 529 East 79th street. The school will hold the Heights property as an investment.

Sixth Avenue Corner Sold.

A downtown Sixth avenue corner containing an entrance to the Hudson tubes was resold this week by Mary Margaret to a client of A. N. Gitterman. The property involved is the one-story taxpayer at 114 to 116 Sixth avenue, on a plot 40 by 93, at the northeast corner of Ninth street. The seller acquired the corner recently from Richard S. Elliott in a trade for 65 West Fifty-second street.

Abandon Building Project.

It having been reported that the New York Central Lines had abandoned their intentions of carrying out the plan of building the projected big station edifice at 149th street and Mott avenue, and certain interests, taking advantage of this rumor, having seized the opportunity to suggest that the 125th street station, in Manhattan, be therefore made a terminus, in place of the new 149th street station, the Bronx Board of Trade, mainly through whose activities the station-plans were approved by the railroad company and the city authorities takes this opportunity to state that there is absolutely no basis for any such rumor.

At the time the railroad systems of the country were placed under government control, the preliminary plans for the new station structure, and its various connections with the subway, had just met with the approval of the Board of Estimate, and the railroad company was working on the detailed plans, drawings, specifications, etc. At the present time this preparatory work is still going on, and the site is also being prepared for the station's construction.

The railroad company has never abandoned, and does not plan to abandon, its intentions of building the projected Bronx station, and when the resumption of building structures of the sort projected is permitted, the structure will be built.

OPEN FLAME BURNERS WASTE GAS

THE UNITED STATES GOVERNMENT AND THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION DISAPPROVE OF THOSE BURNERS

Open flame burners use 6 to 8 feet of Gas an hour. Perhaps more. That is a waste of Gas; of Coal and Oil, both of which we must conserve.

A Gas Mantle Burner consumes 3½ feet an hour and gives a far superior light.

We have a large assortment of Gas Fixtures and Lamps at all of our Branch Offices. Call and select the one best suited to your purposes.

was for many years occupied by the Ward Steamship Co. The building contains nearly 100,000 square feet of space and has been completely rebuilt from roof to basement from plans of Frederick Putnam Platt. The removal of
G. Amsinck & Co., a leading export and import house and one of the largest factors in the country with Central and South American trade, was the beginning of the strong movement towards the uplifting of all property values on lower states, will be transformed into a reconstruction hospital. J. H. Nixon, vice-president of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Exchange, which owns the leasehold and has been operating the Grand Central Palace, said that the Government has had actual possession of the building since September 1. The annual rental was announced at $395,000 and maintenance of the building, which is to be used for the period of the war and three months thereafter. The structure will be remodelled to accommodate 3,000 patients and is expected to be ready for occupancy by next December 1.

To Take West Side Building?

Prophecy that the Government would take many of the large buildings located south of Fifty-ninth street seems to be correct. It was the belief that the commandeering of the twenty-two story Printing Crafts Building, covering the Eighth avenue block between Third ty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, would meet the Government's needs for office space here, but it is now known that representatives of the Quartermaster's Department are making arrangements to take over another large West Side building for the use of the local departments of the great war plant which Uncle Sam is building up. This building, like the Printing Crafts Building, covers an entire block front and about 100 feet on each side street. It is eight stories high and comparatively modern, having been built not more than six years ago for the special use of the concern now in possession of it. It is of heavy construction, as every floor holds heavy machinery. This and the fact that the floors are open has attracted the attention of the War Department agents. Where the concern will find space to move to is one of the questions confronting the head of the firm. It cost the concern $50,000 to move to this building six years ago. At that time labor and material was cheap. It is expected that $75,000 would not do the job today.

Both Buyer

are brought closely together through the medium of this publication—a publication which has occupied its chosen field as an acknowledged leader and without competition for over half a century.

The seller has the direct advantage of direct appeal advertising—the very essence of profitable and economical publicity.

The seller is reaching the buyer at a time when his mind is in a receptive mood, at a time when he is reading not for relaxation but for business information and business betterment. Each advertisement forms an important cog in the matter of his enlightenment.

Buyers who realize their responsibilities read the advertisements, which disclose many interesting facts in connection with the advancement and development of real estate and building interests.

A direct business advantage will accrue to both buyer and seller by a careful spirit of co-operation on the part of both. All advertisements in this issue merit careful reading.

Hardships of Building Industry Not Permanent

Structural Interests Looking Forward to Prosperous Times After War Is Concluded

THAT war conditions have been responsible for the depression in many lines of building activity is known, both by statistics, covering the situation throughout the country and through the experience of those interested in the industry. That the war is continually creating new needs for additional building construction as well, is a fact that is more slowly coming into recognition. Mobilization projects as well as various other kinds of Government structural operations have been exceedingly heavy and there is yet a large amount of activity of this character to be placed under contract. At the present time work of this nature is practically all that the building interests of the nations have to look forward to for some time to come as recent rulings of the War Industries Board preclude the possibility of starting non-war projects while there is a scarcity of materials and labor for projected buildings essential to the success of the military program.

The natural shortage of buildings which has arisen from the repression of normal construction during the period of the war must eventually be compensated. Moreover, aside from this negative factor must be considered the positive one arising from the war situation itself. Actual requisition by the Government of buildings already standing will be of immediate effect. Especially in the more important Eastern cities, the extensive commandeering of storage space has resulted in a serious scarcity of storage facilities for general use. This condition is especially marked in the case of such resources as are adapted to the housing of heavy machinery for manufacturing purposes. While the urgency of the Federal need made the action of taking over these structures necessary at the present time, yet it is evident that unfavorable results might accrue unless remedial measures of some nature are not soon taken.

It must be realized, however, that steps to alleviate the difficulties of the building industry, unless they are extremely radical, cannot bring the building situation back to normal while the war continues. Yet it may be surely said that whatever the hardships the industry must undergo at this time as its contribution toward winning the war, fortunately they cannot be permanent. Unlike many other less fundamental industries which may perhaps not regain their original status for a long time if they are ever able to, the post-war future for the building industry and the trades allied to it looks better than ever before.

Although many housing and kindred problems have been intensified by the war conditions to the point where action is definitely called for the working out of the army draft has drawn considerable attention to the physical "unfitness" of the class usually held to be the most able citizens—the young men between the ages of twenty-one and thirty-one years. This selection for military service has revealed the fact that a large percentage of these are unfit for the heavy requirements of military duty. It is quite evident that there must be definite causes responsible for this condition. One factor which is recognized as contributing largely to this state of inefficiency is held to be the effect of the city slum. The pernicious results of overcrowding and congestion in the living quarters of large cities are becoming widely evident. They are being put before the public in graphic form.

Already England has recognized a similar condition and has met it by extensive legislation as well as appropriations for permanently improved housing conditions. England, although burdened by war financing as yet unthought of in this country, has found it essential that still more money be used in this form of reconstruction. As the United States becomes fully awake to the wisdom of such a move as a measure in safeguarding our national existence, important reconstruction plans may be expected. Some of those interested in the matter have even gone so far as to suggest that the question should become a national issue politically. Certainly one who knows the facts of the case and is interested in the country's welfare, realizes this question to be of more importance than many others which have been in the past more generally discussed.

England is a step ahead of us in this great movement. Its need has been agreed upon by the most diverse elements in her population. The agriculturist who desires the revival of the old rural system advocates it. Then there is the manufacturer who is interested in it from the standpoint of the employer seeking greater efficiency from his men. At the other end of the scale is the working man who is to occupy the houses. But more powerful than all these separate and distinct elements is the wish of the whole people to do the thing which is to maintain the health and general welfare of the nation.

In the practical application of the plan and the working out of its details, there is still a divergence of ideas. Especially is this true with regard to the financing of the scheme. Those interested from the builders standpoint hope for the carrying out of the project through government subvention to private enterprise. Others feel that the government should have direct control or should carry it out under the supervision of local authorities. The outstanding features of the housing plan require that the land for this purpose shall be permanently reserved. These various industrial towns shall be so situated in different localities that the needs of all England shall be served. To prevent a recurrence of the evils they are contending against, the communities are to be restricted in size and density of population. An area of 2,000 acres is the limit set and a ratio of 25 inhabitants to an acre, or of 50,000 to an acre will be the maximum allowed. The outlying district is planned to be given over to farming and will be maintained for that purpose.

Just what shape the similar and perhaps somewhat reflected agitation in this country will assume is as yet uncertain. But that it will eventually take form as a vital part of the past war reconstruction program is undoubted. In the interim, the progress made in the development of the plan will be followed by many with the most intense interest.

Making Nation-Wide Inventory of Steel Stocks

ANATION-WIDE inventory of steel on hand is being made by the War Industries Board at the instance of its chairman, Bernard M. Baruch, in co-operation with the Census Bureau of the Department of Commerce. The ascertainment of the supply of steel is of first importance in view of the deficiency of production of steel for direct and indirect war needs.

The present estimated total production of steel in sight is 17,000,000 tons, and war demands total over 23,000,000 tons, with the demand constantly rising. In a recent interview with the Washington newspaper correspondents, Mr. Baruch announced he could not approve requests for an ounce of steel for domestic uses, because of the imperative need of meeting the war demands.

The Census Bureau through its equipped census-taking organization, is sending questionnaires to more than 40,000 manufacturers in this country asking complete reports of stocks of steel on hand down to the smallest holdings. It is sought to reach every manufacturer who uses steel in any way and in any amount in his industry. Cheerful compliance with the Government's plan to inventory the stocks on hand is expected confidently by the War Industries Board, because of the win-the-war need that prompts the step, and because of the general character of the inquiry.

A number of industries—such as the automobile industry—have been called upon to report stocks of steel on hand that the War Industries Board may be guided in making an intelligent administration of the steel stocks. Mr. Baruch decided, however, it was necessary to gather complete information from all steel-using industries and the War Industries Board determined on a general inventory from all manufacturers.

CURRENT BUILDING OPERATIONS

BUILDING interests have been chiefly concerned, during the past week, by the rulings of the War Industries Board and their effects upon the local building situation in general. Although architects are continuing the preparation of plans for new structural operations these plans must be submitted to the Committee on Non-War Construction of the War Industries Board for approval before materials will be delivered for there construction. The ruling affects all construction, both new and alterations and repairs to existing structures that will cost in the aggregate more than $2,500, and practically ends all building operations that are not directly or indirectly for war needs for an indefinite period.

Contractors, sub-contractors and building material dealers have naturally turned to Federal building projects and the housing operations as the principal source of their business while the present emergency shall exist. As it stands now there is a goodly volume of strictly Government work still in progress with a large amount in prospect and the housing operations throughout the country are practically just starting, so there will be sufficient work for all interested in the building trades until such time as private operations are permitted to be resumed.

The material markets in general are quiet and there are no particularly bright prospects of a largely increased volume of activity during the autumn and winter months. Substantially all manufacturers and dealers in the building material lines are making plans for the great amount of new business that is bound to follow after the war is ended. From all accounts there will be a marked activity in building circles just as soon as peace is declared and conditions return again to the normal of the pre-war period. The lack of building endeavor during the past two years has created a scarcity of almost every kind of structure in the large communities and it is manifest that the country is underbuilt at the present time. This condition will be relieved as soon as the construction of new buildings can be permitted after the war-emergency is past.

Building material prices have undergone but slight change during the week. Common brick is holding firmly to the level of the past fortnight and other commodities have fluctuated but little during the last few days. All, however, are firm and there is no likelihood of a recession from the present figures for some time to come.

Common Brick.—Recent developments in the building situation have operated to slow down the brick market to a considerable degree. Although Hudson River common brick prices are holding firmly to the $13.50 to $14 level the sales are remarkably light and inquiries practically negligible. The outlook for the common brick interests is not particularly brilliant unless the Government should commence a buying movement of large proportions. Recent rulings by the War Industries Board have effectually stopped work on preparations for quite a number of fairly large structural projects, and at the present writing no one is willing to hazard a guess as to when the embargo on the sale of building materials for non-war construction will be lifted and work permitted to be resumed. There have been a few sales of brick for Federal use during the past two or three weeks, but they have not been anything like the volume that the producers were led to expect. Even with reduced buying on the part of private building interests there is but slight prospect that brick prices will recede from the existing levels as the cost of production is so high that any reduction from the present figures would allow of little or no profit to the manufacturers.

SUMMARY.—Transactions in the North River brick market for the week ending Friday, September 13, 1918. Condition of market: Demand light; prices unchanged. Quotations: Hudson Rivers, $13.50 to $14 a thousand to dealers in cargo lots alongside dock. Number of cargoes arrived, 12; sales, 11. Distribution: Manhattan, 4; Brooklyn, 4; New Jersey points, 3.

Lumber.—During the past week or so there have been indications of a reduction in the number of lumber buyers, but the demand for all kinds and grades remains strong and prices in all departments of trade are firm and with a strengthening tendency. Shipments from production points, both by rail and water, are coming through in better time than they have for some months past and the relieved traffic situation should have a marked effect upon the lumber situation generally. Practically the entire demand at the present time is emanating from Government sources and private consumers. The extremely limited volume of business coming from building interests is likely to be still further reduced as the result of the recent ruling of the Priorities Division of the War Industries Board, holding up all private construction that costs in the aggregate more than $2,500.

Structural Steel.—With the intense demand for steel for war work, which now calls for more than the entire annual production, there remains no possibility that any fabricated material will be available for building operations unless they are of the most essential character, and then every effort will be made to substitute other materials wherever possible. The week in the steel situation has been a quiet one as far as new commitments are concerned and practically no orders of consequence were placed for steel required for new structures within the bounds of the Metropolitan district.

Cut Nails.—The present output of cut nails is said to be not in excess of fifty per cent. of the shop capacity and that the prediction is current that this low rate of production will be further curtailed because of the fact that mills are turning over to the manufacture of steel shells for the Government. Jobbers' stocks are at a dangerously low ebb and some sizes are entirely out. Carload lots of cut nails are being quoted at $4 base, per keg.

Linseed Oil.—There is still a decided shortage in the supply of linseed due chiefly to the scarcity of labor at the crushers and also in part to the lack of flaxseed. Advices from the Northwest state that the new crop is maturing favorably and that the outlook for domestic seed is excellent. Owing to the scarcity of bottoms there is no great quantity of seed coming from Argentine, but with the reduced demand for linseed oil it is anticipated that prices will recede somewhat from the extremely high levels that have now maintained for a long time.

Window Glass.—Although business in this line is extremely dull, glass prices are firm and with a decided upward tendency owing chiefly to the scarcity of the commodity. Reserves at production points are at a low ebb and the supplies in the hands of the dealers are depleted and sizes broken. As yet there is nothing definite as to the time when the production of window glass will be resumed. From all accounts December is the month at present looked forward to as the time of beginning the new blast, but it may be sooner or later, according to the conditions of the next month or so. Practically the only real activity in the glass market is that business coming from Government sources, and the Navy Department recently made inquiry for about $150,000 worth of glass for delivery to eight navy yards in various parts of the country. At present there is almost no demand for glass from private building interests and the outlook is for a continuation of this condition.

Cast Iron Pipe.—Buying interest is lacking at the present writing and although there are a few Federal orders yet to be filled there is likely to be a scarcity of new business because of the restrictions to municipal and private improvements requiring this commodity. The War Industries Board has not included the mills turning out cast iron pipe in their list of preferred industries, but as the pipe shops are turning considerable of their output to direct and indirect Government business manufacturers believe they are protected. Government prices continue and including freight are as follows: 6 in., 8 in. and heavier, $61.75; 4 in., $64.75; and 3 in., $71.75.

Wire Products.—Federal orders for 21,000 tons of plain wire for shipment to France have been allocated to the mills, and contracts for 56,000 tons of black painted barb wire are now being drawn up. Of this order about 22,000 tons are for France and the balance for the United States War Department. Reports from jobbers state that their stocks on hand are at a low ebb and in some instances supplies are entirely out. There is sure to be a serious scarcity of both wire and wire nails throughout the autumn and winter months. Quotations are unchanged at $3.50 base, per keg, for wire nails, and $3.35 a hundred pounds for bright basic wire.

Portland Cement.—The market situation is quiet with manufacturers working to satisfy the demands from Government sources. Requirements from Federal construction have been growing in intensity, although demands from private building interests have fallen off materially. The manufacturing situation remains practically unchanged. Labor is scarce and it is expected that the new draft will take quite a number of men out of the industry. Cement prices are unchanged.

Proposal to Organize A State Mortgage Bank

Following Successful Operation of Federal Reserve and Farm Loan Banks, This Plan Put Forward to Stabilize Mortgages

AT the annual convention of the Real Estate Association of the State of New York, held last week at Buffalo, a paper was read by John W. Paris, of the Paris-Hencken Company of this city outlining a plan for the organization of a State Mortgage Bank for the purpose of liquefying and stabilizing real estate mortgages. Mr. Paris called attention to the success of the stabilizing of the banking system of the country through the organization of the Federal Reserve Bank, and of the successful operation of the Federal Farm Loan Bank in providing ample loans to farmers on approved security at low rates of interest for long and short terms.

The outline of Mr. Paris' plan for a Mortgage Bank follows:

To organize a State Mortgage Bank to be incorporated under a special act of the Legislature for the purpose of stabilizing the mortgage business of this State and making the mortgage security more liquid; to produce a revenue to the State and give to the public a more staple mortgage market at a more desirable rate of interest.

To incorporate a State Mortgage Bank with a minimum paid in capital of $1,000,000. Said stock to be subscribed by those trust companies, mortgage or investment companies desiring to avail themselves of its privileges. Trust companies, mortgage or investment companies operating under the banking department and subscribing to the stock, to have the privilege of depositing with the said State Mortgage Bank, first mortgages on real estate, made in conformity to restrictions hereinafter stipulated, and receiving in return either cash or bonds from the State Mortgage Bank. Said securities so deposited to be redeposited by the said bank with the Comptroller of the State of New York, and said State in turn to guarantee the payment of said bonds, both as to principal and interest. Mortgages deposited with the said Mortgage Bank to be guaranteed by the companies so depositing them, and when deposited by the State Mortgage Bank with the Comptroller, to be guaranteed to the State by the said State Mortgage Bank, accompanied by the guarantee from the company from whom received, which guarantee shall be duly assigned to the State for its protection.

Principal and interest to be collected by the said mortgage companies and all principal payments up to the amount advanced on account of said mortgage by the State Mortgage Bank to be immediately transmitted by the mortgage companies to the State Mortgage Bank, and interest payments equalling the rate of interest which the bonds of said bank guaranteed by the State, may bear, plus an additional 1 per cent. The State Mortgage Bank to turn over to the state comptroller cancelled bonds previously issued by it and guaranteed by the State in amounts equal to the principal payments received by it, together with a statement as to the mortgage or mortgages on which such payments were made, and likewise interest on the amount of bonds outstanding, said interest being  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1 per cent. in excess of the rate of interest which such bonds bear.

Every trust company, mortgage or investment company desiring to avail itself of the privileges of the State Mortgage Bank shall subscribe to its capital stock and shall be entitled to receive bonds up to fifteen times its capital subscription, subject to the rules and regulations of the State Mortgage Bank. Stock to be non-transferable so long as any mortgages assigned by said institution remain unredeemed.

No trust, mortgage or investment company shall be permitted to subscribe to said stock in excess of 50 per cent. of its total capital and surplus. Savings banks may enjoy the privileges of the State Mortgage Bank without capital subscription, but shall have the privileges of subscribing, but such stock shall be made a legal investment for such banks. All profits realized by the State Mortgage Bank, after paying operating expenses and a dividend not to exceed 6 per cent. on its capital stock, and 2 per cent. to a reserve shall be recognized as the property of the State and shall be turned over by the State Mortgage Bank to the State Treasurer for general State purposes.

Mortgages to be accepted by the State Mortgage Bank running for a maximum period of twenty years providing same are amortized at the rate of 2 per cent. per year, payable in equal semi-annual payments; or running for a maximum of fifteen years if amortized at the rate of  $1\frac{1}{2}$  per cent. per year, payable in semi-annual payments; or for a maximum of ten years if amortized at the rate of 1 per cent. per year; or running for a maximum of five years if amortized at the rate of  $\frac{1}{2}$  of 1 per cent. per year, or for less than five years without amortization.

The following advances shall be made:

On mortgages of  $1\frac{1}{2}\%$  to 2% amortization 100%

On mortgages of 1% to  $\frac{1}{2}\%$  amortization 95%

On mortgages of no amortization 90%

The substitution of securities by either the trust, mortgage or investment companies to the State Mortgage Bank, shall be permitted in lieu of cancelled bonds where principal payments were made.

In all cases where the mortgaged property is improved income property, the mortgage shall not exceed 60 per cent. of the ascertained value thereof. Where the property is unimproved and non-income producing, the mortgage shall not exceed 40 per cent. of such ascertained value. Such bonds shall be free from all taxes from which other State bonds are free. The interest on such bonds shall be paid by the State from

Candidates Asked Attitude Towards Realty

Real Estate Board Requests That All Running for Office Shall Declare Themselves on Tax Problems

THE following letter has been sent to all the Democratic and Republican candidates for the Senate and the Assembly, in the Boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, Bronx, Queens and Richmond, and also to the candidates for Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Comptroller, Treasurer, Attorney General, and State Engineer:

Dear Sir:—

We are in the midst of a great war which must be pressed to a successful conclusion no matter at what sacrifice of life and property. The burden of Federal Taxation is enormous, but is cheerfully borne with the full knowledge that as time goes on the burden may be greater and more onerous.

To enable the people to meet these ever increasing expenses of the Federal Government it becomes the paramount duty of all local legislative and administrative bodies to exercise the most rigid economy and to enact and carry out measures of relief. All unnecessary City, County and Borough departments should be abolished and those doing duplicate work should be consolidated. Existing building and labor laws should be amended so as to prevent unnecessary expense and yet adequately protect life and property.

The tax lien law should be repealed, or at least suspended during the period of the war and for two years after the war. The limit of taxation on real estate should be fixed at 2% or twenty mills and on personal property at one quarter of 1% or 2½ mills.

There should be but one place to pay all taxes and assessments, and the personal tax should be levied and collected before February 15th of each year, and the balance of the budget, less the surplus revenues of the general fund, should then be levied on real estate. These matters are of such importance that some expression of your sentiments regarding them are deemed necessary by the real estate interests of the city to enable them to determine with accuracy your attitude toward what they consider the most important question to be submitted to the next legislature or to be considered by executive heads.

Fall Golf Tournament of Real Estate Board

THE fall golf tournament of the Real Estate Board will be held next Thursday, Sept. 26, at the Arcala Country Club, between Hackensack and Paterson, N. J. The golf committee has issued the following announcement:

The committee feel that in these war times, we should do something for our Government while enjoying our game, and have therefore decided on War Savings Stamps as prizes in addition to the special cups.

The president's cup is for the lowest net score for 18 holes, all classes competing. Must be won twice. Presented by Laurence McGuire.

Best net selected.....36 holes

Edward D. MacMannus memorial cup for the best 36 holes net. Must be won twice. Presented by Mrs. Edward D. MacMannus. (An additional prize, "Guest Special.")

All 18-hole prizes will be based on the first round played, so that the morning score of those playing both morning and afternoon will be the one considered, and anyone playing during the afternoon only, may compete for any of the 18-hole prizes in various classes. In selected score competition, one-half of handicap will be used; all other competitions full handicap. Only one prize will be awarded to any one person.

The charge, including greens fee and lunch will be $5. Luncheon will be served from 11:30 a. m. to 2:30 p. m. It is requested that entries be made promptly, as there are many arrangements which it is necessary to make, including the arrangements for caddies, lunch, etc. Should there be any surplus after meeting expenses of the tournament it will be turned over to some war charity to be selected by the board of governors.

Entries may be made at the Real Estate Board of New York, 217 Broadway, stating the handicap at your home club, the par and length of your course, three best scores for the season, and any other information which you believe might be of assistance in correctly determining the handicap which you should receive. Play will start at 9 a. m.

Officers of State Realty Association

THE Real Estate Association of the State of New York concluded its annual convention held at Buffalo last week with the election of the following officers:

Fento M. Parke of Buffalo, president; James Frank, New York, first vice-president; Fred N. Van Patten, Syracuse, second vice-president; Anning S. Prall, Staten Island, third vice-president; Stephen N. Yater, New York City, treasurer.

The members of the executive committee are: Alfred H. Wagg, Malverne; Charles F. Foley, Lockport; Peter G. Ten Eyck, Albany; Daniel Donahue, Rochester; F. B. Kreason, Hornell; G. E. Priest, Batavia; George S. Horton, Brooklyn.

Drafting Bill to Give Relief to Real Estate

Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests Investigating Tax Problems and Framing Measure All Interests Can Support

TOTAL confiscation and total exemption are absolute extremes but both are among the effects of New York tax law and its administration. And yet individuals are supposed to be equal before the law," says a statement issued by the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests through its secretary, Leo Day Woodworth.

"If such a condition is not enough to condemn the present statute, note the further fact that the amount of property exempt from taxation far exceeds the amount reached by our general property tax. This condition has long been a source of complaint. It was established beyond all denial by the investigations of the 1915 Joint Legislative Committee on Taxation, of which Senator Ogden L. Mills was chairman. The commendably concise and explicit report of that committee was transmitted to the legislature in February, 1916. It has already been forgotten if we may judge by the failure of either taxpayers or legislators to heed its warnings or to follow its conclusions.

"True, the New York law adopts the customary tenet of taxing all property, both real and personal, and it was formerly assumed that all property should be taxed at a uniform rate. But such a rule of taxation is antiquated. It has become less and less effective with modern business development. Therefore, inequalities which were of minor importance and negligible a century ago when the cost of government was small and individual worth was found in tangible assets, have been glaringly magnified in New York with its unexampled accumulation of taxpaying ability largely represented by intangible property.

"The Mills' report (whose authors cannot be accused of prejudice in favor of real property) makes the following points:

"First, that real estate is paying the bulk of the taxes and that personal property, comparatively speaking, is escaping almost entirely. Since that report there has been a further decrease in the amount of personal property assessed until this year it is only about $250,000,000 in New York City, which is over half of that assessed in the entire state.

"Second, material increases have taken place in the past decade in bonded indebtedness, annual budget and the tax rate. These increases are too well known to require discussion. They are found in all the cities and in the State government.

"Third, the pay-as-you-go policy is likely to increase city budgets during the next few years. We have since noted that although there are new influences which have in fact repressed the enlargement of the city budget, its weight has substantially increased realty because of lower price levels and weakened taxpaying ability. It must also be remembered that the state too is on a pay-as-you-go basis and there has been a startling rate of increase in the State budget. Our preliminary survey indicates that the next state direct tax will be of unprecedented size if the present tax law is not amended.

"Fourth, that from the standpoint of equity real estate alone should not bear the full weight of increased taxes, and that if such a plan is attempted, serious consequences may ensue. It is strange that more people do not appreciate how they are affected, by tax methods which make mortgage money scarce, which decrease the amount of building and the quality of modern accommodations, which drive investors out of the real estate market and which as the result must both lower the quality of housing and increase its cost to tenants. These practical efforts should arouse wide interest even if the American sense of justice is undisturbed by the fact that in normal times 30 per cent. of the income of real property goes to the tax collector, while, for instance, much less than 1 per cent of the gross income of manufacturers is thus taken.

"Fifth, in rural districts the assessed value of real property is nearer to true value than formerly—the rates there have increased but personal property has almost ceased to exist for tax purposes. The Mills' report in another place called attention to the excessive tax burden now resting upon farmers: Whereas close to 90 per cent. of the farmer's capital is invested in land and buildings, less than 30 per cent. of industrial capital is so invested, the result being that in normal times close to 10 per cent of the net income from agriculture is paid in taxes, whereas only 2 per cent. of net income from manufacturing is thus paid. This is a condition which must be considered by those who would perfect the general tax laws.

"New complications now arise under the Federal war measures, both financial and regulatory. Not merely war profits but all profits are being withdrawn from state and local taxation, liquor and other business is either abolished or enormously restricted, franchise values are being wiped out by the same popular system of starvation which hamstrung the railroads. If the existing law stands unamended the resulting deficiency in state and local revenues will be exacted from real estate. The most bitter enemy of private ownership of land can have no greater pleasure than to oppose any change in the present system! We must view with distrust any system of ethics or social reform which fails to recognize the need for legislative relief for owners and tenants of real property at the present juncture.

"There are other points of no less importance and a situation which has been conceded by the last several legislatures to be acute may be summarized about as follows:

"First, the present budgets of both state and cities are entirely inadequate to maintain present functions;

"Second, no governmental agency is volunteering to suspend 'for the period of the war.'

"Third, politicians do not emulate the example of Governor Lowden of Illinois in obtaining more efficiency and less waste through extensive consolidation of our hundreds of departments, commissions and offices;

"Fourth, taxpayers do not force the economies which can come only through a scientific budget system;

"Fifth, our Federal war legislation is drying up the present sources of much state and local revenue.

"The indebtedness of the metropolis has reached the constitutional limits on both its bonding and taxing powers. The tendency of the state is to extend largely its need for debt service. It is even proposed that the Federal government shall tax all new issues of state and local securities and thus drive them from the mar-

Building Interests Plan Fourth Loan Campaign

Sub-Committees Organized for Allied Trades, and the Industry Is Solid for the Success of the Drive

THE plans of the Building and Allied Trades Committee for the Fourth Liberty Loan are practically completed and the industry is keyed up to a high pitch of enthusiasm for the drive that will begin September 28. The general committee for the building interests will again be under the chairmanship of Otto M. Eidlitz, who, by his hearty interest and co-operation, accomplished much for the success of past campaigns.

Sub-committees representing the various trades and commercial activities closely identified with the building industry have been completely organized. These committees, with their respective chairmen, are as follows: Asbestos Pipe & Boiler Covering, Owen Glasson; Builders, Shorers & Hoisters, Edwin Thatcher; Building Materials, Frank E. Wise; Cement Workers, H. C. Turner; Elevator Manufacturers, W. L. O'Connell; Glass Trade, Joseph Dreyfuss; Lighting Fixtures, Albert Wahle; Marble Industry, Benjamin Traitel; Metal Lathers, Max Baumann; Ornamental Bronze & Iron Workers, C. A. Fullerton; Painters, Carl H. Dabelstein; Plasterers, Davis Brown; Plumber & Gas Fitters, Joseph H. Jasper; Roofers, M. F. Westergren; Steam Fitters, W. H. Curtin; Steel & Iron Industry, Andrew J. Post; Stone, Herbert Brown; Wire Workers, E. Rattey, and Wood Workers, John I. Downey.

The chairmen of these sub-committees automatically become members of the Building and Allied Trades Committee for the Fourth Liberty Loan, but they will have entire charge of handling the progress of the forthcoming drive for their respective interests.

Up to the present time no exact quota for the building interests has been set. The amount allotted as the goal for the Third Loan drive for the industry was $5,000,000 and this figure was exceeded during the last few days of the campaign by nearly $1,500,000. The general committee for the building industry has every confidence that the allied trades which compose this important branch of industry will exert their full power and influence for the success of the Fourth Liberty Loan.

The Building and Allied Trades Committee for the Fourth Liberty Loan will canvass the whole of Greater New York. Each sub-committee has arranged with certain of their representatives in the Bronx and Brooklyn to have members on their various committees who will see to it that proper credit is given to their respective Boroughs for the amounts subscribed through the building trades drive.

The Rainbow Division of the Liberty Loan has made out cards for the entire city and has assigned them to various committees according to trade divisions. The central committee has authorized the trade committee holding these cards to make that particular canvass. Furthermore, each sub-committee must return the cards at the close of the campaign with notations of their canvass. It is proposed that no firm or individual shall be permitted to escape a personal solicitation for Liberty Bond subscriptions.

The cards that have been assigned bear the names of firms and corporations identified with the industry.

ket. With New York City's finances choked by limits upon both the bonding and the taxing power, can public credit be maintained? With large increases in the State budget in prospect and with its present sources of income seriously endangered, what other answer can there be except a further and great enlargement in the state direct tax?

"What is the position of the real estate owner, tenant, mortgagee and bondholder as the clouds envelop? Much more endangered than most of us perceive, or wish to admit!

"This need for genuine relief is held by some to indicate a selfish interest and some there are who seek to defeat any movement for such relief by charging a lack of patriotism. The easily ascertainable fact is that real property has been imposed upon to the direct personal loss of every person who uses it as owner or tenant. But now the reaction has come in the calling of mortgages, the raising of rents, inability to extend public service. Is it selfish to correct an evil which bears so directly on every man, woman and child in the State?

"Any sound measure for relief must rest on fact rather than theory. Heretofore we have listened to the siren calls of so-called 'indirect taxation,' or such as for a nominal payment merely dried up existing sources of revenue through exemption, or which were schemes promising much but yielding little. Meanwhile (1) budgets have continued to increase, (2) the desirability of land ownership has decreased, and (3) all possibility of further large public improvements has been wiped out. We now see endangered both public credit and meritorious projects for improving general conditions. All are affected by failure to conserve the property which supports them.

"Under these circumstances there is a clear need for an exact statement of the facts of the present situation—our revenue needs and how they may be met to the greatest general advantage. Having determined the budgetary needs and traced present taxes to their actual payee, it will be possible to locate the taxpayers who now escape their just proportion of taxation.

"Some months ago the Advisory Council of Real Estate Interests in New York appointed a special committee on taxation composed of Messrs. Albert G. Milbank, chairman; Alfred E. Marling, general chairman of the Council and member of the Real Estate Board; John J. Pulleyn, president of the Emigrant Industrial Savings Bank; Robert Walton Goelet; Robert E. Simon, president of the Henry Morgenthau Company; Walter Lindner, Esq., as counsel, he having served in a similar capacity for both the state and city investigation committees; Leo Day Woodworth, secretary.

"This committee has given careful consideration to the former reports, to the present conditions and tendencies and also to the various suggestions for legislation. It found that the several problems involved in meeting tax needs and in conserving real property demanded much more than the usual casual study of the situation. It accordingly has employed trained investigators to obtain the data necessary for the drafting of such bill or bills as should be supported by all the various interests affected as at least tending toward an adequate and equitable system of state and local taxation.

"This rather large undertaking has been begun under the direction of Prof. H. A. E. Chandler of Columbia University, who served in a like capacity for the Joint Legislative Committee. The co-operation of public officials and other institutions and persons having technical information has been proffered to the fullest extent. All have been assured that the investigation will be pursued without fear or favor to its logical end. Partisanship or property interest are not to color the conclusions.

"The work involves much sacrifice of time and considerable expenditure of money. A very considerable extension or reorganization of the committee may be necessary as their work develops, for it is confidently believed that all taxpayers in real estate and commercial organizations will see the advisability of co-operating in the final work of deciding among the various remedies which may offer. The Council is always glad to hear from any organization or person. It is not intended that any bill shall be placed before the legislature until there has been opportunity for careful study and consideration by everyone affected, both in the city and up-state."

Flags for Owners of Buildings Who Buy Bonds

Novel Suggestion of Mr. Laurence McGuire Adopted by Realty Men
Organized Under Chairman Alfred E. Marling

THE Real Estate Division of the Fourth Liberty Loan met on Thursday afternoon at the rooms of the Real Estate Board, 217 Broadway, at a luncheon arranged by Mr. Alfred E. Marling, chairman of the division, for the purpose of outlining the plans arranged for in the campaign that opens next Saturday and continues for three weeks thereafter.

About seventy-five representative real estate men were present at the meeting which preceded the luncheon. Mr. Marling presided and stated that as a result of the experience gained in the last campaign the workers in the coming one would be better equipped and should excel the excellent work done in the Third Loan drive.

Mr. Marling stated that a list containing 7,500 names had been compiled and divided into districts, and that every team captain and worker would be supplied with cards bearing the names of persons in the district who had subscribed to the last loan. He also stated that the Real Estate Division's quota in this drive will be $2,500,000 but that he expected when all returns are in that it will be found that the quota had been doubled.

Robert E. Simon, chairman of the Steering Committee, asked those at the meeting to donate the services of employees in their offices for tabulating and arranging the cards and other literature, and the required number was offered in a few minutes.

Mr. Laurence McGuire, president of the Real Estate Board, outlined an original plan for securing subscriptions from the owners of real estate throughout the city that appealed to every one present and was unanimously adopted. Mr. McGuire was also elected chairman of the committee to put the plan into effect.

Mr. McGuire said: "If we put our whole effort and labor back of this drive we can exceed our quota. In the last drive we received many complimentary subscriptions because of personal friendships for members of the committee, but in this campaign we should try to interest only real estate people and should bring to bear a salesman's argument as to why he should subscribe through the real estate committee. The banks and trust companies should subscribe partly through us because they are not only bankers but real estate owners.

"I have given a whole lot of thought and study to a plan that I offer for your approval. This is to ask every real estate owner in the city to subscribe one half of one per cent. of the assessed valuation of his holdings through our committee, regardless of any other subscriptions he may make through other sources. To every owner making such a subscription I would give the right to display a specially designed flag from the outside of his property indicating that the building has contributed one hundred per cent. of its quota. We have a better argument this year to present, for we are asking subscriptions to back up a victorious army, and I submit that it is much easier to succeed in a winning cause than in a losing cause, and our army is more victorious every day. The Kaiser made the boast that he would eat his Christmas dinner in 1914 in Paris, but from all accounts it looks as though General Pershing and his men will eat their Christmas dinner in Berlin in 1918.

"This must be a campaign of salesmanship, not one as to the value of the bonds as an investment. Before I left my office to come to this meeting I figured out how much the several concerns with which I am actively identified with have to subscribe if this plan of mine goes through, and I found that I had put a very tight collar around my neck, for they will have to come across with approximately $177,000."

The design of the flag will be decided by the committee of which Mr. McGuire is chairman, and it will also be decided whether the committee will present the flags or merely give the real estate owner the right to use it.

The captains of teams are as follows:

- 1—Charles S. Brown and John N. Golding.
- 2—Cruikshank Company, Alwyn Ball, Jr., and H. H. Trice (Mr. Trice acts for Alwyn Ball).
- 3—Aaron Rabinowitz, and Frederick Frox & Co.
- 4—M. & L. Hess and Goodale Ferry & Dwight.
- 5—Geo. R. Read & Co. and Cross & Brown.
- 6—N. A. Berwin & Co. and Pease & Elliman.
- 7—Albert S. Ashforth and Douglas L. Elliman.
- 8—Mark Rafalsky & Co. and F. Zittel & Sons.
- 9—Dubois & Taylor and F. R. Wood, W. H. Dolson Co.
- 10—Goodwin & Goodwin, Porter & Co. and Wilcox & Sheldon.
- 11—Knap-Wasson Co., Norman Denzer and Nehring Bros., Inc.
- 12—Charles Hensle, Max Just and A. N. Gitterman.
- 14—C. G. Kolff and J. Fred. Smith.
- 15—William P. Rae, Howard C. Pyle, Thomas Hovenden, Thomas V. Patterson. Mr. Rae appointed Brooklyn committee as follows: E. D. Behrens, G. H. Gray, J. L. Brumsley, Louis Beer, J. M. May, E. Kuhn, O. B. Lafrenire, I. O. Horton, H. C. Pyle, H. A. Levine, W. G. Morrissey, T. E. Rogers, C. B. Gwathmey, F. A. Seaver, J. W. Catherine, F. B. Small, C. Partridge, N. Stern and Z. D. Berry.
- 16—Clement H. Smith and J. Clarence Davies.
- 17—S. H. Thompson, Thomas Daly, Ira L. Terry, Joseph P. Storms, and Lewis H. May.

The Universal Draft

By JOHN PRICE JONES

War time calls for national service. In one form or another, the military draft is universal. Men must leave their homes and business to carry arms; youngsters are postponing their careers gladly to own a share in the new world history.

At home, war has made its influence felt in the farthest corner of society. Not a life but is affected by it, directly or indirectly, and it may be said to the glory of America that her people are responding to the call with enthusiasm that makes victory certain.

War duties enter the home where wives and sisters knit and save for the comfort of those abroad; where families deny themselves accustomed pleasures in order to do their share in winning.

Because war is wasteful, those who do not fight must save. Saving springs primarily from a selfish motive. The instinct to lay something aside for the future dates from man's earliest lessons in living. But there is more than a selfishness in saving in war time.

What is saved today benefits the nation as much as it does the individual. Money saved means that less of our store of necessities and manufactured goods is used—more is available for the men who do the fighting. Saving becomes a virtue, without losing a bit of its potency in rewarding the saver.

For patriotic purposes, most of us have bought Liberty Bonds. Their appeal has been the need of our fighting men. That they are a wise investment is a secondary consideration. People ignorant of the value and uses of a Government bond have, in numerous cases, given their money just as gladly, believing it to be to the cause of victory. One can picture their gratified surprise at learning of the dividends their money is earning.

That those who purchased bonds of the previous Liberty Loans will subscribe to the Fourth, when placed on sale beginning September 28, is certain. They have shown their willingness to sacrifice, and now they will not falter. That there will be thousands of new subscribers seems safe to assume, in a day when thrift is becoming universal.

Surely those who have not bought must realize now that money saved by war time necessity is still lost, if not devoted to the uses of the nation at the most critical period of the great conflict.

Taxes on Railroads Less Than on Real Estate

Notwithstanding Increased Amounts Paid by Transportation Lines,
They Still Are Favored Compared to Realty

By JOHN L. PARISH

IN the annual report of one of the largest railroads, published quite recently, an explanation of a reduced net income notwithstanding a very greatly enhanced gross income over the record of the previous year was found in the fact that the taxes had jumped from $5,650,000 to $8,450,000.

This tax was paid upon a gross valuation for the property of $596,000,000 and upon a gross operating revenue of $130,101,000. A little figuring showed that the gross earnings amounted to about 22 per cent. of the gross valuation of the property, the taxes paid to about 6 per cent. of the gross earnings and to about 1.4 per cent. upon the gross valuation.

Comparison of these figures with the returns of a typical high-grade apartment house in the Borough of Manhattan would seem to afford food for reflection by our municipal authorities charged with the raising of the city's revenue and by taxpayers in general. The apartment house, a twelve-story building, covering about five city lots, is taken for this comparison because it is the type of investment property which makes the best showing in the way of both gross and net income, and so affords the fairest basis of comparison with the big railroad.

The assessed valuation was $760,000, which is about $60,000 above its fair market value. Its gross operating revenue last year was $82,000, and the taxes imposed and paid amounted to $17,936. This was at the rate of 2.36 per cent. upon the assessed valuation and of 21.87 per cent. of the gross income. The gross earnings amounted to about 10.8 per cent. of the valuation of the property.

Experienced real estate agents will observe that while the returns are not particularly favorable they represent a fair average for this class of properties. Recapitulation of the figures is as follows:

	Railroad	Apmt. Hse.
Gross earnings .....	22. %	10.8 %
Taxes on value .....	1.4	2.36
Taxes on earnings .....	6.	21.87

The balance of earnings available for dividends in the case of the railroad was said to be 16.89 per cent. In the case of the apartment house the earnings on the equity were about 14%. Earnings on the equity correspond as nearly as in the relative conditions is possible with earnings of railroads available for dividends.

Of course there is no single power in this country that holds jurisdiction over the problem involved in this exhibit. The manifest inequality in taxation, as shown in this comparison, is beyond the power of any single state government, or even of the national government, to correct. But the facts, as above said, afford food for reflection—and for further inquiry.

In this state railroads are taxable as real estate. But that does not prevent the continuation year by year of gross inequality in assessments for tax purposes. There has been a steady decline in the assessments of franchises since the law first required them, while the assessment of real property has as steadily advanced—but withal preserving the long established inequalities.

While there is much property in the city that is assessed at more than its value it is also true that there is much that is still assessed far below its value. Under the present system of assessing property there seems small prospect of ever having a just and equal assessment of all properties.

There are many who believe that under an equitable assessment of all properties on the basis of fair market value, the city's revenue requirements could be met without increasing the rate at all beyond the present abnormally high $2.36 per $100.

The whole subject of taxation for municipal and state purposes is daily pressing harder for intelligent consideration and readjustment. The burden upon most kinds of real property is rapidly growing intolerable. There is a persistent demand for the determination of new sources of revenue, apart from real estate. A further inquiry along similar and collateral lines to the foregoing might facilitate the discovery of such new sources of revenue.

Draw Line Between Non-war and War Building

All Projects Must Be Submitted to Local Authorities Who Will Make Recommendations to War Industries Board

ACCORDING to the latest information obtainable from the men authorized to carry out the ruling of the War Industries Board relative to building during the war period, those who contemplate the erection of non-war buildings in order to obtain the materials required for the construction of such structures, must first submit their plans to the local defense organization. Within the boundaries of Greater New York the duty of determining the status of contemplated building operations devolves upon the Mayor's Committee of the Council of National Defense, of which George W. Loft is Chairman and Henry MacDonald is Director General. This body will pass upon the plans and make recommendations to the State Council of National Defense.

These organizations can only make recommendations. Their action is in no-wise final, and if the plans are approved by both, the final disposition of the proposed work is put directly up to the Non-War Facilities Section of the War Industries Board at Washington. There will be no appeal from the judgment of this body. When it decides that a project in the non-war group can be dispensed with, or that some other means can be taken to provide the facilities planned by the contemplated operation, the work must be held in abeyance until such time as conditions readjust themselves and building operations are allowed to proceed as in the pre-war period.

There is little doubt that by the complicated procedure that is involved in obtaining permission to construct non-war buildings while there exists a scarcity of labor and materials for military operations that almost ninety-nine per cent. of the non-essential construction, throughout the United States will cease.

One of the points in the order of the Non-War Facilities Section of the War Industries Board which applied to the completion of structures already under way has been cleared up. The original order stated that materials necessary to finish such buildings would be permitted to be sold but jobbers and dealers were somewhat in doubt as to where to draw the line. It is now definitely understood that the ruling only applies to such building operations already under way that would deteriorate if forced to suspend work in their present condition. It distinctly shuts out new non-war structural operations for which only the excavation has been done or foundations built. These can be left for an indefinite period, or until the present emergency is passed without harm. Foundations can be covered if necessary, but structures where side walls are well advanced, or enclosed, will be permitted to proceed in order that the money already invested in them may be utilized to the best advantage.

Sanction to erect buildings that will indirectly assist the Federal war aims, such as the enlargement of industrial facilities, additions to factories and plants

Municipal Building Stopped Until End of War

All Construction Work Included in Ruling of War Industries Board on Proposed New School Program

BERNARD M. BARUCH, Chairman of the War Industries Board, in refusing the request of Mayor John F. Hylan for permission to use materials worth $9,000,000 in a school building program, made it plain that all construction work by the city with the exception of whatever may be determined to be absolutely vital to the war, must end for the time being.

Mr. Baruch's letter follows:

Washington, Sept. 15.

The Honorable, the Mayor of New York:

My dear Mayor: Out of New York's need for school buildings which you have set forth in your letter to me dated Sept. 6, there flows a condition nationwide and which reaches to the very front of our battle line. Perhaps few of us realize the close relationship between the brick that is set in the walls of a building and the shot that is fired at the crumbling structure of German world domination. Yet, the association is direct and intimate, and it is our duty to understand this fact, and, understanding, to act upon it.

Because the case of New York is typical of the whole country; because the rule in one case must be, and is, evenly applied to all, I am glad that you brought to my personal attention the matter in which you are interested, since it affords an opportunity to make plain the extraordinary situation we face, and the need for a whole-hearted, unexpected co-operation to the end of winning the war.

It is not too much to say that every unnecessary effort weakens the fighting efficiency of ourselves and our associates in the war. Every unnecessary undertaking of an industrial nature delimits the scope of our activities at the front. It ties up labor, capital, materials, facilities, transportation, and fuel—the six great elements that form the base of our economic structure. There is, at any given time, only a limited amount of each of these bases available. At this moment of strain, all should be concentrated upon those enterprises directly connected with the war. To divert them to other ends, no matter how fine those ends may be in themselves, is at this period worse than a crime—it is a blunder that may cost us dear.

I am a graduate of New York's grammar schools and her City College. That fact makes me look with kindlier interest upon your request, but it does not, and can not, bind me to the necessities of the case.

I would not have you think, my dear Mr. Mayor, that what I say to you is to be taken as disdaining the claims of our children to be educated; that is furthest from my thought. What I do seek is your agreement that at this grave time there should be first in our hearts and our minds the unity of sacrifice; the willingness to do without that which is not an unescapable necessity; to suffer, if so be it, deprivation to escape heavier privation; to make need and not desire our law.

Surely, under your direction, New York, for the time being, can make one building do the work of two; she can devise expedients whereby none of her young shall be unschooled, and yet no obstacle be placed in the way of the war program. She can, and will, do what other of our cities and States have done in abandoning plans for new roads, for new structures, and kindred developments, which widen the gap between our limited supply and the ever-increasing demand arising from our war needs.

To postpone your enterprise in such a way as to work no hardship, and do it cheerfully and willingly, and in the spirit of the unfailing courage that animates our forces at the front, for whose welfare the sacrifice is made, is to set an example that will be a tonic and a stimulant to the rest of the country, which will be no slower in responding to the civilian order of the day: He serves best who saves most.

There is still one more thought that I wish to convey to you, and that is: Even were the War Industries Board able to see its national duty as coinciding with your request, my reply would still have to be no, for the simple reason that it is not physically possible for me to release the materials you ask for, because there are no free supplies of these materials, unless—and this is unthinkable—you would expect that they be taken from the very vitals of our war-making machinery. And this applies with equal force to the heavy demand on man power, already acutely short, your proposed enterprise entails.

Your sympathy and support will help the Nation; your failure to co-operate will add to our embarrassment. I am certain that between these two courses your choice will offer no difficulty. It will be that which the Nation has made: To win the war, and to win it quickly.

I am, with respect, sincerely,

B. M. Baruch.

Mayor Hylan has accepted the ruling of the War Industries Board and will make no further effort to carry out his program for increasing the number of school buildings.

Proposal to Organize a State Mortgage Bank

funds accumulated from the interest payments made to it by the State Mortgage Bank. Said reserve of 2 per cent. to be accumulated by the State Mortgage Bank until such sum shall equal 3 per cent. of the total bond issue which percentage shall establish its minimum reserve. After which all further earnings over and above said stock dividend may be turned over to said State Treasurer.

This plan gives to the borrower a long time mortgage, relieving him of the dangers of having to meet his mortgage at a time when same might be difficult to do. It relieves him of frequent renewals with the burdensome accompanying fees and expenses. It gives him a stabilized minimum rate of interest. It assures him of an ample supply of funds for mortgages where the security offered is adequate.

It gives to the mortgage companies a market for their mortgages on a stabilized basis of interest. It insures them against any undue calling of their guaranteed mortgages such as may occur under conditions such as exist today or does exist in times of financial stress and panic. It will aid in averting panics.

It gives to the State a substantial and reliable source of income, thus relieving it of the necessities of direct taxation. It is estimated that there is today outstanding first mortgages in the State amounting to $10,000,000,000. One half of this amount could be brought into this system and in time perhaps more. This would give to the State an annual income of $25,000,000 to $50,000,000 and without in any way interfering with any of its other sources of income, or in any manner increasing the burdens of the tax-payer. This income, however, should to a very great extent supplant the income lost through the closing of the saloons, throughout the State and the cessation of the sale of liquors.

Unless some source of income is found to supplant the lost income from liquor license, other than direct taxation then there must be a very great increase in our tax rate.

Through the State Mortgage Bank this income may be provided without in any way increasing our direct tax burdens.

The Spirit That Wins

One week from today the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign will be opened, and working to insure its success will become the paramount duty of every loyal American.

The Fourth Liberty Loan will be the largest yet offered to the people by the United States Government, and the time limit within which the issue is expected to be taken has been fixed at three weeks. The size of the loan and the shortness of the time must put all true Americans on their mettle. The successful floating of this loan is a big undertaking, but the task can be accomplished if all work with a will.

As evidence of the splendid spirit which is the need of the hour the Record and Guide takes genuine pride in pointing to the action of Mr. Alfred E. Marling, Chairman of the Real Estate Division of Greater New York. Mr. Marling recently communicated with the enterprising advertisers whose announcements appear each week on the front, inside cover and back covers of the Record and Guide, urging them as a patriotic privilege to loan their regular space in this publication to advertising the Fourth Liberty Loan.

This timely suggestion immediately met with a favorable response from these advertisers, all of whom thereby indicated their readiness to help with effective publicity.

That the spirit shown by these advertisers reflects their patriotism and their good citizenship goes without saying. That is the sort of spirit which will make a success of the Fourth Liberty Loan.

The Record and Guide takes this occasion to assure its public-spirited advertisers and Chairman Marling and his committee that they may rely upon this publication for every co-operation within its power in their efforts for the success of the loan.

In Union There Is Strength

The work done by the real estate men, headed by Mr. Laurence McGuire and Mr. Robert E. Dowling, at Albany during the last session of the Legislature, opened the way for a decisive campaign during the coming winter for necessary changes in the laws, which will lift part of the increasingly heavy burden of taxation from realty and shift it to other property which now escapes altogether or bears too lightly the expenses of Government while sharing in the benefits.

There was no doubt in the minds of the legislators last year, after the conclusive showing made by the delegation from this city, that real estate is being unfairly treated. The proof that the amount of the expenses of the state and city government paid by realty was disproportionate and almost confiscatory was unquestionable, and the lawmakers, almost to a man, were unqualifiedly in favor of affording the relief asked for. The bill which passed the Senate limited the tax on real estate property to $1.75 and provided for a tax of five mills on personal property. This bill failed of a vote in the Assembly. It was held up in the Committee on Rules, which it reached in the final hours of the session. It is believed that if it had come before the House it would have been passed by a large majority.

Although several reasons were given for refusal of the Rules Committee to report the bill to the Assembly, there was sufficient cause for such action in the fact that the bill limited the tax on real estate to $1.75, thereby cutting off some fifty or sixty millions of dollars of income to the city, and did not make provision whereby this great loss of revenue could be certainly made up. Personal property taxes have heretofore proved failures and the officials who have the safeguarding of the city finances in hand made no secret of their hesitancy to accept the proposed measure because of their fear that if it became law the city would find itself with a greatly diminished exchequer and without adequate revenues to meet its liabilities.

The contention that the low rate of five mills on the very considerable amount of taxable personal property known to exist in the state would bring in an amount sufficiently large to more than make up the deficit, was dependent on the actual unearthing of this supposedly large amount of personality and getting it on the tax list. The bill made no adequate provision for so doing. This was fatal. On the other hand, the bill offered by the city authorities as a substitute, which included a listing clause, was admittedly drawn as an emergency measure and was presented to the Legislature too late in the session to be given the study necessary for its understanding.

But, although the bill did not pass, the work of the gentlemen who devoted their valuable time and undaunted energy to the task of pushing the bill to recognition was not lost. Its failure will not be regretted if a better bill is framed before the Legislature again meets. In all reform movements there is a period of preparation. This has been successfully negotiated by those who so convincingly laid the foundation for further action.

It is worth noting that no sooner had the Legislature adjourned, thereby deferring relief to real estate for at least another year, than Messrs. McGuire, Dowling and their associates set about planning a new campaign for the coming session of the Legislature, hoping to profit by their experiences of the past and with the idea of improving on the enviable record they had already made in forcing upon the Legislature, the city officials and the people generally recognition of the necessity of dealing fairly and equitably with real estate.

Supplementary to their effort there is in this issue of the Record and Guide presented the program of Messrs. Albert G. Milbank, Alfred E. Marling, John J. Pulleyn, Robert Walton Goelet, Robert E. Simon, Walter Lindner and Leo Day Woodworth for the preparation of a bill that it is hoped will meet with the approval of all concerned, so that there may be a united effort to secure its passage by the next Legislature. The basis for any constructive work in framing tax legislation is the report of the Mills Committee made in 1916, which was the latest authoritative study of the fundamental tax problems found to exist in this state and which included a number of important recommendations that have been lost sight of in the hurly-burly of the war period. Messrs. Milbank, Marling and their associates have supplemented this report with the findings of a number of experts and, having tabulated and analyzed the present and probable sources of revenue thus obtained, are having the legal experts frame a bill they hope will meet every requirement.

This is characteristic of the high-mindedness and devotion to the great interests of real estate that actuate the gentlemen who worked so faithfully last year to secure relief, and who are still striving for the same end. It is equally commendable that those who are now setting out to accomplish this identical thing, each and all are conscious that in this most important work there is the necessity for securing the greatest array of facts and the fullest discussion possible before any measure is presented to the Legislature for enactment, and that every resource must be tapped and every influence brought to bear in order to secure results.

If real estate suffered before it is now in extremis. War conditions have forced repeated cuts in the revenue of the city which will inevitably send the realty tax rate to higher and more onerous figures unless some other sources of revenue are found and made to share the burden. It is imperative that concerted action be taken in order to present to the Legislature a well-balanced and strongly-backed measure that will assuredly command the support and votes required.

It is for this reason that every one who can contribute in any way to the furtherance of this object was repeatedly asked by the first group of gentlemen, and is now requested by the latest group, to come forward with suggestions or criticisms.

A united front and a logical measure will win the day, and to this end the Record and Guide will contribute whatever it can to help accomplish what can only be secured by singleness of purpose and unified effort.

Our Individual Part

Some observers think that the most characteristic thing about the American soldiers in France, something which astounds the enemy and excites the admiration of our allies, is the capacity of the American soldiers to do individual thinking and fighting. The German fights successfully only in mass formation, in organized bodies, while every American soldier has an initiative and independence of action which gives him remarkable efficiency in open fighting. They are not senseless cogs, but each is an individual working unit in a great fighting machine.

Every American at home should feel an individual responsibility and do his or her individual part in winning the war. There is not an American citizen who cannot help win the war. The Fourth Liberty Loan drive offers a great opportunity for concerted action and for individual action, and the loan will be a tremendous success if each American will do his or her individual part as each American soldier in France does his part. Our soldiers deserve such support from the people at home.

Draw Line Between Non-War and War Building

manufacturing foodstuffs or war munitions is vested in the specified localities in the Regional Advisors of the Resources and Conservation Section of the War Industries Board. For the metropolitan district this power has been delegated to William Fellowes Morgan, president of the Merchants' Association of New York. Any industrial project that includes the extension of existing facilities must be presented to the regional advisor for approval. It is within his power either to approve or refuse sanction. If the approval is obtained the plans, with the recommendations of the regional adviser are forwarded to the War Industries Board at Washington, where they are minutely scrutinized to determine their final value to the Federal plans and to decide whether they will be permitted to proceed or not. If the regional advisor refuses to sanction the contemplated project or it is determined that some other means should be taken to handle the contracts the increased industrial facilities are designed to provide for, sanction is withheld, and automatically the project is held in abeyance.

There is no connection between the operations of the regional advisor in regard to essential construction and the local office of the Council of National Defense, which will have the disposition of non-war structural projects. Both will work independently along the lines laid down for them by the War Industries Board, which in all cases is the court of last resort in the matter of building operations excepting those specifically mentioned and excluded from the terms of the recent ruling.

Real Estate Evening School

A course covering Real Estate and Building Management, which will again be given at the Murray Hill Evening Trade School, 237 East 37th street, will undoubtedly be of interest to employees of many realty firms throughout the city. This class was instituted at the above school last year, and was a success from the start, being well attended by those interested in this line of work. The variety of subjects covered include Taxes, Heating, Appraising, Vacuum Cleaners, Coal, Conveyancing, Zoning Laws, Decorating, Assessments, Development of Acreage, Elevators, Mortgages and Loans, Leasing, Sprinkler Systems, Advertising, Refrigerators, Insurance, Roofs, etc., etc.

Being under the Board of Education, the instruction and lectures are free; however, only those engaged in some branch of this line of work are eligible to attend. Classes meet every Tuesday and Thursday evening.

A unique feature of this year's course will be the fact that it will be open to women employed in real estate offices. Those desiring to enroll can do so at the school any evening this month, with the exception of Saturday.

REAL ESTATE REVIEW OF THE WEEK

Little Activity This Week in Selling Although Several Good Trades Are Consummated. Bronx Apartments in Deals. Leasing Good as Usual.

THE past week has been devoid of any particularly big sales although several sales of importance were consummated. Trades, in which operators disposed of Bronx apartment properties, featured in the activities of the week. In one of the transactions the Nason Realty Company, Max Natanson, president, sold to Marcus Gries, 1611 University avenue, a five-story new law apartment house valued at $125,000, taking in part payment the vacant plot 175x200x irregular extending from Gerard to Walton avenues, 288 feet south of 164th street.

Frederick Brown, operator, was the principal in another trade selling to Alexander Thorn, 2440 Webb avenue, north of Fordham road, a twenty-family five-story house, showing a total yearly rental of $8,000. In part payment the buyer gave the three-story residence at the southwest corner of Griswold Place and Fieldston road in the Riverdale section, also the vacant plot at the northeast corner of Barkley and Valentine avenues and the northeast corner of Barkley and Vincent avenues, East Bronx.

Interesting figures are involved in the sale of the five-story building at 60 Front street to Ross W. Weir & Company, coffee brokers, by the Markham Realty Corporation. This property was bought in 1788 by John Jacob Astor for $3,932, and he sold it in 1811 for $4,000 to Benjamin Stephens, who in turn sold it in 1822 to a Mr. Lippincott for $8,500. In 1847 the property was sold for $12,000 and in 1881 sold for $16,500, and then to the Markham Realty Company a few months ago for a reported price of $33,500. The consideration in the present deal was about $40,000.

Nehring Company, of which Jules Nehring is president, sold for a client the Anniston Apartment House at 281 Edgecombe avenue, overlooking Colonial Park. This house has accommodations for forty-eight families, is divided in suites and has a yearly rent roll of $32,000. The property was held at $250,000 and was sold for all cash.

The Young Woman's Christian Association purchased this week the twelve-story Allerton house at Thirty-eighth street and Lexington avenue, which will be altered and rented to self supporting young women and will accommodate one hundred and sixty girls. The house will be renamed the Tatham House after Miss Cora Tatham, who has been for a number of years General Secretary of the Metropolitan Board of the Y. W. C. A. The house will be ready for occupancy on Monday next.

A new corporation has been formed composed of H. H. Cooper, E. H. Haines and M. T. James, and known as the Fifty-eight and Sixty Manhattan Avenue Corporation to take title to the two apartment houses on Manhattan avenue, thirty feet south of One hundred and third street. The apartments in these buildings will be reduced to units of two and three rooms to meet the increasing demand for such suites.

Leasing continued good during the week, the demand running as usual to apartments and small dwellings situated in all parts of the city. Several important leases were reported for business purposes especially in the downtown section where there is a great demand and but little supply.

A special committee has been appointed by New York Building Managers' Association, consisting of Lee T. Smith, Clarence T. Coley, and J. Clydesdale Cushman, chairman, to investigate the feasibility and advisability of metering electricity used by tenants in their offices, or of otherwise making an equitable charge for actual current consumed instead of furnishing it lavishly and freely and including it in the rent.

All Building Managers are fully aware of the universal abuse of free electric current. The initial step towards furnishing current in New York office buildings on an equitable basis in the interest of the conservation of fuel to prevent waste has been taken by the committee by sending a letter requesting information on the subject to every member of the National Association of Building Owners and Managers, embracing practically every large city in the United States, where in most cities such a method has been in vogue for a long time. The committee will report the result of their findings, which should prove of inestimable value to every member of the Association, at the next regular meeting. Members of this Association are invited to attend a mass meeting at Cooper Union, Sept. 28, 1918, at 8 P. M., for the purpose of discussing ways and means of saving coal in order to aid the National Fuel Administration in accomplishing their purposes. This meeting will be attended by the Stationary and Marine Engineers of New York, together with the Oil Trades Association, and maybe members of the Coal Trade Association.

PRIVATE REALTY SALES.

THE total number of sales reported and not recorded in Manhattan this week was 17 as against 20 last week and 20 a year ago.

The number of sales south of 59th street was 4, as compared with 9 last week and 9 a year ago.

The sales north of 59th street aggregated 13, as compared with 11 last week and 11 a year ago.

From the Bronx 12 sales at private contract were reported as against 8 last week and 8 a year ago.

Statistical tables, indicating the number of recorded instruments, will be found on page 334 of this issue.

Sell Old Downtown Property.

Ross W. Weir & Co., in the coffee business at 60 Front street, have purchased, for occupancy, from the Markham Realty Corporation, the five-story building at 52 Front street, on a plot 30x80. Pease & Elliman negotiated the deal. Interesting figures are available showing the upward trend in the value of the property. It was bought by John Jacob Astor in 1788 for $3,932. He sold it in 1811 to Benjamin Stephens for $4,000. In 1822, the property was sold for $8,500 to a Mr. Lippincott who held it until 1847 when it was acquired by a Mr. Fink for $12,000. He sold it in 1881 to Mr. Coster for $16,500 and the building passed into the possession of the Markham Corporation some months ago for a reported price of $33,500. The consideration in the present deal was about $40,000.

Another Downtown Sale by Noyes.

Charles F. Noyes Company has sold to E. Rosenwald & Bro. for all cash, Nos. 143-145 Water street, five-story and basement buildings covering plot 40x70, and occupied by them for over fifty years. The purchaser is one of the oldest and largest tobacco firms in the country. The property has been owned by the sellers since 1829, and was valued at $65,000. Milton S. Guiterman, of Townsend & Guiterman, attorneys, represented the seller. The Charles F. Noyes Company has sold many buildings throughout this neighborhood to firms for occupancy during the last few months, and there has been a big buying movement along these lines. Joseph F. Cullman purchased through the Noyes Company the site upon which he built his building, and F. Miranda & Co., tobacco, also purchased 166 Front street after it had been sold twice previously within a comparatively few months. Mr. Cullman, in addition to buying his own building, has purchased a dozen properties in the neighborhood, and other important transactions include the purchasing of buildings by W. J. Farrell, National Aniline & Color Co., R. H. Lanborn & Co., Czarinakow-Rionda & Co., F. H. Cone, Columbian Rope Co., and the securing of new buildings under 21-year leases by G. Amsinck & Co., Pacific Development Co., and Frederick Stearns & Co. Most of this buying has been on Water and Front streets within a few blocks of Maiden Lane, and on Maiden Lane. The most important transaction in the district was the purchase by the New Jersey Zinc Co., of the entire block on Maiden Lane to Fletcher, from Front to Water, where they are now erecting a building for their exclusive use, which will be one of the finest office buildings downtown.

New Manhattan Avenue Owners.

H. H. Cooper, E. H. Haines, and M. T. James have formed the 58 and 60 Manhattan Avenue Corporation to take over the two 35.5-foot apartment houses on Manhattan avenue, 30 feet south of 103d street. No. 58 was bought at auction on Aug. 8 by David Vogel for $26,000 and subsequently resold to an unnamed buyer. M. E. Downey and others, defendant in the recent foreclosure sale of No. 58, also held title to No. 60. The apartments in the buildings, formerly six and seven rooms, are being reduced to units of two and three rooms to meet the new demand.

Apartment House for Vacant Land.

Nason Realty Company, Max Natan-son, president, sold to Marcus Gries 1611 University avenue, a five-story, new law apartment house on plot 83x100, valued at $125,000, and took in part payment the vacant plot 175x200 irregular extending from Gerard to Walton avenues, 288 feet south of 164th street. Charles Stoeckler negotiated the deal.

Y. W. C. A. Buys Property.

To supply rooms at reasonable rates for self-supporting young women having moderate salaries the Young Woman's Christian Association has purchased the Allerton House, the big twelve-story building at Thirty-eighth street and Lexington avenue, and it is now open for inspection to applicants from 1 to 5 P. M. and will be ready for occupancy next Monday. It will accommodate 160 girls. The rentals will be from $4 to $6 for rooms without baths and $6.30 to $8 for those with baths. There will be running water in each room. The house is to be renamed and will be called from now on the Tatham House, after Miss Cora Tatham, who has been for a number of years General Secretary of the Metropolitan Board, Y. W. C. A.

Bronx Apartment in Trade.

Frederick Brown was a principal in a trade, selling to Alexander Thorn 2440 Webb avenue, north of Fordham Road, a twenty-family five-story house, on plot 52x100, showing a total yearly rental of $8,000. In part payment the buyer gave the three-story residence on plot 144x175x irregular at the southwest corner of Criswold place and Fieldston Road, in the Riverside section; also the vacant plot 75x100 at the northeast corner of Barkley and Valentine avenues, and the northeast corner of Barkley and Vincent avenues, 25x100, East Bronx. J. Pollatschek was the broker. Mr. Brown recently acquired the Webb avenue property, together with the adjoining house 2436, which also has been resold.
